How to Use This eBook

Top Sights features provide in-depth coverage of the city's very best sights.

1. PLAN YOUR TRIP
   Your planning tool kit
   Photos, lists and suggestions to help you create your perfect trip.

2. EXPLORE
   Your complete city guide
   Top Sights features, in-depth reviews and local tips.

3. UNDERSTAND
   Get more from your trip
   Learn about the big picture, so you can make sense of the city.

4. SURVIVAL GUIDE
   Your at-a-glance guide
   Vital practical information to help you have a smooth trip.

Look for these symbols to quickly identify listings:

- SIGHTS
- ENTERTAINMENT
- EATING
- SHOPPING
- DRINKING & NIGHTLIFE
- SPORTS & ACTIVITIES

All reviews are ordered in our authors’ preference, starting with their most preferred option. Additionally:

Sights are arranged in the geographic order that we suggest you visit them and, within this order, by author preference.

Eating and Sleeping reviews are ordered by price range (budget, midrange, top end) and within these ranges, by author preference.

These symbols give vital information for each listing:

- Must-visit recommendation
- Sustainable or green recommendation
- FREE No payment required
- Telephone number
- Opening hours
- Parking
- Nonsmoking
- Air-conditioning
- Internet access
- Wi-fi access
- Swimming pool
- Vegetarian selection
- Family-friendly
- Pet-friendly
- Bus
- Ferry
- Subway
- Train

For symbols used on maps, see the Map Legend at the end of this eBook.
The key to the perfect trip

Lonely Planet eBooks make trip planning and on-the-road travelling easier than ever

1. Discover amazing experiences
   Gorgeous photos of top sights with links to author recommendations help you plan where to go.

2. Content when you need it
   Downloading eBooks on the road is simple, and you can carry as many guides as you need.

3. Plan your perfect trip
   Search for destinations, bookmark favourites and add notes to customise your guide.

4. Essential online travel info
   Links to the best business and travel websites bring all the info you need into one place.

Features you’ll love while on the road...

- Map links to reviews mean you can find info quickly.
- Zoom-in maps make it easy to navigate in a new place.
- Offline maps mean no data-roaming charges.

To get the most out of the maps in this guide, use the zoom function on your device, or visit http://media.lonelyplanet.com/ebookmaps to grab a PDF of the maps.
Welcome to Rome
Rome's Top 10
What's New
Need to Know
First Time Rome
Top Itineraries
If You Like...
Month by Month
With Kids
Like a Local For Free
Eating
Drinking & Nightlife
Entertainment
Shopping
EXPLORE

NEIGHBOURHOODS AT A GLANCE

ANCIENT ROME
  Sights
  Eating
  Drinking & Nightlife
  Shopping

CENTRO STORICO
  Sights
  Eating
  Drinking & Nightlife
  Entertainment
  Shopping

TRIDENTE, TREVI & THE QUIRINALE
  Sights
  Eating
  Drinking & Nightlife
  Entertainment
  Shopping

VATICAN CITY, BORGO & PRATI
  Sights
  Eating
  Drinking & Nightlife
  Entertainment
  Shopping

MONTI, ESQUILINO & SAN LORENZO
  Sights
  Eating
  Drinking & Nightlife
  Entertainment
Shopping

TRASTEVERE & GIANICOLO
Sights
Eating
Drinking & Nightlife
Entertainment
Shopping

SAN GIOVANNI & TESTACCIO
Sights
Eating
Drinking & Nightlife
Entertainment
Shopping

VILLA BORGHESE & NORTHERN ROME
Sights
Eating
Drinking & Nightlife
Entertainment
Shopping

SOUTHERN ROME
Sights
Eating
Drinking & Nightlife
Entertainment

DAY TRIPS FROM ROME
Ostia Antica
Tivoli
Castelli Romani
Frascati
Grottaferrata
Castel Gandolfo
Lago Albano
Frascati
Castel Gandolfo
Cerveteri
Orvieto
SLEEPING Understand Rome
Rome Today
History
The Arts
Architecture
The Roman Way of Life
Transport
  Arriving in Rome
  Getting Around Rome
  Tours

Directory AZ
  Customs Regulations
  Electricity
  Emergency
  Gay & Lesbian Travellers
  Internet Access
  Legal Matters
  Medical Services
  Money
  Opening Hours
  Post
  Public Holidays
  Safe Travel
  Taxes & Refunds
  Telephone
  Time Toilets
  Tourist Information
  Travellers with Disabilities
  Visas
  Women Travellers

Language

Rome Maps
  Ancient Rome
Centro Storico North
Centro Storico South
Tridente, Trevi & Quirinale
Vatican City, Borgo & Prati
San Giovanni to Testaccio
Trastevere & Gianicolo
San Lorenzo
Monti & Esquilino
Villa Borghese & Northern Rome
Southern Rome & Appia Antica
Behind the Scenes
Our Writers
Showtime on Rome's Piazzas
Rome's Churches
Rome Street Life
Roman Catacombs
Welcome to Rome

A heady mix of haunting sights, awe-inspiring art and vibrant street life, Italy's Eternal City is one of the world's most beautiful and inspiring capitals.

Historical Legacies
The result of 3000 years of ad hoc urban development, Rome's cityscape is an exhilarating spectacle. Ancient icons, such as the Colosseum, Roman Forum and Pantheon, recall Rome's time as the fearsome hub of the Roman Empire, the caput mundi (capital of the world), while catacombs and clandestine churches hark back to the early days of Christianity. Lording it over the Vatican, St Peter's Basilica is the greatest of the city's monumental basilicas, a towering masterpiece of Renaissance architecture. Elsewhere, ornate piazzas and elaborate churches add a baroque flourish to the city's historic streets.

Artistic Riches
Few cities can rival Rome's astonishing artistic heritage. Throughout history, the city has starred in the great upheavals of Western art, drawing the top artists of the day and inspiring them to push the boundaries of creative achievement. The result is a city awash with priceless treasures. Ancient statues adorn world-class museums, Byzantine mosaics and Renaissance frescoes dazzle in the city's art-rich churches, baroque facades flank medieval piazzas. Walk around the centre and without even trying you’ll come across masterpieces by the giants of the artistic pantheon – sculptures by Michelangelo, canvases by Caravaggio, Raphael frescoes and fountains by Bernini.

Living the Lifestyle
A trip to Rome is as much about lapping up the dolce vita (sweet life) lifestyle as gorging on art and culture. It's about relaxing into the city's Mediterranean rhythms and idling around the picturesque streets. Whiling away hours at streetside cafes and people-watching on pretty piazzas are an integral part of the Roman experience. The tempo rises as the heat of the day fades into the evening cool and the fashionably dressed aperitivo (aperitif) crowd descends on the city's bars and cafes. Restaurants and trattorias hum with activity and cheerful hordes mill around popular haunts before heading off to cocktail bars and late-night clubs.

Roman Feasting
Eating out is one of Rome's great pleasures and the combination of romantic al fresco settings and superlative food is a guarantee of good times. For contemporary fine dining and five-star wine there are any number of refined restaurants, but for a truly Roman meal search out the city's boisterous pizzerias and convivial neighbourhood trattorias. These are where the locals go to dine with friends and indulge their passion for thin, crispy pizzas, humble but delicious pastas, and cool white wine from the nearby Castelli Romani hills.
Why I Love Rome
By Duncan Garwood, Author
I'm a walker and I love exploring Rome on foot, losing myself in the tangled lanes of the historic centre and neighbourhoods like Trastevere and Monti. I love the aroma of freshly ground coffee that comes out of the cafes and sharing a carafe of local wine over lunch in a trattoria. I enjoy the gruff humour of the locals and the way they have an opinion on everything. I'm also a history buff, and after 15 years in the city, I still get a kick every time I see the Colosseum or spy St Peter's dome looming over the skyline.
Colosseum

No photograph can prepare you for the thrill of seeing the Colosseum for the first time. For 2000 years this muscular arena has stood as the symbol of Roman power, as the striking embodiment of the terrible awe that Rome once inspired, and it's looking more splendid than ever following a recent restoration. As you climb its steeply stacked stands, try to imagine them full of spectators screaming for blood – a chilling thought.

Ancient Rome
Museo e Galleria Borghese

Everybody’s heard of Michelangelo and the Sistine Chapel, but Rome is as much about baroque art as it is the Renaissance, and the lovely Museo e Galleria Borghese is the place to see it. You’ll need to book ahead but it’s a small price to pay to see Bernini’s amazing baroque sculptures, as well as works by Canova, Caravaggio, Raphael and Titian. And when you’ve finished, the surrounding Villa Borghese park is the perfect place to digest what you’ve just seen.
The best preserved of Rome’s ancient monuments, the Pantheon is a truly remarkable building. Its huge columned portico and thick-set walls impress, but it’s only when you get inside that you get the full measure of the place. It’s vast, and you’ll feel very small as you look up at the record-breaking dome soaring above your head. Adding to the effect are the shafts of light that stream in through the central oculus (the circular opening at the dome’s apex), illuminating the royal tombs set into the circular marble-clad walls.
Rome boasts many artistic highlights, but few are as overpowering as Michelangelo’s frescoes in the Sistine Chapel. A kaleidoscopic barrage of colours and images, they come as the grand finale of the Vatican Museums, Rome’s largest and most popular art museum. Inside the vast complex, kilometre upon kilometre of corridors are lined with classical sculptures, paintings and tapestries as they lead inexorably towards the Raphael Rooms, a suite of four rooms brilliantly frescoed by Raphael, and, beyond that, the Sistine Chapel.

1 Vatican City, Borgo & Prati
You don’t have to be a believer to be bowled over by St Peter’s Basilica, Rome’s largest and most spectacular church. Everything about the place is astonishing, from the sweeping piazza that announces it to the grandiose facade and unbelievably opulent interior. Topping everything is Michelangelo’s extraordinary dome, a mould-breaking masterpiece of Renaissance architecture and one of Rome’s landmark sights. This is a building that was designed to inspire awe, and even in a city of churches like Rome it stands head and shoulders above everything else.

1 Vatican City, Borgo & Prati
Via Appia Antica

The most famous of Rome's ancient roads, and one of the city's most sought-after addresses, the Appian Way is a gorgeous place to be on a clear, sunny morning. Running through lush green fields and littered with piles of greying ruins, it's the very picture of pastoral Italian beauty. But the bucolic scenery belies the road's bloodstained history. It was here that Spartacus and 6000 of his slave army were crucified, and it was here that the early Christians buried their dead in the catacombs.

1. Southern Rome
Capitoline Museums

In ancient times, the Campidoglio (Capitoline Hill) was home to Rome’s two most important temples. Nowadays, the main reason to make the short, steep climb to the top is to admire the views and visit the Capitoline Museums on Piazza del Campidoglio. The world’s oldest public museums harbour some fantastic classical statuary, including the celebrated Lupa Capitolina (Capitoline Wolf), an icon of early Etruscan art, and some really wonderful paintings. And make sure you bring your camera for the masonry littered around the entrance courtyard.
One of the great joys of Rome is eating and drinking well, especially in summer when it's warm enough to dine al fresco, and the city's animated streets are packed until the early hours. And nowhere is better for a night out than the picture-perfect neighbourhood of Trastevere. Over the river from the historic centre, its medieval lanes, hidden piazzas and pastel-hued palazzi (mansions) harbour hundreds of bars, cafes, trattorias and restaurants catering to a nightly crowd of up-for-it Romans and besotted visitors.
To walk through the tumbledown ruins of the Roman Forum is to retrace the footsteps of the great figures of Roman history, such as Julius Caesar and Pompey. However broken the remains, it's a stirring experience to stand at the heart of the Roman Empire. Nearby, the Palatino (Palatine Hill), a green expanse of evocative ruins, is where it all began, where Romulus supposedly killed Remus and founded the city in 753 BC, and where the ancient Roman emperors lived in unimaginable luxury.

Ancient Rome
Trevi Fountain

A stop at Rome's largest and most famous fountain is a traditional rite of passage for visitors to Rome. Every day crowds gather to toss coins into the fountain's water and ensure that one day they'll return to the Eternal City. The fountain, designed by Nicola Salvi in the 18th century, is a gloriously over-the-top rococo affair depicting wild horses, mythical figures and cascading rock falls. After a lengthy restoration, unveiled in 2015, it's looking particularly splendid, and is most spellbinding when illuminated after night falls.
What’s New Street Culture

Forget fine art and five-star dining, street culture is all the rage in Rome right now. Urban art has exploded onto Rome's walls in the past few years, while street food has become the city's latest foodie fad. For a sight of the former, check out the colourful murals on Via del Porto Fluviale in the trendy Ostiense district; for a taste of the latter hotfoot it to Supplizio in the historic centre or Pianostrada Laboratorio di Cucina in Trastevere.

Domus Aurea
One of Rome's buried gems, Nero's vast Domus Aurea complex is now re-opening for weekend guided tours.

Co.So
Join hipsters, mixologists and aficionados at Co.So, one of the city's new breed of cocktail bars in the bohemian Pigneto district.

Venchi
Rome just got better for chocoholics with the arrival of Venchi. There are two gelaterie, one in the historic centre and one near Piazza di Spagna.

Enoteca La Torre
After years of success in Viterbo, chef Danilo Ciavattino has transferred his fine-dining restaurant Enoteca La Torre to the romantic riverside environs of Villa Laetitia.

Casa Fabbrini
With its magazine-worthy interiors and a prime location in Rome's upscale shopping district, B&B Casa Fabbrini is making a mark.

Cinecittà Film Studios
Tour Rome's legendary Cinecittà Film Studios and see where classics like Ben Hur, Cleopatra and La Dolce Vita were shot.

Pasticceria De Bellis
Pastry making becomes fine art at Pasticceria De Bellis, a designer pastry shop selling a range of edible mini-masterpieces in the historic centre.

Temankinho
The vibrant Monti neighbourhood sets the stage for sushi, sake and cocktails at the popular Brazilian-Japanese Temankinho.
Margutta Glamour Studios
Set up home in one of Rome's most enchanting streets at the artfully decorated Margutta Glamour Studios.

La Ciambella
A laid-back eatery serving everything from breakfast to pizzas and cocktails, La Ciambella sits over an ancient baths complex near the Pantheon.

Spot
Refined mid-century furnishings, glassware and objets d'art take centre stage at Spot, a fascinating shop in Monti.
Need to Know

Currency
Euro (€)

Language
Italian

Visas
Not required by EU citizens. Not required by nationals of Australia, Canada, New Zealand and the USA for stays of up to 90 days.

Money
ATMs are widespread. Major credit cards are widely accepted but some smaller shops, trattorias, and pensioni (small hotels or guesthouses) might not take them.

Mobile Phones
Local SIM cards can be used in European, Australian and unlocked US phones. Other phones must be set to roaming.

Time
Western European Time (GMT/UTC plus one hour)

Tourist Information
Information points (9.30am to 7pm) around town for maps, brochures and the Roma Pass. Also a telephone line (06 06 08) for museum bookings, accommodation and transport help.

Daily Costs

Budget: Less than €100

- Dorm bed: €15–30
Double room in a budget hotel: €50–110
Pizza or pasta: €6–12

Midrange: €100–250
Double room in a hotel: €110–200
Lunch and dinner in local restaurants: €25–50
Admission to museum: €4–15
Roma Pass, a three-day card covering museum entry and public transport: €36

Top end: More than €250
Double room in a four- or five-star hotel: €200–450
Top restaurant dinner: €50–150
Opera ticket €40–200
City-centre taxi ride €10–15
Auditorium concert tickets €25–90

Advance Planning
Two months before Book high-season accommodation.
One to two weeks before Reserve tables at A-list restaurants. Sort out tickets to the pope’s weekly audience at St Peter’s. Book ahead for a visit to Palazzo Valentini (www.palazzovalentini.it).
A few days before Book for the Museo e Galleria Borghese (compulsory) and for the Vatican Museums (to avoid queues).

Useful Websites
060608 (www.060608.it) Rome’s official tourist website.
Coopculture (www.coopculture.it) Information and ticket booking for Rome’s monuments.
Vatican Museums (www.vatican.va) Book tickets and avoid the queues.
Auditorium (www.auditorium.com) Check concert listings.
WHEN TO GO

Arriving in Rome

Leonardo da Vinci (Fiumicino) Airport  Direct trains to Stazione Termini 6.23am to 11.23pm, €14; slower trains to Trastevere, Ostiense and Tiburtina stations 5.57am to 11.27pm, €8; buses to Stazione Termini 5.35am to midnight, €4 to €9; private transfers from €10.50 per person; taxis €48 (fixed fare to within the Aurelian walls).

Ciampino Airport  Buses to Stazione Termini 7.45am to 11.59pm, €4; private transfers from €9.49 per person; taxis €30 (fixed fare to within the Aurelian walls).

Stazione Termini  Airport buses and trains, and international trains arrive at Stazione Termini. From here, continue by bus, metro or taxi.

Getting Around

Rome’s public transport system includes buses, trams, metro and a suburban train network. The main hub is Stazione Termini, the only point at which the city’s two main metro lines cross. The metro is quicker than surface transport but the network is limited and the bus is often a better bet. Children under 10 travel free.

- Metro  The main lines are: A (orange; 5.30am to 9.30pm Thursday to Sunday, replacement bus MA1-MA2 to 11.30pm, to 1.30am Saturday) and B (blue; 5.30am to 11.30pm Monday to Thursday, to 1.30am Friday and Saturday). The new line C runs between Monte Compatri, about 12 miles southeast of the city, to Parco di Centocelle, and is as yet of little use to tourists.

- Buses  Most routes pass through Stazione Termini. Buses run 5.30am until midnight, with limited services throughout the night.

Sleeping

Rome is expensive and with the city busy year-round, you’ll want to book as far ahead as you can to secure the best deal and the place you want.

Accommodation options range from palatial five-star hotels to hostels, B&Bs, convents, pensioni, and a good range of Airbnb options. Hostels are the cheapest, offering dorm beds and private rooms. Bed and breakfasts range from simple home-style set-ups to chic boutique outfits with prices to match, while religious institutions provide basic, value-for-money accommodation but may insist on a curfew. Hotels are plentiful and there are many budget, family-run pensioni in the Termini area.

Useful Websites

- 060608 (www.060608.it)  Lists all official accommodation options, from rooms to rent to agriturismi (farm stays) in the surrounding area.
Santa Susanna (www.santasusanna.org/comingToRome/convents.html) Has information on religious accommodation.

Bed & Breakfast Association of Rome (www.b-b.rm.it) Search for B&Bs and apartments.

---

ORGANISED TOURS

Taking a tour is a good way of seeing a lot in a short time or investigating a sight in depth. There are several outfits running hop-on hop-off bus tours, typically costing about €20 per person. Both the Colosseum and Vatican Museums offer official guided tours, but for a more personalised service you’ll be better off with a private guide.
First Time Rome
Checklist

- Check the validity of your passport
- Organise travel insurance
- Inform your credit/debit card company of your travel plans
- Check if you can use your mobile phone
- Book for popular sights like the Vatican Museums, Museo e Galleria Borghese, and also for A-list restaurants, concerts and accommodation
- If coming at Christmas or Easter, check details of religious services at St Peter's Basilica and other big churches
What to Pack

- Trainers or comfy walking shoes – you'll walk a lot over cobbled streets
- Smart-casual evening clothes – Romans dress up to go out
- Sun lotion – it's usually pricier in Italy
- Purse with strap – petty theft can be a problem
- Water bottle – refill it at Rome's drinking-water fountains

Top Tips For Your Trip

- Don't try and cover everything. Focus on a few sights/areas and leave the rest for next time.
- Rome's historic centre is made for leisurely strolling, so allow time for mapless wandering. Half the fun of Rome is discovering what's around the corner – and there's always something.
- When choosing where to eat, never judge a place by its appearance. Some of the best meals are had in modest-looking trattorias.
- When it's very hot – which it is in summer – adjust to the local rhythm: go out in the morning, rest after lunch and head out again late afternoon or early evening.

What to Wear

Appearances matter in Rome. That said, you'll need to dress comfortably because you'll be walking a lot. Suitable clothing for men is generally trousers (pants) and shirts or polo shirts, and for women, skirts, trousers or dresses. Shorts, T-shirts and sandals are fine in summer, but bear in mind that strict dress codes are enforced at St Peter's Basilica and the Vatican Museums. For evening wear, smart casual is the norm. A light sweater or waterproof jacket is useful in spring and autumn.

Be Forewarned

- Rome is a safe city but petty theft can be a problem and pickpockets are active in touristy areas and on crowded public transport. Use common sense and watch your valuables.
- There aren't any no-go areas, but keep your wits about you around Stazione Termini.
- August is Italy's main holiday period. Romans desert the city in droves and many shops and eateries close for a week or two around 15 August. Many museums close on Mondays.
Expect queues at major sights such as the Colosseum, St Peter's Basilica and Vatican Museums. Booking tickets in advance costs extra but saves waiting time.

Money
Bancomat (ATMs) are common, but be aware of transaction fees. If an ATM rejects your card, try another before assuming the problem is with your card. Save money by drinking coffee standing at the bar rather than taking a seat. Also carry a water bottle and fill it at Rome's many fountains (nicknamed 'nasoni', meaning 'big noses'). Many museums are free on the first Sunday of the month, while the Vatican Museums are free on the last Sunday of the month.

Taxes & Refunds
A 20% value-added tax known as IVA (Imposta sul Valore Aggiunta) is included in the price of most goods and services. Tax-free shopping is available at some shops.

All stays in the city are subject to an accommodation tax – the exact sum depends on the length of your sojourn and type of accommodation.

Tipping
Romans are not big tippers, but the following is a rough guide:

- Taxis Optional, but most people round up to the nearest euro.
- Restaurants Service (servizio) is generally included; if it's not, a euro or two is fine in pizzerias, 10% in restaurants.
- Bars Not necessary, although many people leave small change if drinking at the bar.

Etiquette
Despite appearances, Italy is quite a formal society and the niceties of social interaction are observed.

- Greetings Greet people in bars, shops, trattorias etc with a buongiorno (good morning) or buonasera (good evening).
- Dress Cover up when visiting churches and go smart when eating out.
- Eating Out Eat pasta with a fork, not a spoon; it's OK to eat pizza with your hands.
Roma Pass

The useful Roma Pass comes in two forms: the three-day classic pass (€36) provides free admission to two museums or sites, unlimited city transport, and discounted entry to other sites, exhibitions and events; and a 48-hour pass (€28), which gives free admission to one museum or site and then as per the classic pass. They're available online, from tourist information points or from participating museums.
Top Itineraries
Day One

Ancient Rome

M Start the day at the Colosseum, Rome's huge gladiatorial arena – try to get there early to avoid the queues. Then head down to the Palatino to poke around crumbling ruins and admire sweeping views. From the Palatino, follow on to the Roman Forum, an evocative area of tumbledown temples, sprouting columns and ruined basilicas.

5 Lunch Sample regional specialities at the Terre e Domus.

Ancient Rome

R After lunch climb the Cordonata to the glorious, harmonious Piazza del Campidoglio and the Capitoline Museums, where you’ll find sensational ancient sculpture and wondrous works by Caravaggio. To clear your head afterwards, pop next door to Il Vittoriano and take the lift to the top for Rome’s best 360-degree views.

5 Dinner Dine on quality seafood at Vecchia Roma.

Centro Storico

N Start the evening by exploring the Jewish Ghetto, and linger over dinner at Vecchia Roma, a classy restaurant on an epically pretty piazza. Next, wander through cobbled streets, past the Pantheon, and over to Salotto 42 for cocktails with a view onto the worn columns of the Temple of Hadrian.
Day Two

Vatican City, Borgo & Prati

On day two, hit the Vatican. First up, grab a cornetto (croissant) from Dolce Maniera, then plunge into the Vatican Museums. Once you’ve blown your mind on the Sistine Chapel and the other highlights, complete your tour at St Peter’s Basilica. If you have the energy, climb its Michelangelo-designed dome for fantastic views over the piazza. If the queues are bad, though, or you’re suffering art overload, stop first for an early lunch.

5 Lunch Eat Rome's most perfect pizza at Pizzarium.

Centro Storico

Dedicate the afternoon to sniffing around the historic centre. Here you'll come across some of Rome's great sights, including the enormous Piazza Navona and the incredible Pantheon, with its oculus open to the sky. Art lovers can admire paintings by Caravaggio in the Chiesa di San Luigi dei Francesi and fashion-conscious shoppers can browse the boutiques on Via del Governo Vecchio.

5 Dinner Enjoy great Roman cooking at the venerable Armando al Pantheon.

Centro Storico

After dinner stop in the centre for a taste of dolce vita bar life. Depending on what you’re after, you could spend a relaxed evening at chic, laid-back Etablì near Piazza Navona, join the student drinkers on lively Campo de’ Fiori, or chat over coffee at Caffè Sant’Eustacchio, which serves some of Rome's (and possibly the world's) best coffee.
Top Itineraries
Day Three

Villa Borghese & Northern Rome

Day three starts with a trip to the Museo e Galleria Borghese to marvel at amazing baroque sculpture. Afterwards, walk off what you’ve just seen in the shady avenues of Villa Borghese.

5 Lunch Enjoy some fresh Roman cooking at antique-packed Casa Conti.

Tridente, Trevi & the Quirinale

In the afternoon investigate the area around Piazza di Spagna. Plan your moves while sitting on the Spanish Steps, visit the poignant Keats-Shelley House, then dive down Via dei Condotti to window shop at the flagship designer stores. From Via del Corso, at the bottom, you can make your way up to the Trevi Fountain, where tradition dictates you throw in a coin to ensure your return to Rome.

5 Dinner Enjoy innovation at Glass Hostaria, or tradition at Da Olindo.

Trastevere & Gianicolo

Over the river, the charmingly photogenic Trastevere neighbourhood bursts with life in the evening as locals and tourists flock to its many eateries and bars. Get into the mood with an aperitif at Freni e Frizioni, before eating some Roman soul food at an atmospheric, rough-and-ready trattoria, or enjoying the playful creativity of somewhere more upmarket.
Top Itineraries
Day Four

Southern Rome

On day four it’s time to venture out to Via Appia Antica. The main attractions here are the catacombs, and it’s a wonderfully creepy sensation to duck down into these sinister pitch-black tunnels. Back above ground, you’ll find the remains of an ancient racetrack at the nearby Villa di Massenzio.

Lunch Eat on the Appia, at Qui Non se More Mai.

Monti, Esquilino & San Lorenzo

Start the afternoon by visiting the Museo Nazionale Romano: Palazzo Massimo alle Terme, a superb museum full of classical sculpture and stunning mosaics. Then drop by the monumental Basilica di Santa Maggiore, famous for its mosaics, and the Basilica di San Pietro in Vincoli, home to Michelangelo's muscular Moses sculpture. Finish up by exploring the pretty lanes of the Monti district.

Dinner Dine at marvellous creative Umbrian restaurant L'Asino d'Oro.

Monti, Esquilino & San Lorenzo

Either hang out longer in Monti, catching a live gig at Blackmarket, or take a trip out to trendy Pigneto, where you'll find plenty of bar action, and often live music.
If You Like...

Museums & Galleries

- Vatican Museums One of the world's great museums, with a vast collection of classical art culminating in the Sistine Chapel.
- Museo e Galleria Borghese Houses the best baroque sculpture in town and some seriously good Old Masters.
- Museo Nazionale Romano: Palazzo Massimo alle Terme Fabulous Roman frescoes and wall mosaics are the highlight of this overlooked gem.
- Capitoline Museums The world’s oldest public museums are a must for anyone interested in ancient sculpture.
- Galleria Doria Pamphilj Hidden behind a grime exterior, this lavish private gallery is full of major works by big-name Italian artists.
- Galleria Nazionale d'Arte Antica: Palazzo Barberini A sumptuous baroque palace laden with paintings by such giants as Caravaggio, Raphael and Hans Holbein.
- Museo Nazionale Etrusco di Villa Giulia A lovely museum housing a huge collection of Etruscan art and artefacts.

Roman Relics

- Colosseum One of the world’s most famous buildings, this breathtaking arena encapsulates all the drama of ancient Rome.
- Pantheon With its revolutionary design, this awe-inspiring Roman temple has served as an architectural blueprint for millennia.
- Palatino Ancient emperors languished in luxury on the Palatino, the oldest and most exclusive part of imperial Rome.
- Terme di Caracalla The hulking remains of this vast baths complex hint at the scale that ancient Rome was built to.
- Roman Forum This was ancient Rome's bustling centre full of temples, basilicas, shops and streets.
- Domus Aurea Nero's Golden House lies underground, and a small but astounding section is sometimes open to visitors.
- Via Appia Antica March down Rome's oldest road, built in the 4th century BC, en route to the catacombs.

Church Art

- Sistine Chapel Michelangelo’s frescoes are among the world's most famous works of art.
- St Peter’s Basilica Marvel at Michelangelo's Pietà and many other celebrated masterpieces.
- Chiesa di San Luigi dei Francesi An ornate baroque church boasting a trio of Caravaggio paintings.
- Chiesa di Santa Maria del Popolo Works by Caravaggio, Raphael and Bernini adorn this magnificent Renaissance church.
- Basilica di San Pietro in Vincoli Face up to Michelangelo's muscular Moses sculpture.
- Basilica di Santa Maria in Trastevere An ancient basilica celebrated for its golden apse mosaics.

Going Underground

- Basilica di San Clemente Descend into the bowels of this multilayered basilica to discover a pagan temple and 1st-century house.
- Vatican Grottoes Extending beneath St Peter’s Basilica, these underground chambers contain the tombs of several popes.
- Catacombs Via Appia Antica is riddled with catacombs where the early Christians buried their dead.
- Terme di Caracalla Explore an ancient temple and the underground tunnels where slaves once fed furnaces at this huge baths complex.
- Palazzo Valentini A multimedia display brings excavated ruins to life beneath the seat of the Province of Rome.
- Case Romane Poke around the houses where Sts John and Paul lived before they were executed.
Sweeping Views

Il Vittoriano Not recommended for vertigo sufferers, the summit of this marble monolith towers over the rest of Rome.

Gianicolo (MAP GOOGLE MAP; Via del Gianicolo; 5 Via del Gianicolo) Rising above Trastevere, the Gianicolo Hill affords sweeping panoramas over Rome’s rooftops.

Orti Farnesiani A viewing terrace in the Palatino’s medieval gardens commands grandstand views over the Roman Forum.

St Peter’s Basilica Climb the dome and you’re rewarded with huge 360-degree views.

Street Life

Trastevere Students, tourists, locals, diners, drinkers, junkies and street-hawkers mingle on Trastevere’s vivacious streets.

Spanish Steps Find a space and settle back to watch the ever-changing spectacle on the square below.

Piazza Navona This beautiful baroque arena provides the stage for a colourful cast of street artists, performers, waiters and tourists.

Pigneto With its noisy market and vibrant bar scene, this hip district is always lively.

Campo de’ Fiori Market stall holders holler at each other during the day and student drinkers strut their stuff by night.
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>TOP EVENTS</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Carnevale Romano, February</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Natale di Roma, April</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Lungo il Tevere, June to September</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Festa di Noantri, July</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Romaeuropa, October to November</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
January

As New Year celebrations fade, the winter cold digs in. It’s a quiet time of year but the winter sales are a welcome diversion.

7 Shopping Sales
Running from early January to mid-February, the winter sales offer savings of between 20% and 50%.
February

Rome’s winter quiet is shattered by high-spirited carnival celebrations, which signal that spring is on the way.

Carnevale Romano

Rome really goes to town for Carnevale, with leaping horse shows on Piazza del Popolo, costumed parades down Via del Corso, street performers on Piazza Navona, and crowds of kids in fancy dress.
March

The onset of spring brings blooming flowers, rising temperatures and unpredictable rainfall. Unless Easter falls in late March, the city is fairly subdued and low-season prices still apply.

2 Maratona di Roma

Sightseeing becomes sport at Rome’s annual marathon (www.maratonadiroma.it). The 42km route starts and finishes near the Colosseum, taking in many of the city’s big sights.
April

April is a great month, with lovely, sunny weather, fervent Easter celebrations, a week of free museums, azaleas on the Spanish Steps and Rome’s birthday festivities. Expect high-season prices.

Easter

In the capital of the Catholic world, Easter is a big deal. On Good Friday the pope leads a candlelit procession around the Colosseum, and there are other smaller parades around the city. At noon on Easter Sunday the Pope blesses the crowds in St Peter's Sq.

Natale di Roma

Rome celebrates its birthday on 21 April with music, historical re-creations and fireworks. Events are staged throughout the city but the focus is Campidoglio and Circo Massimo.

Mostra delle Azalee

From mid-April to early May, the Spanish Steps are decorated with 600 vases of blooming, brightly coloured azaleas.
May

May is a busy, high-season month. The weather’s perfect – usually warm enough to eat outside – and the city is looking gorgeous with blue skies and spring flowers.

Primo Maggio

Thousands of fans troop to Piazza di San Giovanni in Laterano for Rome’s free May Day rock concert. It’s a mostly Italian affair with big-name local performers, but you might catch the occasional foreign guest star.
June

Summer has arrived and with it hot weather and the Italian school holidays.

Lungo il Tevere
Nightly crowds converge on the river Tiber for this popular summer-long event. Stalls, clubs, bars, restaurants and dance floors line the river bank as Rome's nightlife goes al fresco.

Isola del Cinema
The Isola Tiberina (www.isoladelcinema.com) provides the picturesque backdrop for this open-air film festival, which screens a range of Italian and international films with a focus on independent productions.

Roma Incontro Il Mondo
Villa Ada (www.villaada.org) is transformed into a colourful multi-ethnic village for this popular annual event. There’s a laid-back party vibe and an excellent program of concerts ranging from Roman rap to jazz and world music.

Festa dei Santi Pietro e Paolo
On 29 June Rome celebrates its two patron saints, Peter and Paul, with a mass at St Peter’s Basilica and a street fair on Via Ostiense near the Basilica di San Paolo Fuori-le-Mura.
July

Hot summer temperatures make sightseeing a physical endeavour, but come the cool of evening, the city’s streets burst into life as locals come out to enjoy summer festivities.

Festa di Noantri

Trastevere celebrates its roots with a raucous street party in the last two weeks of the month. Centred on Piazza Santa Maria, events kick off with a religious procession and continue with much eating, drinking, dancing and praying.
August

Rome melts in the heat as locals flee the city for their summer hols. Many businesses shut down around 15 August, but hoteliers offer discounts and there are loads of summer events to enjoy.

Festa della Madonna della Neve

On 5 August rose petals are showered on celebrants in the Basilica di Santa Maria Maggiore to commemorate a miraculous 4th-century snowfall.
October
Autumn is a good time to visit – the warm weather is holding, Romaeuropa ensures plenty of cultural action and, with the schools back, there are far fewer tourists around.

Romaeuropa
Established international performers join emerging stars at Rome’s premier dance and drama festival (www.romaeuropa.net). Events, staged from late September through to November, range from avant-garde dance performances to installations, multimedia shows, recitals and readings.
November

Although the wettest month, November has its compensations – low-season prices, excellent jazz concerts and no queues outside the big sights. Autumn is also great for foodies.

Festival Internazionale del Film di Roma
Held at the Auditorium Parco della Musica, Rome’s film festival (www.romacinemafest.it) rolls out the red carpet for Hollywood hotshots and bigwigs from Italian cinema.

Festival Internazionale di Musica e Arte Sacra
Over several days in early November, the Vienna Philharmonic Orchestra and other top ensembles perform a series of classical concerts (www.festivalmusicaeartesacra.net) in Rome’s four papal basilicas and other churches.
December

The build-up to Christmas feels festive, as the city twinkles in anticipation, decked out in festive lights. Every church has a presepe (nativity scene) displayed, from intricate small tableaux to life-size extravaganzas.

Piazza Navona Christmas Fair

Rome’s most beautiful baroque square becomes a big, brash marketplace as brightly lit market stalls set up shop, selling everything from nativity scenes to stuffed toys and teeth-cracking torrone (nougat).
With Kids

Despite a reputation as a highbrow cultural destination, Rome has a lot to offer kids. Child-specific sights might be thin on the ground, but if you know where to go there’s plenty to keep the little ones occupied and parents happy.

NEED TO KNOW

Getting Around Cobbled streets make getting around with a pram or pushchair difficult.
Eating Out In a restaurant ask for a mezza porzione (child’s portion) and seggiolone (highchair).
Supplies Buy baby formula and sterilising solutions at pharmacies. Disposable nappies (diapers; pannolini) are available from supermarkets and pharmacies.
Transport Under 10s travel free on all public transport.

History for Kids

Colosseum
Everyone wants to see the Colosseum and it doesn’t disappoint, especially if accompanied by tales of bloodthirsty gladiators and hungry lions. For maximum effect prep your kids beforehand with a Rome-based film.

Catacombs
Spook your teens with a trip to the catacombs on Via Appia Antica. These pitch-black tunnels, full of tombs and ancient burial chambers, are fascinating, but not suitable for children under about seven.

Palazzo Valentini
Parents and older kids will enjoy the multimedia tour of Roman excavations beneath Palazzo Valentini.
Museums for Kids

Explora
Near Piazza del Popolo, Explora – Museo dei Bambini di Roma is a hands-on museum for kids under 12, with interactive displays and a free play park.

Museo della Civiltà Romana
In EUR, the Museo della Civiltà Romana has re-creations of ancient bridges, forts and monuments, as well as a room-sized model of 4th-century Rome.

Museo delle Cere
Go face to face with popes, rock stars, and footy players at Rome’s cheesy wax museum, the Museo delle Cere.

Hands-on Activities

Trevi Fountain
Kids love throwing things, so they'll enjoy flinging a coin into the Trevi Fountain. And if they ask, you can tell them that about €3000 is thrown in on an average day.
Bocca della Verità
Put your hand in the Bocca della Verità (Mouth of Truth). Just don't tell a fib, otherwise the mouth will bite it off.

---

Food for Kids

Pizza
Pizza al taglio (sliced pizza) is a godsend for parents. It’s cheap (about €1 buys two slices of pizza bianca – with salt and olive oil), easy to get hold of (there are hundreds of takeaways around town), and works wonders on flagging spirits.

Gelato
Ice cream is another manna from heaven, served in coppette (tubs) or coni (cones). Child-friendly flavours include fragola (strawberry), cioccolato (chocolate), and bacio (with hazelnuts).

---

Run in the Park

When the time comes to let the kids off the leash, head to Villa Borghese, the most central of Rome’s main parks. There’s plenty of space to run around in – though it’s not absolutely car-free – and you can hire family bikes. Other handy parks are Villa Celimontana and Villa Torlonia.

---

Animal-Spotting

Animal Sculptures
Set your kids to spot as many animal sculptures as they can. There are hundreds around town, including an elephant (outside the Chiesa di Santa Maria Sopra Minerva), lions (at the foot of the Cordonata staircase up to Piazza del Campidoglio), bees (in Bernini’s fountain just off Piazza Barberini), horses, eagles and, of course, Rome’s trademark wolf.

Cats
Cats have had the run of Rome's streets for centuries. These days they like to hang out in the ancient temple ruins on the Largo di Torre Argentina.

Zoo
In Villa Borghese, the Bioparco (MAP GOOGLE MAP); ☏ 06 360 82 11; www.bioparco.it; Viale del Giardino Zoologico 1; adult/reduced €15/12; h9.30am-6pm summer, to 5pm winter; Bioparco) isn’t the best zoo in the world, but after dragging your loved ones to all those churches and museums, it is an option.
A Family Day Out

Ostia Antica
Many of Rome’s ancient sites can be boring for children, but Ostia Antica is different. Here your kids can run along the ancient town’s streets, among shops, and all over its impressive amphitheatre.

Tivoli
Kids love exploring the gardens at Villa d'Este with their water-spouting fountains and grim-faced gargoyles. Nearby, the extensive ruins of Villa Adriana provide ample opportunity for hide and seek.

Seaside
The nearest beach to Rome is at Ostia Lido, but there are nicer ones at Anzio, Fregene and Santa Marinella.
Like a Local

Gregarious and convivial, Romans enjoy their city. They love hanging out in its piazzas and speeding around the streets in small cars; they like to dress up and they adore going out. They know theirs is a beautiful city, but they’re not jealous and everyone is welcome.

Drink Like a Local

Coffee

Prendere un caffè (having a coffee) is one of the great rituals of Roman life. As a rule, locals will stop at a bar for a coffee in the morning before work, and then again after lunch. To fit in with the crowd, ask for un caffè (the term espresso is rarely used) and drink standing at the bar. Also, never order a cappuccino after lunch.

For a taste of Rome's finest, head to Caffè Sant'Eustachio in the historic centre or Sciascia Caffè in Prati.

Aperitivo

Early evening means aperitivo (a drink plus food from a buffet) in many of Rome's fashionable bars. Hotspots include Doppiozeroo in Ostiense, and Momart, a popular bar off Via Nomentana.

Cool Neighbourhoods

Trastevere

A picturesque district full of bars, cafes and trattorias, Trastevere has long been a foreigners' favourite. But Romans love it too, and amid the tourist bustle, you'll find some characteristic city haunts.

Ostiense

With its disused factories, authentic trattorias and university campus, Ostiense is home to hot clubs and hip bars, as well as several cultural gems.

Pigneto

Pigneto, a former working-class district southeast of Termini, is one of the capital's coolest neighbourhoods, a bar-heavy pocket frequented by bohemians, fun-seekers and trendsetting urbanites.

Testaccio
Down by the Tiber, once-proletarian Testaccio retains a workaday neighbourhood vibe with its daily market, traditional Roman trattorias and popular clubs.

Evening Passeggiata
The passeggiata (traditional evening stroll) is a quintessential Roman experience. It's particularly colourful at weekends when families, friends and lovers take to the streets to strut and be seen. To partake in the spectacle, head to Via del Corso around 6pm. Alternatively, park yourself on the Spanish Steps and watch the theatrics unfold beneath you on Piazza di Spagna.

Football at the Stadio Olimpico
Football is a Roman passion, with support divided between the two local teams: Roma and Lazio. Both play their home games at the Stadio Olimpico, Rome's impressive Olympic stadium. If you go to a game, make sure you get it right – Roma play in red and yellow and their supporters stand in the Curva Sud (South Stand); Lazio play in sky blue and their fans fill the Curva Nord (North Stand).
For Free

Although Rome is an expensive city, you don’t have to break the bank to enjoy it. A surprising number of its big sights are free and it costs nothing to stroll the historic streets, piazzas and parks, basking in their extraordinary beauty.

Need to Know

Transport  Holders of the Roma Pass are entitled to free public transport.

Wi-Fi  Free wi-fi is available in many hostels, hotels, bars and cafes.

Tours  To take a free tour check out www.newromefreetour.com.

Free Art

Churches

Feast on fine art in the city's churches. They're all free and many contain priceless treasures by big-name artists such as Michelangelo, Raphael, Bernini and Caravaggio. Major art churches include St Peter's Basilica, the Basilica di San Pietro in Vincoli, Chiesa di San Luigi dei Francesi and Chiesa di Santa Maria del Popolo.

Vatican Museums

Home to the Sistine Chapel and kilometres of awesome art, the Vatican Museums are free on the last Sunday of the month.

State Museums

Eight of Rome's municipal museums are free, including the Museo Carlo Bilotti and the Museo Barracco di Scultura Antica. All state-run museums are gratis on the first Sunday of the month.

Free Monuments

Pantheon

A pagan temple turned church, the Pantheon is a staggering work of architecture with its record-breaking dome and echoing interior.

Trevi Fountain

You don’t have to spend a penny to admire the Trevi Fountain, although most people throw a coin in to ensure their return to Rome.

Bocca della Verità
According to legend, if you tell a lie with your hand in the Bocca della Verità (Mouth of Truth), it'll bite your hand off.

Piazzas & Parks

Piazzas
Hanging out and people-watching on Rome's piazzas is a signature Roman experience. Top spots include Piazza Navona, Campo de’ Fiori, Piazza di Spagna, and Piazza del Popolo.

Parks
It doesn’t cost a thing to enjoy Rome’s parks. The most famous is Villa Borghese, but you'll also find greenery at Villa Torlonia, Villa Celimontana, and on the Gianicolo Hill.
Eating

This is a city that lives to eat. Food feeds the Roman soul, and a social occasion would be nothing without it. Cooking with local, seasonal ingredients is the norm, as it has been for millennia. Over recent decades the restaurant scene has become increasingly sophisticated, but the city’s no-frills, local trattorias still provide some of Rome’s most memorable gastronomic experiences.

Different varieties of pizza in a Rome shop
Tania Volobueva / GETTY IMAGES ©

Roman Cuisine

Like most Italian cuisines, Roman cooking was born of careful use of local ingredients – making use of the cheaper cuts of meat, like guanciale (pig’s cheek), and greens that could be gathered wild from the fields.

There are a few classic dishes that are served by almost every trattoria and restaurant in Rome. These carb-laden comfort foods are seemingly simple, yet notoriously difficult to prepare well. Iconic Roman dishes include carbonara (pasta with lardons, egg and parmesan), alla gricia (with pig's cheek and onions), amatriciana (invented when an enterprising chef from Amatrice added tomatoes to alla gricia) and cacio e pepe (with cheese and pepper).

The number of special-occasion, creative restaurants is ever rising in Rome, with a buzz around openings such as Chef Riccardo di Giacinto's All'Oro. Roy Carceres continues to wow at Metamorfosi, and Christina Bowerman, director of Trastevere's Glass Hostaria, is one of the few Italian female chefs to have received a Michelin star. Roman fine-dining restaurants usually embrace the dishes that make up the Roman tradition and have fun with them, adding twists and unexpected flavours and combinations.
Another relatively new concept in Rome is all-day dining, with a few notable all-things-to-all-people restaurants including Baccano, Porto Fluviale and the multistorey mall Eataly, which has restaurants to suit almost every mood, from a hankering for fritti (fried things) to fine dining.

Artisanal gelatarie have also refined the city's ice-cream habit, with heavenly ice-cream sellers including Fatamorgana, Dei Gracchi and Fior di Luna. As all-natural gelatarie revolutionised Rome's sweet tooth, gourmet fast food is an innovation on the savoury side. This is the newest feature of the foodie scene, whereby, as in fine dining, Roman traditions are used as inspiration to produce something that's deliciously surprising, at places such as Supplizio and Trapizzino. Pasticcerie (pastry shops) are also being reinvented as places of chic artistry, with De Bellis the vanguard of this trend.

Neighbourhood Specialities

Most entrenched in culinary tradition is the Jewish Ghetto area, with its hearty Roman-Jewish cuisine. Deep-frying is a staple of cucina ebraico-romanesca (Roman-Jewish cooking), which developed between the 16th and 19th centuries when the Jews were confined to the city’s ghetto. To add flavour to their limited ingredients – those spurned by the rich, such as courgette (zucchini) flowers – they began to fry everything from mozzarella to baccalà (salted cod). Particularly addictive are the locally grown artichokes, which are flattened out to form a kind of flower shape and then deep-fried and salted.

For the heart (and liver and brains) of the cucina Romana, head to Testaccio, a traditional working-class district clustered around the city’s former slaughterhouse. In the past, butchers who worked in the city abattoir were often paid in cheap cuts of meat as well as money. The Roman staple coda alla vaccinara translates as ‘oxtail cooked butcher’s style’. This is cooked for hours to create a rich sauce with tender slivers of meat. A famous Roman dish that’s not for the faint-hearted is pasta with pajata, made with the entrails of young veal calves, considered a delicacy since they contain the mother’s congealed milk. If you see the word coratella in a dish, it means you’ll be eating lights (lungs), kidneys and hearts.

Seasonal Calendar

As is the custom all over Italy, Romans eat according to what's in season. Fresh, often sun-ripened ingredients zing with flavour, and the best food is 'zero-kilometri' – the less distance it has had to travel, the better.

SPRING

Spring is prime time for lamb, usually roasted with potatoes – agnello al forno con patate. Sometimes it’s described as abbacchio (Roman dialect for lamb) scottadito (‘hot enough to burn fingers’).

March is the best season for carciofo alla giudia (Jewish-style artichoke), when the big round artichokes from Cerveteri appear on the table (smaller varieties are from Sardinia), but you can continue eating this delicious dish until June.

May and June are favourable fishing months, and thus good for cuttlefish and octopus, as well as other seafood.

Grass-green fave (broad beans) are eaten after a meal (especially on 1 May), accompanied by some salty pecorino cheese.

The lighter green, fluted zucchine romanesche (Roman courgette) appear on market stalls, usually with the flowers still attached – these orange petals, deep-fried, are a delectable feature of Roman cooking.

SUMMER

Tonno (tuna) comes fresh from the seas around Sardinia; linguine ai frutti di mare and risotto alla pescatora are good light summer dishes.

Summertime is melanzane (aubergine or eggplant) time: tuck into them grilled as antipasti or fried and layered with rich tomato sauce in melanzane alla parmagiana. It's also time for leafy greens, and Rome even has its own lettuce, the sturdy, flavourful lattuga romana.

Tomatoes are at their full-bodied finest, and seductive heaps of pesche (peaches), albicocche (apricots), fichi (figs) and meloni (melons) dominate market stalls.

AUTUMN

Alla cacciatora (hunter-style) dishes are sourced from Lazio’s hills, with meats such as cinghiale (boar) and lepre (hare).

Fish is also good in autumn; you could try fried fish from Fiumicino, such as triglia (red mullet), or mixed small fish, such as alici (anchovies).

Autumn equals mushrooms – the meaty porcini, galletti and ovuli. Heaping the markets are broccoletti (also called broccolini), a cross between broccoli and asparagus, uva (grapes), pere (pears) and nuts.

WINTER

Winter is the ideal time to eat cockle-warming dishes with ceci (chickpeas) and vegetable-rich minestrone, as well as herb-roasted porchetta di Ariccia (pork from Ariccia).

Puntarelle (‘little points’ – Catalonian chicory), found only in Lazio, is a delicious, faintly bitter winter green.

Markets are piled high with broccolo Romanesco (Roman broccoli), aranci (oranges) and mandarini (mandarins).

In February, look out for frappé (strips of fried dough sprinkled with sugar), eaten at carnival time.

---

THE CULINARY CALENDAR

According to the culinary calendar (initiated by the Catholic Church to vary the nutrition of its flock), fish is eaten on Friday and baccalà (salted cod) is often eaten with ceci (chickpeas), usually on Wednesday. Thursday is gnocchi (dumplings) day. The traditional, heavy Roman recipe uses semolina flour, but you can also find the typical gnocchi with potatoes. Many traditional Roman restaurants still offer dishes according to this calendar.

---

When to Eat
For colazione (breakfast), most Romans head to a bar for a cappuccino and cornetto (croissant).

The main meal of the day is pranzo (lunch), eaten at about 1.30pm. Many shops and businesses close for one to three hours every afternoon to accommodate the meal and siesta that follows. On Sundays pranzo is particularly important.

Many restaurants offer 'brunch' at weekends, but this isn't the breakfast/lunch combination featuring pancakes and eggs that English and American visitors might expect. Brunch in Rome tends to mean a buffet, available from around noon to 3pm.

Aperitivo is a buffet of snacks to accompany evening drinks, usually from around 6pm till 9pm, and costing around €6 to €10 for a drink and unlimited platefuls.

Cena (dinner), eaten any time from about 8.30pm, is usually simple, although this is changing as fewer people make it home for the big lunchtime feast.

A full Italian meal consists of an antipasto (starter), a primo piatto (first course), a secondo piatto (second course) with an insalata (salad) or contorno (vegetable side dish), dolci (sweet), fruit, coffee and digestivo (liqueur). When eating out, however, you can do as most Romans do, and mix and match: order, say, a primo followed by an insalata or contorno.

---

FOOD TOURS

Eating Italy Food Tours (www.eatingitalyfoodtours.com; €75; daily) is run by American expat Kenny Dunn and offers informative four-hour tours around Testaccio or Trastevere, with the chance to taste 12 delicacies on the way. There are a maximum of 12 people to a tour.

Wine specialists Vino Roma offer bespoke three-hour food tours.

---

Where to Eat

Take your pick according to your mood and your pocket, from the frenetic energy of a Roman pizzeria to the warm familiarity of a local trattoria, run for generations by the same family, or from a bar laden with sumptuous aperitivi to a restaurant where both presentation and the flavours are a work of art.

ENOTECHE (WINE BARS)

Romans rarely drink without eating, and you can eat well at many enoteche, wine bars that usually serve snacks (such as cheeses or cold meats, bruschette and crostini) and hot dishes. Some, such as Palatium or Casa Bleve, offer full-scale dining.

TRATTORIA, OSTERIA OR RESTAURANT?

Traditionally, trattorias were family-run places that offered a basic, affordable local menu, while osterie usually specialised in one dish and vino della casa (house wine). There are still lots of these around. Ristoranti offer more choices and smarter service, and are more expensive.

PIZZA

Remarkably, pizza was only introduced to Rome post-WWII, by southern immigrants. It caught on. Every Roman’s favourite casual (and cheap) meal is the gloriously simple pizza, with Rome’s signature wafer-thin bases, covered in fresh, bubbling toppings, slapped down on tables by waiters on a mission. Pizzerias often only open in the evening, as their wood-fired ovens take a while to get going. Most Romans will precede their pizza with a starter of bruschetta or fritti (mixed fried foods, such as zucchini flowers, potato, olives etc) and wash it all down with beer. Some places in Rome serve pizza with a thicker, fluffier base, which is the Neapolitan style.

For a snack on the run, Rome’s pizza al taglio (by the slice) places are hard to beat, with toppings loaded atop thin, crispy, light-as-air, slow-risen bread that verge on the divine. There's been an increase of more gourmet pizza places in the last decade, with their king being Gabriele Bonci’s Pizzarium close to the Vatican

FAST FOOD
Fast food is a long-standing Roman tradition, with plenty of street-food favourites.

A tavola calda (hot table) offers cheap, pre-prepared pasta, meat and vegetable dishes, while a rosticceria sells mainly cooked meats. Neither is best for a romantic meal, but they're often very tasty.

Another favourite on the run are arancini, fried risotto balls that have fillings such as mozzarella and ham. These originate from Sicily, but are much loved in Rome too, where they're known as supplì.

Fast food is the latest Roman tradition to be reinvented, with a new-fangled offering of gourmet snacks that riff on family favourites. These days you'll find hip new places serving supplì or fritti with a twist. And these are no victory of style over substance – the new guard takes their gastronomy just as seriously as the old.

DELIS & MARKETS
Rome’s well-stocked delis and fresh-produce markets are a fabulous feature of the city’s foodscape. Most neighbourhoods have a few local delis and their own daily food market. The markets operate from around 7am to 1.30pm, Monday to Saturday. There are also some excellent farmers markets, mostly taking place at the weekends. The best of these is the one at Circo Massimo, which takes place on Saturday and Sunday.

Rome’s most famous markets include the following:

- Campo de' Fiori (MAP GOOGLE MAP; h6am-2pm Mon-Sat; gCorso Vittorio Emanuele II) The most picturesque, but also the most expensive. Prices are graded according to the shopper’s accent.
- Mercato di Circo Massimo Rome's best and most popular farmers market is a colourful showcase for seasonal, zero-kilometre produce.
- Nuovo Mercato Esquilino Cheap and the best place to find exotic herbs and spices.
- Piazza dell’ Unità (MAP GOOGLE MAP; gPiazza del Risorgimento) Near the Vatican, perfect for stocking up for a picnic.
- Piazza San Cosimato (MAP GOOGLE MAP; h7am-2pm Mon-Sat; gViale di Trastevere, jViale di Trastevere) Trastevere’s neighbourhood market, is still the business with foodstuffs.
Nuovo Mercato di Testaccio A purpose-built site crammed with enticing stalls and local shoppers.

GELATERIE
Eating gelato is as much a part of Roman life as morning coffee – try it and you’ll understand why. The city has some of the world’s finest ice-cream shops, which use only the finest seasonal ingredients, sourced from the finest locations.

In these artisanal gelaterie you won’t find a strawberry flavour in winter, for example, and pistachios are from Bronte, almonds from Avola, and so on. It’s all come a long way since Nero snacked on snow mixed with fruit pulp and honey. A rule of thumb is to check the colour of the pistachio flavour: ochre-green equals good, bright-green equals bad.

In the height of summer Romans love to eat grattachecca (literally 'scratched ice'), with kiosks selling crushed ice topped with fruit and syrup along the riverside from May to September. It's a great way to cool down.

Most places open from around 8am to 1am, with shorter hours in winter. Prices range from around €2 to €3.50 for a cona (cone) or coppetta (tub or cup).

Food & Wine Courses
Cookery writer Diane Seed, author of The Top One Hundred Pasta Sauces, runs her Roman Kitchen (MAP GOOGLE MAP; 06 678 57 59; www.italiangourmet.com; per day €200) several times a year from her kitchen in the Palazzo Doria Pamphilj. There are one-, two- and three-day courses (which include a market visit) costing €200 per day.

In Monti you can take a wine-tasting course or a food tour with Vino Roma, which has a state-of-the-art tasting studio.

Vegetarians, Vegans & Gluten Free
Panic not, vegetarians; you can eat well in Rome, with the choice of bountiful antipasti, pasta dishes, insalati, contorni and pizzas.

Be mindful of hidden ingredients not mentioned on the menu – for example, steer clear of anything that’s been stuffed (like courgette flowers, often spiced up with anchovies) or check that it’s senza carne o pesce (without meat or fish). Note that to many Italians vegetarian means you don’t eat red meat.

Vegans are in for a tougher time. Cheese is used universally, so you must specify that you want something senza formaggio (without cheese). Also remember that pasta fresca, which may also turn up in soups, is made with eggs. The safest bet is to self-cater or try a dedicated vegetarian restaurant, which will always have some vegan options.

Most restaurants offer gluten-free options, as there is a good awareness of celiac disease here. Just say 'Io sono celiaco' or 'senza glutine' when you sit down, and usually the waiters will be able to recommend you suitable dishes.
Rome resident Elizabeth Minchilli, a prolific food journalist, blogger (www.elizabethminchilliinrome.com) and author of Eating Rome, shares some top tips.

I always suggest going first to the markets to see what’s fresh, because so much has to do with what’s seasonal. Besides the regular city markets, there are also weekend farmers markets, including one at Circus Maximus.

You should try pizza bianca (white pizza), which is typical Roman street food. There is always a discussion about who has the best. Most people cite the Forno di Campo de’ Fiori, but I prefer Roscioli for pizza bianca. If you want pizza with red sauce, go to Antico Forno Urbani. You won’t find many foreigners there; it’s all Italians. The pizza rossa is very thin, covered with just a little bit of tomato sauce, really caramelised and fantastic.

In the last few years Rome has been having this renaissance of pizza makers. The king of pizza is Gabriele Bonci; people come from all over the world to have his pizza, so it’s well worth going to Pizzarium if you’re near the Vatican.

Another thing to try is ice cream. You’ll pass lots of places with huge fluffy mounds: ignore those and try and look for the artisanal gelato makers. Again, seasonal is always good, so you’ll get strawberry in the summer, chestnut in the winter. For example, over near Piazza Navona is Gelateria del Teatro and Fatamorgana in Monti and Trastevere. And if you want extra creamy, head to Come il Latte, near Via Flavia.

When it comes to eating out in Rome I love going old school. Sora Margherita is a hole-in-the-wall that not only does artichokes, but has ricotta-topped cacio e pepe.
NEED TO KNOW

Prices
The following price guide refers to the average cost of a meal that includes primo (first course), secondo (second course) and dolce (dessert), plus a glass of wine. Don’t be surprised to see pane e coperto (bread and cover charge; €1 to €5 per person) added to your bill.

- € less than €25
- €€ €25 to €45
- €€€ more than €45

Opening Hours
A Most restaurants open noon to 3pm and 7.30pm to 11pm, usually closing one day per week (often Sunday or Monday).
A Most eateries close for at least a week in August, but the timing varies from year to year. Some restaurants close for the whole month. It’s advisable to ring first in August to check that everyone hasn’t gone to the beach.

Etiquette
A Dress up when eating out; Italians dress relatively smartly at most meals.
A Bite through hanging spaghetti rather than slurping it up.
A Pasta is eaten with a fork (not fork and spoon).
A It’s OK to eat pizza with your hands.
A In an Italian home you may fare la scarpetta (make a little shoe) with your bread and wipe plates clean of sauces.
A If invited to someone’s home, traditional gifts are a tray of dolci (sweets) from a pasticceria (pastry shop), a bottle of wine or flowers.

Tipping
Although service is included, leave a tip: anything from 5% in a pizzeria to 10% in a more upmarket place. At least round up the bill.

Lonely Planet’s Top Choices
Metamorfosi Michelin-starred, chic yet informal.
Glass Hostaria Italian cuisine as a creative art in Trastevere.
Casa Coppelle Creative Italian and French-inspired food in romantic surroundings.
Flavio al Velavevodetto For the real cucina romana (Roman kitchen).
L’Asino d’Oro Fantastic food, stunning value and Umbrian flavours.
Fatamorgana Incredible artisanal gelato, in Tridente, Vatican, Monti and Trastevere.

Best Roman

Flavio al Velavevodetto Classic cucina romana, served in huge portions.

Da Felice In the heartland of Roman cuisine, and sticking to a traditional weekly timetable.

Armando al Pantheon Family-run trattoria offering hearty Roman cuisine in the shadow of the Pantheon.

Ristorante L'Arcangelo A creative, contemporary take on Roman dishes.

Best Creative

Metamorfosi Michelin-starred cuisine by wonder-chef Roy Carceres.

All'Oro Food as art at chef Riccardo Di Giacinto's glamorous Michelin-starred eatery.

Glass Hostaria Wonderful, innovative food in a contemporary setting in Trastevere.

Open Colonna Antonello Colonna's glass-roofed restaurant offers creative takes on Roman classics.

Aroma Beautiful setting, and chef Giuseppe Di Iorio bedazzles with forward-thinking Mediterranean cuisine.

Renato e Luisa Always-packed trattoria that takes classic Roman cooking and mixes it up.

Best Pizzerias

Pizzeria Da Remo Spartan but stunning, the frenetic Roman pizzeria experience in Testaccio.

Pizza Ostiense New on the scene, but offering classic Roman neighborhood pizza.

Panattoni Streetside tables and fabulous pizza keep hauling in the hoards to 'l'obitorio' (the morgue).

Pizzeria Ivo Always busy, fiercely traditional, loud-and-gruff Trastevere pizzeria.

Best by Budget

**€

Supplizio Gourmet fried-rice balls surfing the fast-food trend.

Alfredo e Ada Much-loved, no-frills, family-run trattoria.

Pizzarium Top-of-the-range pizza al taglio.

**€€

L’Asino d’Oro Umbrian creative cuisine at reasonable prices (especially lunch).

Casa Conti Wonderful lunchtime restaurant-museum, with traditional local dishes amid picturesque antiques.

Casa Coppelle Good-value French-Italian cuisine with lashings of romance.
Metamorfosi Roy Caceres' stupendously good Michelin-starred cooking.
All'Oro Michelin-starred cuisine combining innovation and tradition under chef Riccardo Di Giacinto.
Enoteca La Torre Michelin-starred glamour in the Fendi sisters' Villa Laetitia.
Ristorante L'Arcangelo Fabulous creative restaurant proffering Roman food with a twist.
Glass Hostaria Wonderful creative restaurant in Trastevere.

Best Regional

Enoteca Regionale Palatium Wine-bar showcasing the best of Lazio food and drink.
Colline Emiliane Fantastic roasted meats and hearty pastas from Emilia-Romagna.
Trattoria Monti Top-notch traditional cooking from the Marches, including heavenly fried things.
Terre e Domus All ingredients are sourced from the surrounding Lazio region.

Best See & Be Seen

Dal Bolognese Moneyed, moghuls and models mingle just off Piazza del Popolo.
Settembrini Beloved of media lovelies, with the RAI (national media company) headquarters nearby.
Ristorante L’Arcangelo Politicians and celebrities hobnob over creative dishes.
Il Sorpasso Vintage-cool bar-restaurant.
Temakhino Of-the-moment Brazilian-sushi hybrid in Monti, mixing up powerful caipirinhas.

Best Pastry Shops

I Dolci di Nonna Vincenza Heavenly Sicilian pastries.
Pasticceria De Bellis Work-of-art cakes, pastries and dolci at this chic pasticceria.
Andreotti Poem-worthy treats from buttery crostate (tarts) to the piles of golden sfogliatelle romane (ricotta-filled pastries).
Innocenti Classic old-school Trastevere bakery, with piled-high biscuits such as brutti ma buoni (ugly but good).

Best Pizza by the Slice

Pizzarium Pizza slices created by the master, Gabriele Bonci.
Forno Roscioli Thin and crispy, this is some of the best pizza rossa in Rome, if not the world.
Forno di Campo de' Fiori Food-of-the-gods pizza rossa (with tomato and oregano) and bianca (with olive oil and rosemary).
Antico Forno Urbani A kosher bakery in the Ghetto with incredible pizza bianca.
Best Settings

Aroma The Michelin-starred rooftop restaurant of the Palazzo Manfredi hotel has 'marry-me' views over the Colosseum.

La Veranda A location in Paolo Sorrentino's the Great Beauty; dine beneath 15th-century Pinturicchio frescoes.

Open Colonna Restaurant on a mezzanine under a soaring glass ceiling in the Palazzo degli Esposizioni.

Casa Bleve Gracious colonnaded wine bar with a stained-glass ceiling.

Il Palazzetto A sunny terrace that overlooks the Spanish Steps.

Ristorante Roof Garden Circus Rooftop of the Forty Seven hotel with glorious views matched by the food.

Best Places to Eat With Locals

Pizzeria Da Remo The full neighbourhood Roman pizza experience, with lightning-fast waiters serving paper-thin pizzas.

Da Felice Traditional local cooking in Testaccio, the heartland of Roman cuisine.

Antico Forno Urbani Queue up with the locals for pizza al taglio in the Ghetto.

Pizza Ostiense Fabulous thin-crust pizza in Rome's ex-industrial, hip neighbourhood of Ostiense.

Best Gelatarie

Fatamorgana Rome's finest artisanal flavours, now in multiple central locations.

Gelateria del Teatro Around 40 choices of delicious ice cream, all made on site.

Il Caruso A small but perfect selection of creamy flavours.

Gelarmony A Sicilian gelataria with many great tastes, including typically Sicilian pistachio or cassata.

Dei Gracchi A taste of heaven in several locations across Rome.

Fior di Luna Great artisanal ice cream in Trastevere.

Best Fast Food

Trapizzino Home of the trapizzino, a cone of doughy bread with fillers like polpette al sugo (meatballs in tomato sauce).

Supplizio Gourmet versions of Rome's favourite fried risotto ball snacks, supplì.

Ciuri Ciuri Sicilian pastry and top savoury snack stop with delicious arancini (the Sicilian version of supplì).

Dall'Antò Antonio cooks up intensely good pancakes from ingredients such as chestnut flour, using ancient regional recipes.
Pianostrada Laboratorio di Cucina  All-female-run bakery and casual cafe using superlative ingredients for gourmet sandwiches and snacks.

Panella l'Arte del Pane  A sumptuous wunder-bakery that also sells risotto balls, pizza slices, focaccia and more.

Best Food Shops

Eataly  Mall-sized, state-of-the-art food emporium, with produce from all over Italy, and multiple restaurants.

Salumeria Roscioli  The rich scents of fine Italian produce, cured meats and cheeses intermingle in this superlative deli.

Volpetti  This superstocked deli is a treasure trove of gourmet delicacies and helpful staff.

Castroni  An Aladdin's cave of gourmet delicacies.
Drinking & Nightlife

Often the best way to enjoy nightlife in Rome is to wander from restaurant to bar, getting happily lost down picturesque cobbled streets. There’s simply no city with better backdrops for a drink: you can savour a Campari overlooking the Roman Forum or sample some artisanal beer while watching the light bounce off baroque fountains.

Rome After Dark

Night-owl Romans tend to eat late, then drink at bars before heading off to a club at around 1am. Like most cities, Rome is a collection of districts, each with its own character, which is often completely different after dark. The centro storico and Trastevere pull in a mix of locals and tourists as night falls. Ostiense and Testaccio are the grittier clubbing districts, with clusters of clubs in a couple of locations – Testaccio has a parade of crowd-pleasing clubs running over the hill of Monte Testaccio. There are also subtle political divisions. San Lorenzo and Pigneto, to the south of Rome, are popular with a left-leaning, alternative crowd, while areas to the north (such as Ponte Milvio and Parioli) attract a more right-wing, bourgeois milieu.

The bella figura (loosely translated as ‘looking good’) is important. The majority of locals spend evenings checking each other out, partaking in gelato, and not drinking too much. However, this is changing and certain areas – those popular with a younger crowd – can get rowdy with drunk teens and tourists (for example, Campo de’ Fiori and parts of Trastevere).

Enoteche (Wine Bars)
The enoteca was where the old boys from the neighbourhood used to drink rough local wine poured straight from the barrel. Times have changed: nowadays they tend to be sophisticated but still atmospheric places, offering Italian and international vintages, delicious cheeses and cold cuts.

Bars & Pubs

Bars range from regular Italian cafe-bars that have seemingly remained the same for centuries, to chic, carefully styled places made for esoteric cocktails – such as Co.So and Salotto 42 – and laid-back, perennially popular haunts – such as Freni e Frizioni – that have a longevity rarely seen in other cities. Pubs are also popular, with several long-running Irish-style pubs such as Finnegans and Druid's Den filled with chattering Romans, and more pub-like bars opening on the back of the artisanal beer trend.

Nightclubs

Rome has a range of nightclubs, mostly in Ostiense and Testaccio, with music policies ranging from lounge and jazz to dancehall and hip-hop. Clubs tend to get busy after midnight, or even after 2am. Often admission is free, but drinks are expensive. Cocktails can cost from €10 to €20, but you can drink much more cheaply in the studenty clubs of San Lorenzo, Pigneto and the centri sociali (social centres).

Centri Sociali

Rome’s flip side is a surprising alternative underbelly, centred on left-wing centri sociali: grungy, squatter arts centres that host live music and contemporary arts events. They offer Rome’s most unusual, cheap and alternative nightlife options. These include Brancaleone and Esc Atelier.

Rome in Summer (& Winter)

From around mid-June to mid-September, many nightclubs and live-music venues close, some moving to EUR or the beaches at Fregene or Ostia. The area around the Isola Tiberina throngs with life nightly during the Lungo er Tevere…Roma, a summer festival along the riverbank that sprouts bars, stalls and an open-air cinema.

Be aware that in winter, bars often close earlier in the evening, particularly in areas where the norm is to drink outside.

Gay & Lesbian Rome

There is only a smattering of dedicated gay and lesbian clubs and bars in Rome, though many nightclubs host regular gay and lesbian nights. For local information, pick up a copy of the monthly magazine AUT, published by Circolo Mario Mieli (www.mariomieli.org). There's also info at AZ Gay (www.azgay.it). Lesbians can find out more about the local scene at Coordinamento Lesbiche Italiano (www.clrbp.it).

Most gay venues (bars, clubs and saunas) require you to have an Arcigay membership card. These cost €15/8 per year/three months and are available from any venue that requires one.
Lazio Wines
Lazio wines may not be household names yet, but it’s well worth trying some local wines while you’re here. Although whites dominate Lazio’s production – 95% of the region’s Denominazione di Origine Controllata (DOC; the second of Italy’s four quality classifications) wines are white – there are a few notable reds as well. Palatium and Terre e Domus are the best places for sampling Lazio wines.

WHITES
Most of the house white in Rome will be from the Castelli Romani area to the southeast of Rome, centred on Frascati and Marino. New production techniques have led to a lighter, drier wine that is beginning to be taken seriously. Frascati Superiore is now an excellent tipple, Castel de Paolis’ Vigna Adriana wins plaudits, while the emphatically named Est! Est!! Est!!!, produced by the renowned wine house Falesco, based in Montefiascone on the volcanic banks of Lago Bolsena, is increasingly drinkable.

REDS
Falesco also produces the excellent Montiano, blended from Merlot grapes. Colacicchi’s Torre Ercolana from Anagni is another opulent red, that blends local Cesanese di Affile with cabernet sauvignon and merlot. Velvety, complex and fruity, this is a world-class wine.

Craft Beer
In recent years beer drinking has really taken off in Italy, and especially in Rome, with specialised bars and restaurants offering microbrewed beers. Local favourites include Birradamare in Fiumicino, Porto Fluviale in Ostiense, and Birra Del Borgo in Rieti (on the border between Lazio and Abruzzo), which opened local beer haunts Bir & Fud and Open Baladin. Local beers reflect the seasonality that’s so important in Rome – for example, look for winter beers made from chestnuts.

Other important addresses on the artisanal beer trail include Porto Fluviale, Ma Che Siete Venuti a Fà and Birra Piu.

Cocktails & Digestives
Cocktail bars are the current buzz in Rome, some featuring special local creations such as the Carbonara sour at Co.So, featuring vodka infused with pork fat in a homage to the classic Roman pasta sauce. Popular aperitifs are based on bitter alcoholic liqueurs, such Campari Soda or Aperol spritz, which mixes Aperol with prosecco. Cordino is a herbal, medicinal-tasting non-alcoholic aperitif. Italians love to finish off a meal with a digestif. The best of these aren't shop bought, so if it's 'fatta in casa' (made at home), give it a try.
Coffee
For an espresso (a shot of strong black coffee), ask for un caffè; if you want it with a drop of hot/cold milk, order un caffè macchiato (‘stained’ coffee) caldo/freddo. Long black coffee (as in a watered-down version) is known as caffè lungo (an espresso with more water) or caffè all’american (a filter coffee). If you fancy a coffee but one more shot will catapult you through the ceiling, you can drink orzo, made from roasted barley but served like coffee.

Then, of course, there’s the cappuccino (coffee with frothy milk, served warm rather than hot). If you want it without froth, ask for a cappuccino senza schiuma; if you want it hot, ask for it ben caldo. Italians drink cappuccino only during the morning and never after meals.

In summer, cappuccino freddo (iced coffee with milk, usually already sugared), caffè freddo (iced espresso) and granita di caffè (frozen coffee, usually with cream) top the charts.

A caffè latte is a milkier version of the cappuccino with less froth; a latte macchiato is even milkier (warmed milk ‘stained’ with a spot of coffee). A caffè corretto is an espresso ‘corrected’ with a dash of grappa or something similar.

There are two ways to drink coffee in a Roman bar-cafe: either standing at the bar, in which case you pay first at the till and then, with your receipt, order at the counter; or you can sit down at a table and enjoy waiter service. In the latter case you’ll pay up to double what you’d pay at the bar.

Drinking & Nightlife by Neighbourhood

- Centro Storico Bars and a few clubs, a mix of touristy and sophisticated.
- Trastevere Everyone’s favourite place for a passeggiata (evening stroll), with plenty of bars and cafes.
- Testaccio With a cluster of mainstream clubs, this nightlife strip offers poptastic choice.
- Ostiense Home to Rome’s cooler nightclubs, housed in ex-industrial venues.
- San Lorenzo Favoured by students, with a concentration of bars and alternative clubs.
- Pigneto Bohemian ex-working-class district lined with bars and restaurants.
NEED TO KNOW

Opening Hours

- Most cafes: 7.30am to 8pm
- Traditional bars: 7.30am to 1am or 2am.
- Most bars, pubs and enoteche (wine bars): lunchtime or 6pm to 2am.
- Nightclubs: 10pm to 4am.

Dress Codes

Romans tend to dress up to go out, and most people will be looking pretty sharp in the smarter clubs and bars in the Centro Storico and Testaccio. However, over in Pigneto and San Lorenzo or at the centri sociali (social centres), the style is much more alternative.

Online Resources

- Roma 2 Night (http://2night.it)
- Zero (http://roma.zero.eu)

Lonely Planet’s Top Choices

Ai Tre Scalini Buzzing enoteca that feels as convivial as a pub.

Ma Che Siete Venuti a Fà Tiny pub that’s the heart of Rome’s artisanal beer explosion.

Co.So A real buzz in this Pigneto hotspot, serving up out-there cocktails on bubble-wrap coasters.

Sciascia Caffè Classy joint serving the unparalleled caffè eccellente, a velvety smooth espresso in a chocolate-lined cup.

Barnum Cafe Cool vintage armchairs to sink into by day and dressed-up cocktails by night.

Best Cafes

La Casa del Caffè Tazza d’Oro With lovely burnished 1940s fittings, great coffee and, in summer, granita.

Chiostro del Bramante Caffè It's hard to beat a Bramante-designed cloister as a setting.

Sciascia Caffè Delicious coffee in an elegant interior.

Barnum Cafe Laid-back coffee drinking in comfortable armchairs.

Best for a Lazy Drink

Ombre Rosse Lovely, relaxed Trastevere bar, with outside seating.
Stravinskij Bar Hotel de Russie's elegant bar, with its courtyard garden backed by Borghese gardens.
Fandango Incontro Arty bar owned by cinema company housed in an 18th-century palazzo.
Yeah! Pigneto Boho bar with plenty of places to sit and chat, to a backdrop of DJs and regular live gigs.

Best Enoteca

Il Tiaso With a hip, living-room vibe, plentiful wines, and live music.
Fafuché A charming warm-orange space with wine and artisanal beers.
La Barrique Inviting Monti address, with great wines and accompanying meals.
Il Goccetto An old-school vino e olio (wine and oil) shop makes for a great neighbourhood wine bar.

Best Aperitivo

La Meschita Delicious nibbles in this tiny enoteca adjoining La Ferrara restaurant.
Doppiozeroo Popular Ostiense address with impressive buffet choice.
Momart Students and local professionals love its expansive array of pizza and other snacks.
Freni e Frizioni Perenially cool bar with lavish nightly buffet of snacks.

Best for Beer

Ma Che Siete Venuti a Fà’ Pint-sized bar crammed with real-ale choices.
Open Baladin More than 40 beers on tap and up to 100 bottled brews.
No.Au 'Know how' offers an impressive list of artisanal craft brews.
Birra Piu Pigneto hub, with a great range of craft beers on tap.

Best See & Be Seen

Etablì Chic bar near Campo de'Fiori, filled with vintage French furniture and laid-back cool.
Salotto 42 A sitting-room-style bar, offering cocktails facing the ancient Roman Stock Exchange.
Co.So Opened by the Hotel de Russie's former mixologist, this is Pigneto's hippest haunt.
Rec 23 With NY style and locally inspired cocktails, this is the place to be seen in Testaccio.

Best Alternative

Lanificio 159 Cool underground venue hosts live gigs and club nights.
Big Bang Reggae, dancehall, dub and techno in a graffitti-sprayed former slaughterhouse.
Big Star Backstreet Trastevere bar, with regular DJs and a laid-back crowd.
Yeah! Pigneto Cool bar hosting live gigs and DJs in Rome's most boho district.
Best Gay

Coming Out A friendly, gay bar near the Colosseum, open all day, with gigs, drag shows and karaoke later on.

L’Alibi Kitsch shows and house, techno and dance pumping up a mixed gay and straight crowd.

My Bar A mixed crowd by day, and gayer by night, in the shadow of the Colosseum.
Entertainment

Watching the world go by in Rome is often entertainment enough, but don't overlook the local arts and sports scene. As well as gigs and concerts in every genre, there are fantastic arts festivals, especially in summer, performances with Roman ruins as a backdrop, and football games that split the city asunder.

![Rome's opera house, the Teatro dell'Opera di Roma](AFP / Stringer / GETTY IMAGES ©)

Music

Rome's abundance of beautiful settings makes it a superb place to catch a concert. Many international stars play at the Auditorium Parco della Musica, a state-of-the-art, Renzo Piano–designed complex that combines architectural innovation with perfect acoustics. However, there are often creative uses of other spaces. In recent years there have been major gigs on the ancient racetrack Circo Massimo, and Coldplay have even played on the Imperial Rome set in Cinecittà studios.

CLASSICAL

Music in Rome is not just about the Auditorium. There are concerts by the Accademia Filarmonica Romana at Teatro Olimpico; the Auditorium Conciliazione, Rome’s premier classical music venue before the newer Auditorium was opened, is still a force to be reckoned with; and the Istituzione Universitaria dei Concerti, holds concerts in the Aula Magna of La Sapienza University.

Free classical concerts are often held in many of Rome’s churches, especially at Easter and around Christmas and New Year; look out for information at Rome’s tourist kiosks. The Basilica di San Paolo Fuori le Mura hosts an important choral mass on 25 January and the hymn ‘Te Deum’ is sung at the Chiesa del Gesù on 31 December.
OUTDOOR CINEMA

OPERA & DANCE

Rome’s opera house, the Teatro dell’Opera di Roma, is a magnificent, grandiose venue, lined in gilt and red, but productions can be a bit hit and miss. It's also home to Rome’s official Corps de Ballet and has a ballet season running in tandem with its opera performances. Both ballet and opera move outdoors for the summer season at the ancient Roman Terme di Caracalla, which is an even more spectacular setting.

You can also see opera in various other outdoor locations; check listings or at the tourist information kiosks for details.

Rome's Auditorium hosts classical and contemporary dance performances, as well as the Equilibrio Festival della Nuova Danza in February. The Auditorium Conciliazione is another good place to catch contemporary dance companies. Invito alla Danza is a contemporary dance festival in July that encompasses tango, jazz dance, contemporary and more.

JAZZ, ROCK & POP

Besides the Auditorium Parco della Musica, large concerts also take place at Rome’s sports stadiums, including Stadio Olimpico and the racetrack on the Appia Nuova, the Ippodromo La Capannelle.

The centri sociali, alternative arts centres set up in venues around Rome, are also good places to catch a gig, especially Brancaleone in northern Rome, with music policies encompassing hip-hop, electro, dubstep, reggae and dancehall.

Cinema Under the Stars

There are various atmospheric outdoor summer film festivals; check current listings. The following take place annually.

Isola del Cinema

( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; www.isoladelcinema.com)
Independent films in the romantic setting of the Isola Tiberina in July and August. This runs in conjunction with the riverside Lungo il Tevere festival.

Notti di Cinema a Piazza Vittorio

(www.agisanec.lazio.it; tickets €7)
Italian and international releases at two open-air screens in Piazza Vittorio Emanuele II from June to September.

Theatre

Rome has a thriving local theatre scene, with both traditional theatres and smaller experimental venues. Performances are usually in Italian.

Particularly wonderful are the summer festivals that make use of Rome’s archaeological scenery. Performances take place in settings such as Villa Adriana in Tivoli, Ostia Antica’s Roman theatre and the Teatro di Marcello. In summer the Miracle Players (%6 7039 3427; www.miracleplayers.org) perform classic English drama or historical comedy in English next to the Roman Forum and other open-air locations. Performances are usually free.

Spectator Sports

FOOTBALL
In Rome you’re either for AS Roma (giallorossi – yellow and reds) or Lazio (biancazzuri – white and blues), with both teams playing in Serie A (Italy’s premier league). A new Roma stadium is currently being built at Tor di Valle, due to be completed in time for the 2017–18 season. Unfortunately, both sets of supporters have a controversial minority who have been known to cause trouble at matches.

From September to May there’s a game at home for Roma or Lazio almost every weekend and a trip to Rome’s football stadium, the Stadio Olimpico, is an unforgettable experience. Note that ticket purchase regulations are far stricter than they used to be. Tickets have to bear the holder’s name and passport or ID number, and you must present a photo ID at the turnstiles when entering the stadium. Two tickets are permitted per purchase for Serie A, Coppa Italia and UEFA Champions League games. Tickets cost from around €16 to €250. You can buy them from www.ticketone.it, www.listicket.it, from ticket agencies or at one of the AS Roma or Lazio stores around the city. To get to the stadium, take metro line A to Ottaviano–San Pietro and then bus 32.

A S ROMA VS LAZIO

The Rome derby is one of the football season’s highest-profile games. The rivalry between Roma and Lazio is fierce and little love is lost between the fans. If you go to the Stadio Olimpico, make sure you get it right – Roma fans (in deep red with a natty orange trim) flock to the Curva Sud (southern stand), while Lazio supporters (in light blue) stand in the Curva Nord (northern stand). If you want to sit on the fence, head to the Tribuna Tevere or Tribuna Monte Mario.

For more details on the clubs, check out www.asroma.it and www.sslazio.it (both in Italian).

BASKETBALL
Basketball is a popular spectator sport in Rome, though it inspires nothing like the fervour of football. Rome’s team, Virtus Roma (www.virtusroma.it), plays throughout the winter months at the Palalottomatica (%06 540901; www.palalottomatica.it/en; Viale dell’ Umanesimo; mEUR Palasport) in EUR.

RUGBY UNION
Italy’s rugby team, the Azzurri (Blues), entered the Six Nations tournament in 2000, and has been the competition underdog ever since. However, it has scored some big wins in recent years, with shock wins over France in 2011 and 2013; in 2015 it beat Scotland (but lost all other games).

The team usually plays home international games at Rome’s Stadio Flaminio (%06 3685 7309; www.federugby.it; Viale Maresciallo Pilsudski), but as works continue on the stadium, games are being staged at the Stadio Olimpico.
TENNIS
Italy’s premier tennis tournament, the Italian International Tennis Championships, is one of the most important events on the European tennis circuit. Every May the world’s top players meet on the clay courts at the monumental, Fascist-era Foro Italico (MAP GOOGLE MAP; 800 622662; www.foroitalicoticketing.it; Viale del Foro Italico). Tickets can usually be bought at the Foro Italico each day of the tournament, except for the final days, which are sold out weeks in advance.

EQUESTRIAN EVENTS
Rome’s top equestrian event is the Piazza di Siena showjumping competition (www.piazzadisiena.org), an international annual event held in May, gorgeously set in Villa Borghese.

NEED TO KNOW

Internet Resources
- Comune di Roma (www.060608.it)
- In Rome Now (www.inromenow.com)
- Roma Musica (www.romamusica.it)
- Tutto Teatro (www.tuttoteatro.com)

Tickets
Tickets for concerts, live music and theatrical performances are widely available across the city. Prices range enormously depending on the venue and artist. Hotels can often reserve tickets for guests, or you can contact the venue or organisation directly – check listings publications for booking details. Otherwise you can try the following:
- Hellò Ticket (892 234; www.helloticket.it)
- Orbis (MAP GOOGLE MAP; 6 4827915; Piazza dell’Esquilino 37)

Entertainment by Neighbourhood
- Centro Storico Great for concerts in churches or theatre (usually in Italian).
- Trastevere & Gianicolo A few blues and jazz live-music venues.
- Monti, Esquilino & San Lorenzo Several intimate live-music venues.
- Villa Borghese & Northern Rome Home to the great Auditorium Parco della Musica, as well as Rome's major sporting venues.
- San Giovanni & Testaccio Regular live gigs in the district's clubs.
Lonely Planet’s Top Choices

Auditorium Parco della Musica An incredible venue hosting an eclectic, must-see program of music, art and more.

Opera di Roma at Terme di Caracalla Opera and ballet performed with the amazing backdrop of the ruined Roman Baths of Caracalla.

Roma Incontra il Mondo Cool World music festival in the parklands of Villa Ada.

Blackmarket Intimate Monti bar with a regular calendar of live acoustic acts.

Best Classical Venues

Auditorium Parco della Musica Great acoustics, top international classical musicians and multiple concert halls.

Teatro dell’Opera di Roma Great, red-velvet and gilt interior for Rome's opera and dance companies.

Terme di Caracalla ( MAP ) Wonderful outdoor setting for Rome's opera and ballet companies.

Auditorium Conciliazione Classical and contemporary concerts, cabarets, dance spectacles, theatre productions, film screenings and exhibitions in a large venue.

Teatro Olimpico Home to the Accademia Filarmonica Romana.

Best for Live Gigs

Blackmarket Bar filled with vintage sofas and armchairs, great for eclectic, mainly acoustic live music.

Big Bang The former slaughterhouse hosts Bababoomtime, Rome's Friday night reggae party.

Locanda Atlantide Studenty dive in an ex-warehouse basement, with a broad music policy from punk to folk-prog.

Lanificio 159 Ex-wool factory hosting underground live gigs alongside club nights.

Best for Jazz

Alexanderplatz Rome's foremost jazz club, with a mix of international and local musicians.

Charity Café Spindly tables and chairs, in an intimate space, hosting regular live gigs.

Big Mama An atmospheric Trastevere venue for jazz, blues, funk, soul and R&B.

Gregory’s Popular with local musicians, a smooth venue close to the Spanish Steps.

Fonclea Pub venue regularly hosting live jazz, moving riverside in the summer.

Best Theatres

Ostia Antica Wonderful summer theatre in the ancient amphitheatre built by Agrippa.
Teatro Argentina  The main home of the Teatro di Roma, with a wide-ranging program.
Silvano Toti Globe Theatre  Open-air Elizabethan theatre, like London's Globe, but with better weather (plays in Italian).
Teatro India  The alternative home of the Teatro di Roma.

Best Festivals

Roma Incontra il Mondo  Glorious World music acts play close to the lake in Villa Ada.
Lungo il Tevere (www.lungoiltevereroma.it)  Open-air cinema and stalls line the Tiver riverbank and Tiberina island.
Romaeuropa (http://romaeuropa.net)  Autumn celebration of theatre, opera and dance.
Festa di Noantri  Trastevere's raucous street party in July.
Carnevale Romano  Processions, costumes, parties and confetti – a blow-out before Lent celebrating the end of winter.

Best Sporting Venues

Foro Italico  Magnificent Fascist-era sports complex.
Stadio Olimpico  Rome’s 70,000-seat football stadium, part of the fascist-era Foro Italico.
Piazza di Siena  Lovely racecourse in the heart of the Villa Borghese park.
Palalottomatica  Circular stadium near to EUR in Southern Rome.
Rome’s shops, studios and boutiques make retail therapy diverting enough to distract you from the cityscape. Wander the backstreets and you’ll find yourself glancing into dusty workshops of framers, basketweavers and furniture restorers. Narrow lanes are dotted with jewel-like boutiques, and department stores have an old-school glamour. It’s not that there are no chain stores in Rome, but the city is still dominated by individual shops.

High Fashion
Big-name designer boutiques gleam in the grid of streets between Piazza di Spagna and Via del Corso. The great Italian and international names are represented here, as well as many lesser-known designers, selling clothes, shoes, accessories and dreams. The immaculately clad high-fashion spine is Via dei Condotti, but there’s also lots of high fashion in Via Borgognona, Via Frattina, Via della Vite and Via del Babuino.

Downsizing a euro or two, Via Nazionale, Via del Corso, Via dei Giubbonari and Via Cola di Rienzo are good for midrange clothing stores, with some enticing small boutiques set amid the chains.

ONE-OFF BOUTIQUES & VINTAGE
Best for cutting-edge designer boutiques and vintage clothes is bohemian Via del Governo Vecchio, running from a small square just off Piazza Navona towards the river. Other places for one-off boutiques are Via del Pellegrino and around Campo de’ Fiori. Via del Boschetto, Via Urbana and Via dei Serpenti in the Monti area feature unique clothing boutiques, including a couple where you can get your clothes adjusted to fit, as well as jewellery makers. Monti’s also a centre for vintage clothes shops, as well as a weekend vintage market, Mercato Monti Urban Market.

Antiques
For antiques, Via dei Coronari, Via Margutta, Via Giulia and Via dei Banchi Vecchi are the best places to look – quality is high, as are the prices.

Artisans
Rome’s shopping scene has a surprising number of artists and artisans who create their goods on the spot in hidden workshops. There are several places in Tridente where you can get a bag, wallet or belt made to your specifications; in other shops you can commission lamps or embroidery.

Foodstuffs
Rome is deli heaven, of course. Also well worth a visit are Rome’s many wonderful food markets – there's usually one in every district – where you can buy cheese, salami and other delicious stuff; note there are now various farmers' markets as well, including at Circo Massimo at weekends.

Shopping by Neighbourhood
Centro Storico  Boutiques, one-off designers, antiques, vintage and jewellery, as well as some swoon-worthy delicatessens.

Tridente, Trevi & the Quirinale  From high-fashion designer stores around Via Condotti to affordable chains on busy Via del Corso.

Monti, Esquilino & San Lorenzo  Centre for independent fashion, homewares and vintage boutiques.

Trastevere & Gianicolo  Gifts and one-off shops in one of Rome's prettiest neighbourhoods.

San Giovanni & Testaccio  Browse a colourful food market and glorious delis.

Southern Rome  Home of mall-like food emporium Eataly.

NEED TO KNOW

Opening Hours
- Most city-centre shops: 9am to 7.30pm (or 10am to 8pm) Monday to Saturday; some close Monday morning.
- Smaller shops: 9am to 1pm and 3.30pm to 7.30pm (or 4pm to 8pm) Monday to Saturday.

Sales
Winter sales run from early January to mid-February, and summer sales from July to early September.

Taxes & Refunds
Non-EU residents who spend over €175 at shops with a 'Tax Free for Tourists' sticker (www.taxrefund.it) are entitled to a tax refund. Complete a form and get it stamped by customs as you leave Italy.

Lonely Planet’s Top Choices

Confetteria Moriondo & Gariglio  A magical-seeming chocolate shop.
Vertecchi Art  Art emporium with beautiful paper and notebooks.
Bottega di Marmoraro  Have the motto of your choice carved into a marble slab at this delightful shop.
Pelletteria Nives  Leather artisans make bags, wallets and more to your specifications.

Foodstuffs

Volpetti  Bulging with delicious delicacies, and notably helpful staff.
Eataly  Mall-scale food shop, filled with products from all over Italy, as well as books, cooking utensils and more.
Salumeria Roscioli  The name is a byword for foodie excellence, with mouth-watering Italian and foreign delicacies.
Pio La Torre Unpretentious, and every cent you spend helps in the fight against the mafia.

Bookshops

Feltrinelli International An excellent range of the latest releases in English, Spanish, French, German and Portuguese.
Almost Corner Bookshop A crammed haven full of rip-roaring reads.
Open Door Bookshop Many happy moments browsing secondhand books in English, Italian, French and Spanish.
Libreria l'Argonauta Travel bookshop great for sparking dreams of your next trip.

Artisanal

Bottega di Marmoraro Commission a marble inscription to remind you of Rome.
Le Artigiane Maintaining Italy's artisanal traditions with a collection of handmade clothes, costume jewellery, ceramics, design objects and lamps.
Officina della Carta Beautiful hand-decorated notebooks, paper and cards.
Pelletteria Nives Have a bespoke leather bag made to your own specifications.
Ibiz – Artigianato in Cuoio Father and daughter workshop, producing wallets, bags and sandals in a kaleidoscope of soft leathers.

Clothing

Luna & L’Altra Fashion-heaven, with clothes by Comme des Garçons, Issey Miyake, and Yohji Yamamoto.
Tina Sondergaard Have a retro-inspired dress adjusted to fit perfectly at this Monti boutique.
daDADA 52 Cocktail dresses and summer frocks to make you stand out from the crowd (in a good way).
101 Subtle, gorgeous women's clothes and accessories.

Homewares

Spot A careful selection of beautiful mid-century furnishings.
Mercato Monti Urban Market Vintage homeware finds cram this weekend market.
C.U.C.I.N.A. Gastronomic gadgets to enhance your culinary life.

Gifts

Vertecchi Art Classy stationers, selling different hues of paper, notebooks and gifts appropriate to the season.
Arion Esposizioni
Art, architecture and children's books, plus design-conscious presents.

Fabriano
Leather-bound diaries, funky notebooks and products embossed with street maps of Rome, plus beautifully made key rings and more.

AS Roma Store
Trastevere treasure trove perfume store, with hundreds of choices from niche labels.

Ai Monasteri
Exquisite herbal unguents made by monks, as well as wines, liqueurs and biscuits.

Shoes

Borini  An unfussy shop filled to the brim with the latest women's footwear fashions.

Danielle  A fast-changing collection of whatever is in for female feet right now, in a rainbow palette of colours, at affordable prices.

Barrilà Boutique  Hundreds of different women's styles, so a good chance of finding the perfect shoe.

Giacomo Santini  Pick up an exquisite, Fausto-designed bargain at this outlet shop, with end-of-season shoes and bags.
1 Ancient Rome
In a city of extraordinary beauty, Rome’s ancient heart stands out. It’s here that you’ll find the great icons of Rome’s past: the Colosseum, the Palatino, the forums, and Campidoglio (Capitoline Hill). Busy with tourists by day, it’s quiet at night with few after-hours attractions.
2 Centro Storico
Ideal for unhurried exploration, the historic centre is the Rome many come to find – a tangled chaos of medieval lanes, animated piazzas, Renaissance palazzi, cafes, restaurants and stylish bars. The Pantheon and Piazza Navona are the star turns, but you’ll also find a host of monuments, museums and art-laden churches.

3 Tridente, Trevi & the Quirinale
Counting the Trevi Fountain and Spanish Steps among its headline sights, this part of Rome is glamorous, debonair and touristy. The streets around Piazza di Spagna ooze money with their designer boutiques, fashionable bars and swish hotels, while the Trevi Fountain area swarms with overpriced eateries and tacky shops. Lording over it all, the presidential Palazzo del Quirinale exudes sober authority.

4 Vatican City, Borgo & Prati
Over the river from the historic centre, the Vatican is home to two of Rome’s top attractions – St Peter’s Basilica and the Vatican Museums (where you’ll find the Sistine Chapel) – as well as batteries of overpriced restaurants and souvenir shops. Nearby, the upscale Prati district offers excellent accommodation, eating and shopping.

5 Monti, Esquilino & San Lorenzo
Centred on transport hub Stazione Termini, this is a large and cosmopolitan area. Hidden behind its busy roads you’ll find some amazing churches, one of Rome’s best museums (Palazzo Massimo alle Terme), and any number of cool bars and restaurants, mostly in the the Monti, San Lorenzo and Pigneto districts.

6 Trastevere & Gianicolo
With its picture-perfect lanes, colourful palazzi and boho vibe, ever-trendy Trastevere is one of Rome’s most vibrant neighbourhoods. Attractive by day, it heaves after dark as crowds swarm to its many restaurants, cafes, bars and pizzerias. Rising behind it, the Gianicolo Hill offers a breath of fresh air and superb views.
7 San Giovanni & Testaccio
This sweeping, multifaceted area has something for everyone: medieval churches and monumental basilicas (Basilica di San Giovanni in Laterano above all), towering ruins (Terme di Caracalla), and tranquil parkland (Villa Celimontana). By the river, Testaccio is an earthy, workaday district known for its nose-to-tail Roman cuisine, traditional trattorias and thumping nightlife.

8 Villa Borghese & Northern Rome
This moneyed area encompasses Rome’s most famous park (Villa Borghese) and its most expensive residential district (Parioli). Concert-goers head to the Auditorium Parco della Musica, while art-lovers can choose between contemporary installations at MAXXI or baroque treasures at the Museo e Galleria Borghese.

9 Southern Rome
Boasting a wealth of diversions, from ancient roads to futuristic ministries and cutting-edge clubs, this huge area extends to Rome’s southern limits. Interest centres on Via Appia Antica, home of the catacombs; post-industrial Ostiense, full of street art, clubs and popular eateries; and EUR, a modernistic suburb in the extreme south of the city.
Ancient Rome

Sights
Eating
Drinking & Nightlife
Shopping
Ancient Rome

Neighbourhood Top Five

1. Getting your first glimpse of the Colosseum, Rome’s iconic amphitheatre is both an architectural masterpiece and a stark, spine-tingling reminder of the brutality of ancient times.

2. Exploring the haunting ruins of the Palatino, ancient Rome's birthplace and most exclusive neighbourhood.

3. Coming face to face with centuries of awe-inspiring art at the historic Capitoline Museums.

4. Exploring the basilicas, temples and triumphal arches of the Roman Forum.

5. Surveying the city spread out beneath you from atop Il Vittoriano.

Explore: Ancient Rome

Located to the south of the city centre, this area contains the great ruins of the ancient city, all within walking distance of each other. They start to get crowded mid-morning and throng with tourists until mid- to late afternoon, although in peak season they can be busy all day. Apart from the big sights, which you can comfortably cover in a couple of days, there’s little in the way of nightlife or after-hours action.

The area has two focal points: the Colosseum to the southeast, and the Campidoglio (Capitoline Hill) to the northwest. In between lie the forums: the Roman Forum to the left of Via dei Fori Imperiali as you walk up from the Colosseum, the Imperial Forums to the right. Rising above the Roman Forum is the Palatino, and behind that the grassy expanse of the Circo Massimo. To the northwest of the Circo, you'll find the Bocca della Verità and a couple of early Roman temples in an area that used to be ancient Rome’s cattle market (Forum Boarium).

To explore Ancient Rome, the obvious starting point is the Colosseum, which is easily accessible by metro. From there you could go directly up to the Roman Forum, but if you go first to the Palatino (your Colosseum ticket covers the Palatino and Roman Forum), you’ll get some wonderful views over the forums. From the Palatino enter the Forum and work your way up to Piazza del Campidoglio and the Capitoline Museums. Nearby, the mammoth white Vittoriano is hard to miss.

Local Life

Exhibitions While tourists climb all over Il Vittoriano, locals head inside to catch an exhibition at the Complesso del Vittoriano.

Celebrations Join Romans to celebrate the city’s birthday, the Natale di Roma, on 21 April. Events and historical re-enactments are held in and around Rome’s ancient sights.

Via Crucis Crowds gather at the Colosseum every Good Friday to witness the pope lead the traditional Via Crucis procession.

Jogging Don your trainers and run with the Romans on the Circo Massimo, a popular jogging venue.

Getting There & Away

Bus Many buses stop in or near Piazza Venezia, including numbers 40, 64, 87, 170, 492, 916 and H.

Metro Metro line B has stops at the Colosseum (Colosseo) and Circo Massimo. At Termini follow signs for Line B direzione Laurentina.
Lonely Planet’s Top Tip

The big sights in this part of Rome are among the city’s most visited. To avoid the worst of the crowds try to visit early morning or in the late afternoon, when it’s cooler and the light is much better for taking photos.

Bring bottled water and snacks with you as the bars and snack trucks around the main monuments are a real rip-off.

Best Places to Eat

- Terre e Domus
- San Teo
- Ristorante Roof Garden Circus

Best Places to Drink

- 0.75
- Caffè Capitolino
- Cavour 313

Best Lookouts

- Il Vittoriano
- Orti Farnesiani, Palatino
- Tabularium, Capitoline Museums
- Mercati di Traiano Museo dei Fori Imperiali
A monument to raw, merciless power, the Colosseum is the most thrilling of Rome’s ancient sights. It was here that gladiators met in mortal combat and condemned prisoners fought off wild beasts in front of baying, bloodthirsty crowds. Two thousand years on and it's Italy's top tourist attraction, drawing more than five million visitors a year.

Built by Vespasian (r AD 69–79) in the grounds of Nero’s vast Domus Aurea complex, it was inaugurated in AD 80, eight years after it had been commissioned. To mark the occasion, Vespasian’s son and successor Titus (r AD 79–81) staged games that lasted 100 days and nights, during which 5000 animals were slaughtered. Trajan (r AD 98–117) later topped this, holding a marathon 117-day killing spree involving 9000 gladiators and 10,000 animals.

The 50,000-seat arena was originally known as the Flavian Amphitheatre, and although it was Rome’s most fearsome arena it wasn't the biggest – the Circo Massimo could hold up to 250,000 people. The name Colosseum, when introduced in medieval times, was not a reference to its size but to the Colosso di Nerone, a giant statue of Nero that stood nearby.

With the fall of the Roman Empire in the 5th century, the Colosseum was abandoned and gradually became overgrown. In the Middle Ages it served as a fortress for two of the city’s warrior families, the Frangipani and the Annibaldi. Later, during the Renaissance and baroque periods it was plundered of its precious travertine, and marble stripped from it was used to make huge palaces such as Palazzo Venezia, Palazzo Barberini and Palazzo Cancelleria.

More recently, pollution and vibrations caused by traffic and the metro have taken their toll. It is currently undergoing a €25-million clean-up, the first in its 2000-year history, and until restoration is finished – at the time of research, this was scheduled for March 2016 – you might find parts of the outer walls covered in scaffolding.
Exterior
The outer walls have three levels of arches, framed by Ionic, Doric and Corinthian columns. These were originally covered in travertine, and marble statues filled the niches on the 2nd and 3rd storeys. The upper level, punctuated with windows and slender Corinthian pilasters, had supports for 240 masts that held up a huge canvas awning over the arena, shielding the spectators from sun and rain. The 80 entrance arches, known as vomitoria, allowed the spectators to enter and be seated in a matter of minutes.

Arena
The arena originally had a wooden floor covered in sand to prevent the combatants from slipping and to soak up the blood. It could also be flooded for mock sea battles. Trapdoors led down to the hypogeum, a subterranean complex of corridors, cages and lifts beneath the arena floor.

Stands
The cavea, for spectator seating, was divided into three tiers: magistrates and senior officials sat in the lowest tier, wealthy citizens in the middle and the plebs in the highest tier. Women (except for vestal virgins) were relegated to the cheapest sections at the top. And as in modern stadiums, tickets were numbered and spectators were assigned a precise seat in a specific sector – in 2015, restorers uncovered traces of red numerals on the arches, indicating how the sectors were numbered. The podium, a broad terrace in front of the tiers of seats, was reserved for the emperor, senators and VIPs.
Hypogeum
The hypogeum served as the stadium’s backstage area. It was here that stage sets were prepared and performers, both human and animal, would gather before showtime.

‘Gladiators entered the hypogeum through an underground corridor which led directly in from the nearby Ludus Magnus (gladiator school),’ explains the Colosseum's Technical Director, Barbara Nazzaro. 'In side corridors, which stand over a natural spring, boats were kept. When they wanted these boats up in the arena they would let the spring water in and flood the tunnels. Later these passages were used for winch mechanisms, all of which were controlled by a single pulley system. There were about 80 lifts going up to the arena as well as cages where wild animals were kept.’

The hypogeum, along with the top tier, can be visited on a guided tour. This must be booked in advance and costs €9 on top of the normal Colosseum ticket.

DON’T MISS…
- The stands
- The arena
- The hypogeum

PRACTICALITIES
- Colosseo
  - MAP  GOOGLE MAP
  - 06 3996 7700
  - www.coopculture.it
- Piazza del Colosseo
- adult/reduced incl Roman Forum & Palatino €12/7.50
- 8.30am-1hr before sunset
- Colosseo

BEAT THE QUEUES
Long waits are the norm at the Colosseum. You'll have to queue for security checks and then to buy a ticket. To save time, get your ticket at the Palatino entrance (about 250m away at Via di San Gregorio 30) or book online at www.coopculture.it (plus a €2 booking fee). Alternatively, buy a Roma Pass or sign up for an official English-language tour (€5 on top of the regular Colosseum ticket price).

Games staged at the Colosseum usually involved gladiators fighting wild animals or each other. But contrary to Hollywood folklore, bouts rarely ended in death as the games' sponsor was required to pay compensation to a gladiator's owner if the gladiator died in action.
Rising above the Roman Forum, the Palatino is an atmospheric area of towering pine trees, majestic ruins and memorable views. According to legend, this is where Romulus and Remus were saved by a wolf and where Romulus founded Rome in 753 BC. Archaeological evidence can't prove the myth, but it has dated human habitation here to the 8th century BC.

As the most central of Rome’s seven hills, and because it was close to the Roman Forum, the Palatino was ancient Rome’s most exclusive neighbourhood. The emperor Augustus lived here all his life and successive emperors built increasingly opulent palaces. But after Rome’s fall, it fell into disrepair and in the Middle Ages churches and castles were built over the ruins. Later, wealthy Renaissance families established gardens on the hill.

Most of the Palatino as it appears today is covered by the ruins of the emperor Domitian’s vast complex, which served as the main imperial palace for 300 years. Divided into the Domus Flavia (imperial palace), Domus Augustana (the emperor’s private quarters) and a stadio (stadium), it was built in the 1st century AD.

Stadio

On entering the Palatino from Via di San Gregorio, head uphill until you come to the first recognisable construction, the stadio (MAP GOOGLE MAP). This sunken area, which was part of the main imperial palace, was used by the emperor for private games. To the southeast of the stadium are the remains of a complex built by Septimius Severus, comprising baths (Termé di Settimio Severo (MAP GOOGLE MAP)) and a palace (Domus Severiana (MAP GOOGLE MAP)) where, if they're open, you can visit the Arcate Severiane (Severian Arches; MAP GOOGLE MAP; 06 3996 7700; www.coopculture.it; admission incl in Palatino ticket; h8.30am-1hr before sunset Tue & Fri; mColosseo), a series of arches built to facilitate further development.

Domus Augustana & Domus Flavia

Next to the stadio are the ruins of the Domus Augustana (Emperor's Residence; MAP GOOGLE MAP), the emperor's private quarters in the imperial palace. Over two levels, rooms lead off a peristilio (porticoed courtyard) on each floor. You can’t get to the lower level, but from above you can see the basin of a fountain and, beyond it, rooms that were originally paved with coloured marble.

Over on the other side of the Museo Palatino is the Domus Flavia (MAP GOOGLE MAP), the public part of the palace. The Domus was centred on a grand columned peristyle – the grassy area with the base of an octagonal fountain – off which the main halls led. To the north was the emperor’s throne room (aula regia); to the west, a basilica (used by the emperor to meet his advisers); and to the south, a large banqueting hall, the triclinium.

Museo Palatino

The Museo Palatino (MAP GOOGLE MAP; admission incl in Palatino ticket; h8.30am-1hr before sunset; mColosseo) houses a small collection of finds from the Palatino. The downstairs section illustrates the history of the hill from its origins to the Republican age, while upstairs you’ll find artefacts from the Imperial age, including a beautiful 1st-century bronze, the Erma di Canefora.
Casa di Livia & Casa di Augusto

Among the best-preserved buildings on the Palatino is the Casa di Livia (MAP GOOGLE MAP; %06 3996 7700; www.coopculture.it; incl Casa di Augusto €4; h guided tour 1pm daily, pre-booking necessary; m Colosseo), northwest of the Domus Flavia. Home to Augustus’ wife Livia, it was built around an atrium leading onto what were once frescoed reception rooms. Nearby, the Casa di Augusto (MAP GOOGLE MAP; %06 3996 7700; www.coopculture.it; incl Casa di Livia €4; h guided tour 1pm daily, pre-booking necessary; m Colosseo), Augustus’ separate residence, contains superb frescoes in vivid reds, yellows and blues.

Criptoportico
Reached from near the Orti Farnesiani, the criptoportico is a 128m tunnel where Caligula is said to have been murdered, and which Nero used to connect his Domus Aurea with the Palatino. Lit by a series of windows, it is now used to stage temporary exhibitions.

Orti Farnesiani
Covering the Domus Tiberiana (Tiberius’ palace) in the northwest corner of the Palatino, the Orti Farnesiani is one of Europe’s earliest botanical gardens. Named after Cardinal Alessandro Farnese, who had it laid out in the mid-16th century, it commands breathtaking views over the Roman Forum.

DON’T MISS…
- Stadio
- Domus Augustana
- Orti Farnesiani

PRACTICALITIES
- Palatine Hill
  - MAP GOOGLE MAP
  - ☎ 06 3996 7700
  - ➡️ www.coopculture.it
  - Via di San Gregorio 30 & Via Sacra
  - adult/reduced incl Colosseum & Roman Forum €12/7.50
  - 8.30am-1hr before sunset
  - Colosseo

ROMULUS & REMUS
The Palatino is closely associated with the legend of Romulus and Remus. Rome’s mythical founders were supposedly brought up here by a shepherd, Faustulus, after a wolf had saved them from death. From near the Casa di Augusto you can look down into the 8th-century-BC Capanne Romulee (Romulean Huts), where the twins supposedly lived with their adopted father. In 2007 the discovery of a mosaic-covered cave 15m beneath the Domus Augustana reignited interest in the legend. According to some scholars, this was the Lupercale, the cave believed by ancient Romans to be where Romulus and Remus were suckled by a wolf.

The best spot for a picnic is the Vigna Barberini (Barberini Vineyard), near the Orti Farnesiani. A grassy area with several benches, it's signposted off the path to the Roman Forum.
The Roman Forum was ancient Rome's centrepiece, a grandiose district of temples, basilicas and vibrant public spaces. Nowadays, it's a collection of impressive, if badly labelled, ruins that can leave you drained and confused. But if you can get your imagination going, there's something wonderfully compelling about walking in the footsteps of Julius Caesar and other legendary figures of Roman history.

Originally an Etruscan burial ground, the Forum was first developed in the 7th century BC, growing over time to become the social, political and commercial hub of the Roman Empire. In the Middle Ages it was reduced to pasture land and extensively plundered for its marble. The area was systematically excavated in the 18th and 19th centuries and work continues to this day.

Via Sacra Towards Campidoglio

Entering the Forum from Largo della Salara Vecchia – you can also enter from the Palatino or via an entrance near the Arco di Tito – you’ll see the Tempio di Antonino e Faustina (MAP GOOGLE MAP) ahead to your left. Erected in AD 141, this was later transformed into a church, the Chiesa di San Lorenzo in Miranda (MAP GOOGLE MAP). To your right, the 179 BC Basilica Fulvia Aemilia (MAP GOOGLE MAP) was a 100m-long public hall with a two-storey porticoed facade.

At the end of the path, you'll come to Via Sacra (MAP GOOGLE MAP), the Forum’s main thoroughfare, and the Tempio di Giulio Cesare (Tempio del Divo Giulio; MAP GOOGLE MAP). Built by Augustus in 29 BC, this marks the spot where Julius Caesar was cremated. Heading right up Via Sacra brings you to the Curia (MAP GOOGLE MAP), the original seat of the Roman Senate. This barn-like construction was rebuilt on various occasions and what you see today is a 1937 reconstruction of how it looked in the reign of Diocletian (r 284–305).

In front of the Curia, and hidden by scaffolding, is the Lapis Niger (MAP GOOGLE MAP), a large piece of black marble that's said to cover the tomb of Romulus.

At the end of Via Sacra, the 23m-high Arco di Settimio Severo (Arch of Septimius Severus; MAP GOOGLE MAP) is dedicated to the eponymous emperor and his sons, Caracalla and Geta. Close by are the remains of the Rostrum (MAP GOOGLE MAP), an elaborate podium where Shakespeare had Mark Antony make his famous 'Friends, Romans, countrymen...' speech. Facing this, the Colonna di Foca (Column of Phocus; MAP GOOGLE MAP) rises above what was once the Forum's main square, Piazza del Foro.

The eight granite columns that rise behind the Colonna are all that survive of the Tempio di Saturno (Temple of Saturn; MAP GOOGLE MAP), an important temple that doubled as the state treasury. Behind it are (from north to south): the ruins of the Tempio della Concordia (Temple of Concord; MAP GOOGLE MAP), the Tempio di Vespasiano (Temple of Vespasian and Titus; MAP GOOGLE MAP) and the Portico degli Dei Consenti (MAP GOOGLE MAP).

Tempio di Castore e Polluce & Casa delle Vestali

From the path that runs parallel to Via Sacra, you’ll pass the stubby ruins of the Basilica Giulia (MAP GOOGLE MAP), which was begun by Caesar and finished by Augustus. At the end of the basilica, three columns remain from the 5th-century BC Tempio di Castore e Polluce (Temple of Castor and Pollux; MAP GOOGLE MAP). Nearby, the 6th-century Chiesa di Santa Maria Antiqua (MAP GOOGLE MAP) is the oldest Christian church in the Forum.

Back towards Via Sacra is the Casa delle Vestali (House of the Vestal Virgins; MAP GOOGLE MAP); currently off-limits, home of the virgins who tended the flame in the adjoining Tempio di Vesta ( MAP GOOGLE MAP).

Via Sacra Towards the Colosseum

Heading up Via Sacra past the Tempio di Romolo (Temple of Romulus; MAP GOOGLE MAP), you'll come to the Basilica di Massenzio (Basilica di Costantino; MAP GOOGLE MAP), the largest building on the forum. Started by Maxentius and finished by Constantine in 315 – it's also known as the Basilica di Costantino – it originally measured approximately 100m by 65m. It's currently out of bounds due to construction work on a new metro line.

Beyond the basilica, the Arco di Tito (Arch of Titus; MAP GOOGLE MAP) was built in AD 81 to celebrate Vespasian and Titus’ victories against rebels in Jerusalem.

DON’T MISS…

- Curia
- Arco di Settimio Severo
- Tempio di Saturno
- Casa delle Vestali
- Basilica di Massenzio
- Arco di Tito

PRACTICALITIES

- Foro Romano
- MAP GOOGLE MAP
- 06 3996 7700
- www.coopculture.it
- Largo della Salara Vecchia & Via Sacra
- adult/reduced incl Colosseum & Palatino €12/7.50
- h 8.30am-1hr before sunset
- g Via dei Fori Imperiali
 Despite privilege and public acclaim, life as a Vestal Virgin was no bed of roses. Every year, six physically perfect patrician girls aged between six and 10 were chosen by lottery to serve Vesta, goddess of hearth and household. Once selected, they faced a 30-year period of chaste servitude at the Tempio di Vesta. During this time their main duty was to ensure that the temple’s sacred fire never went out. If it did, the priestess responsible would be flogged. The well-being of the state was thought to depend on the cult of Vesta and on the vestals’ chastity, so if a priestess were to lose her virginity, she risked being buried alive as the offending man was flogged to death.

If you're caught short, there are toilets by the Chiesa di Santa Maria Antiqua.
The world's oldest public museums, the Capitoline Museums occupy two stately palazzi on Piazza del Campidoglio. Their origins date to 1471, when Pope Sixtus IV donated a number of bronze statues to the city, forming the nucleus of what is now one of Italy's finest collections of classical art. The focus is very much on ancient sculpture but there's also a formidable picture gallery with works by many big-name Italian and Dutch artists.

The museums' entrance is in Palazzo dei Conservatori (MAP GOOGLE MAP), where you'll find the original core of the sculptural collection on the 1st floor, and the Pinacoteca (picture gallery) on the 2nd storey.

Palazzo dei Conservatori – 1st Floor
Before you head up to start on the sculpture collection proper, take a moment to admire the marble body parts littered around the ground-floor courtyard. The mammoth head, hand, and feet all belonged to a 12m-high statue of Constantine that once stood in the Basilica di Massenzio in the Roman Forum.

Of the permanent sculpture collection on the 1st floor, the Etruscan Lupa Capitolina (Capitoline Wolf) is the most famous piece. Standing in the Sala della Lupa, this 5th-century-BC bronze wolf stands over her suckling wards, Romulus and Remus, who were added to the composition in 1471.

Other crowd-pleasers include the Spinario, a delicate 1st-century-BC bronze of a boy removing a thorn from his foot in the Sala dei Trionfi, and Gian Lorenzo Bernini's Medusa bust in the Sala delle Oche.
Dominating the modern wing known as the Esedra di Marco Aurelio is an imposing bronze equestrian statue of the emperor Marcus Aurelius – the original of the copy that stands in the piazza outside. Here you can also see the foundations of the Temple of Jupiter, one of the ancient city's most important temples that once dominated the Capitoline Hill.

Palazzo dei Conservatori – 2nd Floor
The 2nd floor is given over to the Pinacoteca, the museum's picture gallery. Dating to 1749, the gallery's collection is arranged chronologically with works from the Middle Ages through to the 18th century.

Each room harbours masterpieces, but two stand out: the Sala Pietro da Cortona, which features Pietro da Cortona's famous depiction of the Ratto delle sabine (Rape of the Sabine Women; 1630), and the Sala di Santa Petronilla, named after Guercino's huge canvas Seppellimento di Santa Petronilla (The Burial of St Petronilla; 1621–23). This airy hall boasts a number of important canvases, including two by Caravaggio: La Buona Ventura (The Fortune Teller; 1595), which shows a gypsy pretending to read a young man's hand but actually stealing his ring, and San Giovanni Battista (John the Baptist; 1602), a sensual and unusual depiction of the New Testament saint.
Tabularium
A tunnel links Palazzo dei Conservatori to Palazzo Nuovo on the other side of the square via the Tabularium, ancient Rome’s central archive, beneath Palazzo Senatorio (MAP GOOGLE MAP). The tunnel is lined with panels and inscriptions from ancient tombs, but more inspiring are the views over the Roman Forum from the brick-lined Tabularium.

Palazzo Nuovo
Palazzo Nuovo (MAP GOOGLE MAP) is crammed to its elegant 17th-century rafters with classical Roman sculpture, including some unforgettable show-stoppers.
From the lobby, where the curly-bearded Mars stares ferociously at everyone who passes by, stairs lead up to the main galleries. The first hall you come to is the Sala del Gladiatore, home to one of the museum's greatest works – the Galata Morente (Dying Gaul). A Roman copy of a 3rd-century-BC Greek original, this sublime sculpture movingly captures the quiet, resigned anguish of a dying Gaul warrior.

Next door, the Sala del Fauno takes its name from the red marble statue of a faun. Another superb figurative piece is the sensual yet demure portrayal of the Venere Capitolina (Capitoline Venus) in the Gabinetto della Venere, off the main corridor.

Also worth a look are the busts of philosophers, poets and orators in the Sala dei Filosofi – look out for likenesses of Homer, Pythagoras, Socrates and Cicero.

DON'T MISS…
- Lupa Capitolina
- Spinario
- La Buona Ventura
- Galata Morente
- Venere Capitolina

PRACTICALITIES
- Musei Capitolini
- Map
- Google Map
- 06 06 08
- www.museicapitolini.org
- Piazza del Campidoglio 1
- Adult/reduced €11.50/9.50
- H 9.30am-7.30pm, last admission 6.30pm
- G Piazza Venezia
TREATY OF ROME

With frescoes depicting episodes from ancient Roman history and two papal statues – one of Urban VIII by Bernini and one of Innocent X by Algardi – the Sala degli Orazi e Curiazi provided the grand setting for one of modern Europe's key events. On 25 March 1957 the leaders of Italy, France, West Germany, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg gathered here to sign the Treaty of Rome and establish the European Economic Community, the precursor of the European Union. The hall has a long history of hosting politicians. In the 15th century it was used for the public hearings of the Council of Conservatori (elected magistrates), after whom the palazzo is named.

The Caffè Capitolino, the museums' terrace cafe, is on the 2nd floor of Palazzo dei Conservatori. Serving coffee, snacks and fine views, it's an excellent spot for a sightseeing timeout.
1 SIGHTS

1 Colosseum & Palatino

Colosseum

ARCO DI COSTANTINO
(MAP GOOGLE MAP: mColosseo)
On the western side of the Colosseum, this monumental triple arch was built in AD 315 to celebrate the emperor Constantine's victory over his rival Maxentius at the Battle of the Milvian Bridge (AD 312). Rising to a height of 25m, it's the largest of Rome's surviving triumphal arches.

Palatino

CIRCO MASSIMO
(Circus Maximus; MAP GOOGLE MAP; Via del Circo Massimo; mCirco Massimo)
Now little more than a huge basin of dusty grass, the Circo Massimo was ancient Rome’s largest chariot racetrack, a 250,000-seater capable of holding up to a quarter of the city’s entire population. The 600m track circled a wooden dividing island with ornate lap indicators and Egyptian obelisks.

Chariot races were held here as far back as the 4th century BC, but it wasn’t until Trajan rebuilt it after the AD 64 fire that it reached its maximum grandeur.

Restoration work, which is ongoing at the southern end, has unearthed evidence of the taverns and shops that used to flank the track.
The sprawl of ruins over the road from the Roman Forum are known collectively as the Imperial Forums. Constructed between 42 BC and AD 112, they were mostly buried in 1933 when Mussolini built Via dei Fori Imperiali through the area. Excavations have since unearthed much of them, but visits are limited to the Mercati di Traiano (Trajan’s Markets), accessible through the Museo dei Fori Imperiali.

Little recognisable remains of the Foro di Traiano (Trajan’s Forum; MAP GOOGLE MAP), except for some pillars from the Basilica Ulpia (MAP GOOGLE MAP) and the Colonna di Traiano (Trajan’s Column; MAP GOOGLE MAP). Via dei Fori Imperiali), whose minutely detailed reliefs depict Trajan’s military victories over the Dacians (from modern-day Romania).

To the southeast, three columns rise from the Foro di Augusto (Augustus’ Forum; MAP GOOGLE MAP). The 30m-high wall behind the forum was built to protect it from the fires that frequently swept down from the nearby Suburra slums.

The Foro di Nerva (Nerva’s Forum; MAP GOOGLE MAP) is now largely buried, although part of a temple to Minerva still stands. Originally, it would have connected the Foro di Augusto to the 1st-century Foro di Vespasiano (Vespasian’s Forum; MAP GOOGLE MAP). Over the road, three columns are the most visible remains of the Foro di Cesare (Caesar’s Forum; MAP GOOGLE MAP).

DON’T MISS…

- Mercati di Traiano
- Colonna di Traiano
- Basilica Ulpia

PRACTICALITIES

- Fori Imperiali
- MAP GOOGLE MAP
- Via dei Fori Imperiali
- Via dei Fori Imperiali
PRACTICAL TIP
NAVIGATING THE ANCIENT SITES

As fascinating as Rome’s ancient ruins are, they are not well labelled and it can be hard to know where to go and what to look at.

Entrances
The Roman Forum and Palatino effectively form a single unified site. They're covered by the same ticket (along with the Colosseum) and once you've entered the site, you can walk freely between the two areas. There are three entrances:
• Via di San Gregorio 30 for the Palatino
• Largo della Salara Vecchia for the Roman Forum
• Via Sacra for both – go left for the Palatino or straight ahead for the Forum.

Specialist Guides
Electa publishes a number of specialist guidebooks to Rome's archaeological sites, including the Colosseum (£5); the Foro, Palatine and Colosseum (£10); the Archaeological Guide to Rome (£12.90); The Appian Way (£8); and The Baths of Caracalla (£8). All are available at the Colosseum and Roman Forum bookshops.

1 The Forums & Around Roman Forum

BASILICA DI SS COSMA E DAMIANO
(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Via dei Fori Imperiali 1; presepio donation €1; h9am-1pm & 3-7pm, presepio 10am-1pm & 3-6pm Fri-Sun Sep-Jul; g Via dei Fori Imperiali)

Backing onto the Roman Forum, this 6th-century basilica incorporates parts of the Foro di Vespasiano and Tempio di Romolo, visible at the end of the nave. The real reason to visit, though, is to admire the church's vibrant 6th-century apse mosaics, depicting Peter and Paul presenting saints Cosma, Damiano, Theodurus and Pope Felix IV to Christ.

Also worth a look is the 18th-century Neapolitan presepio (nativity scene) in a room off the 17th-century cloister.

MERCATI DI TRAIANO MUSEO DEI FORI IMPERIALI
(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Via IV Novembre 94; adult/reduced €11.50/9.50; h9.30am-7.30pm, last admission 6.30pm; g Via IV Novembre)

This striking museum brings to life the Mercati di Traiano, emperor Trajan's great 2nd-century market complex, while also providing a fascinating introduction to the Imperial Forums with multimedia displays, explanatory panels and a smattering of archaeological artefacts.

Sculptures, friezes and the occasional bust are set out in rooms opening onto what was once the market's Great Hall. But more than the exhibits, the real highlight here is the chance to explore the echoing ruins of the vast complex. The three-storey hemicycle that housed the markets is in remarkably good shape and it doesn't take a huge leap of the imagination to picture it full of traders serving everything from oil and vegetables to flowers, silks and spices.

Rising above the markets is the Torre delle Milizie (Militia Tower; MAP GOOGLE MAP), a 13th-century red-brick tower.

CARCERE MAMERTINO
(Mamertine Prison; MAP GOOGLE MAP; ☏ 06 69 89 61; Clivo Argentario 1; with/without tour €5/3; h 9.30am-7pm summer, to 5pm winter; g Via dei Fori Imperiali)

At the foot of the Campidoglio, the Mamertine Prison was ancient Rome's maximum-security jail. St Peter did time here and while imprisoned supposedly created a miraculous stream of water to baptise his jailers. On the bare stone walls you can just make out early Christian frescoes depicting Jesus and Sts Peter and Paul.

If you just want to nip in and have a look, get the €3 ticket, otherwise guided multimedia tours take about half an hour.

PRACTICAL TIP

POSING CENTURIONS

Outside the Colosseum, Roman Forum and Vittoriano, you might find yourself been hailed by costumed centurions offering to pose for a photo with you. They're not doing this for love and will expect payment. There's no set rate but €5 is more than enough – and that's €5 in total, not per person.

---

1 Campidoglio

Rising above the Roman Forum, the Campidoglio (Capitoline Hill) was one of the seven hills on which Rome was founded. At its summit were Rome’s two most important temples: one dedicated to Jupiter Capitulinus (a descendant of Jupiter, the Roman equivalent of Zeus) and one to the goddess Juno Moneta (which housed Rome’s mint). These days, the hill wields political clout as the home of Rome's municipal government.

PIAZZA DEL CAMPIDOGLIO
(P MAP GOOGLE MAP; g Piazza Venezia)

This hilltop piazza, designed by Michelangelo in 1538, is one of Rome's most beautiful squares. You can reach it from the Roman Forum, but the most dramatic approach is via the graceful Cordonata (MAP GOOGLE MAP) staircase up from Piazza d'Ara Coeli.

The piazza is flanked by Palazzo Nuovo and Palazzo dei Conservatori, together home to the Capitoline Museums, and Palazzo Senatorio, seat of Rome city council. In the centre is a copy of an equestrian statue of Marcus Aurelius.

The original, which dates to the 2nd century AD, is in the Capitoline Museums.

Capitoline Museums
Atop the steep 14th-century Aracoeli staircase, this 6th-century Romanesque church marks the highest point of the Campidoglio. Its rich interior boasts several treasures including a wooden gilt ceiling, an impressive Cosmatesque floor and a series of 15th-century Pinturicchio frescoes illustrating the life of St Bernadine of Siena. Its main claim to fame, though, is a wooden baby Jesus that's thought to have healing powers.

In fact, the Jesus doll is a copy. The original, which was supposedly made of wood from the garden of Gethsemane, was pinched in 1994 and has never been recovered.

The church sits on the site of the Roman temple to Juno Moneta and has long had an association with the nativity. According to legend, it was here that the Tiburtine Sybil told Augustus of the coming birth of Christ.

Love it or loathe it, as most locals do, you can't ignore Il Vittoriano (aka the Altare della Patria; Altar of the Fatherland), the massive mountain of white marble that towers over Piazza Venezia. Begun in 1885 to honour Italy's first king, Victor Emmanuel II, it incorporates the Museo Centrale del Risorgimento, a small museum documenting Italian unification, and the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

For Rome's best 360-degree views, take the Roma dal Cielo lift to the top.

Housed in the monument's eastern wing is the Complesso del Vittoriano, a gallery space that regularly hosts major art exhibitions.

At the bottom of the Campidoglio, next to the Aracoeli staircase, you can see the ruins of a Roman apartment block (insula). Only the upper storeys are visible – the unexcavated ground-floor shops are well below road level – but they provide a fascinating, if fleeting, glimpse into the cramped, squalid conditions that many ancients lived in.

Built between 1455 and 1464, this was the first of Rome's great Renaissance palaces. For centuries it served as the embassy of the Venetian Republic, but it's most readily associated with Mussolini, who installed his office here in 1929, and famously made speeches from the balcony. Nowadays, it's home to the tranquil Museo Nazionale del Palazzo Venezia (MAP GOOGLE MAP; %06 678 01 31; http://museopalazzovenezia.beniculturali.it; Via del Plebiscito 118; adult/reduced €5/2.50; h8.30am-7.30pm Tue-Sun; gPiazza Venezia) and its eclectic collection of Byzantine and early Renaissance paintings, furniture, ceramics, bronze figures, weaponry and armour.

BASILICA DI SAN MARCO

The early-4th-century Basilica di San Marco stands over the house where St Mark the Evangelist is said to have stayed while in Rome. Its main attraction is the golden 9th-century apse mosaic showing Christ flanked by several saints and Pope Gregory IV.

UNDERGROUND ARTS CENTRE

The sheer depth of Rome's archaeological legacy came to light in 2012, when archaeologists unearthed a 900-seat athenaeum (arts centre) 5m below Piazza Venezia. Dating to the 2nd-century reign of Hadrian, the Auditoria di Adriano consists of three 13m-high arched halls where spectators would have relaxed on terraced marble seating to be entertained by poets and philosophers. The discovery came during tunnelling work on a new metro line, illustrating the difficulties that engineers face as they inch through the city's treasure-laden undersoil. The complex is off-limits to visitors.

BOCCA DELLA VERITÀ

(Mouth of Truth; MAP GOOGLE MAP; Piazza Bocca della Verità 18; donation €0.50; h9.30am-5.50pm summer, to 4.50pm winter; gPiazza Bocca della Verità)

A bearded face carved into a giant marble disc, the Bocca della Verità is one of Rome's most popular curiosities. Legend has it that if you put your hand in the mouth and tell a lie, the Bocca will slam shut and bite your hand off.

The mouth, which was originally part of a fountain, or possibly an ancient manhole cover, now lives in the portico of the Chiesa di Santa Maria in Cosmedin, a handsome medieval church. Originally built in the 8th century, the church was given a major revamp in the 12th century, when the seven-storey bell tower and portico were added and an inlaid Cosmati floor was laid.

FORUM BOARIOUM

Car-choked Piazza Bocca della Verità stands on what was once ancient Rome’s cattle market, the Forum Boarium. Opposite the Chiesa di Santa Maria in Cosmedin are two tiny 2nd-century BC temples: the circular Tempio di Ercole Vincitore (MAP GOOGLE MAP; %06 3996 7700; www.coopculture.it; Piazza Bocca della Verità; guided tour €5.50, pre-booking necessary; h 1st & 3rd Sun of month; g Piazza Bocca della Verità), the oldest marble temple in Rome, and the Tempio di Portunus (MAP GOOGLE MAP; %06 3996 7700; www.coopculture.it; Piazza Bocca della Verità; guided tour €5.50, pre-booking necessary; h 1st & 3rd Sun of month; g Piazza Bocca della Verità), dedicated to Portunus, god of rivers and ports. Both temples are visitable by guided tour.

Just off the piazza, the 4th-century Arco di Giano (Arch of Janus; MAP GOOGLE MAP; g Piazza Bocca della Verità) is a four-fronted Roman arch where cattle traders used to shelter from the sun and rain. Beyond it is the Chiesa di San Giorgio in Velabro (MAP GOOGLE MAP; Via del Velabro 19; h 9am-7pm; g Piazza Bocca della Verità), a medieval church whose original 7th-century portico was destroyed by a Mafia bomb attack in 1993.
Neighbourhood Walk
Explore the Ruins

Follow in the footsteps of an ancient Roman on this whistle-stop tour of the city’s most famous ruins.

Start at the 1 Colosseum, the great gladiatorial arena that more than any other monument encapsulates the drama of the ancient city. From there, follow Via di San Gregorio Magno down to the 2 Palatino, 1st-century Rome’s most sought-after neighbourhood where the emperor lived alongside the cream of imperial society. The ruins here are confusing, but their scale gives some sense of the luxury in which the ancient VIPs liked to live.

Beyond the 3 stadio, you can still make out parts of the 4 Domus Augustana, the emperor’s private palace quarters, and the 5 Domus Flavia, where he would hold official audiences. Take time to pop into the 6 Museo Palatino, before heading up to the 7 Orti Farnesiani. These gardens weren’t part of the ancient city, but give good views over the Roman Forum. Next, stroll down to the Forum, entering near the 8 Arco di Tito, one of the site’s great triumphal arches. Beyond this, pick up 9 Via Sacra, the Forum’s main drag. Follow this down, passing the hulking a Basilica di Massenzio, and after a few hundred metres you’ll come to the b Casa delle Vestali, where the legendary Vestal Virgins lived tending to their duties and guarding their virtue. Beyond the three columns of the c Tempio di Castore e Polluce, you’ll see a flattened area littered with column bases and brick stumps.

This is the d Basilica Giulia, where lawyers and magistrates worked in the crowded law courts. Meanwhile, senators debated matters of state in the e Curia, over on the other side of the Forum. From near the Curia, exit the Forum past the f Arco di Settimo Severo and climb Campidoglio (Capitoline Hill) to the magnificent g Capitoline Museums, whose collection of classical art includes some of the city's finest ancient sculpture.
5 EATING

SAN TEO
(CAFE, PASTRIES €)
(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Via di San Teodoro 88; snacks & pastries €1-3.50; h 7am-8pm; g Via dei Cerchi)

With dolci (sweets) laid out like jewels and an array of artfully crafted tarts and pastries, this pasticceria-cum-cafe puts on a great display. Leave the crowds at the Bocca della Verità and sneak off to indulge your sweet tooth with macarons, marrons glacés and creamy cannoli. Savoury snacks are also available.

TERRE E DOMUS
(LAZIO CUISINE €€)
(MAP GOOGLE MAP; % 06 6994 0273; Via Foro Traiano 82-4; meals €30; h 7.30am-12.30am Mon-Sat; g Via dei Fori Imperiali)

This modern white-and-glass restaurant is the best option in the touristy Forum area. Overlooking the Colonna di Traiano, it serves a menu of traditional staples, all made with ingredients sourced from the surrounding Lazio region, and a thoughtful selection of regional wines. Lunchtime can be busy but it quietens down in the evening.

RISTORANTE ROOF GARDEN CIRCUS
(RISTORANTE €€€)
(MAP GOOGLE MAP; % 06 678 78 16; www.fortysevenhotel.com; Hotel Forty Seven, Via Petroselli 47; meals €50; h 12.30-3pm & 7.30-11.30pm; g Via Petroselli)

The rooftop of the Forty Seven hotel sets the romantic stage for chef Vito Grippa's menu of classic Roman dishes and contemporary Italian cuisine. With the Aventino hill rising in the background, you can tuck into stalwarts such as spaghetti ajo e ojio (with garlic and olive oil) or push the boat out and opt for something richer like roast guinea fowl with black truffles.

LOCAL KNOWLEDGE

PICNIC PROVISIONS

Trawling through Ancient Rome's extensive ruins can be hungry work. But rather than stopping off for an overpriced bite in a touristy restaurant, search out Alimentari Pannella Carmela (MAP GOOGLE MAP; Via dei Fienili 61; panini €2-3.50; h 8.30am-2.30pm Mon-Sat & 5-8pm Mon-Fri; g Via Petroselli) for a fresh, cheap panino. A small, workaday food store concealed behind a curtain of creeping ivy, it's a lunchtime favourite supplying many local workers with pizza slices, takeaway salads and hearty ham-and-cheese sandwiches.
This welcoming bar on the Circo Massimo is good for a lingering drink, an aperitivo (6.30pm onwards) or a light meal (mains €6 to €13.50, salads €5.50 to €7.50). It’s a friendly place with a laid-back vibe, an attractive exposed-brick look and cool tunes.

CAFFE CAPITOLINO

The Capitoline Museums' charming terrace cafe is a good place to relax over a drink or light snack (panini, salads and pizza) and enjoy wonderful views across the city's rooftops. Although part of the museum complex, you don’t need a ticket to come here as it’s accessible via an independent entrance on Piazzale Caffarelli.

CAVOUR 313

Close to the Forum, wood-panelled Cavour 313 attracts everyone from tourists to actors and politicians. It serves a daily food menu and a selection of salads, cold cuts and cheeses (€8 to €12), but the headline act is the wine. And with more than 1200 labels to choose from you're sure to find something to tickle your palate.
MERCATO DI CIRCO MASSIMO

Rome's best and most popular farmers market is a colourful showcase for seasonal, zero-kilometre produce. As well as fresh fruit and veg, you can stock up on pecorino Romano cheese, milky mozzarella (known locally as fior di latte), olive oils, preserves, and casareccio bread from the nearby town of Genzano.
Centro Storico

Sights

Eating

Drinking & Nightlife

Entertainment

Shopping
Neighbourhood Top Five

1. Stepping into the Pantheon and feeling the same sense of awe that the ancients must have felt 2000 years ago. The sight of the dome soaring up above you is a genuinely jaw-dropping spectacle.

2. Exploring Piazza Navona and the warren of medieval lanes that surrounds it.

3. Browsing the fabulous art collection at the Palazzo e Galleria Doria Pamphilj.
Catching three Caravaggio masterpieces at the Chiesa di San Luigi dei Francesi.

Escaping the crowds in the shadowy back streets of the Jewish Ghetto (MAP GOOGLE MAP; Lungotevere de’ Cenci).

Explore: Centro Storico

Rome’s centro storico (historic centre) is made for leisurely strolling and although you could spend weeks exploring its every corner, you can cover most of the main sights in two or three days. Many people enter the area by bus, getting off at Largo di Torre Argentina, from where it’s a short walk up to the Pantheon and beyond that to Rome’s political nerve-centre Piazza Colonna. Nearby, on Via del Corso, the Palazzo e Galleria Doria Pamphilj houses one of the capital’s finest private art collections. Art is thick on the ground in these parts and many of the centre’s piazzas and churches harbour extraordinary works by big-name Renaissance and baroque artists. To the west of the Pantheon, the narrow lanes around Piazza Navona, itself one of Rome’s great must-see sights, are a magnet for tourists and hip Romans with their bohemian boutiques, cool bars and popular pizzerias.

Over on the other side of Corso Vittorio Emanuele II, the main thoroughfare through the area, all roads lead to Campo de’ Fiori, home to a colourful daily market and hectic late-night drinking scene. From ‘il Campo’ you can shop your way down to the medieval Jewish Ghetto, a wonderfully atmospheric pocket of romantic corners, hidden piazzas and authentic eateries.

Local Life

Backstreet eating The restaurants on Piazza Navona and Piazza Rotonda attract a touristy crowd, while Campo de’ Fiori pulls in boozing students. Locals head to places in the quieter backstreets.

Shopping Browse retro fashions and indie styles on Via del Governo Vecchio; Via dei Giubbonari is good for frocks and heels.

Aperitif Fashion-conscious Romans love to socialise over an evening aperitivo in the bars around Piazza Navona.

Getting There & Away

Bus The best way to access the centro storico. A whole fleet serves the area from Termini, including bus 40 and 64, which both stop at Largo di Torre Argentina and continue down Corso Vittorio Emanuele II. From Via del Tritone near Barberini metro station, bus 492 runs to Corso del Rinascimento for Piazza Navona.

Metro There are no metro stations in the neighbourhood but it’s within walking distance of Barberini, Spagna and Flaminio stations, all on line A.

Tram Catch tram 8 runs from Piazza Venezia to Trastevere by way of Via Arenula.

---

Lonely Planet’s Top Tip

The centro storico is an expensive part of town but there are ways of making your money go further. You can see masterpieces by the likes of Michelangelo, Raphael, Caravaggio and Bernini for nothing by visiting the area’s churches, which are all free to enter. Fuel your wanderings with coffee, sliced pizza and ice cream, and fill up with water from the drinking fountains known as nasoni (big noses) dotted around the streets.

Best Places to Eat
- Casa Coppelle
- La Ciambella
- Supplizio
- Forno Roscioli
- Armando al Pantheon

Best Places to Drink
- Caffè Sant’Eustachio
- Barnum Café
- Open Baladin
- Il Goccetto

Best Art Churches
- Chiesa di San Luigi dei Francesi
- Chiesa del Gesù
- Chiesa di Sant’Ignazio di Loyola
- Basilica di Santa Maria Sopra Minerva
A striking 2000-year-old temple, now a church, the Pantheon is Rome's best-preserved ancient monument and one of the most influential buildings in the Western world. Its greying, pockmarked exterior might look its age, but inside it's a different story, and it's a unique and exhilarating experience to pass through its vast bronze doors and gaze up at the largest unreinforced concrete dome ever built.

History

In its current form the Pantheon dates to around AD 125. The original temple, built by Marcus Agrippa in 27 BC, burnt down in AD 80, and although it was rebuilt by Domitian, it was struck by lightning and destroyed for a second time in AD 110. The emperor Hadrian had it reconstructed between AD 118 and 125, and it's this version that you see today.

Hadrian’s temple was dedicated to the classical gods – hence the name Pantheon, a derivation of the Greek words pan (all) and theos (god) – but in 608 it was consecrated as a Christian church after the Byzantine emperor Phocas donated it to Pope Boniface IV. It was dedicated to the Virgin Mary and all the martyrs and took on the name by which it is still officially known, the Basilica di Santa Maria ad Martyres.

Thanks to this consecration, it was spared the worst of the medieval plundering that reduced many of Rome’s ancient buildings to near dereliction. But it didn't escape entirely unscathed – its gilded-bronze roof tiles were removed and, in the 17th century, Pope Urban VIII had the portico’s bronze ceiling melted down to make 80 canons for Castel Sant’Angelo and to provide Bernini with bronze for the baldachino at St Peter's Basilica.

During the Renaissance, the building was much admired – Brunelleschi used it as inspiration for his cupola in Florence and Michelangelo studied it before designing the dome at St Peter's Basilica – and it became an important burial chamber. Today, you'll find the tomb of the artist Raphael here alongside those of kings Vittorio Emanuele II and Umberto I.

Exterior
Originally, the Pantheon was on a raised podium, its entrance facing onto a rectangular porticoed piazza. Nowadays, the dark-grey pitted exterior faces onto busy, cafe-lined Piazza della Rotonda. And while its facade is somewhat the worse for wear, it's still an imposing sight. The monumental entrance portico consists of 16 Corinthian columns, each 13m high and each made of Egyptian granite, supporting a triangular pediment. Behind the columns, two 20-tonne bronze doors – 16th-century restorations of the original portal – give onto the central rotunda.

Little remains of the ancient decor, although rivets and holes in the brickwork indicate where marble-veneer panels were once placed.

Interior
Although impressive from outside, it’s only when you get inside that you can really appreciate the Pantheon's full size. With light streaming in through the oculus (the 8.7m-diameter hole in the centre of the dome), the cylindrical marble-clad interior seems vast, an effect that was deliberately designed to cut worshippers down to size in the face of the gods.

Opposite the entrance is the church’s main altar, over which hangs a 7th-century icon of the Madonna col Bambino (Madonna and Child). To the left (as you look in from the entrance) is the tomb of Raphael, marked by Lorenzetto’s 1520 sculpture of the Madonna del Sasso (Madonna of the Rock). Neighbouring it are the tombs of King Umberto I and Margherita of Savoy. Over on the opposite side of the rotunda is the tomb of King Vittorio Emanuele II.

The Dome
The Pantheon’s dome, considered the Romans’ most important architectural achievement, was the largest dome in the world until Brunelleschi beat it with his Florentine cupola. Its harmonious appearance is due to a precisely calibrated symmetry – its diameter is exactly equal to the building’s interior height of 43.3m. At its centre, the oculus, which symbolically connected the temple with the gods, plays a vital structural role by absorbing and redistributing the dome's huge tensile forces.

Radiating out from the oculus are five rows of 28 coffers (indented panels). These were originally ornamented but more importantly served to reduce the cupola's immense weight.
DON’T MISS…

- The entrance doors
- The dome
- Raphael’s tomb

PRACTICALITIES

- MAP  GOOGLE MAP

- Piazza della Rotonda
- H 8.30am-7.30pm Mon-Sat, 9am-6pm Sun
- G Largo di Torre Argentina

THE INSCRIPTION

For centuries the Latin inscription over the entrance led historians to believe that the current temple was Marcus Agrippa’s original. Certainly, the wording would suggest this, reading: ‘M.AGRIPPA.L.F.COS.TERTIUM.FECIT’ or ‘Marcus Agrippa, son of Lucius, consul for the third time, built this’. However, excavations in the 19th-century revealed traces of an earlier temple and scholars realised that Hadrian had simply placed Agrippa’s original inscription over his new temple.

According to the attendants who work at the Pantheon, the question tourists most often ask is: what happens when it rains? The answer is that water gets in through the oculus and drains away through 22 almost-invisible holes in the sloping marble floor.

MASS

The Pantheon is still a working church and mass is celebrated at 5pm on Saturday and 10.30am on Sunday.
With its ornate fountains, exuberant baroque palazzi and pavement cafes, Piazza Navona is central Rome’s elegant showcase square. Long a hub of local life, it hosted Rome’s main market for close on 300 years, and today attracts a colourful daily circus of street performers, hawkers, artists, tourists, fortune-tellers and pigeons.

Stadio di Domiziano
Like many of the city’s landmarks, the piazza sits over an ancient monument, in this case the 1st-century-AD Stadio di Domiziano (Domitian’s Stadium; MAP GOOGLE MAP; %06 4568 6100; www.stadiodomiziano.com; Via di Tor Sanguigna 3; adult/reduced €8/6; 10am-7pm Sun-Fri, to 8pm Sat; Corso del Rinascimento). This 30,000-seat stadium, whose subterranean remains can be accessed from Via di Tor Sanguigna, used to host athletic meets – hence, the name Navona, a corruption of the Greek word agon, meaning public games. Inevitably, though, it fell into disrepair and it wasn’t until the 15th century that the crumbling arena was paved over and Rome’s central market was transferred here from the Campidoglio.

Fountains
The piazza's grand centrepiece is Gian Lorenzo Bernini’s Fontana dei Quattro Fiumi (Fountain of the Four Rivers; MAP GOOGLE MAP; Piazza Navona; Corso del Rinascimento). Completed in 1651, this showy fountain features four muscular personifications of the rivers Nile, Ganges, Danube and Plate, representing the four continents of the then-known world. Legend has it that the Nile figure is shielding his eyes from the nearby Chiesa di Sant’Agnese in Agone designed by Bernini’s hated rival, Francesco Borromini. In truth, it simply indicated that the source of the Nile was unknown at the time the fountain was created. Towering over the sculpted rock base is a tapering Egyptian obelisk.

The Fontana del Moro (MAP GOOGLE MAP; Piazza Navona; Corso del Rinascimento) at the southern end of the square was designed by Giacomo della Porta in 1576. Bernini added the Moor in the mid-17th century, but the surrounding Tritons are 19th-century copies.

At the northern end of the piazza, the 19th-century Fontana del Nettuno (MAP GOOGLE MAP; Piazza Navona; Corso del Rinascimento) depicts Neptune fighting with a sea monster, surrounded by sea nymphs.

Chiesa di Sant’Agnese in Agone
With its theatrical facade and rich, domed interior, the Chiesa di Sant’Agnese in Agone (MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.santagneseinagone.org; Piazza Navona; concerts €13; 9.30am-12.30pm & 3.30-7pm Mon-Sat, 10am-1pm & 4-8pm Sun; Corso del Rinascimento) is typical of Francesco Borromini’s baroque style. The church, which hosts an annual season of chamber-music concerts, is said to stand on the spot where the martyr Agnes performed a miracle before being killed. According to legend, she was stripped naked by her executioners but miraculously grew her hair to cover her body and preserve her modesty.
Palazzo Pamphilj
The largest building on the square, this elegant baroque palazzo (MAP GOOGLE MAP; Piazza Navona; Corso del Rinascimento) was built between 1644 and 1650 by Borromini and Girolamo Rainaldi to celebrate Giovanni Battista Pamphilj’s election as Pope Innocent X. Inside there are some impressive frescoes by Pietro da Cortona, but the building, which has been the Brazilian Embassy since 1920, is off-limits to the public.

DON’T MISS…
- Fontana dei Quattro Fiumi
- Chiesa di Sant’Agnese in Agone
- Palazzo Pamphilj

PRACTICALITIES
- MAP GOOGLE MAP
- Corso del Rinascimento
1 SIGHTS

Bound by the River Tiber and Via del Corso, the centro storico is made for aimless wandering. Even without trying you’ll come across some of Rome’s great sights: the Pantheon, Piazza Navona and Campo de’ Fiori, as well as a host of monuments, museums and churches. To the south, the Jewish Ghetto has been home to Rome’s Jewish community since the 2nd century BC.

1 Pantheon & Around

Pantheon

ELEFANTINO (MAP GOOGLE MAP; Piazza della Minerva; g Largo di Torre Argentina)
Just south of the Pantheon, the Elefantino is a curious and much-loved statue of a puzzled-looking elephant carrying a 6th-century-BC Egyptian obelisk. Completed in 1667 in honour of Pope Alexander VII, the elephant, symbolising strength and wisdom, was sculpted by Ercole Ferrata to a design by Bernini. The obelisk was taken from the nearby Basilica di Santa Maria Sopra Minerva.

BASILICA DI SANTA MARIA SOPRA MINERVA (MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.santamariasopraminerva.it; Piazza della Minerva 42; h 6.45am-7pm Mon-Fri, 6.45am-12.30pm & 3.30-7pm Sat, 8am-12.30pm & 3.30-7pm Sun; g Largo di Torre Argentina)
Built on the site of three pagan temples, including one to the goddess Minerva, the Dominican Basilica di Santa Maria Sopra Minerva is Rome’s only Gothic church. However, little remains of the original 13th-century structure and these days the main drawcard is a minor Michelangelo sculpture and the colourful, art-rich interior.

Inside, to the right of the altar in the Cappella Carafa (also called the Cappella della Annunciazione), you’ll find two superb 15th-century frescoes by Filippino Lippi and the majestic tomb of Pope Paul IV.

Left of the high altar is one of Michelangelo’s lesser-known sculptures, Cristo Risorto (Christ Bearing the Cross; 1520), depicting Jesus carrying a cross while wearing some jarring bronze drapery. This wasn't part of the original composition and was added after the Council of Trent to preserve Christ's modesty.

An altarpiece of the Madonna and Child in the second chapel in the northern transept is attributed to Fra Angelico, the Dominican friar and painter, who is also buried in the church.

The body of St Catherine of Siena, minus her head (which is in Siena), lies under the high altar, and the tombs of two Medici popes, Leo X and Clement VII, are in the apse.
A busy transport hub, the Largo di Torre Argentina is set around the sunken Area Sacra and the remains of four Republican-era temples, all built between the 2nd and 4th centuries BC. These ruins, which are among the oldest in the city, are out of bounds to humans but home to a thriving population of around 250 stray cats and a volunteer-run cat sanctuary. On the piazza’s western flank, Teatro Argentina, Rome’s premier theatre, stands near the spot where Julius Caesar was assassinated in 44 BC.

The least known of the Museo Nazionale Romano's four museums, the Crypta Balbi sits over the ruins of several medieval buildings, themselves set atop the Teatro di Balbo (13 BC). Archaeological finds illustrate the urban development of the surrounding area, while the museum's underground excavations, visitable by guided tour, provide an interesting insight into Rome's multi-layered past.
Church to Rome’s French community since 1589, this opulent baroque chiesa is home to a celebrated trio of Caravaggio paintings: the Vocaione di San Matteo (The Calling of St Matthew), the Martiro di San Matteo (The Martyrdom of St Matthew) and San Matteo e l’angelo (St Matthew and the Angel), known collectively as the St Matthew cycle.

Hanging in the Cappella Contarelli to the left of the main altar, these three canvases are among the earliest of Caravaggio’s religious works, painted between 1599 and 1602. But they are inescapably his, featuring a down-to-earth realism and a stunning use of chiaroscuro (the bold contrast of light and dark). Caravaggio’s refusal to adhere to the artistic conventions of the day and glorify his religious subjects often landed him in hot water and his first version of San Matteo e l’angelo, which depicted St Matthew as a bald, bare-legged peasant, was originally rejected by his outraged patron, Cardinal Matteo Contarelli.

Before you leave the church, take a moment to enjoy Domenichino’s faded 17th-century frescoes of St Cecilia in the second chapel on the right. St Cecilia is also depicted in the altarpiece by Guido Reni, a copy of a work by Raphael.

DON’T MISS…

- Vocaione di San Matteo
- Martiro di San Matteo
- San Matteo e l’angelo
  * Domenichino’s St Cecilia frescoes

PRACTICALITIES

- MAP  GOOGLE MAP
- Piazza di San Luigi dei Francesi 5
- 10am-12.30pm & 3-7pm, closed Thu afternoon
- Corso del Rinascimento
LEGENDARY CRIMES

Violent crime is a recurring feature of Rome’s long history. The city was founded on the back of a murder – Romulus’ killing of his twin Remus on the Palatino – and blood stains many of the city’s ancient buildings. One of Rome's most celebrated crimes took place on the Ides of March (15 March) 44 BC, when Julius Caesar was stabbed to death in the Curia of the Teatro di Pompeo – a vast theatre complex that covered much of what is now the Largo di Torre Argentina. For centuries, mystery surrounded the exact location of the murder scene, but in 2012 a team of Spanish archaeologists announced that they had found it on the Teatro Argentina side of the Area Sacra. As evidence they pointed to a concrete structure that they believed was a memorial placed on the spot by Augustus, Caesar's heir and successor.

Less known, but no less tragic, is the tale of Beatrice Cenci, a young aristocrat who was driven by years of abuse to murder her tyrannical father in Palazzo Cenci in the Jewish Ghetto. After a long and brutal investigation, she and her accomplice, her stepmother Lucrezia, were beheaded on 11 September 1599 in front of a vast and largely sympathetic crowd on Ponte Sant’Angelo.

1 Piazza Navona & Around

Piazza Navona

VIA DEI CORONARI

Famous for its antique shops, this elegant Renaissance street is a lovely place for a stroll. It follows the course of the ancient Roman road that connected Piazza Colonna with the Tiber, but owes its name to the medieval coronari (rosary-bead sellers) who used to hang out here, hawking their wares to pilgrims as they passed en route to St Peter's Basilica.

CHIESA DI SANTA MARIA DELLA PACE & CHIOSTRO DEL BRAMANTE

Tucked away in the back streets behind Piazza Navona, this small church boasts a columned semi-circular facade by Pietro da Cortona and a celebrated Raphael fresco, Sibille (Sibyls; c 1515). Next door, the Chiostro del Bramante (Bramante Cloister) is a masterpiece of High Renaissance architectural styling that is now used to stage art exhibitions and cultural events.

The cloister, which you can visit freely by popping up to the 1st-floor cafe, was originally part of the same monastery complex as the adjoining church. Its sober, geometric lines and perfectly proportioned spaces provide a marked counterpoint to the church’s undulating facade, beautifully encapsulating the Renaissance aesthetic that Bramante did so much to promote.

PASQUINO

This unassuming sculpture is Rome’s most famous ‘talking statue’. During the 16th century, when there were no safe outlets for dissent, a Vatican tailor named Pasquino began sticking notes to the statue with satirical verses lampooning the church and aristocracy. Soon others joined in and, as the... trend spread, talking statues popped up all over town.

Until recently, Romans were still writing messages, known as pasquinade, and sticking them to the statue. However, the sculpture is now off-limits and disgruntled Romans have to make do with more contemporary social media.

VIA DEL GOVERNO VECCHIO

(Google Map; Corso Vittorio Emanuele II)

Striking off west from Piazza Pasquino, Via del Governo Vecchio is an atmospheric cobble-stoned street full of fashion boutiques, popular eateries and vintage clothes shops. The road, once part of the papal processional route between the Basilica di San Giovanni in Laterano and St Peter's, acquired its name (Old Government St) in 1755 when the pontifical government relocated from Palazzo Nardini at No 39 to Palazzo Madama.

The Renaissance architect Bramante is though to have lived at No 123.

CHIESA NUOVA

(Google Map; Piazza della Chiesa Nuova; 7.30am-noon & 4.30-7.15pm Mon-Sat, 8am-1pm & 4.30-7.15pm Sun; Corso Vittorio Emanuele II)

Not exactly nuova (new) as the name would suggest, this imposing landmark church, also known as the Chiesa di Santa Maria in Vallicella, boasts a distinguished 17th-century facade and a rich baroque interior. Of particular note are the superb ceiling frescoes by Pietro da Cortona and several paintings by Peter Paul Rubens.

Built in 1575 as part of a complex to house Filippo Neri’s Oratorian order, it was originally a large plain church in accordance with Neri’s wishes. But when Neri died in 1595 the artists moved in – Rubens painted over the high altar, and Pietro da Cortona decorated the dome, tribune and nave. Neri was canonised in 1622 and is buried in a chapel to the left of the apse.

Next to the church is Borromini’s Oratorio dei Filippini, and behind it the Torre dell’Orologio (Google Map; Piazza dell’Orologio; Corso Vittorio Emanuele II), a clock tower built to decorate the adjacent convent.

MUSEO DI ROMA

(Google Map; Piazza di San Pantaleo 10 & Piazza Navona 2; adult/reduced €9.50/7.50; 10am-7pm Tue-Sun; Corso Vittorio Emanuele II)

The baroque Palazzo Braschi houses the Museo di Roma’s eclectic collection of paintings, photographs, etchings, clothes and furniture, charting the history of Rome from the Middle Ages to the early 20th century. But as striking as the collection is, the 17th-century palazzo itself, with its courtyard, monumental baroque staircase, and frescoed halls is worth a visit.

Among the paintings, look out for Raphael’s 1511 portrait of Cardinal Alessandro Farnese, the future Pope Paul III.

Note that ticket prices increase (usually to €11/9) when there’s a temporary exhibition on.
Hidden in the porticoed courtyard of Palazzo della Sapienza, this tiny church is a masterpiece of baroque architecture. Built by Francesco Borromini between 1642 and 1660, and based on an incredibly complex geometric plan, it combines alternating convex and concave walls with a circular interior topped by a twisted spire.

Palazzo della Sapienza, seat of Rome’s university until 1935 and now home to the Italian state archive, is often used to stage temporary exhibitions.

Palazzo Madama

Seat of the Italian Senate since 1871, the regal Palazzo Madama was originally the 16th-century residence of Giovanni de’ Medici, the future Pope Leo X. It was enlarged in the 17th century and later provided office space for several pontifical departments.

The name ‘Madama’ is a reference to Margaret of Parma, the illegitimate daughter of the Holy Roman Emperor Charles V, who lived here from 1559 to 1567.

Chiesa di Sant’Agostino

The plain white facade of this early Renaissance church, built in the 15th century and renovated in the late 1700s, gives no indication of the impressive art inside. The most famous work is Caravaggio's Madonna dei Pellegrini (Madonna of the Pilgrims) but you'll also find a fresco by Raphael and a much-venerated sculpture by Jacopo Sansovino.

The Madonna del Parto (Madonna of Childbirth), Sansovino's 1521 statue of the Virgin Mary with baby Jesus, is a favourite with expectant mums who traditionally pray to it for a safe pregnancy. The Madonna also stars in Caravaggio’s Madonna dei Pellegrini, which caused uproar when it was unveiled in 1604 due to its depiction of Mary's two devoted pilgrims as filthy, badly dressed beggars.

Painting almost a century before, Raphael provoked no such scandal with his fresco of Isaiah, visible on the third pillar on the left side of the nave.
TOP SIGHT
MUSEO NAZIONALE ROMANO: PALAZZO ALTEMPS

Just north of Piazza Navona, Palazzo Altemps is a beautiful late-15th-century palazzo, housing the best of the Museo Nazionale Romano’s formidable collection of classical sculpture. Many pieces come from the celebrated Ludovisi collection, amassed by Cardinal Ludovico Ludovisi in the 17th century.

Prize exhibits include the beautiful 5th-century-BC Trono Ludovisi (Ludovisi Throne), a carved marble block whose central relief shows a naked Venus (Aphrodite) being modestly plucked from the sea. In the neighbouring room, the Ares Ludovisi, a 2nd-century-BC representation of a young, clean-shaven Mars, owes its right foot to a Gian Lorenzo Bernini restoration in 1622.

Another affecting work is the sculptural group Galata Suicida (Gaul’s Suicide), a melodramatic depiction of a Gaul slicing himself to death over a dead woman.

The building’s baroque frescoes provide an exquisite decorative backdrop. The walls of the Sala delle Prospettive Dipinte are decorated with landscapes and hunting scenes viewed through trompe l’oeil windows. These frescoes were painted for Cardinal Altemps, the rich nephew of Pope Pius IV (r 1560–65) who bought the palazzo in the late 16th century.

The museum also houses the Museo Nazional Romano’s Egyptian collection.

DON’T MISS…

- Trono Ludovisi
- Ares Ludovisi
- Galata Suicida
- Sala delle Prospettive Dipinte

PRACTICALITIES

- MAP
- GOOGLE MAP
- 06 3996 7700
- www.coopculture.it
- Piazza Sant'Apollinare 44
- adult/reduced €7/3.50
- 9am-7.45pm Tue-Sun
- Corso del Rinascimento

1 Campo De’ Fiori & Around

CAMPO DE’ Fiori

(Map GOOGLE MAP; Corso Vittorio Emanuele II)

Noisy, colourful ‘Il Campo’ is a major focus of Roman life: by day it hosts one of Rome's best-known markets, while at night it morphs into a raucous open-air pub. For centuries the square was the site of public executions, and it was here that the philosopher Giordano Bruno was burned at the stake for heresy in 1600. The spot is marked by a sinister statue of the hooded monk, created by Ettore Ferrari and unveiled in 1889.

The piazza's poetic name (Field of Flowers) explains what stood here before the square was laid out in the mid-15th century.

PALAZZO FARNESE

Home of the French Embassy, this formidable Renaissance palazzo, one of Rome's finest, was started in 1514 by Antonio da Sangallo the Younger, continued by Michelangelo and finished by Giacomo della Porta. Inside, it boasts a series of frescoes by Annibale Carracci that are said by some to rival Michelangelo's in the Sistine Chapel. The highlight, painted between 1597 and 1608, is the monumental ceiling fresco Amori degli Dei (The Loves of the Gods) in the recently restored Galleria dei Carracci.

Visits to the palazzo are by 45-minute guided tour only, for which you'll need to book at least a week in advance – see the website for details. Photo ID is required for entry and children under 10 are not admitted.

The twin fountains in the square outside are enormous granite baths taken from the Terme di Caracalla.

PALAZZO SPADA

With its stuccoed ornamental facade and handsome courtyard, this grand palazzo is a fine example of 16th-century Mannerist architecture. Upstairs, a small gallery houses the Spada family art collection with works by Andrea del Sarto, Guido Reni, Guercino and Titian, while downstairs Francesco Borromini's famous optical illusion, aka the Prospettiva (Perspective), continues to confound visitors.

What appears to be a 25m-long corridor lined with columns leading to a hedge and life-sized statue is, in fact, only 10m long. The sculpture, which was a later addition, is actually hip-height and the columns diminish in size not because of distance but because they actually get shorter. And look closer at that perfect-looking hedge – Borromini didn’t trust the gardeners to clip a real hedge precisely enough so he made one of stone.

VIA GIULIA

Designed by Bramante in 1508 as part of a big urban development program ordered by Pope Julius II, Via Giulia is one of Rome's most charming roads lined with colourful Renaissance palazzi and potted
At its southern end, the Fontana del Mascherone (MAP Google Map; g Via Giulia) depicts a gormless 17th-century hippy seemingly surprised by water spewing from his mouth. Just beyond it, and spanning the road, is the Arco Farnese (MAP Google Map; g Via Giulia), an overhead arch designed by Michelangelo as part of an unfinished project to connect Palazzo Farnese with Villa Farnesina on the opposite side of the Tiber.

Continuing north, on the left, in Via di Sant’Eligio, is the lovely Raphael-designed Chiesa di Sant’Eligio degli Orefici (MAP Google Map; % 06 686 82 60; h by prior reservation only 9am-1pm Mon-Fri; g Via Giulia).

Check out Rome’s dark side at this macabre museum of crime. Housed in a 19th-century prison, its gruesome collection includes torture devices, murder weapons, fake Picassos, and the red cloak of Massimo Titta, the Papal State's official executioner who carried out 516 executions between 1796 and 1865.

The last resting place of Francesco Borromini and Carlo Maderno, this graceful 16th-century church was commissioned by Pope Leo X as a showcase for Florentine artistic talent. Jacopo Sansovino won a competition for its design, which was then executed by Antonio Sangallo the Younger and Giacomo della Porta. Carlo Maderno completed the elongated cupola in 1614, while the travertine facade was added by Alessandro Galilei in the mid-18th century.

As impressive an example of Renaissance architecture as you’ll find in Rome, this huge palazzo was built for Cardinal Raffaele Riario between 1483 and 1513. It was later acquired by the Vatican and became the seat of the Papal Chancellory. It is still Vatican property and nowadays houses the Tribunal of the Roman Rota, the Holy See’s highest ecclesiastical court.

Until April 2016, the palazzo is hosting an exhibition dedicated to machines designed by Leonardo da Vinci. But if that doesn't appeal, it's worth nipping through to the courtyard to take a peek at Bramante’s glorious double loggia.

Incorporated into the palazzo, the 4th-century Basilica di San Lorenzo in Damaso is one of Rome’s oldest churches.
This charming museum boasts a fascinating collection of early Mediterranean sculpture. You’ll find Greek, Etruscan, Roman, Assyrian, Cypriot and Egyptian works, all donated to the state by Baron Giovanni Barracco in 1902.

The palazzo housing the museum, known as the Piccolo Farnesina, was built for a French clergyman, Thomas Le Roy, in 1523.

CHIESA DI SANT’ANDREA DELLA VALLE (MAP) (GOOGLE MAP)

Piazza Vidoni 6; h 7.30am-noon & 4.30-7.30pm Mon-Sat, 7.30am-12.45pm & 4.30-7.45pm Sun; g Corso Vittorio Emanuele II)

A must for opera fans, this towering 17th-century church is where Giacomo Puccini set the first act of Tosca. Its most obvious feature is Carlo Maderno’s soaring dome, the highest in Rome after St Peter’s, but its cavernous baroque interior reveals a wonderful series of frescoes by Matteo Preti and Domenichino, and, in the dome, Lanfranco's heady depiction of the Gloria del Paradiso (Glory of Paradise; 1625-28).

Competition between the artists working on the church was fierce and rumour has it that Domenichino once took a saw to Lanfranco’s scaffolding, almost killing him in the process.

LOCAL KNOWLEDGE

ARCO DEGLI ACETARI (Vinegar-Makers’ Arch; MAP) (GOOGLE MAP)

Via del Pellegrino 19; g Corso Vittorio Emanuele II)

For one of Rome’s most picture-perfect scenes, head to Via del Pellegrino 19, just off Campo de’ Fiori. Here you'll come across a dark archway called the Arco degli Acetari. This in itself isn’t especially memorable, but if you duck under it you’ll emerge onto a tiny medieval square enclosed by rusty orange houses and full of colourful cascading plants. Cats and bicycles litter the cobbles, while overhead washing hangs off pretty flower-lined balconies.
TOP SIGHT
CHIESA DEL GESÙ

An imposing example of Counter-Reformation architecture, this landmark chiesa is Rome's most important Jesuit church. Consecrated in 1584, it's fronted by a harmonious and much-copied facade by Giacomo della Porta. But rather than the masonry, the star turn here is the lavish marble-clad interior. Of the art on display, the most astounding work is the Trionfo del Nome di Gesù (Triumph of the Name of Jesus; 1679), the swirling ceiling fresco by Giovanni Battista Gaulli. The artist, better known as Il Baciccia, also created much of the stucco decoration and the cupola frescoes.

In the northern transept, the Cappella di Sant’Ignazio houses the tomb of Ignatius Loyola, the Spanish soldier who founded the Jesuits in 1540. Designed by baroque maestro Andrea Pozzo, the altar-tomb is an opulent marble-and-bronze affair with lapis lazuli–encrusted columns, and, on top, a lapis lazuli globe representing the Trinity. On either side are sculptures whose titles neatly encapsulate the Jesuit ethos: to the left, Fede che vince l’Idolatria (Faith Defeats Idolatry); to the right, Religione che flagella l’Eresia (Religion Lashing Heresy).

The Spanish saint lived in the church from 1544 until his death in 1556 and you can visit his private rooms, together with a corridor adorned with Andrea Pozzo frescoes, to the right of the main church.

DON’T MISS…

- The Trionfo del Nome di Gesù fresco
- Cappella di Sant’Ignazio

PRACTICALITIES

- MAP GOOGLE MAP
- www.chiesadelgesu.org
- Piazza del Gesù
- 7am-12.30pm & 4-7.45pm, St Ignatius rooms 4-6pm Mon-Sat, 10am-noon Sun
- Largo di Torre Argentina

1 Jewish Ghetto

Centred on lively Via Portico d’Ottavia, the Jewish Ghetto is an atmospheric area studded with artisans’ studios, vintage clothes shops, kosher bakeries and popular trattorias.

Rome’s Jewish community harks back to the 2nd century BC, making it one of the oldest in Europe. At one point there were as many as 13 synagogues in the city, but Titus’s defeat of Jewish rebels in Jerusalem in AD 70 changed the status of Rome’s Jews from citizens to slaves. Confinement in the Ghetto was first enforced in 1555 when Pope Paul IV ushered in a period of official intolerance that lasted, on and off, until the 20th century.

For local news and tourist information, pop into the Jewish Info Point ( GOOGLE MAP ; 06 9838 1030;
The historical, cultural and artistic heritage of Rome’s Jewish community is chronicled in this small but engrossing museum. Housed in the city's early-20th-century synagogue, Europe’s second largest, it displays parchments, precious fabrics, marble carvings, and a collection of 17th- and 18th-century silverware. Documents and photos attest to life in the Ghetto and the hardships suffered by the city's Jewry during WWII.

A real-life house of horrors, Palazzo Cenci was the scene of one of the 16th century’s most infamous crimes, the murder of Francesco Cenci by his long-suffering daughter Beatrice and wife Lucrezia.

Shelley based his tragedy The Cenci on the family, and a famous portrait of Beatrice by Guido Reni hangs in the Galleria Nazionale d’Arte Antica: Palazzo Barberini. It shows a sweet-faced young girl with soft eyes and fair hair.

This playful, much-loved fountain features four boys gently hoisting tortoises up into a bowl of water. Created by Giacomo della Porta and Taddeo Landini in the late 16th century, it's the subject of a popular local legend, according to which it was created in a single night.

The story goes that the Duke of Mattei had it built to save his engagement and prove to his prospective father-in-law that despite gambling his fortune away he was still a good catch. And amazingly, it worked. The father was impressed and allowed Mattei to marry his daughter.

In reality, the fountain was no overnight sensation and took three years to craft (1581–1584). The tortoises, after whom it's named, were added by Bernini during a restoration in 1658.

To the east of the Jewish Ghetto, the Teatro di Marcello (Theatre of Marcellus; MAP GOOGLE MAP; Via del Teatro di Marcello 44 & Via Portico d'Ottavia 29; h: 9am-7pm summer, 9am-6pm winter; g: Via del Teatro di Marcello) is the star turn of this dusty archaeological area. This 20,000-seat mini-Colosseum was planned by Julius Caesar and completed in 11 BC by Augustus, who named it after a favourite nephew, Marcellus. In the 16th century, a palazzo, which now contains several exclusive apartments, was built on top of the original structure.

Beyond the theatre, the Portico d'Ottavia, currently covered in scaffolding, is the oldest quadriporto (four-sided porch) in Rome. The dilapidated columns and fragmented pediment once formed part of a vast rectangular portico that was supported by 300 columns and measured 132m by 119m. Erected by a builder called Octavius in 146 BC, it was rebuilt in 23 BC by Augustus, who kept the name in honour of his sister Octavia. From the Middle Ages until the late 19th century, the portico housed Rome’s fish market.

CHIESA DI SAN NICOLA IN CARCERE

This innocuous-looking 11th-century church harbours some fascinating Roman excavations. Beneath the main church you can poke around the claustrophobic foundations of three Republic-era temples and the remnants of an Etruscan vegetable market. Marble columns from the temples were incorporated into the church’s structure and are still visible today.

Visits, led by experts from the Sotterranei di Roma association, are by guided tour only.

1 Isola Tiberina

One of the world’s smallest inhabited islands, the boat-shaped Isola Tiberina (Tiber Island) has been associated with healing since the 3rd century BC, when the Romans built a temple to the god of medicine Asclepius (aka Aesculapius) here. And still today people come to the Isola to be cured, though they now head to the island's long-standing hospital, the Ospedale Fatebenefratelli.

The island is connected to the mainland by two bridges: the 62 BC Ponte Fabricio, Rome's oldest standing bridge, which links with the Jewish Ghetto, and Ponte Cestio, which runs over to Trastevere.

Visible to the south are the remains of the Ponte Rotto (Broken Bridge; GOOGLE MAP), ancient Rome’s first stone bridge, which was all but swept away in a 1598 flood.

CHIESA DI SAN BARTOLOMEO

Built on the ruins of the Roman temple to Aesculapius, the Graeco-Roman god of medicine, the island’s 10th-century church is an interesting hybrid of architectural styles: the facade is baroque, as is the richly frescoed ceiling; the belltower is 12th-century Romanesque, and the 28 columns that divide the interior date to ancient times.

Inside, a marble wellhead is thought to stand over the spring that provided the temple’s healing waters.
LOCAL KNOWLEDGE

ROME’S FAVOURITE FOOT

PIÈ DI MARMO (MAP GOOGLE MAP; Via di Santo Stefano del Cacco; © Via del Corso)

It doesn’t appear on any tourist brochures and you could easily pass by without noticing it, but the Piè di Marmo is one of the Romans’ favourite monuments. A giant marble foot, now on Via di Santo Stefano del Cacco, it started life attached to statue in a 1st-century temple dedicated to the Egyptian gods Isis and Serapis. Some 1600 years later it cropped up on the street that now bears its name, Via del Piè di Marmo.

It was moved to its current position in 1878 to clear the path for King Vittorio Emanuele II’s funeral procession to the Pantheon.
TOP SIGHT
GALLERIA DORIA PAMPHILJ

Hidden behind the grimy grey exterior of Palazzo Doria Pamphilj, this wonderful gallery boasts one of Rome’s richest private art collections, with works by Raphael, Tintoretto, Brueghel, Titian, Caravaggio, Bernini and Velázquez.

Palazzo Doria Pamphilj dates to the mid-15th century, but its current look was largely the work of the current owners, the Doria Pamphilj family, who acquired it in the 18th century. The Pamphilj’s golden age, during which the family collection was started, came during the papacy of one of their own, Innocent X (r 1644–55).

The opulent picture galleries, decorated with frescoed ceilings and gilded mirrors, are hung with floor-to-ceiling paintings. Masterpieces abound, but look out for Titian’s Salomè con la testa del Battista (Salome with the Head of John the Baptist) and two early Caravaggios: Riposo durante la fuga in Egitto (Rest During the Flight into Egypt) and Maddalene Penitente (Penitent Magdalen). The undisputed star, though, is Velázquez’ portrait of an implacable Pope Innocent X, who grumbled that the depiction was ‘too real’. For a comparison, check out Gian Lorenzo Bernini’s sculptural interpretation of the same subject.

The excellent free audioguide, narrated by Jonathan Pamphilj, brings the place alive with family anecdotes and background information.

DON’T MISS…

- Salomè con la testa del Battista
- Riposo durante la fuga in Egitto
- Ritratto di papa Innocenzo X

PRACTICALITIES

- MAP GOOGLE MAP
- %06 679 73 23
- www.dopart.it
- Via del Corso 305
- adult/reduced €11/7.50
- 9am-7pm, last admission 6pm
- Piazza del Corso

1 Piazza Colonna & Around

PIAZZA COLOMNA

Together with the adjacent Piazza di Montecitorio, this stylish piazza is Rome’s political nerve centre. On its northern flank, the 16th-century Palazzo Chigi (MAP GOOGLE MAP www.governo.it; Piazza...
Colonna 370; guided visits 9am-1pm Sat Oct-May, bookings required; Via del Corso) has been the official residence of Italy’s prime minister since 1961. In the centre, the 30m-high Colonna di Marco Aurelio (MAP; Colonna di Marco Aurelio; Via del Corso) was completed in AD 193 to honour Marcus Aurelius’ military victories.

The column's vivid reliefs depict scenes from battles against the Germanic tribes (169–173) and, further up, the Sarmatians (174–176). In 1589 Marcus was replaced on the top of the column with a bronze statue of St Paul.

PALAZZO DI MONTECITORIO
(MAP; Piazza di Montecitorio;(; Via del Corso)F
Home to Italy’s Chamber of Deputies, this baroque palazzo was built by Bernini in 1653, expanded by Carlo Fontana in the late 17th century, and given an art-nouveau facelift in 1918. Visits take in the mansion's lavish reception rooms and the main chamber where the 630 deputies debate beneath a beautiful Liberty-style skyline.

The obelisk (MAP; Piazza di Montecitorio; Via del Corso) outside was brought from Heliopolis in Egypt by Augustus to celebrate victory over Cleopatra and Mark Antony in 30 BC.

PIAZZA DI PIETRA
(MAP; Via del Corso)
This charming piazza, surrounded by popular bars and cafes, is overlooked by 11 huge Corinthian columns, all that's left of the 2nd-century Tempio di Adriano (MAP; Piazza di Pietra; Via del Corso). The temple formerly housed Rome’s stock exchange and is now used to host conferences and business events.

CHIESA DI SANT’IGNAZIO DI LOYOLA
(MAP; Piazza di Sant’Ignazio; 7.30am-7pm Mon-Sat, 9am-7pm Sun; Via del Corso)
Flanking a delightful rococo piazza, this important Jesuit church boasts a Carlo Maderno facade and two celebrated trompe l’oeil frescoes by Andrea Pozzo (1642–1709). One cleverly depicts a fake dome, while the other, on the nave ceiling, shows St Ignatius Loyola being welcomed into paradise by Christ and the Madonna.

For the best views of this dizzying work, stand on the small yellow spot on the nave floor and look up. The ceiling, which is, in fact, flat, appears to curve. But walk a little further into the church and you'll see the carefully created perspective stops working and the deception becomes clear.

The church, which was built by the Jesuit architect Orazio Grassi in 1626, flanks Piazza di Sant’Ignazio, an exquisite square laid out in 1727 to resemble a stage set. Note the exits into ‘the wings’ at the northern end and how the undulating surfaces create the illusion of a larger space.

CHIESA DI SAN LORENZO IN LUCINA
(MAP; Piazza San Lorenzo in Lucina 16; 8am-8pm; Via del Corso)
Little remains of the 5th-century church that was originally built here atop a well sacred to Juno. But that shouldn’t detract from what is a very pretty church, complete with Romanesque bell tower and a 12th-century columned portico.

Inside, the otherwise standard baroque decor is elevated by Guido Reni’s Croci f isso (Crucifixion) above the main altar, and a fine bust by Bernini in the Cappella dell'Annunziata. The French painter Nicholas Poussin, who died in 1655, is buried in the church.
Neighbourhood Walk
Centro Storico Piazzas

START PIAZZA COLONNA END PIAZZA FARNESE
LENGTH 1.5KM; 3½ HOURS

Start in Piazza Colonna, an elegant square dominated by the 30m-high Colonna di Marco Aurelio and flanked by Palazzo Chigi, the official residence of the Italian prime minister. Next door, and facing onto Piazza di Montecitorio, is the equally impressive seat of Italy's Chamber of Deputies, Palazzo di Montecitorio. From Piazza Colonna follow Via dei Bergamaschi down to Piazza di Pietra, a refined rectangular space overlooked by the 2nd-century Tempio di Adriano. Continue past the columns down Via de' Burro to Piazza di Sant'Ignazio, a small stagy piazza whose resident church boasts some celebrated trompe l'oeil frescoes.

From here, it’s a short walk along Via del Seminario to Piazza della Rotonda, where the Pantheon needs no introduction.

Leaving the Pantheon, head up Salita dei Crescenzi and go left along Via Sant'Eustachio to Piazza Sant'Eustachio. On this small, workaday square, the busy Caffè Sant'Eustachio is reckoned by many to serve the best coffee in town. Suitably re-charged, follow Via degli Staderari to Corso del Rinascimento, drop a quick left followed by a short right and you’ll find yourself emerging onto Rome’s showpiece square, Piazza Navona. Here, among the street artists, tourists and pigeons, you can compare the two giants of Roman baroque — Gian Lorenzo Bernini, creator of the Fontana dei Quattro Fiumi, and Francesco Borromini, author of the Chiesa di Sant'Agnese in Agone.

Exit the piazza and follow Via del Governo Vecchio, an atmospheric street lined with fashion boutiques and buzzing eateries. At the end, turn left down Via dei Filippini to Corso Vittorio Emanuele II, the busy thoroughfare that bisects the historic centre. Cross over and follow Via dei Cartari down to Via del Pellegrino. Follow on to the noisy market square, Campo de' Fiori, and beyond that, the more sober Piazza Farnee overshadowed by the Renaissance Palazzo Farnese.
5 EATING

Around Piazza Navona, Campo de’ Fiori and the Pantheon you’ll find all manner of eateries, including some of the capital’s best restaurants (both contemporary and traditional), alongside hundreds of overpriced tourist traps. The atmospheric Ghetto is famous for its Roman-Jewish cuisine.

5 Pantheon & Around

VENCHI

Forget fancy flavours and gelato experiments, Venchi is all about the unadulterated enjoyment of chocolate. The wall shelves and counter displays feature myriad beautifully packaged delicacies, from pralines to chilli chocolate bars, as well as an assortment of decadent choc-based ice creams.

VICE

Conveniently situated near Largo di Torre Argentina, this contemporary gelateria has a range of classic flavours such as nocciola (hazelnut), limone (lemon) and tiramisu, as well as more creative choices like cheesecake and blueberry crumble.

FIOCCO DI NEVE

Cheerful, loud staff, locals at the bar, ice cream in natural colours – this pocket-size place has all the hallmarks of a choice Roman gelateria. The fruit flavours are especially good, as is the house speciality, affogato di zabaglione al caffè, a coffee with a dollop of zabaglione ice cream plopped in.

ENOTECA CORSI

Join the lunchtime crowds at family-run Corsi, a genuine old-style osteria. The look is no-frills – paper tablecloths, fading framed prints and wine bottles – and the atmosphere one of controlled mayhem. The menu offers no surprises, just filling, homey fare like pasta with potatoes, sausages, and roast chicken.

CIAO CHECCA
When you want a plate of pasta or a quick salad without all the hassle of a restaurant meal, this upscale fast-food joint is the answer. Expect crowds and recyclable cartons of seasonally inspired dishes ranging from bean soup to ravioli and sweet Sicilian desserts.

ZAZÀ
(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 06 6880 1357; Piazza Sant’Eustachio 49; pizza slice around €3; h 9am-11pm Mon-Sat, to noon Sun; g Corso del Rinascimento)
Handily sandwiched between Piazza Navona and the Pantheon, this bright and breezy takeaway dishes up surprisingly good slices of low-cal pizza, made with carefully sourced organic ingredients. Order to go or grab an outside table and watch the world pass by as you munch.

CASA COPPELLE
(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 06 6889 1707; www.casacoppelle.it; Piazza delle Coppelle 49; meals €35-40; h 12-3.30pm & 6.30-11.30pm; g Corso del Rinascimento)
Exposed brick walls, flowers and subdued lighting set the stage for creative Italian- and French-inspired food at this intimate, romantic restaurant. There's a full range of starters and pastas, but the real tour de force are the deliciously tender steaks and rich meat dishes. Service is attentive and the setting, on a small piazza near the Pantheon, memorable. Book ahead.

LA CIAMBELLA
(MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.laciambellaroma.com; Via dell'Arco della Ciambella 20; fixed-price lunch menus €10-25, meals €30 h 7.30am-midnight; g Largo di Torre Argentina)
From breakfast pastries and lunchtime pastas to afternoon tea, Neapolitan pizzas and aperitif cocktails, this all-day eatery is a top find. Central but as yet undiscovered by the tourist hordes, it's a spacious, light-filled spot set over the ruins of the Terme di Agrippa, visible through transparent floor panels. The mostly traditional food is spot on, and the atmosphere laid back and friendly.

ARMANDO AL PANTHEON
(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 06 6880 3034; www.armandoalpantheon.it; Salita dei Crescenzi 31; meals €40; h 12.30-3pm & 7-11pm Mon-Fri, 12.30-3pm Sat; g Largo di Torre Argentina)
An institution in these parts, Armando al Pantheon is a rare find – a genuine family-run trattoria in the touristy Pantheon area. It’s been on the go for more than 50 years and has served its fair share of celebs, but it hasn't let fame go to its head and it remains one of the best bets for earthy Roman cuisine. Reservations essential.

OSTERIA DEL SOSTEGNO
(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 06 679 38 42; www.ilsoestegno.it; Via delle Colonnelle 5; meals €40; h 12.30-3pm & 7.30-11.30pm Tue-Sun; g Largo di Torre Argentina)
Follow the green neon arrow to the end of a narrow alley and you’ll find this well-kept secret. It’s an intimate place, a favourite of journalists and politicians who sneak off here to dine on old-school staples such as spaghetti carbonara and saltimbocca (sliced veal cooked with wine, ham and sage).

LA ROSETTA
( MAP GOOGLE MAP  ; 06 686 10 02; www.larosetta.com; Via della Rosetta 8; lunch menu €65, meals €90-120; h12.15-2.45pm & 7-10.45pm, closed 3 weeks Aug; g Corso del Rinascimento)

Food fads might come and go but La Rosetta remains what it has long been, one of Rome's top fish restaurants. Hidden down a sidestreet near the Pantheon, it offers classic seafood dishes and a choice of raw delicacies alongside more elaborate modern creations. Bookings essential.

GREEN T
( MAP GOOGLE MAP  ; 06 679 86 28; www.green-tea.it; Via del Piè di Marmo 28; lunch menus €9.50-17.50, meals €50; h noon-3pm & 6.30-11.30pm Mon-Sat; g Via del Corso)

Flying the flag for quality Chinese food, this five-room feng shui–designed restaurant is one of a kind: a tearoom and boutique serving soups, spicy Szechuan dishes, dim sum and a selection of fine teas. Save money at lunch by opting for one of the daily fixed-price menus.

5 Piazza Navona & Around

ALFREDO E ADA
( MAP GOOGLE MAP  ; 06 687 88 42; Via dei Banchi Nuovi 14; meals €25; h noon-3pm & 7-10pm Tue-Sat; g Corso Vittorio Emanuele II)

For an authentic trattoria meal, search out this much-loved local eatery. It's distinctly no-frills with spindly, marble-topped tables and homey clutter, but there's a warm, friendly atmosphere and the traditional Roman food is filling and flavoursome.

BAGUETTERIA DEL FICO
( MAP GOOGLE MAP  ; Via della Fossa 12; panini €5-7; h 11am-2am; g Corso del Risorgimento)

A designer baguette bar ideal for a midday bite or late snack. Choose your bread, then select from the rich array of fillers – cured meats, cheeses, marinated vegetables, salads, homemade sauces. For liquid sustenance, there's a choice of bottled craft beers.

GELATERIA DEL TEATRO
( MAP GOOGLE MAP  ; Via dei Coronari 65; gelato from €2.50; h 11.30am-midnight; g Corso del Rinascimento)

All the ice cream served at this excellent gelateria is prepared on site – look through the window and you'll see how. There are about 40 flavours to choose from, all made from thoughtfully sourced ingredients, including some excellent fruit combos and spicy chocolate.

DA TONINO
A historic presence on Via del Governo Vecchio, Tonino’s might be defiantly low-key with its simple wooden tables and yellowing pictures, but it’s almost always packed with locals and visitors. Don't expect silver service, or even a menu, just straight-up Roman staples and honest local wine. No credit cards.

PIZZERIA LA MONTECARLO
This historic pizzeria is hugely popular, drawing a mixed crowd of sightseers, locals and even the occasional city celeb. Not the place for a lingering dinner, it can get frantic as the nimble waiters skip around the packed tables dishing out fried starters and crisp, wood-charred pizzas.

LO ZOZZONE
With a few inside tables and a mile-long menu of panini, the affectionately named ‘dirty one’ is a reliable choice for a quick fill-up. Sandwiches are made with pizza bianca (pizza without tomato) and fillings of cured meats, cheeses and vegetables.

CUL DE SAC
A perennially popular wine bar just off Piazza Navona, with an always-busy terrace and narrow, bottle-lined interior. Choose your tipple first – the encyclopaedic wine list boasts about 1500 labels – and then pick what to go with it from the ample menu of no-nonsense Roman staples, Gallic-inspired cold cuts, pâtés, and cheeses. Book ahead for the evening.

LA CAMPANA
Caravaggio, Goethe and Federico Fellini are among the luminaries who have dined at what is said to be Rome’s oldest trattoria, dating back to around 1518. Nowadays, locals crowd its soberly attired dining rooms to dine on fresh fish and traditional Roman cuisine in a cheerful, pleasantly relaxed atmosphere. Bookings recommended.

DA FRANCESCO
Dining at this quintessential Roman pizzeria-cum-trattoria is all about the buzzing atmosphere and cheerful, noisy vibe. With a small interior and tables spilling out onto the pretty piazza outside, it serves Roman-style thin-crust pizzas and a full menu of daily pastas and expertly char-grilled meats. Get here before 8pm or expect to wait.

LILLI

TRATTORIA$$

MAP GOOGLE MAP; ☏ 06 686 19 16; www.trattorialilli.it; Via di Tor di Nona 23; meals €25-30; h 12.30-3pm & 7.30-11pm, closed Sun dinner & Mon; @ Lungotevere Tor di Nona)

Few tourists make it to this long-standing neighbourhood trattoria on a cobbled cul-de-sac five minutes’ walk from Piazza Navona. But it still gets busy as local diners pile in to enjoy its genuine casareccia (homestyle) cooking. Bookings recommended.

BAR DEL FICO

ITALIAN$$

MAP GOOGLE MAP; ☏ 06 6889 1373; Via della Pace 34-35; meals €20-30; h 8am-2am; @ Corso Vittorio Emanuele II)

Named after the fig tree that shades the chess-playing old boys outside, this fashionable bar-restaurant is good from breakfast through to dinner. The low-key boho decor – rough wooden floors, tin tables and chipped walls – makes for a laid-back ambience for lunchtime pastas and grilled meat dinners. Its Sunday brunch (12.30 to 3pm) is a popular appointment.

LA FOCACCIA

PIZZA, TRATTORIA$$

MAP GOOGLE MAP; ☏ 06 6880 3312; Via della Pace 11; pizzas €7-9, meals €30-35; h 11pm-12.30am; @ Corso del Rinascimento)

Hotfoot it to one of the few outside tables at this unsigned pizzeria near the Chiostro del Bramante, or settle for a place in the surprisingly large interior. Kick off with a supplì (fried rice croquette) or antipasto of fried zucchini before launching into the main event, Neapolitan-style wood-fired pizza.

CASA BLEVE

RISTORANTE, WINE BAR$$$

MAP GOOGLE MAP; ☏ 06 686 59 70; www.casableve.it; Via del Teatro Valle 48-49; meals €50-65; h 12.30-3pm & 7.30-10.30pm Mon-Sat; @ Largo di Torre Argentina)

Ideal for a special-occasion dinner, this palatial restaurant–wine bar dazzles with its column-lined dining hall and stained-glass roof. Its wine list, one of the best in town, accompanies a small but considered menu of hard-to-find cheeses, cold cuts, seasonal pastas and refined main courses.

LOCAL KNOWLEDGE

CHIOSTRO DEL BRAMANTE CAFFÈ

CAFÉS

MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.chiostrodelbramante.it; Via Arco della Pace 5; meals €15-20; h 10am-8pm Mon-Fri, to 9pm Sat & Sun; @ Corso del Rinascimento)

Many of Rome’s galleries and museums have in-house cafes but few are as beautifully located as the Chiostro del Bramante Caffè on the 1st floor of Bramante’s elegant Renaissance cloister. With outdoor tables overlooking the central courtyard and an all-day menu offering everything from cakes and coffee to baguettes, light lunches and aperitifs, it’s a great spot for a break.
SUPPLIZIO
Via dei Banchi Vecchi 143; supplì €3-5; h noon-4pm Mon-Sat plus 5.30-10pm Mon-Thu, to 11pm Fri & Sat; Corso Vittorio Emanuele II
Rome's favourite snack, the supplì (a fried croquette filled with rice, tomato sauce and mozzarella), gets a gourmet makeover at this elegant new streetfood joint. Sit back on the vintage leather sofa and dig into the classic article or throw the boat out and try something different, maybe a mildly spicy fish supplì stuffed with anchovies, tuna, parsley, and just a hint of orange.

I DOLCI DI NONNA VINCENZA
Via Arco del Monte 98a; pastries from €2.50; h 8am-9pm Sun-Thu, to midnight Fri & Sat; Via Arenula Bringing the flavours of Sicily to Rome, this pastry shop is hard to resist. Browse the traditional cakes and tempting dolci in the old wooden dressers, before adjourning to the adjacent bar to tear into the heavenly selection of creamy, flaky, puffy pastries.

PASTICCERIA DE BELLIS
Piazza del Paradiso 56-57; pastries €4; h 9am-8pm Tue-Sun; Corso Vittorio Emanuele II
The beautifully crafted cakes, pastries and dolci made at this chic pasticceria are miniature works of art. Curated in every detail, they look superb and taste magnificent. You'll find traditional offerings alongside unique creations such as the Assoluta, a decadent concoction combining several chocolate mousses.

FORNO ROSCIOLI
Via dei Chiavari 34; pizza slices from €2, snacks from €1.50; h 7am-7.30pm Mon-Sat; Via Arenula
This is one of Rome's top bakeries, much loved by lunching locals who crowd here for luscious sliced pizza, prize pastries and hunger-sating supplì. There's also a counter serving hot pastas and vegetable side dishes.

FORNO DI CAMPO DE' FIORI
Campo de' Fiori 22; pizza slices about €3; h 7.30am-2.30pm & 4.45-8pm Mon-Sat; Corso Vittorio Emanuele II
This buzzing bakery on Campo de' Fiori does a roaring trade in panini and delicious fresh-from-the-oven pizza al taglio (by the slice). Aficionados swear by the pizza bianca ('white' pizza with olive oil, rosemary and salt), but the panini and pizza rossa ('red' pizza, with olive oil, tomato and oregano) taste plenty good, too.

DAR FILETTARO A SANTA BARBARA
Largo dei Librari 88; meals €15-20; h 5.30-10.45pm Mon-Sat; Via Arenula
On a tiny, scooter-strewn piazza, this spartan eatery is a classic Roman friggitoria (shop selling fried food). The house speciality is battered baccalà (cod) but you can also try crisply fried zucchini and anchovies with butter.

RENATO E LUISA
TRATTORIA$$
( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; % 06 686 96 60; www.renatoeluisa.it; Via dei Barbieri 25; meals €45; h 8pm-midnight Tue-Sun; g Largo di Torre Argentina)

Highly rated locally, this small backstreet trattoria is always packed. Chef Renato takes a creative approach to classic Roman cooking, resulting in dishes that are modern and seasonal yet undeniably local, such as his signature cacio e pepe e fiori di zucca (pasta with pecorino cheese, black pepper and courgette flowers). Bookings recommended.

DITIRAMBO
ITALIAN$$
( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; % 06 687 16 26; www.ristoranteditirambo.it; Piazza della Cancelleria 72; meals €40; h 1-3pm & 7.20-10.30pm, closed Mon lunch; g Corso Vittorio Emanuele II)

Since opening in 1996, Ditirambo has won an army of fans with its informal trattoria vibe and seasonal, organic cuisine. Dishes cover many bases, ranging from old-school favourites to thoughtful vegetarian offerings and more exotic fare such as pasta with Sicilian prawns, basil and lime. Book ahead.

GRAPPOLO D’ORO
ITALIAN$$
( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; % 06 689 70 80; www.hosteriagrappolodoro.it; Piazza della Cancelleria 80; tasting menu €28, meals €35-40; h 12.45-3pm & 7-11.30pm, closed Wed lunch; g Corso Vittorio Emanuele II)

This informal eatery stands out among the many lacklustre options around Campo de’ Fiori. The emphasis is on traditional Roman cuisine, albeit with the occasional twist, so look out for artichoke starters, pastas littered with pecorino, pancetta and black pepper, and mains of no-nonsense braised and grilled meats.

SERGIO ALLE GROTTE
TRATTORIA$$
( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; % 06 686 42 93; Vicolo delle Grotte 27; meals €30-35; h 12.30-3.30pm & 6.30-11pm Mon-Sat; j Via Arenula)

This is a textbook Roman trattoria: chequered tablecloths, dodgy wall murals, battle-hardened waiters delivering steaming bowls of hearty, down-to-earth pasta followed by steaks grilled over hot coals.

SALUMERIA ROSCIOLI
ITALIAN$$$
( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; % 06 687 52 87; Via dei Giubbonari 21; meals €55; h 12.30-4pm & 7pm-midnight Mon-Sat; j Via Arenula)

The name Roscioli has long been a byword for foodie excellence, and this luxurious deli-restaurant is the place to experience it. Under a coffered ceiling, you'll find a display of mouth-watering Italian and foreign delicacies, while behind, in the small restaurant, diners sit down to sophisticated Italian food and some truly outstanding wines.
Jewish Ghetto

ANTICO FORNO URBANI
(Pizza, Bakery$)
( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Piazza Costaguti 31; pizza slices from €1.50; h 7.40am-2.30pm & 5-8.45pm Mon-Fri, 9am-1.30pm Sat & Sun; j Via Arenula)

A popular kosher bakery, this Ghetto institution makes some of the best pizza bianca in town, as well as freshly baked bread, biscuits and focaccias. It gets very busy but once you catch a whiff of the yeasty odours wafting off the counter, there's nothing for it but to grab a ticket and wait your turn.

BOCCIONE
(Bakery$)
( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 06 687 86 37; Via del Portico d'Ottavia 1; h 8am-7.30pm Sun-Thu, 8am-3.30pm Fri; j Via Arenula)

This tiny, unsigned shop is the Ghetto's most famous bakery, where locals come to buy their special-occasion dolci (cakes and pastries). The burnished cakes, served by authentically grumpy ladies, are bursting with fruit, sultanas, and ricotta.

ALBERTO PICA
(Gelateria, Cafe$)
( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Via della Seggiola 12; gelato €2-3; h 8.30am-2am; j Via Arenula)

Recent years have seen an explosion of modern, gourmet gelaterie in Rome, but some of the old places survive. Places like this faded, old-fashioned milk bar, famous for its classic ice creams and rice gelato, which has the flavour and texture of frozen rice pudding.

BEPPE E I SUOI FORMAGGI
(Deli$$)
( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 06 6819 2210; www.beppeeisuoiiformaggi.it; Via Santa Maria del Pianto 9-11; meals €30; h 9-11am, 11.30am-3.30pm & 7.30-10.30pm Mon-Sat; j Via Arenula)

It's all in the name – Beppe and his cheeses. This small restaurant, attached to a well-stocked deli selling formaggi of all shapes and smells, is a mecca for aficionados, serving cheese throughout the day. Breakfast on ricotta, lunch on robiola, end the day with a dinner of warmed camembert.

PIPERNO
(Ristorante$$$
( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 06 6880 6629; www.ristorantepiperno.it; Via Monte de’ Cenci 9; meals €50-55; h 12.45-2.20pm & 7.45-10.20pm, closed Mon & Sun dinner; j Via Arenula)

This historic Ghetto restaurant, complete with its smart old-school look, is a top spot to get to grips with traditional Jewish-Roman cooking. Signature dishes include wonderful deep-fried filetti di baccalà (cod fillets) and animelle di agnello con carciofi (lamb sweetbreads with artichokes). To finish off, try the tortino al cioccolato (chocolate cake). Booking recommended.

VECCHIA ROMA
(Ristorante$$$
( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 06 686 46 04; www.ristorantevecchiaroma.com; Piazza Campitelli 18; meals €55; h 12.30-3pm & 8-11pm Thu-Tue; g Via del Teatro di Marcello)

This old-fashioned restaurant is a picture of formal elegance with its chandeliers, white-jacketed waiters, and candle-lit terrace overlooking a picture-book piazza. But it's not all show and the food is excellent, with some wonderful seafood antipasti and top-drawer pastas.

LOCAL KNOWLEDGE

KOSHER ROME

If you want to eat kosher in Rome head to Via del Portico d'Ottavia, the main strip through the Jewish Ghetto. Lined with trattorias and restaurants specialising in Roman-Jewish cuisine, it's a lively hangout, especially on hot summer nights when diners crowd the many sidewalk tables. For a taste of typical Ghetto cooking, try Nonna Betta (MAP GOOGLE MAP; ☎ 06 6880 6263; www.nonnabetta.it; Via del Portico d'Ottavia 16; meals €30-35; noon-4pm & 6-11pm, closed Fri dinner & Sat lunch;  Jacoby Arena), a small tunnel of a trattoria serving traditional kosher food and local staples such as carciofi alla guidia (crisp fried artichokes). Further down the road, the unmarked Cremeria Romana (MAP GOOGLE MAP; Via del Portico d'Ottavia 1b; gelato €2-5; 8am-11pm Sun-Thu, to 4pm Fri, 6pm-midnight Sat;  Jacoby Arena) at No 1b has a small selection of tasty kosher gelati.

---

5Isola Tiberina

SORA LEILLA

RISTORANTE$$

( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; ☎ 06 686 16 01; www.soralella.com; Via Ponte Quattro Capi 16; tasting menus €45-58, meals €50; h12.30-3pm & 7.30-11pm Wed-Tue;  Jacoby Lungotevere dei Cenci)

This long-standing family-run restaurant enjoys a memorable setting in a tower on the Tiber’s tiny island. Named after a much-loved Roman actress (the owner’s mum), it serves a classic Roman menu spiced up with some wonderful fish dishes. There are also homemade desserts and several tasting menus, including, on Thursdays, one for vegetarians.

---

5Piazza Colonna & Around

GIOLITTI

GELATERIA$

( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; ☎ 06 699 12 43; www.giolitti.it; Via degli Uffici del Vicario 40; gelato €2.50-4.50; h7am-1am;  Jacoby Via del Corso)

Rome's most celebrated gelateria started as a dairy in 1900 and still keeps the hoards happy with succulent sorbets and creamy combinations. Gregory Peck and Audrey Hepburn swung by in Roman Holiday and, more recently, Barack Obama's daughters stopped off while pops was working at a G8 event. Try the marron glacé, a favourite of Pope John Paul II.

DAL CAVALIER GINO

TRATTORIA$$

( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; ☎ 06 687 34 34; Vicolo Rosini 4; meals €35; h1-3.45pm & 8-11pm Mon-Sat;  Jacoby Via del Corso)

Close to parliament, Gino’s is a hidden backstreet trattoria perennially packed with journalists and conspiring politicians. Join the right honourables for well-executed staples such as tonnarelli cacio e pepe (pasta with pecorino cheese and black pepper) and pollo con peperoni (chicken with pepper), all served under hanging garlics and gaudily painted murals.

OSTERIA DELL’INGEGNO

A boho-chic restaurant–wine bar with a colourful art-filled interior and a prime location on a charming central piazza. The menu hits all the right notes with a selection of seasonal pastas, creative mains, salads, and homemade desserts, while the 300-strong wine list boasts some interesting Italian labels. Aperitivo is served daily from 5pm to 8pm.

MATRICIANELLA

With its gingham tablecloths, chintzy murals and fading prints, Matricianella is an archetypal trattoria, much loved for its traditional Roman cuisine. Its loyal clientele go crazy for ever-green crowd-pleasers like battered vegetables, artichoke alla giudia (fried, Jewish style), and saltimbocca (veal cutlet with ham and sage). Booking is essential.
Nightlife in the centro storico clusters on two main areas: the lanes around Piazza Navona, with a number of elegant bars catering to the hip beautiful people; and the rowdier area around Campo de’ Fiori, where the crowd is younger and the drinking is heavier. This is where people congregate after football games and foreign students head out on the booze. The centro storico also harbours many great cafes.

Pantheon & Around

CAFFÈ SANT'EUSTACCHIO

This small, unassuming cafe, generally three deep at the bar, is reckoned by many to serve the best coffee in town. Created by beating the first drops of espresso and several teaspoons of sugar into a frothy paste, then adding the rest of the coffee, it’s superbly smooth and guaranteed to put some zing into your sightseeing.

LA CASA DEL CAFFÈ TAZZA D’ORO

A busy, stand-up cafe with burnished 1940s fittings, this is one of Rome's best coffee houses. Its espresso hits the mark nicely and there's a range of delicious coffee concoctions, including a cooling granita di caffè, a crushed-ice coffee drink served with whipped cream. There's also a small shop and, outside, a coffee bancomat for those out-of-hours caffeine emergencies.

Piazza Navona & Around

ETABLÌ

Housed in a lofty 16th-century palazzo, Etablì is a rustic-chic lounge-bar-restaurant where you can drop by for a morning coffee, have a light lunch or chat over an aperitivo. It’s laid-back and good-looking, with original French-inspired country decor – think leather armchairs, rough wooden tables, and a crackling fireplace. It also serves weekend brunch, full restaurant dinners (€45), and the occasional jam session.
CIRCUS

( MAP GOOGLE MAP : www.circusroma.it; Via della Vetrina 15; h10.30am-2am; ⏰; β Corso del Rinascimento)

A great little bar, tucked around the corner from Piazza Navona. It’s a relaxed place popular with out-of-town students who come here to catch up on the news – wi-fi is free and there are international newspapers to read – and hang out over a drink. The atmosphere hots up in the evening when cocktails and shots take over from tea and cappuccino.

NO.AU

( MAP GOOGLE MAP : Piazza Montecchio 16; h6pm-1am Tue-Thu, noon-1am Fri-Sun; β Corso del Rinascimento)

Opening onto a charming centro storico piazza, No.Au – pronounced Know How – is a cool bistro-bar set-up. Like many fashionable bars, it’s big on beer and offers a knowledgeable list of artisanal craft brews, as well as local wines and a small but select food menu.

L'EMPORIO ALLA PACE

( MAP GOOGLE MAP : Via della Pace 28; h6am-2am; ⏰; β Corso del Rinaascimento)

Students sitting solo with a book, lunching ladies, gossiping friends, tourists, priests, Romans. This hipster bookshop-cafe caters to a mixed crowd throughout the day, serving cappuccino and cornettos in the morning, panini and pastas at lunch, cocktails and midnight beers in the evening.

CAFFÈ DELLA PACE

( MAP GOOGLE MAP : www.caffedellapace.it; Via della Pace 5; h9am-3am Tue-Sun, 4pm-3am Mon; β Corso del Rinascimento)

For years, this landmark art-nouveau cafe, all stylishly dressed drinkers, polished wood and cascading ivy, was the picture of dolce vita poise. In recent times, the cafe has faced a fight for survival against plans to turn it into a five-star hotel, with the public getting behind petitions to save it.

---

6 Campo de’ Fiori & Around

BARNUM CAFE

( MAP GOOGLE MAP : www.barnumcafe.com; Via del Pellegrino 87; h9am-10pm Mon, 8.30am-2am Tue-Sat; ⏰; β Corso Vittorio Emanuele II)

A relaxed, friendly spot to check your email over a freshly squeezed orange juice or spend a pleasant hour reading a newspaper on one of the tatty old armchairs in the white bare-brick interior. Come evenings and the scene is cocktails, smooth tunes and coolly dressed-down locals.

OPEN BALADIN

( MAP GOOGLE MAP : www.openbaladinroma.it; Via degli Specchi 6; hnoon-2am; ⏰; β Via Arenula)

A hip, shabby-chic lounge bar near Campo de’ Fiori, Open Baladin is a leading light in Rome’s craft-beer scene, with more than 40 beers on tap and up to 100 bottled brews, many from Italian artisanal microbreweries. There’s also a decent food menu with panini, gourmet burgers and daily specials.
This old-school vino e olio (wine and oil) shop has everything you could want in a neighbourhood wine bar – a colourful cast of regulars, a cosy, bottle-lined interior, a selection of cheeses and cold cuts, and a serious, 800-strong wine list.

A self-styled speakeasy with a 1920s look and a password to get in – check the website and call to book – this hidden bar is setting the standards for the cocktail trend currently sweeping Rome. Its hipster mixologists know their stuff and the retro decor lends the place a real Prohibition-era feel.

A hop and a skip from Campo de' Fiori, this is a warm, woody wine bar. It’s an oasis of genteel calm, with a carefully selected wine list, mostly Italian but a few French and New World labels, and a small daily menu of hot and cold dishes such as creamy Andria burrata with sundried tomatoes.

On a picturesque piazza, facing the columns of the Temple of Hadrian, this is a glamorous lounge bar, complete with subdued lighting, vintage 1950s armchairs, Murano lamps and a collection of heavyweight design books. Come for the daily lunch buffet or to hang out with the 'see and be-seen' crowd over an evening cocktail.

A cultural space run by an Italian film producer and publisher, Fandango Incontro occupies the ground floor of an imposing 18th-century palazzo. It's often used to stage events, and its bookshop bar is the ideal spot to sift through comics and discuss art-house cinema over a light lunch or evening aperitif.

This stately art-deco cafe with tables on graceful Piazza di Pietra is well-known for its coffee and Neapolitan cakes. For a real taste of Naples go for a sfogliatella, a flaky pastry shell stuffed with CAFE

CIAMPINI

Join the neighbourhood's well-heeled locals for an al fresco cappuccino or tip-top gelato at this elegant old cafe on graceful, traffic-free Piazza di San Lorenzo in Lucina. There’s also a full food menu of pizzas, pastas, salads and sandwiches.
ENTERTAINMENT

TEATRO ARGENTINA
( MAP GOOGLE MAP; 06 684 00 03 11; www.teatrodiroma.net; Largo di Torre Argentina 52; tickets €16-29; Largo di Torre Argentina)

Founded in 1732, Rome’s top theatre is one of the two official homes of the Teatro di Roma – the other is the Teatro India in the southern suburbs. Rossini’s Barber of Seville premiered here in 1816 and it today stages a wide-ranging program of drama (mostly in Italian), high-profile dance performances, and classical-music concerts.

TEATRO DELL’OROLOGIO
( MAP GOOGLE MAP; 06 687 55 50; www.teatroorologio.com; Via dei Filippini 17a; Corso Vittorio Emanuele II)

A well-known experimental theatre, the three-stage Orologio offers a varied program of contemporary and classic works, including occasional performances in English.
7 Pantheon & Around

LE ARTIGIANE
(CLOTHING, HANDICRAFTS)
( MAP; Via di Torre Argentina 72; h10am-7.30pm; Lifestyle - Largo di Torre Argentina)
A space for local artisans to showcase their wares, this eclectic shop is the result of an ongoing project to sustain and promote Italy's artisanal traditions. It's a browser's dream with an eclectic range of handmade clothes, costume jewellery, ceramics, design objects and lamps.

STILO FETTI
(ACCESSORIES)
( MAP; Via degli Orfani 82; h9am-1pm Tue-Sat, 3.30-7.30pm Mon-Sat; Lifestyle - Via del Corso)
Technology might have largely wiped out fountain pens but this old-fashioned family-run shop, on the go since 1893, has a wonderful selection. All styles are covered and you'll find many top brands, from Faber-Castell to Mont Blanc and Montegrappa, the luxury Italian pen-maker favoured by royalty and world leaders.

ALBERTA GLOVES
(ACCESSORIES)
( MAP; Corso Vittorio Emanuele II 18; h10am-6.30pm; Lifestyle - Largo di Torre Argentina)
From elbow-length silk gloves to tan-coloured driving mitts, this tiny family-run shop sells a wide range of handmade gloves for every conceivable occasion. Scarves and woolly hats too.

7 Piazza Navona & Around

SBU (FASHION)
( MAP; Via di San Pantaleo 68-69; h10am-7.30pm Mon-Sat; Lifestyle - Via del Governo Vecchio)
The flagship store of hip fashion label SBU, aka Strategic Business Unit, occupies a 19th-century workshop near Piazza Navona, complete with cast-iron columns and wooden racks. Pride of place goes to the jeans, superbly cut from top-end Japanese denim, but you can also pick up shirts, jackets, hats, sweaters and T-shirts.

TEMPI MODERNI
(JEWELLERY, CLOTHING)
( MAP; Via del Governo Vecchio 108; h9am-1.30pm & 3-7.30pm Mon-Sat; Lifestyle - Corso Vittorio Emanuele II)
Klimt prints sit side by side with pop-art paintings and cartoon ties at this kooky curiosity shop on Via del Governo Vecchio. It’s packed with vintage costume jewellery, Bakelite pieces from the ’20s and ’30s, art-nouveau and art-deco trinkets, 19th-century resin brooches and pieces by couturiers such as Chanel, Dior and Balenciaga.
OFFICINA PROFUMO FARMACEUTICA DI SANTA MARIA NOVELLA

This, the Roman branch of one of Italy’s oldest pharmacies, stocks natural perfumes and cosmetics as well as herbal infusions, teas and pot pourri, all shelved in wooden, glass-fronted cabinets under a Murano chandelier. The original pharmacy was founded in Florence in 1612 by the Dominican monks of Santa Maria Novella, and many of its cosmetics are based on 17th-century herbal recipes.

NARDECCHIA

Famed for its antique prints, this historic Piazza Navona shop sells everything from 18th-century etchings by Giovanni Battista Piranesi to more affordable 19th-century panoramas. Bank on at least €150 for a small framed print.

LUNA & L’ALTRA

An address for fashionistas with their fingers on the pulse, this is one of a number of independent boutiques on and around Via del Governo Vecchio. In its austere, gallery-like interior, clothes by Comme des Garçons, Issey Miyake, Yohji Yamamoto and others are exhibited in reverential style.

ALDO FEFÈ

This authentic artisanal workshop produces beautifully hand-painted paper as well as leather-bound notebooks (€32), picture frames and photo albums (from €15). You can also buy Florentine wrapping paper and calligraphic pens.

ZOUZOU

Spice up your Roman romance at this upmarket erotic boutique just off Via del Governo Vecchio. Set up as a Victorian boudoir with crimson walls and corseted mannequins, it sells a range of luxury lingerie, toiletries and toys, all, of course, in the best possible taste.

VESTITI USATI CINZIA

Owned by a former costume designer, this is an Aladdin's cave of vintage clothes. Its narrow interior is piled high with jackets (in leather, denim, corduroy and linen), stagy cocktail dresses, screen-printed T-shirts, retro skirts, suede coats, designer sunglasses and colourful bags.

OMERO E CECILIA

 Owned by a former costume designer, this is an Aladdin's cave of vintage clothes. Its narrow interior is piled high with jackets (in leather, denim, corduroy and linen), stagy cocktail dresses, screen-printed T-shirts, retro skirts, suede coats, designer sunglasses and colourful bags.
This wonderful tunnel of a place is browsing heaven, stashed full of second-hand leather bags, ’70s velvet coats, tweed jackets, ’60s Italian dresses, old Burberry trench coats, Church shoes and much more besides.

AI MONASTERI
( MAP GOOGLE MAP: www.aimonasteri.it; Corso del Rinascimento 72; h10.30-7.30pm, closed Thu afternoon & Sun; g Corso del Rinascimento)

With balms for the body and food for the soul, this monastic apothecary stocks a range of herbal essences, lotions and cosmetics, all made by monks from across Italy, as well as wines, liqueurs and biscuits. There are even elixirs promising love, happiness, and eternal youth.

CASALI
( MAP GOOGLE MAP: Via dei Coronari 115; h10am-1pm Mon-Sat plus 3.30-7.30pm Sat; g Corso del Rinascimento)

On lovely Via dei Coronari, Casali deals in original and reproduction etchings and old prints, many delicately hand-coloured. The shop is small but the choice is not, ranging from 16th-century botanical manuscripts to postcard prints of Rome.

LE TELE DI CARLOTTA
( MAP GOOGLE MAP: Via dei Coronari 228; h10.30am-1pm & 3.30-7pm Mon-Fri; g Corso del Rinascimento)

Search out this tiny sewing box of a shop for hand-embroidered napkins, cushion covers, bags and antique jewellery. If you're stopping long enough in Rome, you can have pieces embroidered to your specifications.

AL SOGNO
( MAP GOOGLE MAP: www.alsogno.com; Piazza Navona 53; h10am-8pm; g Corso del Rinascimento)

The extravagant window displays at this landmark toy shop are almost as flamboyant as the sculptural gymnastics on display on Piazza Navona's fountains. Inside, the store is a wonderland of puppets, trolls, fairies, fake Roman weapons, dolls and stuffed animals. The don’t-touch atmosphere is best suited to well-behaved little darlings.

7 Campo De’ Fiori & Around

IBIZ – ARTIGIANATO IN CUOIO
( MAP GOOGLE MAP: Via dei Chiavari 39; h9.30am-7.30pm Mon-Sat; g Corso Vittorio Emanuele II)

In their diminutive workshop, Elisa Nepi and her father craft exquisite, well-priced leather goods, including wallets, bags, belts and sandals, in simple but classy designs and myriad colours. You can pick up a belt for about €35, while for a bag you should bank on at least €110.

RACHELE
( MAP GOOGLE MAP: www.racheleartchildrenswear.it; Vicolo del Bollo 6; h10.30am-2pm & 3.30-7.30pm Tue-Sat; g Corso del Rinascimento)
Mums looking to update their kids’ (under 12s) wardrobe would do well to look up Rachele in her delightful shop just off Via del Pellegrino. With everything from hats and mitts to romper suits and jackets, all brightly coloured and all handmade, this sort of shop is a dying breed. Most items are around the €40 to €50 mark.

ARSENALE

Arsenale, the atelier of Roman designer Patrizia Pieroni, is a watchword for original, high-end women's fashion. The virgin white interior creates a clean, contemporary showcase for beautifully cut clothes ranging from winter coats in warm, earthy tones to wispy, free-flowing summer dresses.

I COLORI DI DENTRO

Take home some Mediterranean sunshine. Artist Maria Grazia Luffarelli’s paintings are a riotous celebration of Italian colours, with sunny yellow landscapes, blooming flowers, Roman cityscapes and comfortable-looking cats. You can buy original watercolours or prints, as well as postcards, T-shirts, notebooks and calendars.

DADADA 52

Girls with an eye for what works should make a beeline for this small boutique. Here you'll find a selection of eye-catching cocktail dresses that can be dressed up or down, print summer frocks, eclectic coats and colourful hats. There’s a second branch at Via del Corso 500.

MONDELLO OTTICA

Eyewear becomes art at this modish optician's on Via del Pellegrino. Known for its avant-garde window displays, often styled by contemporary artists, Mondello Ottica sells frames by leading designers such as Berlin label Kuboraum and Belgian brand Theo. Prescription glasses can be ready the same day.

BORINI

Don’t be fooled by the discount, workaday look – those in the know head to this seemingly down-at-heel shop for the latest footwear fashions. Women's styles, ranging from ballet flats to heeled boots, are displayed in the functional glass cabinets, alongside a small selection of men's leather shoes.
Sneaker fetishists should hotfoot it to Loco for the very latest in big-statement trainers. It’s a small shop, but full of attitude, with a jazzy collection of original sneakers (for boys and girls), boots and pumps by international and Italian designers. It also sells bags and costume jewellery.

LOCAL KNOWLEDGE
HELP FIGHT THE MAFIA

BOTTEGA PIO LA TORRE

Via dei Prefetti 23; h10.30am-7.30pm Tue-Sat, 10.30am-2.30pm Sun, 3.30-7.30pm Mon; gVia del Corso
To look at it there’s nothing special about Pio La Torre, a small, unpretentious food store near Piazza del Parlamento. But shop here and you're making a small but concrete contribution to the fight against the mafia. All the gastro goodies on sale, including organic olive oils, pastas, flours, honeys and wine, have been produced on land confiscated from organised crime outfits in Calabria and Sicily.
The shop is one of several across the country set up by Libera Terra, a grassroots movement of agricultural cooperatives working on terrain that was once owned by the mob.

7 Piazza Colonna & Around

CONFETTERIA MORIONDO & GARIGLIO

Via del Piè di Marmo 21-22; h9am-7.30pm Mon-Sat; gVia del Corso
Roman poet Trilussa was so smitten with this historic chocolate shop – established by the Torinese confectioners to the royal house of Savoy – that he dedicated several sonnets to it. And we agree, it's a gem. Many of the bonbons and handmade chocolates laid out in ceremonial splendour in the glass cabinets are still prepared according to original 19th-century recipes.

MATERIE

Via del Gesù 73; h10.30-7.30pm Mon-Sat; gVia del Corso
A showcase for unique handmade jewellery crafted from materials as diverse as silver, perspex, metal, plastic and stone. Each year owner Viviana Violo travels the world on the lookout for new designs to take back and sell in this, her tranquil, central shop. She also stocks a small selection of bags, scarves and other accessories.

TARTARUGHE

Via del Piè di Marmo 17; h10am-7.30pm Tue-Sat, noon-7.30pm Mon; gVia del Corso Fashionable, versatile and elegant, Susanna Liso’s seasonal designs adorn this relaxed, white-walled boutique. Her clothes, which include understated woollen coats, strikingly cut jackets, sweaters, and trousers, provide a vibrant modern update on classic styles. You'll also find a fine line in novel accessories.

BARTOLUCCI

( MAP; Via dei Pastini 98; h 10am-10pm; g Via del Corso)

It's difficult to resist going into this magical toy shop where everything is carved out of wood. It's guarded by a cycling Pinocchio and a full-sized motorbike, and within are all manner of ticking clocks, rocking horses, planes and more Pinocchios than you'll have ever seen in your life.

A S ROMA STORE

( MAP; Piazza di Pietra 24; h 10am-1.30pm & 3-7.30pm Mon-Sat, closed Tue morning; g Via del Corso)

An official club store of A S Roma, one of Rome’s two top-flight football teams. There's an extensive array of Roma-branded kit, including replica shirts, caps, T-shirts, scarves, hoodies, keyrings and a whole lot more. You can also buy match tickets here.

DE SANCTIS

( MAP; Piazza di Pietra 24; h 10am-1.30pm & 3-7.30pm Mon-Sat, closed Tue morning; g Via del Corso)

De Sanctis – in business since 1890 – is full of impressive Sicilian and Tuscan ceramics, with sunbursts of colour decorating crockery, kitchenware and objets d'art. If your purchases are too heavy to carry, it ships worldwide.
Showtime on Rome’s Piazzas

From the baroque splendour of Piazza Navona to the clamour of Campo de’ Fiori and the majesty of St Peter’s Square, Rome’s showcase piazzas encapsulate much of the city’s beauty, history and drama.

Piazza Navona
In the heart of the historic centre, Piazza Navona is the picture-perfect Roman square. Graceful baroque palazzi (mansions), flamboyant fountains, packed pavement cafes and costumed street artists set the scene for the daily invasion of camera-toting tourists.

St Peter’s Square
The awe-inspiring approach to St Peter’s Basilica, this monumental piazza is a masterpiece of 17th-century urban design. The work of Bernini, it’s centred on a towering Egyptian obelisk and flanked by two grasping colonnaded arms.
Piazza del Popolo
Neoclassical Piazza del Popolo is a vast, sweeping spectacle. In centuries past, executions were held here; nowadays crowds gather for political rallies, outdoor concerts or just to hang out.

Piazza del Campidoglio
The centrepiece of the Campidoglio (Capitoline Hill), this Michelangelo-designed piazza is thought by many to be the city’s most beautiful. Surrounded on three sides by palazzi, it’s home to the Capitoline Museums.

Campo de’ Fiori
Home to one of Rome’s historic markets and a boozy bar scene, Campo de’ Fiori buzzes with activity day and night.
Piazza di Spagna

In Rome’s swank shopping district, Piazza di Spagna has long attracted footsore foreigners who come to sit on the Spanish Steps and watch the world go by.
Tridente, Trevi & the Quirinale

Sights

Eating

Drinking & Nightlife

Entertainment

Shopping
Neighbourhood Top Five

1. People-watching, photo-snapping and daydreaming on the Spanish Steps, with a view down the glittering backbone of the Tridente district, designer-clad Via dei Condotti.

2. Gazing at the Caravaggio masterpieces in the artistic treasure trove Chiesa di Santa Maria del Popolo.

3. Taking a tour of the Villa Medici, with its formal gardens and astounding Rome views, and stopping off in its cafe afterwards.

4. Revelling in the architectural treasures, glut of masterpieces, and breathtaking Cortona ceiling of Palazzo Barberini.

5. Visiting the poignant Keats-Shelley House, where the young Keats breathed his last in (then) humble rooms overlooking the Spanish Steps.

Explore: Tridente, Trevi & the Quirinale
Tridente is Rome’s most glamorous district, full of designer boutiques, fashionable bars and swish hotels. However, it’s not just about shopping, dining and drinking. The area also contains the splendid vast neoclassical showpiece, Piazza del Popolo; the wonderfully frivolous Spanish Steps; the grandiose Villa Medici; the Museo dell’Ara Pacis, a controversial modern museum designed by US architect Richard Meier; artists' street Via Margutta, and several masterpiece-packed churches. To see all the sights here, factoring in some window shopping, would take around half a day to a day, and it’s all easily walkable – a short walk from the Centro Storico or Piazza Venezia – and easily accessible from the Spagna and Flaminio metro stations.

Alongside Tridente, the Roman hill of Quirinale is home to the extraordinary Trevi Fountain and the imposing presidential Palazzo del Quirinale, as well as important churches by the twin masters of Roman baroque, Gian Lorenzo Bernini and Francesco Borromini. Other artistic hotspots in the area include the lavish Galleria Colonna and the Galleria Nazionale d’Arte Antica: Palazzo Barberini, a fabulous gallery containing works by a who’s who of Renaissance and baroque artists – to see all this at leisure you’ll need several days. The Trevi and Quirinale’s principal gateway is the Barberini metro stop. Busy during the day, both Tridente and the Quirinale are sleepy after dark.

Local Life

Ambling Imagine yourself as part of Roman Holiday along the laid-back, cobbled and ivy-draped Via Margutta, and enjoy the upscale neighbourhood feel of this distinctive district.

Shopping Commission yourself a handmade bag or a marble motto from one of the area’s artisanal shops.

Coffee Do as the locals do and grab a caffeine hit, propping up the bar at one of the district’s iconic cafes, such as Rosati or Caffè Greco.

Getting There & Away

Metro The Trevi and Quirinale areas are closest to Barberini metro stop, while Spagna and Flaminio stations are perfectly placed for Tridente. All three stops are on line A.

Bus Numerous buses run down to Piazza Barberini or along Via Veneto, and many stop at the southern end of Via del Corso and on Via del Tritone, ideal for a foray into Tridente.
Lonely Planet’s Top Tip

Local churches are usually locked up for two to three hours over lunch, so if you want to visit the interiors, time your visit for the morning or late afternoon.

Best Places to Eat
- Enoteca Regionale Palatium
- Imàgo
- Fatamorgana
- Colline Emiliane
- Babette

Best Places to Drink
- Stravinskij Bar – Hotel de Russie
- Il Palazzetto
- Buccone

Best Churches
- Chiesa di Santa Maria del Popolo
- Chiesa di Sant’Andrea al Quirinale
- Chiesa di San Carlo alle Quattro Fontane
- Chiesa di Santa Maria della Vittoria
The Spanish Steps and Tridente have been a magnet for foreigners since the 1800s. Charles Dickens wrote, ‘these steps are the great place of resort for the artists’ "models"… The first time I went up there, I could not conceive why the faces seemed familiar to me… I soon found that we had made acquaintance…on the walls of various Exhibition Galleries.’

The Piazza di Spagna was named after the Spanish Embassy to the Holy See, although the staircase, designed by the Italian Francesco de Sanctis and built in 1725 with a legacy from the French, leads to the French Chiesa della Trinità dei Monti. In the late 1700s the area was much loved by English visitors on the Grand Tour and was known to locals as er ghetto de l’inglesi (the English ghetto). Keats lived for a short time in some rooms overlooking the Spanish Steps, and died here of tuberculosis at the age of 25. His landlady's apartment is now a museum devoted to the Romantics, especially Keats.

At the foot of the steps, the fountain of a sinking boat, the Barcaccia (1627), is believed to be by Pietro Bernini, father of the more famous Gian Lorenzo. It’s fed from the ancient Roman Acqua Vergine aqueduct, as are the fountains in Piazza del Popolo and the Trevi Fountain. Here there's not much pressure, so it's sunken as a clever piece of engineering. Bees and suns decorate the structure, symbols of the commissioning Barberini family. It was damaged in 2015 by Dutch football fans, and the Dutch subsequently offered to repair the damage. Opposite, Via dei Condotti is Rome’s most exclusive shopping street, glittering with big-name designers such as Gucci, Bulgari and Prada.

To the southeast of the piazza, adjacent Piazza Mignanelli is dominated by the Colonna dell’Immacolata, built in 1857 to celebrate Pope Pius IX’s declaration of the Immaculate Conception.
DON’T MISS…

The view from the top of the Spanish Steps
Barcaccia

PRACTICALITIES

MAP GOOGLE MAP
Spagna
This is one of Rome’s earliest and richest Renaissance churches, parts of which were designed by Bramante and Bernini. The lavish chapels, decorated by Caravaggio, Bernini, Raphael, Pinturicchio and others, were commissioned by local noble families.

The Church
The first chapel was built here in 1099, over the tombs of the Domiti family, to exorcise the ghost of Nero, who was secretly buried on this spot and whose malicious spirit was thought to haunt the area. There were subsequent overhauls, but the church's most important makeover came when Bramante renovated the presbytery and choir in the early 16th century and Pinturicchio added a series of frescoes. Also in the Bramante-designed apse are Rome’s first stained-glass windows, crafted by Frenchman Guillaume de Marcillat in the early 16th century. The altar houses the 13th-century painting Madonna del Popolo. Its most famous works, by Caravaggio, were added in 1601, and Bernini further reworked the church in the 17th century.

Chigi Chapel
Raphael designed the Cappella Chigi, dedicated to his patron, the enormously wealthy banker Agostino Chigi, but never lived to see it completed. Bernini finished the job for him more than 100 years later, contributing statues of Daniel and Habakkuk to the altarpiece, which was built by Sebastiano del Piombo. Only the floor mosaics were retained from Raphael's original design, including that of a kneeling skeleton, placed there to remind the living of the inevitable.

Cerasi Chapel
The church’s dazzling highlight is the Cappella Cerasi with its two facing works by Caravaggio: the Conversion of Saul and the Crucifixion of St Peter, dramatically spotlit via the artist’s use of light and shade. The former is the second version, as the first was rejected by the patron. The latter is frighteningly realistic: the artist has used perspective to emphasise the weight of the cross and St Peter’s facial expression as he is upturned is heartrendingly human. The central altarpiece painting is the Assumption by Annibale Carracci.

Della Rovere Chapel
The frescoes in the lunettes, depicting the stories of St Jerome (to whom the chapel is dedicated), and the Nativity with St Jerome above the altar in this chapel were painted by Pinturicchio in the 15th century, and glow with jewel-bright colours.
DON’T MISS…

- Caravaggio’s paintings, Cerasi Chapel
- Bernini’s work in the Raphael-designed Chigi Chapel
- Pinturicchio's frescoes

PRACTICALITIES

- MAP
- GOOGLE MAP

- Piazza del Popolo
- 7am-noon & 4-7pm Mon-Sat, 7.30am-1.30pm & 4.30-7.30pm Sun
- Flaminio
Fontana di Trevi is a baroque extravaganza, a foaming masterpiece that almost fills an entire piazza. This is where Anita Ekberg cavorted in an iconic black ballgown – apparently wearing waders underneath – in Fellini’s La Dolce Vita (1960).

The flamboyant baroque ensemble was designed by Nicola Salvi in 1732 and depicts Neptune’s chariot being led by Tritons with seahorses – one wild, one docile – representing the moods of the sea. The water still comes from the Aqua Virgo, an underground aqueduct that is over 2000 years old, built by General Agrippa under Augustus and which brings water from the Salone springs around 19km away. The name Trevi refers to the tre vie (three roads) that converge at the fountain.

To the eastern side of the fountain is a large round stone urn. The story goes that Salvi, during the construction of the fountain, was harassed by a barber, who had his shop to the east of the fountain and who was critical of the work in progress. Thus the sculptor added this urn in order to block this irritating critic.

The famous tradition (since the film Three Coins in the Fountain) is to toss a coin into the fountain, thus ensuring your return to Rome. Around €3000 is thrown into the Trevi on an average day. This money is collected daily and goes to the Catholic charity Caritas, with its yield increasing significantly since the crackdown on criminal elements extracting the money for themselves.

A Fendi-funded €2.18m restoration of the fountain was completed in late 2015, and the fountain is thus looking its gleaming best.
DON’T MISS…

ˆ The contrasting seahorses, or moods of the sea.
ˆ Throwing a coin or three into the fountain.

PRACTICALITIES

ˆ Fontana di Trevi
ˆ MAP  GOOGLE MAP
ˆ Piazza di Trevi
ˆ Barberini
1 SIGHTS

The Piazza del Popolo, the Spanish Steps, the Trevi Fountain, Rome’s most fashionable district, Palazzo Barberini and a sprinkling of Caravaggios... and it's all a hop and a skip from Villa Borghese when you’re in need of a breather. This area is one of Rome’s richest, in terms of cuisine, art and culture (as well as hard cash) and offers an embarrassment of treasures for the visitor.
For centuries the site of public executions (the last was in 1826), this public space was once much less grand than today, with a public fountain, horse trough and washing cistern. It was laid out in 1538 to provide a more grandiose entrance to what was then Rome's main northern gateway. Via Flaminia connected the city with the north from here. The piazza has been remodelled several times since, most significantly by Giuseppe Valadier in 1823, who created the gaping ellipse we see today.

In the centre, the 36m-high obelisk (MAP GOOGLE MAP) was brought by Augustus from Heliopolis, in ancient Egypt, and originally stood in Circo Massimo. To the east is the viewpoint of the Pincio Hill Gardens. This is not one of Rome's original seven hills, as it lay outside the original city boundary; it was included within the city from the 3rd century.

Guarding the piazza's southern end are Carlo Rainaldi's twin 17th-century baroque churches, Chiesa di Santa Maria dei Miracoli (MAP GOOGLE MAP) and Chiesa di Santa Maria in Montesanto (MAP GOOGLE MAP), while over on the northern flank is the Porta del Popolo (MAP GOOGLE MAP), created by Bernini to celebrate Queen Christina of Sweden's defection to Catholicism and subsequent arrival in Rome. Its welcoming inscription reads 'FELICI FAUSTOQUE INGRESSUI MDCLV' (For a Happy and Propitious Entrance 1655). Beside the gate is the treasure-filled Chiesa di Santa Maria del Popolo.

DON'T MISS

- The obelisk
- The view from the Pincio Hill Gardens

PRACTICALITIES

- MAP GOOGLE MAP
- Flaminio
The sumptuous Palazzo Barberini is an architectural feast before you even consider the National Art Collection that it houses. This huge baroque palace was commissioned by Urban VIII to celebrate the Barberini family’s rise to papal power. Many high-profile architects worked on it, including rivals Bernini and Borromini; the former contributed a large squared staircase, the latter a helicoidal one.

Amid the masterpieces, don’t miss Pietro da Cortona’s ceiling frescoes in the 1st-floor salon, Il Trionfo della Divina Provvidenza (Triumph of Divine Providence; 1632–39). Other must-sees include Hans Holbein’s famous portrait of a pugnacious Henry VIII (c 1540), Filippo Lippi’s luminous Annunciazione e due devoti (Annunciation with two Kneeling Donors) and Raphael’s La Fornarina (The Baker’s Girl). Works by Caravaggio include San Francesco d’Assisi in meditazione (St Francis in Meditation), Narciso (Narcissus; 1571–1610) and the mesmerisingly horrific Giuditta e Oloferne (Judith Beheading Holophernes; c 1597–1600).

DON’T MISS…

- Pietro da Cortona’s painted ceiling
- Raphael’s La Fornarina
- Works by Caravaggio

PRACTICALITIES

- MAP [GOOGLE MAP]
- 06 3 28 10
- www.galleriabarberini.benicultural.it
- Via delle Quattro Fontane 13
- adult/reduced €7/3.50, incl Palazzo Corsini, valid 3 days €9/4.50
- 8.30am-7pm Tue-Sun
- Barberini

1 Piazza del Popolo & Around
Chiesa di Santa Maria del Popolo

PINCIO HILL GARDENS

( MAP GOOGLE_MAP ; Flaminio)

Overlooking Piazza del Popolo, the 19th-century Pincio Hill is named after the Pinci family, who owned this part of Rome in the 4th century. It’s quite a climb up from the piazza, but at the top you’re rewarded with lovely views over to St Peter’s and the Gianicolo Hill. Alternatively, you can approach from the top of the Spanish Steps. From the gardens you can strike out to explore Villa Borghese, the Villa dei Medici, or the Chiesa della Trinità dei Monti at the top of the Spanish Steps.
The only part of Palazzo Colonna open to the public, this dazzlingly opulent gallery houses the Colonna family’s small but stunning private art collection. The polished yellow columns represent the ‘Colonna’ (which also means column) of the family name.

The purpose-built gallery (constructed by Antonio del Grande from 1654 to 1665) has six rooms crowned by fantastical ceiling frescoes, all dedicated to Marcantonio Colonna, the family’s greatest ancestor, who defeated the Turks at the naval Battle of Lepanto in 1571. Works by Giovanni Coli and Filippo Gherardi in the Great Hall, Sebastiano Ricci in the Landscapes Room and Giuseppe Bartolomeo Chiari in the Throne Room all commemorate his efforts. Note also the cannonball lodged in the gallery’s marble stairs, a vivid reminder of the 1849 siege of Rome.

The art on display features a fine array of 16th- to 18th-century paintings, the highlight of which is Annibale Carracci’s vivid Mangiafagioli (The Beaneater). A wing opened more recently to the public includes the sumptuous Chapel Hall and the rich 17th-century Artemisia tapestries collection. From May to October a terrace cafe is open.

DON’T MISS…

- Fantastic ceiling frescoes
- Annibale Carracci’s Mangiafagioli

PRACTICALITIES

- MAP
- GOOGLE MAP
- 06 678 43 50
- www.galleriacolonna.it
- Via della Pilotta 17
- adult/reduced €12/10
- 9am-1.15pm Sat, closed Aug
- Via IV Novembre

1 West of Via Del Corso

MUSEO DELL'ARA PACIS

The first modern construction in Rome's historic centre since WWII, Richard Meier's controversial and widely detested glass-and-marble pavilion houses the Ara Pacis Augustae (Altar of Peace), Augustus' great monument to peace. One of the most important works of ancient Roman sculpture, the vast marble altar – measuring 11.6m by 10.6m by 3.6m – was completed in 13 BC.
The altar was originally positioned near Piazza San Lorenzo in Lucina, slightly to the southeast of its current site. The location was calculated so that on Augustus' birthday the shadow of a huge sundial on Campus Martius would fall directly on it. Over the centuries the altar fell victim to Rome's avid art collectors, and panels ended up in the Medici collection (see the garlanded reliefs embedded in the walls of the Villa Medici), the Vatican and the Louvre. However, in 1936 Mussolini unearthed the remaining parts and decided to reassemble them in the present location.

Of the reliefs, the most important depicts Augustus at the head of a procession, followed by priests, the general Marcus Agrippa and the entire imperial family.

MAUSOLEO DI AUGUSTO

This mausoleum was built in 28 BC and is the last resting place of Augustus, who was buried here in AD 14, and his favourite nephew and heir Marcellus. Mussolini had it restored in 1936 with an eye to being buried here himself.

Once one of Ancient Rome’s most imposing monuments, it's now an unkempt mound of earth, smelly and surrounded by unsightly fences. Work is allegedly ongoing, but there hasn't been much discernible development at the site.

---

1 Piazza di Spagna & Around

Piazza di Spagna & the Spanish Steps

KEATS–SHELLEY HOUSE

The Keats-Shelley House is where Romantic poet John Keats died of tuberculosis at the age of 25, in February 1821. A year later, fellow poet Percy Bysshe Shelley drowned off the coast of Tuscany. The small apartment evokes the impoverished lives of the poets, and is now a small museum crammed with memorabilia, from faded letters to death masks.

Keats had come to Rome in 1820, on an obviously unsuccessful trip to try to improve his health in the Italian climate.

VIA DEI CONDOTTI

High-rolling shoppers and window-dreamers take note, this is Rome’s smartest shopping strip. At the eastern end, near Piazza di Spagna, Caffè Greco was a favourite meeting point of 18th- and 19th-century writers. Other top shopping streets in the area include Via Frattina, Via della Croce, Via delle Carrozze and Via del Babuino.

GALLERIA D'ARTE MODERNA
Housed in an 18th-century Carmelite convent, this interesting collection of art and sculpture from the 20th century includes works by de Chirico and Giorgio Morandi.

Views of Rome, painted by Francesco Trombadori and Riccardo Francalancia in the 1950s, make Villa Borghese and the Colosseum resemble outposts of EUR (the Mussolini-built neoclassical suburb).

CHIESA DELLA TRINITÀ DEI MONTI

Looming over the Spanish Steps, this landmark church was commissioned by King Louis XII of France and consecrated in 1585. Apart from the great views from outside, it has some wonderful frescoes by Daniele da Volterra. His Deposizione (Deposition), in the second chapel on the left, is regarded as a masterpiece of mannerist painting.

If you don’t fancy climbing the steep steps, there’s a lift up from Spagna metro station.

MUSEO MISSIONARIO DI PROPAGANDA FIDE

Rome’s ‘propogation of the faith’ museum is housed in a 17th-century baroque masterpiece designed by Gian Lorenzo Bernini and Francesco Borromini, and is an opportunity to peer into Bernini’s wooden, Hogwartsesque library, with its ceiling carved with Barberini bees, and Borromini’s Chapel of the Magi, where the Wise Men’s Epiphany acts an allegory for converts to Christianity.

This little-visited museum houses items brought back from overseas missions, with the eclectic collection including paintings of Japanese life in the 1930s and a Canova portrait of Ezzelino Romano. It was closed for renovation at the time of research, but should have reopened by now.

PALAZZO VALENTINI

Underneath a grand mansion that’s been the seat of the Province of Rome since 1873 lie the archaeological remains of several lavish ancient Roman houses; the excavated fragments have been turned into a fascinating multimedia ‘experience’. Tours are every 30 minutes, but alternate between Italian, English and French. Book ahead online or by phone, especially during holiday periods.

The visit takes you on a virtual tour of the dwellings, complete with sound effects, vividly projected frescoes and glimpses of ancient life as it might have been lived in the area around the buildings. It's genuinely thrilling and great for older kids.

CASA DI GOETHE

This little-visited museum houses items brought back from overseas missions, with the eclectic collection including paintings of Japanese life in the 1930s and a Canova portrait of Ezzelino Romano. It was closed for renovation at the time of research, but should have reopened by now.
A gathering place for German intellectuals, the Via del Corso apartment where Johann Wolfgang von Goethe enjoyed a happy Italian sojourn (despite complaining of the noisy neighbours) from 1786 to 1788 is now a lovingly maintained small museum. Exhibits include fascinating Piranesi engravings of 18th-century Rome, as well as Goethe's sketches and letters, plus some lovely sketches of him by his friend Tischbein. With advance permission, ardent fans can use the library full of first editions.

VILLA MEDICI

This sumptuous Renaissance palace was built for Cardinal Ricci da Montepulciano in 1540, but Ferdinando dei Medici bought it in 1576. It remained in Medici hands until 1801, when Napoleon acquired it for the French Academy. Take a tour to see the wonderful landscaped gardens, cardinal's painted apartments, and incredible views over Rome. Note the pieces of ancient Roman sculpture from the Ara Pacis embedded in the villa's walls.

The villa's most famous resident was Galileo, who was imprisoned here between 1630 and 1633 during his trial for heresy, though Keith Richards and Anita Pallenberg stayed here in the 1960s. There are up to 19 resident French-speaking artists and musicians, with exhibitions and performances at the end of February and June. There's a lovely, high-ceilinged cafe that sells reasonably priced panini and light lunches (€3 to €12), plus prosecco (sparkling wine; €4). You can also stay at the villa, for a price, see the website.
TOP SIGHT
PALAZZO DEL QUIRINALE

Overlooking the high-up Piazza del Quirinale is the imposing presidential palace, formerly the papal summer residence. You can visit by booking at least five days ahead; the shorter tour visits the sumptuous reception rooms, while the longer tour includes the interiors as well as the gardens and the carriages.

The immense Palazzo del Quirinale served as the papal summer residence for almost three centuries, until the keys were begrudgingly handed over to Italy’s new king in 1870. Since 1948 it has been home of the Presidente della Repubblica, Italy’s head of state.

Pope Gregory XIII (r 1572–85) originally chose the site and over the next 150 years the top architects of the day worked on it, including Bernini, Domenico Fontana and Carlo Maderno.

On the other side of the piazza, the palace’s former stables, the Scuderie Papali al Quirinale (MAP GOOGLE MAP; %06 3996 7500; www.scuderiequirinale.it; Via XXIV Maggio 16; tickets around €12), is now a magnificent space that hosts art exhibitions; recent shows have included Matisse and Frida Kahlo.

DON’T MISS…

- Sunday concerts held in the chapel designed by Carlo Maderno
- Splendid exhibitions in the former stables, the Scuderie Papali

PRACTICALITIES

- MAP GOOGLE MAP
- %06 4 69 91
- www.quirinale.it
- Piazza del Quirinale
- Admission €10, ½hr tour €1.50, 2½hr tour €10
- h9.30am-4pm Tue, Wed & Fri-Sun, closed Aug
- mBarberini

Trevi Fountain to the Quirinale

Trevi Fountain Palazzo del Quirinale

PIAZZA DEL QUIRINALE

( MAP GOOGLE MAP; mBarberini)

A wonderful spot to enjoy a glowing Roman sunset, this piazza marks the summit of the Quirinale hill. The central obelisk was moved here from the Mausoleo di Augusto in 1786 and is flanked by 5.5m statues of Castor and Pollux reining in a couple of rearing horses.
If you’re in the neighbourhood on a Sunday you can catch the weekly changing of the guard (6pm in summer, 4pm the rest of the year).

CHIESA DI SANTA MARIA DELLA VITTORIA

This modest church is an unlikely setting for an extraordinary work of art – Bernini’s extravagant and sexually charged Santa Teresa trafitta dall’amore di Dio (Ecstasy of St Teresa). This daring sculpture depicts Teresa, engulfed in the folds of a flowing cloak, floating in ecstasy on a cloud while a teasing angel pierces her repeatedly with a golden arrow.

Watching the whole scene from two side balconies are a number of figures, including Cardinal Federico Cornaro, for whom the chapel was built. It’s a stunning work, bathed in soft natural light filtering through a concealed window. Go in the afternoon for the best effect.

CHIESA DI SANT’ANDREA AL QUIRINALE

It’s said that in his old age Bernini liked to come and enjoy the peace of this late-17th-century church, regarded by many as one of his greatest. Faced with severe space limitations, he managed to produce a sense of grandeur by designing an elliptical floor plan with a series of chapels opening onto the central area.

The opulent interior, decorated with polychrome marble, stucco and gilding, was a favourite of Pope Alexander VII, who used it while in residence at the Palazzo del Quirinale.

CHIESA DI SAN CARLO ALLE QUATTRO FONTANE

This tiny church is a masterpiece of Roman baroque. It was Borromini’s first church, and the play of convex and concave surfaces and the dome illuminated by hidden windows cleverly transform the small space into a place of light and beauty.

The church, completed in 1641, stands at the intersection known as the Quattro Fontane, after the late-16th-century fountains on its four corners, representing Fidelity, Strength and the rivers Arno and Tiber. A clean-up job was completed in 2015, and they look better than they have for years – just watch out for traffic as you admire them.

Borromini intended to be buried within the church, but its monks would not permit this because of his suicide.

BASILICA DEI SANTI APOSTOLI

This much-altered 6th-century church is dedicated to the apostles James and Philip, whose relics are in the crypt. Its most obvious attraction is the portico with its Renaissance arches and the two-tier facade topped by 13 towering figures. Inside, the flashy baroque interior was completed in 1714 by Carlo and Francesco Fontana. Highlights include the ceiling frescoes by Baciccia and Antonio
Canova’s grandiose tomb of Pope Clement XIV.

Surrounding the basilica are two imposing baroque palazzi: at the end of the square, Palazzo Balestra, which was given to James Stuart, the Old Pretender, in 1719 by Pope Clement XI, and opposite, Palazzo Odelscalchi, with its impressive Bernini facade.

CITTÀ DELL’ACQUA

(CITTÀ DELL’ACQUA MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.archeodomani.com; Vicolo del Puttarello 25; adult/reduced €3/1; h 11am-5.30pm Wed-Fri, 11am-7pm Sat & Sun; Barberini)

The little-known excavations of Vicus Caprarius (the name of the ancient street) include a Roman house and a Hadrian-era cistern that connected with the Aqua Virgo cistern. Eight metres deep, they lie just a few paces from the eternal hubbub of the Trevi Fountain – the spring waters that once fed these waterworks now gush forth from the fountain.

This is a chance to appreciate the many layers that lie beneath present-day Rome; mosaics and decorations discovered during the excavations are displayed in a small museum.

MUSEO DELLE CERE

(MUSEO DELLE CERE MAP GOOGLE MAP; % 06 679 64 82; www.museodellecereroma.com; Piazza dei Santissimi Apostoli 67; adult/reduced €9/7; h 9am-9pm; g Via IV Novembre)

Rome’s waxwork museum is said to have the world’s third-largest collection, which comprises more than 250 figures, ranging from Barack Obama to Snow White, plus plentiful other popes, poets, politicians, musicians and murderers. You can also visit the laboratory where the waxworks are created.

MIRACULOUS MADONNAS

Overlooking Vicolo delle Bollette, a tiny lane near the Trevi Fountain, there’s a small, simple painting of the Virgin Mary. This is the Madonna della Pietà, one of the most famous of Rome’s madonne (small madonnas). There are estimated to be around 730 of these roadside madonnas in Rome’s historic centre, most placed on street corners or outside historic palazzi. Many were added in the 16th and 17th centuries, but their origins date to pagan times when votive wall shrines were set up at street corners to honour the Lares, household spirits believed to protect passers-by. When Christianity emerged in the 4th century AD, these shrines were simply rededicated to the religion’s new icons. Their presence was also intended to deter devout Catholics from committing street crime.

The subject of much popular devotion, they are shrouded in myth. The most famous legend dates to 1796 when news of a French invasion is said to have caused 36 madonne, including the Madonna della Pietà, to move their eyes and some even to cry. A papal commission set up to investigate subsequently declared 26 madonnas to be officially miraculous.

As well as food for the soul, the madonnas also provided a valuable public service. Until street lamps were introduced in the 19th century, the candles and lamps that lit up the images were the city’s only source of street lighting.

1 Piazza Barberini & Via Veneto

PIAZZA BARBERINI

(PIAZZA BARBERINI MAP GOOGLE MAP; Barberini)
More a traffic thoroughfare than a place to linger, this noisy square is named after the Barberini family, one of Rome’s great dynastic clans. In the centre, the Bernini-designed Fontana del Tritone (Fountain of the Triton; MAP GOOGLE MAP) depicts the sea-god Triton blowing a stream of water from a conch while seated in a large scallop shell supported by four dolphins. Bernini also crafted the Fontana delle Api (Fountain of the Bees; MAP GOOGLE MAP) in the northeastern corner, again for the Barberini family, whose crest featured three bees in flight.

Galleria Nazionale d'Arte Antica: Palazzo Barberini

CONVENTO DEI CAPPUCCINI

This church and convent complex has turned its extraordinary Capuchin cemetery into cash by adding a flashy museum and bumping up the entrance fee. However, it's still worth visiting what is possibly Rome's strangest sight: crypt chapels where everything from the picture frames to the light fittings is made of human bones. The multimedia museum tells the story of the Capuchin order of monks, including a work attributed to Caravaggio: St Francis in Meditation.

Between 1528 and 1870 the resident Capuchin monks used the bones of 4000 of their departed brothers to create this mesmerising, macabre memento mori (reminder of death). There’s an arch crafted from hundreds of skulls, vertebrae used as fleurs-de-lis and light fixtures made of femurs. Happy holidays!

VIA VITTORIO VENETO

Curving up from Piazza Barberini to Villa Borghese, Via Vittorio Veneto is the spiritual home of la dolce vita – the Rome of the swinging ’50s and ’60s that was epitomised in Fellini’s eponymous film. However, the atmosphere of Fellini’s Rome has long gone and the street today, while still a gracious sweep, has the feel of a tourist trap.

Luxury hotels occupy many of the towering streetside palazzi, and waistcoated waiters stand on the tree-lined pavement, tempting passers-by into their overpriced restaurants. The huge building on the right as you walk up is the US embassy.

GAGOSIAN GALLERY

Since it opened in 2007, the Rome branch of Larry Gagosian’s contemporary art empire has hosted the big names of modern art: Cy Twombly, Damien Hirst and Lawrence Weiner, to name a few. The gallery is housed in an artfully converted 1920s bank, and was designed by Roman architect Firouz Galdo and Englishman Caruso St John.

Always worth a look, exhibitions are housed in a dramatic, airy 750 sq m, and the building is fronted by a theatrical neoclassical colonnaded facade.
Via Margutta has long been associated with art and artists, and today it is still lined with antique shops and art galleries.

‘The street’s reputation goes back to the 16th century, when it was declared a tax-free zone for artists,’ explains Valentina Moncada, owner of the eponymous gallery (MAP GOOGLE MAP; Via Margutta 54; by appointment only).

‘If you were an artist and a resident, you paid no taxes, so artists came from all over Europe. Also there was Villa Medici nearby and all the winners of the Prix de Rome (a prestigious French art scholarship) would often come down here.’

By the late 1800s, the studio that Valentina’s family had established in the mid-19th century had grown into a popular meeting point for visiting artists, writers and musicians.

‘A string of important musicians visited, including all the Italian opera greats – Puccini, Verdi, Mascagni – as well as the composers Wagner, Liszt and Debussy. The Italian futurists also held their first meetings here and in 1917 Picasso worked here; he met his wife, Olga, in the courtyard of number 54.’

Of the street’s more recent residents, the most famous is film director Federico Fellini, who lived at No 110 with his wife Giulietta Masina until his death in 1993.
Neighbourhood Walk
Literary Footsteps

This walk explores the literary haunts, both real and fictional, which speckle the Tridente district.

Begin your walk in Pincio Hill Gardens, where Henry James’ Daisy Miller walked with Frederick Winterborne. Then make your way downhill to Piazza del Popolo, and visit the church of Santa Maria del Popolo. Dan Brown’s Angels and Demons made use of this remarkable church in its convoluted plot.

From here it’s merely a few steps to Hotel de Russie, favoured by the artistic avant-garde in the early 20th century. Jean Cocteau stayed here with Picasso, and wrote a letter home in which he described plucking oranges from outside his window.

Running parallel to Via del Babuino is Via Margutta. Famous for its artistic and cinematic connections, this picturesque cobbled street was where Truman Capote wrote his short story Lola about a raven who lived with him at his apartment. Fellini, Picasso, Stravinsky, and Puccini all lived here at some point, and Gregory Peck’s character in Roman Holiday had his apartment here (exteriors were shot at No 51).

Next make your way to Via del Corso, to see the Casa di Goethe where Goethe had a whale of a time from 1786 to 1788. Head down Via del Corso then turn left up into Via dei Condotti, where William Thackeray stayed in 1854, stopping at Caffe Greco, a former haunt of Casanova, Goethe, Keats, Byron and Shelley. Leaving here, you’re almost at the Spanish Steps, which Dickens described in his Pictures from Italy. Byron stayed on Piazza di Spagna, at No 25, in 1817. Just south of the steps is the apartments where Keats died of TB, aged just 25. The Keats-Shelley House is now a small museum devoted to the romantic poets.
5 EATING

Rome’s designer shopping district may be fashionista heaven, but it retains a neighbourhood feel, albeit a particularly wealthy one. Lots of classy eateries are sandwiched between the boutiques.

In the Quirinale and Trevi Fountain area, take care selecting where to eat, as there are a lot of unexciting just-for-tourists restaurants. But gems still sparkle among the stones, with some notable restaurants around the presidential palace and parliament – Italian politicians are a discerning bunch when it comes to dining out.

---

5 Piazza del Popolo & Around

FATAMORGANA

(GELATERIA€

(Map Google Map; Via Laurina 10; noon-11pm; mFlaminio)
The wonderful all-natural Fatamorgana, purveyors of arguably Rome's best artisanal ice cream, now has this handy central branch. Innovative and classic tastes of heaven abound, including flavours such as pear and caramel, all made from the finest seasonal ingredients.

DEI GRACCHI

(GELATERIA€

(Map Google Map; Via di Ripetta 261; ice cream from €2; 11.30am-10pm, to midnight Jun-Sep; mFlaminio)
A new outpost of the venerable Gelataria dei Gracchi, close to the Vatican, this serves up superb ice cream made from the best ingredients, with an excellent array of classic flavours. It's handily located just off Piazza del Popolo, so you can take your pick and then wander around the square as you revel in your excellent selection.

BUCCONE

(RISTORANTE, WINE BAR€

(Map Google Map; 06 361 21 54; Via di Ripetta 19; meals €20; 12.30-2.30pm & 7.30-10.30pm Mon-Sat; mFlaminio)
Step in under the faded gilt-and-mirrored sign and you’ll feel as though you’ve gone back in time. Once a coach house, then a tavern, this building became Buccone in the 1960s, furnished with 19th-century antiques and lined with around a thousand Italian wines. It serves simple food such as mixed plates of cured meat and cheese, but on Saturday offers a proper hot cena (dinner).

PIZZA RÉ

(PIZZA€

(Map Google Map; 06 321 14 68; Via di Ripetta 14; pizzas €7-10; noon-midnight; mFlaminio)
Part of a chain, but a good one, this popular pizzeria offers Neapolitan-style pizzas, with thick doughy bases and diverse toppings. The salads are fresh and the antipasti is great – try the fried things or the mozzarella fresca di bufala e prosciutto San Daniele (buffalo mozzarella with San Daniele dry-cured ham). It's a good choice for families.
A top lunchtime spot, this is a classic, dyed-in-the-wool trattoria specialising in old-school country cooking. It's a relaxed place with a welcoming vibe, garish murals on the walls (strangely often a good sign) and tasty, value-for-money food. The fried dishes are excellent, or try one of the daily specials, chalked up on the board outside.

Vegetarian restaurants in Rome are rarer than parking spaces, and this airy art gallery–restaurant is an unusually chic way to eat your greens. Dishes are excellent and most produce is organic, with offerings such as artichoke hearts with potato cubes and smoked provolone cheese. Best value is the weekday (£15 to £18) and weekend (£25) buffet brunch. There's a vegan menu and live music weekends.

This is an appealing small Roman osteria, occupying several narrow rooms, with patterned tiled floors, arched exposed-stone ceilings, and cheery red tablecloths. Expect robust local cuisine, with dishes such as saltimbocca alla romana (veal with prosciutto and sage) or melanzane alla parmigiana (layered aubergine with tomato and ham). Pietro's father runs the long-standing Tullio restaurant close to Barberini.

A Michelin-starred fine-dining restaurant, All'Oro established itself under chef Riccardo Di Giacinto in the upmarket suburb of Parioli. It's now transferred to the contemporary art-styled First Luxury Art Hotel, with white surroundings and sophisticated dishes such as ravioli filled with mascarpone, duck ragout and red wine reduction and roasted suckling pig with potatoes and black truffle sauce.

Babette is run by two sisters who used to produce a fashion magazine, which accounts for its effortlessly chic interior of exposed brick walls and vintage painted signs. You're in for a feast too, as the cooking is delicious, with a sophisticated, creative French twist (think tortiglioni with courgette and pistachio pesto). The torta Babette is the food of the gods, a light-as-air lemon cheesecake.
The weekend lunch buffet (adult/child €28/18) is a good deal, including water, bread, dessert and coffee.

DAL BOLOGNESE

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Map</th>
<th>Google Map</th>
<th>Tel</th>
<th>Address</th>
<th>Meals Price</th>
<th>Hours</th>
<th>Metro</th>
<th>Description</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>%06 361 14 26; Piazza del Popolo 1</td>
<td>meals €90</td>
<td>hTue-Sun, closed Aug</td>
<td>mFlaminio</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The moneyed and models mingle at this historically chic restaurant. Dine inside, surrounded by wood panelling and exotic flowers, or outside, people-watching with views over Piazza del Popolo. As the name suggests, Emilia-Romagna dishes are the name of the game; everything is good, but try the tortellini in soup, tagliatelle with ragù, or the damn fine fillet steak.

EDY

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Map</th>
<th>Google Map</th>
<th>Tel</th>
<th>Address</th>
<th>Meals Price</th>
<th>Hours</th>
<th>Metro</th>
<th>Description</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>%06 3600 1738; Vicolo del Babuino 4</td>
<td>meals €60</td>
<td>hnoon-3pm &amp; 6.30-11pm Mon-Sat</td>
<td>mSpagna</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

This classy neighbourhood restaurant’s high-ceilinged, intimate interior is peppered with paintings. Despite the tourist-central location, it caters to mainly Italian clientele; the food, such as linguine al broccoletti, is delicious. In nice weather there are a few tables outside on the cobbled street.

ROME’S OPTICAL ILLUSIONS

Aptly for such a theatrical city, Rome contains some magical visual tricks. Overlooking Piazza del Popolo, there are the seemingly twin churches: constructed to look identical while occupying different-sized sites. Then there’s Borromini’s perspective-defying corridor at Palazzo Spada, Andrea Pozzo’s amazing trompe l’oeil at the Chiesa di Sant’Ignazio di Loyola and the secret keyhole view from Priorato dei Cavalieri di Malta. Strangest of all is the view of St Peter’s Dome from Via Piccolomini near Villa Doria Pamphilj. Here the dome looms, filling the space at the end of the road, framed by trees. But the really curious thing is that as you move towards the cupola it seems to get smaller rather than larger as the view widens.

Piazza di Spagna & Around

PASTIFICIO

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Map</th>
<th>Google Map</th>
<th>Tel</th>
<th>Address</th>
<th>Meals Price</th>
<th>Hours</th>
<th>Metro</th>
<th>Description</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>%06 3600 1738; Piazza del Popolo 1</td>
<td>meals €90</td>
<td>hTue-Sun, closed Aug</td>
<td>mFlaminio</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

A great find in this pricey ‘hood. Pasticcio is a pasta shop that serves up two choices of pasta at lunch time. It’s fast food, Italian style – freshly cooked (if you time it right) pasta, with wine and water included. It's no leisurely lunch: there's not much room so you'll have to nab a chair while you can and eat quickly. This is better than taking away, however, if you do that, you'll miss out on your drink and your pasta will get cold.

GINA

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Map</th>
<th>Google Map</th>
<th>Tel</th>
<th>Address</th>
<th>Meals Price</th>
<th>Hours</th>
<th>Metro</th>
<th>Description</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>%06 3600 1738; Vicolo del Babuino 4</td>
<td>meals €60</td>
<td>hnoon-3pm &amp; 6.30-11pm Mon-Sat</td>
<td>mSpagna</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Around the corner from the Spanish Steps, this is an ideal place to drop once you’ve shopped. Comfy white seats are strewn with powder-blue cushions, and it gets packed by a Prada-clad crowd, gossiping and flirting over sophisticated salads and perfect panini. You can also order a €40/60 regular/deluxe picnic-for-two to take up to Villa Borghese.

POMPI
( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Via della Croce 82; tiramisu €4; h10.30am-9.30pm; mSpagna)
Rome's most famous vendor of tiramisu (which literally means 'pick me up') sells takeaway cartons of the deliciously yolky yet light-as-air dessert. As well as classic, it comes in pistachio and strawberry flavours.

You can eat it on the spot or buy frozen portions that will keep for a few hours until you're ready to tuck into it at home. It also sells ice cream.

VENCHI
( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Via della Croce 25; gelato from €2.50; mSpagna)
Choco-specialists Venchi operate this handily located, usually mobbed gelataria, with a wide range of flavours; when plumping for fruity or creamy, bear in mind they're specialists in all things chocolate.

CASA CONTI
( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; %06 6920 0735; Via della Croce; meals €40; h1-3pm Mon-Sat; mSpagna)
This unique place has double-height ceilings and original tiled floors, and is filled with fascinating antiques. With few tables, it's a great hideaway for a simple Roman lunch with a simple dish of the day such as fettucine, and a wide choice of delicious wines. Delicious desserts may include cannoli (custard-filled pastries), crostate (jam tarts), tiramisu or chocolate tart.

ANTICA ENOTECA
( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; %06 679 08 96; Via della Croce 76b; meals €35; hnoon-midnight; mSpagna)
Near the Spanish Steps, locals and tourists alike prop up the 19th-century wooden bar, or sit at outside tables or in the tastefully distressed interior, sampling wines by the glass, snacking on antipasti and ordering well-priced soul food such as soups, pasta, polenta and pizza.

FIASCHETTERIA BELTRAMME
( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Via della Croce 39; meals €40; mSpagna)
With a tiny dark interior whose walls are covered in paintings and sketches right up to the high ceilings, Fiaschetteria (meaning ‘wine-sellers’) is a discreet, intimate, stuck-in-time place with a short menu and no telephone. Clientele is a mix of tourists and fashionistas with appetites digging into traditional Roman dishes (pasta e ceci and so on).

OTELLO ALLA CONCORDIA
( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; %06 679 11 78; Via della Croce 81; meals €35; h12.30-3pm & 7.30-11pm Mon-Sat; mSpagna)
A perennial favourite with both tourists and locals, Otello is a haven near the Spanish Steps. Outside seating is in the vine-covered courtyard of an 18th-century palazzo, and inside is inviting with walls hung with pictures.
A rich showcase of regional bounty, run by the Lazio Regional Food Authority, this sleek wine bar serves excellent local specialities, such as porchetta (pork roasted with herbs) or gnocchi alla Romana con crema da zucca (potato dumplings Roman-style with cream of pumpkin), as well as an impressive array of Lazio wines (try lesser-known drops such as Aleatico). Aperitivo is a good bet too.

There's also a tantalising array of artisanal cheese and delicious salami and cold cuts.

IMÀGO

Even in a city of great views, the panoramas from the Hassler Hotel’s Michelin-starred romantic rooftop restaurant are special (request the corner table), extending over a sea of roofs to the great dome of St Peter’s Basilica. Complementing the views are the bold, mod-Italian creations of culinary whizz, chef Francesco Apreda. Book ahead.

IL PALAZZETTO

This suntrap terrace, ideal for snacks and cocktails, is hidden at the top of the Spanish Steps. It’s perfect for a glass of prosecco (sparkling wine) and a salad or pasta dish on a sunny day overlooking the comings and goings on the steps. It also does a special margherita pizza plus house wine for €18.

NINO

With a look of wrought-iron chandeliers, polished dark wood and white tablecloths that has worked since it opened in 1934, Nino is enduringly popular with the rich and famous. Waiters can be brusque if you’re not on the A-list, but the food is good hearty fare, including memorable steaks and Tuscan bean soup.

GINGER

Perfecto for the ladies-who-lunch crowd, this chic, buzzy, white-tiled, high-ceilinged place proffers all-day dining, with a focus on organic dishes including unusual ingredients such as quinoa. There are salads, pricey gourmet sandwiches, pasta dishes, smoothies and shakes.

OSTERIA MARGUTTA

Theatrical Osteria Margutta is colourful inside and out: inside combines blue glass, rich reds and fringed lampshades, while outside it's flowers and ivy (snap up a terrace table in summer). Plaques on the chairs testify to the famous thespian bums they have supported. The menu combines classic and regional dishes; desserts are homemade, and there’s a top wine list.

BERNINI VS BORROMINI

Born within a year of each other, the two giants of Roman baroque hated each other with a vengeance. Gian Lorenzo Bernini (1598–1680), suave, self-confident and politically adept, was the polar opposite of his great rival Francesco Borromini (1599–1677), a solitary and peculiar man who often argued with clients. Borromini’s passion for architecture was a matter of life and death: once he caught a man disfiguring some pieces of stone while he was working on rebuilding San Giovanni in Laterano and had him beaten so fiercely that he later died of his injuries (Borromini received a Papal pardon).

Their paths first crossed at St Peter’s Basilica. Borromini, who had been working as an assistant to Carlo Maderno, a distant relative and the basilica’s lead architect, was furious when Bernini was appointed to take over the project on Maderno’s death. Nevertheless, he stayed on as Bernini’s chief assistant and actually contributed to the design of the baldachin – a work for which Bernini took full public credit. To make matters worse, Bernini was later appointed chief architect on Palazzo Barberini, again in the wake of Maderno, and again to Borromini’s disgust.

Over the course of the next 45 years, the two geniuses competed for commissions and public acclaim. Bernini flourished under the Barberini pope Urban VIII (r 1623–44) and Borromini under his Pamphilj successor Innocent X (r 1644–1655), but all the while their loathing simmered. Borromini accused Bernini of profiting from his (Borromini’s) talents, while Bernini claimed that Borromini ‘had been sent to destroy architecture’. Certainly, both had very different views on architecture: for Bernini it was all about portraying an experience to elicit an emotional response, while Borromini favoured a more geometrical approach, manipulating classical forms to create dynamic, vibrant spaces.

In their lifetimes, Bernini had the better of the rivalry. His genius was rarely questioned and when he died he was widely regarded as one of Europe’s greatest artists. Borromini, in contrast, struggled to win popular and critical support and after a life of depression committed suicide in 1677. Because of the way he died, he couldn't even be buried in the church he’d chosen for himself, San Carlo alle Quattro Fontane.

---

5 Trei Fountain to the Quirinale

DA MICHELE

(Pizza€

( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; % 349 2525347; Via dell’Umiltà 31; pizza slice from €3; h 8am-6pm Mon-Fri, to 10pm summer; g Via del Corso)

A handy address in Spagna district: buy your fresh, light and crispy pizza al taglio (by the slice), and you’ll have a delicious fast lunch. It's all kosher, so meat and cheese is not mixed.

ALICE PIZZA

(Pizza€

( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; www.alicepizza.it; Via di San Basilio 56; pizza slice from €3.50; h 8.30am-4pm Mon-Sat; m Barberini)

This hole-in-the-wall pizza al taglio place is busy with local workers, tempted in by an enticing range of toppings that proffer something outside the norm, with combinations that might include Emmental and courgette, or aubergine with chilli. There are a couple of seats inside, but they'll only serve as a brief perch.

ANTICO FORNO

(Fast Food€

( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 06 679 28 66; Via delle Muratte 8; panini & pizza €3.50; h 7am-10pm; g Via del Tritone)

A mini-supermarket opposite the Trevi Fountain, this busy place has a well-stocked deli where you can choose a filling for your freshly baked panino or pizza bianca, plus an impressive selection of focaccia and crispy, delicious pizza al taglio from the bakery counter at the back. It also sells cold drinks and beers to complete your picnic.

BACCANO

BRASSERIE€€

( MAP GOOGLE MAP : www.baccanoroma.com; Via delle Muratte 23; meals €45; h8.30am-2am; g Via del Corso)

Offering all-day dining in elegant, laid-back surroundings (it's nailed the Balthazar look: polished wood, potted palms, high ceilings, cosy booths). However, if you're in the mood for dinner, burgers, club sandwiches, cocktails, aperitivi – you name it, they've got it covered.

IL CHIANTI

TUSCAN€€

( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; %06 678 75 50; Via del Lavatore 81-82; meals €45, pizza €8-12; h12.30-3.30pm & 7-11.30pm; g Via del Tritone)

This pretty ivy-clad wine bar is bottle-lined and wood-beamed inside, with watch-the-world-go-by streetside seating, backed by a picturesque cascade of ivy, in summer. Cuisine is Tuscan, so the beef is particularly good, but it also serves up imaginative salads and pizza (for lunch or dinner).

NANÀ VINI E CUCINA

TRATTORIA€€

( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; %06 6919 0750; Via della Panettaria 37; meals €45; h12.30-3pm & 7-11pm Tue-Sun; g Via del Tritone)

An appealing and simple trattoria, specialising in Neopolitan flavours. Eat in the high-ceilinged interior, under huge brass pipes, overlooking the open kitchen, or outside on the piazzetta. Try la carne tenera scaloppine Nanà, cooked simply in white wine, and other southern dishes.

LE TAMERICI

SEAFOOD€€€

( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; %06 6920 0700; Vicolo Scavolino 79; meals €80; h7.30-11pm Mon-Sat, closed Aug; g Via del Tritone)

Tucked-away Le Tamerici is a cream-hued, elegant escape from the Trevi Fountain hubbub outside. It impresses with its wine list and range of digestivi, as well as with its classy food, including light-as-air homemade pasta. The two intimate rooms with bleached-wood beamed ceilings are a suitably discreet place to settle for an epicurean lunch.

5 Piazza Barberini & Via Veneto

IL CARUSO

GELATERIA€

( GOOGLE MAP ; Via Collina 15; hnoon-9pm; m Repubblica)

Spot Il Caruso by the gelato-licking hordes outside. This best-kept-secret artisanal gelateria only does a few strictly seasonal flavours, but they're created to perfection. Try the incredibly creamy pistachio. It also offers two types of panna: the usual whipped cream or the verging-on-sublime zabaglione (egg and marsala custard) combined with whipped cream.

FORNO CERULLI

PIZZA€
This hidden-away pizza al taglio place is much beloved by local office workers and the kind of place you'd blink and miss if you weren't in the know, despite its recent refit. There's now a spacious area inside where you can sit at barstools and eat your slices of delicious, freshly made pizza or foccacia. Eat in or take out.

SAN CRISPINO

This is the original place for gourmet gelato, though it has far more rivals in the capital these days. San Crispino, near the Trevi Fountain, serves strictly natural, seasonal flavours. Quality is high, but helpings are on the small side. No cones, as that'd detract from the taste.

COLLINE EMILIANE

This welcoming, tucked-away restaurant just off Piazza Barberini flies the flag for Emilia-Romagna, the well-fed Italian province that has blessed the world with Parmesan, balsamic vinegar, bolognese sauce and Parma ham. This is a consistently excellent place to eat; there are delicious meats, homemade pasta and rich ragù. Try to save room for dessert too.

AL MORO

This one-time Fellini haunt feels like a step back in time with its picture-gallery dining rooms, Liberty wall lamps, cantankerous buttoned-up waiters and old-money regulars. Join faux royals for soothing classics like cicoria al brodo (chicory in broth) or melt-in-your-mouth veal liver with crusty sage and butter.
6 Piazza del Popolo & Around

LA SCENA

(BAR) | (MAP GOOGLE MAP) | Via della Penna 22; h 7am-1am; m Flaminio)

Part of the art-deco Hotel Locarno, this bar has a faded Agatha Christie–era feel, and a greenery-shaded outdoor terrace bedecked in wrought-iron furniture. Cocktails cost €13 to €15, or you can partake of afternoon tea from 3pm to 6pm and aperitivo from 7pm to 10pm.

STRAVINSKIJ BAR – HOTEL DE RUSSIE

(BAR) | (MAP GOOGLE MAP) | 806 328 88 70; Via del Babuino 9; h 9am-1am; m Flaminio)

Can’t afford to stay at the celeb-magnet Hotel de Russie? Then splash out on a drink at its swish bar. There are sofas inside, but best is a drink in the sunny courtyard, with sunshaded tables overlooked by terraced gardens. Impossibly romantic in the best dolce vita style, it’s perfect for a cocktail (from €20) or beer (€13) and some posh snacks.

ROSATI

(CAFE) | (MAP GOOGLE MAP) | 806 322 58 59; Piazza del Popolo 5; h 7.30am-11.30pm; m Flaminio)

Rosati, overlooking the vast disc of Piazza del Popolo, was once the hang-out of the left-wing chattering classes. Authors Italo Calvino and Alberto Moravia used to drink here while their right-wing counterparts went to the Canova (MAP GOOGLE MAP) | 806 361 22 31; Piazza del Popolo 16; h 8am-midnight; m Flaminio) across the square. Today tourists are the main clientele, and the views are as good as ever. As usual, drinking standing up at the bar will get you a reasonably priced coffee, while you'll pay a premium for a seat.

LOCAL KNOWLEDGE

ROME’S VERSAILLES

If Napoleon had had his way, the Palazzo del Quirinale would have been Rome’s Versailles. Journalist and author Corrado Augias explains:

‘Napoleon actually chose Rome as his second capital after Paris. He wanted Versailles at Paris and the Palazzo del Quirinale – incidentally, Rome’s greatest and most beautiful palace – in Rome. He set artists and architects to prepare it for him and sent down furniture from Paris. In the end he never came and when he was defeated in 1815 the popes took the palazzo back for themselves.’

6 Piazza di Spagna & Around
In 1818 sculptor Canova signed a contract for this studio that agreed it would be forever preserved for sculpture. The place is still stuffed with statues and it’s a unique experience to sit among the great maquettes and sup an upmarket tea or knock back some wine and snacks.

Caffè Greco opened in 1760 and is still working the look: penguin waiters, red flock and age-spotted gilt mirrors. Casanova, Goethe, Wagner, Keats, Byron, Shelley and Baudelaire were all once regulars. Now there are fewer artists and lovers and more shoppers and tourists. Prices reflect this, unless you do as the locals do and have a drink at the bar (caffè bar/seated €1.50-6).

Hidden away a short walk from the top of the Spanish Steps towards the Pincio Hill Gardens, this graceful cafe-restaurant has a garden-party vibe, with green wooden latticework surrounding the white-clothed tables. There are lovely views over the backstreets behind Spagna, and the gelato is renowned (particularly the chocolate truffle).

Micca Club now has a less arresting interior but still retains its vintage, quirky vibe. This is Rome's burlesque club, where you can sip cocktails while watching shimmying acts upping the kitsch factor. Reserving a table by phone is advised.

Molto trendy: this café-restaurant is a find. It’s sleekly sexy and popular with workers from nearby offices. There’s a small stand-up café downstairs, with a nice little deck outside where you can linger longer over coffee and delicious dolcetti. Upstairs is a recommended cucina creativa (creative cuisine) restaurant (meals €70).
3 ENTERTAINMENT

GREGORY’S
(MAP GOOGLE MAP; ☎ 06 679 63 86; www.gregorys Jazz.com; Via Gregoriana 54d; Open 7pm-2am Tue-Sun Sep-Jun; m Barberini, Spagna)

If Gregory’s were a tone of voice, it’d be husky: unwind in the downstairs bar, then unwind some more on squishy sofas upstairs to some slinky live jazz and swing, with quality local performers, who also like to hang out here.

TEATRO QUIRINO
(MAP GOOGLE MAP; ☎ 06 679 45 85; www.teatroquirino.it; Via delle Vergini 7; 1 Via del Tritone)

Within splashing distance of the Trevi Fountain, this grand 19th-century theatre produces the odd new work and a stream of well-known classics – expect to see works (in Italian) by Arthur Miller, Tennessee Williams, Shakespeare, Seneca and Luigi Pirandello.

TEATRO SISTINA
(MAP GOOGLE MAP; ☎ 06 420 07 11; www.ilsistina.com; Via Sistina 129; m Barberini)

Big-budget theatre spectacles, musicals, concerts and comic star turns are the staples of the Sistina’s ever-conservative, ever-popular repertoire.

SPAS

The glamorous and gorgeous day spa Hotel de Russie Wellness Zone (MAP GOOGLE MAP; ° 06 3288 8820; www.hotelderrussie.it; Via del Babuino 9; Open 6.30am-10pm; m Flaminio) is in one of Rome’s best hotels, and allows entrance to the gym and steam room. Treatments are also available, including shiatsu and deep-tissue massage; a 50-minute massage costs around €95. Another soothing retreat is Kami Spa (MAP GOOGLE MAP; ° 06 42010039; www.kamispa.com; Via Degli Avignonesi 11-12; massage €120-160; m Barberini), close to Piazza Barberini, which has treatment rooms and a pool.
7 Piazza del Popolo & Around

BOTTEGA DEL MARMORARO

A particularly charismatic hole-in-the-wall shop lined with marble carvings, where you can get marble tablets engraved with any inscription you like (€15). Peer inside at lunchtime and you might see the cheerfully quizzical marmoraro, Enrico Fiorentini, cooking pasta for his lunch next to the open log fire.

DANIELLE

If you’re female and in need of an Italian shoe fix, this is an essential stop on your itinerary. It sells both classic and fashionable styles – foxy heels, boots and ballet pumps – at extremely reasonable prices. Shoes are soft leather and come in myriad colours.

PELLETTERIA NIVES

Take the rickety lift to this workshop, choose from the softest leathers, and you will shortly be the proud owner of a handmade, designer-style bag, wallet, belt or briefcase – take a design with you. Bags cost €200 to €350 and take around a week to make.

FABRIANO

Fabriano makes stationery sexy, with deeply desirable leather-bound diaries, funky notebooks and products embossed with street maps of Rome. It's perfect for picking up a gift, with other items including beautifully made leather key rings (€10) and quirky paper jewellery by local designers.

BARRILÀ BOUTIQUE

For classic, handmade Italian women's shoes that won't crack the credit card, head to Barrilà. This boutique stocks myriad styles in soft leather. From the window they all look a bit traditional, but you're bound to find something you'll like in the jam-packed interior.

DISCOUNT DELL’ALTA MODA
Discount dell’Alta Moda sells big names, such as Dolce & Gabbana and Gucci, at knock-down prices (around 50% off). It's worth a rummage.

7 West of Via Del Corso

MERCATO DELLE STAMPE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Largo della Fontanella di Borghese; h 7am-1pm Mon-Sat; g Piazza Augusto Imperatore)
The Mercato delle Stampe (Print Market) is well worth a look if you’re a fan of vintage books and old prints. Squirrel through the permanent stalls and among the tired posters and dusty back editions, and you might turn up some interesting music scores, architectural engravings or chromolithographs of Rome.

L’OLFATTORIO

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 06 361 23 25; Via di Ripetta 34; h 10.30am-7.30pm Mon-Sat, 11am-7pm Sun; m Flaminio)
This is like an enoteca (wine bar), but with perfume instead of drinks: scents are concocted by names such as Artisan Parfumeur, Diptyque, Les Parfums de Rosine and Coudray. The assistants will guide you through different combinations of scents to work out your ideal fragrance. Exclusive perfumes are available to buy. Smellings are free but you should book ahead.

IL MARE

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 06 361 20 91; Via Del Vantaggio 19; m Flaminio)
Ahoy there. Specialising in everything mare (sea) related, this friendly bookshop has maritime books in Italian, English and French, nautical charts, binoculars, pirate flags, model yachts, posters and Lonely Planet guidebooks.

TOD’S

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 06 6821 0066; Via della Fontanella di Borghese 56; g Via del Corso)
Tod’s trademark is its rubber-studded loafers (the idea was to reduce those pesky driving scuffs), perfect weekend footwear for kicking back at your country estate.

7 Piazza di Spagna & Around

VERTECCHI ART

(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Via della Croce 70; h 3.30-7.30pm Mon, 10am-7.30pm Tue-Sat; m Spagna)
Ideal for last-minute gift buying, this large paperware and art shop has beautiful printed paper, cards and envelopes that will inspire you to bring back the art of letter writing, plus an amazing choice of notebooks, art stuff and trinkets.

LUCIA ODESCALCHI
If you’re looking for a unique piece of statement jewellery that will make an outfit, this is the place to head. Housed in the evocative archives of the family palazzo, the avant-garde pieces often have an almost medieval beauty, and run from incredible polished steel and chain mail to pieces created out of pearls and fossils. Beautiful. Prices start at around €140.

C.U.C.I.N.A.

If you need a foodie gadget, C.U.C.I.N.A. is the place. Make your own cucina (kitchen) look the part with the designerware from this famous shop, with myriad devices you'll decide you simply must have, from jelly moulds to garlic presses.

FURLA

Simple, good-quality bags in soft leather and a brilliant array of colours is why the handbagging hordes keep flocking to Furla, where all sorts of accessories, from sunglasses to shoes, are made. There are many other branches dotted across Rome.

SERMONETA

Buying leather gloves in Rome is a rite of passage for some, and its most famous glove-seller is the place to do it. Choose from a kaleidoscopic range of quality leather and suede gloves lined with silk and cashmere. An expert assistant will size up your hand in a glance. Just don’t expect them to crack a smile.

ANGLO-AMERICAN BOOKSHOP

Particularly good for university reference books, the Anglo-American is well stocked and well known. It has an excellent range of literature, travel guides, children’s books and maps, and if it hasn’t got the book you want, they'll order it.

FENDI

A temple to subtly blinging accessories, this multistorey art-deco building is the Fendi mothership: this is the global headquarters, as the brand was born in Rome. Fendi is particularly famous for its products made of leather and (more controversially) fur.
One of several smashing delis along this pretty street, this is the place to buy cheese, cold cuts, smoked fish, caviar, pasta, olive oil and wine.

FRATELLI FABBI

A small but flavour-packed delicatessen, this is a good place to pick up all sorts of Italian delicacies – fine cured meats, buffalog mozzarella from Campania, parmigiano reggiano, olive oil, porchetta from Ariccia – as well as Iranian caviar.

BULGARI

If you have to ask the price, you can’t afford it. Sumptuous window displays mean you can admire the world’s finest jewellery without spending a centesimo.

FAUSTO SANTINI

Rome’s best-known shoe designer, Fausto Santini is famous for his beguilingly simple, architectural shoe designs, with beautiful boots and shoes made from butter-soft leather. Colours are beautiful, the quality impeccable. Seek out the end-of-line discount shop if this looks out of your price range.

---

7 Trevi Fountain to the Quirinale

LIBRERIA GIUNTI AL PUNTO

The ‘Straight to the Point’ children’s bookshop is an ideal place to distract your kids. Large, colourful and well stocked, it has thousands of titles in Italian and a selection of books in French, Spanish, German and English, as well as a good range of toys, from Play Doh to puzzles.

LA RINASCENTE

La Rinascente is a stately, upmarket department store, with a particularly buzzing cosmetics department, all amid art-nouveau interiors.

GALLERIA ALBERTO SORDI

This elegant stained-glass arcade appeared in Alberto Sordi’s 1973 classic, Polvere di Stelle, and has since been renamed for Rome’s favourite actor, who died in 2003. It’s a serene place to browse stores such as Zara and Feltrinelli, and there’s an airy cafe ideal for a quick coffee break.

Piazza Barberini & Via Veneto

UNDERGROUND (MAP GOOGLE MAP; 06 3600 5345; Via Francesco Crispi 96, Ludovisi underground car park; h3-8pm Sat & 10.30am-7.30pm Sun, 2nd weekend of the month Sep-Jun; mBarberini)

Monthly market held underground in a car park near Villa Borghese. There are more than 150 stalls selling everything from antiques and collectables to clothes and toys.
Vatican City, Borgo & Prati

Sights

Eating

Drinking & Nightlife

Entertainment

Shopping
Neighbourhood Top Five

1. Gazing heavenwards at Michelangelo's masterpieces in the Sistine Chapel – on the ceiling, his cinematic Old Testament frescoes; on the western wall, his terrifying vision of the Last Judgment.

2. Being blown away by the super-sized opulence of St Peter’s Basilica.

3. Trying to line up the columns on St Peter's Square – it is possible.

4. Revelling in the wonderful rooftop views from Castel Sant’Angelo.

5. Marvelling at the vibrant colours of the fabulously frescoed Stanze di Raffaello.

Explore: Vatican City, Borgo & Prati

The Vatican, the world’s smallest sovereign state (a mere 0.44 sq km), sits atop the low-lying Vatican hill a few hundred metres west of the Tiber. Centred on the domed bulk of St Peter’s Basilica, it boasts some of Italy’s most revered artworks, many of which are housed in the vast Vatican Museums. You’ll need at least a morning to do justice to the Vatican Museums. The highlight is the Michelangelo-decorated Sistine Chapel, but there’s enough art on display to keep you busy for years. If you’re with a tour guide, or if you can sneakily join onto a group, you can pass directly from the Sistine Chapel through to St Peter’s Basilica; otherwise you’ll have to walk around and approach from St Peter's Sq, itself one of the Vatican’s most dramatic sights. Once finished in the basilica, you’ll be ready for a break. There are few good eating options in the Vatican itself, but the nearby Prati district is full of excellent trattorias, takeaways and restaurants.

Between the Vatican and the river lies the medieval district of the Borgo – before Mussolini bulldozed Via dei Conciliazione through the area, all the streets around St Peter’s were like this. The big sight here is Castel Sant’Angelo, the large, drum-shaped castle overlooking the river.

The Vatican, Borgo and Prati districts are all easy to reach by public transport.

Local Life

Fast Food Rather than having a full-length midday meal, local office workers tend to grab a snack from the many excellent takeaways in Prati. Join them and lunch on pizza al taglio (pizza by the slice), arancine (deep-fried rice balls stuffed with cheese and vegetables) and gelato.

Shopping Spearing off Piazza del Risorgimento, Via Cola di Rienzo is a popular shopping strip lined with department stores and midrange clothes shops.

Catch a Gig Join the locals for sweet melodies at Alexanderplatz, Rome’s oldest and most famous jazz joint. Another top venue is the basement pub Fonclea.

Getting There & Away

Bus From Termini, bus 40 is the quickest one to the Vatican – it’ll drop you off near Castel Sant’Angelo. You can also take bus 64, which runs a similar route but stops more often. Bus 492 runs from Stazione Tiburtina to Piazza del Risorgimento and Cipro metro station, passing through Piazza Barberini and the centro storico.

Metro Take metro line A to Ottaviano–San Pietro. From the station, signs direct you to St Peter’s.
Lonely Planet’s Top Tip

Be wary of the touts around Ottaviano metro station selling queue-jumping tours of the Vatican Museums. These guys are on commission to round up clients and the tours they offer might well cost more than those sold on the museums’ official website.

Note that if you want to attend Easter or Christmas mass at St Peter’s you’ll have to book (free) tickets through the Prefettura della Casa Pontificia (www.vatican.va/various/prefettura/index_en.html).

Best Places to Eat

- Pizzarium
- Romeo
- Velavevodetto Ai Quiriti
- Enoteca La Torre
- Ristorante L’Arcangelo

Best Places to Drink

- Sciascia Caffè
- Makasar
- Art Studio Café
- Passaguai

Best Overground & Underground

- Dome of St Peter’s Basilica
- Terrace of Castel Sant’Angelo
- Tomb of St Peter
- Vatican Grottoes
In a city of outstanding churches, none can hold a candle to St Peter’s, Italy’s largest, richest and most spectacular basilica. A monument to centuries of artistic genius, it contains some spectacular works of art, including three of Italy’s most celebrated masterpieces: Michelangelo’s Pietà, his breathtaking dome, and Bernini’s baldachin (canopy) over the papal altar.

Note that the basilica gets very busy so expect queues most days. Also, strict dress codes are enforced: no shorts, miniskirts or bare shoulders.

History
The original St Peter's – which lies beneath the current basilica – was commissioned by the emperor Constantine and built around 349 on the site where St Peter is said to have been buried between AD 64 and 67. But like many medieval churches, it eventually fell into disrepair and it wasn’t until the mid-15th century that efforts were made to restore it, first by Pope Nicholas V and then, rather more successfully, by Julius II.

In 1506 construction began on Bramante's design for a new basilica based on a Greek-cross plan, with four equal arms and a huge central dome. But on Bramante’s death in 1514, building ground to a halt as architects, including Raphael and Antonio da Sangallo, tried to modify his original plans. Little progress was made and it wasn’t until Michelangelo took over in 1547 at the age of 72 that the situation changed. Michelangelo simplified Bramante’s plans and drew up designs for what was to become his greatest architectural achievement, the dome. He never lived to see it built, though, and it was left to Giacomo della Porta and Domenico Fontana to finish it in 1590.

With the dome in place, Carlo Maderno inherited the project in 1605. He designed the monumental facade and lengthened the nave towards the piazza.

The basilica was finally consecrated in 1626.

Facade
Built between 1608 and 1612, Maderno’s immense facade is 48m high and 118.6m wide. Eight 27m-high columns support the upper attic on which 13 statues stand representing Christ the Redeemer, St John the Baptist and the 11 apostles. The central balcony, the Loggia della Benedizione, is where the pope stands to deliver his Urbi et Orbi blessing at Christmas and Easter.

Behind the columns in the grand atrium, the Porta Santa (Holy Door) is opened only in Jubilee Years.

Interior – Right Nave
At the beginning of the right aisle is Michelangelo’s hauntingly beautiful Pietà. Sculpted when the artist was 25 (in 1499), it’s the only work he ever signed – his signature is etched into the sash across the Madonna’s breast.

Nearby, a red floor disk marks the spot where Charlemagne and later Holy Roman emperors were crowned by the pope.

On a pillar just beyond the Pietà, Carlo Fontana’s gilt and bronze monument to Queen Christina of Sweden commemorates the far-from-holy Swedish monarch who converted to Catholicism in 1655.

Moving on, you'll come to the Cappella di San Sebastiano, home of Pope John Paul II's tomb, and the Cappella del Santissimo Sacramento, a sumptuously decorated baroque chapel with works by Borromini, Bernini and Pietro da Cortona.

Beyond the chapel, the grandiose monument to Gregory XIII sits near the roped-off Cappella Gregoriana, a chapel built by Gregory XIII from designs by Michelangelo.

Much of the right transept is closed off but you can still make out the monument to Clement XIII, one of Canova’s most famous works.

Interior – Central Nave
Dominating the centre of the basilica is Bernini’s 29m-high baldachin. Supported by four spiral columns and made with bronze taken from the Pantheon, it stands over the papal altar, also known as the Altar of the Confession. In front, Carlo Maderno's Confessione stands on the site where St Peter was originally buried.

Above the baldachin, Michelangelo’s dome soars to a height of 119m. Based on Brunelleschi’s cupola in Florence, it's supported by four massive stone piers named after the saints whose statues adorn the Bernini-designed niches. These saints are all associated with the basilica's four major relics: the lance St Longinus used to pierce Christ's side; the cloth with which St Veronica wiped Jesus' face; a fragment of the Cross collected by St Helena; and the head of St Andrew.

At the base of the Pier of St Longinus is Arnolfo di Cambio's much-loved 13th-century bronze statue of St Peter, whose right foot has been worn down by centuries of caresses.

Dominating the tribune behind the altar is Bernini’s extraordinary Cattedra di San Pietro. A vast gilded bronze throne held aloft by four 5m-high saints, it is centred on a wooden seat that was once thought to have been St Peter’s but in fact dates to the 9th century. Above, light shines through a yellow window framed by a gilded mass of golden angels and adorned with a dove to represent the Holy Spirit.

To the right of the throne, Bernini’s monument to Urban VIII depicts the pope flanked by the figures of Charity and Justice.

Interior – Left Nave
In the roped-off left transept, the Cappella della Madonna della Colonna takes its name from the Madonna that stares out from Giacomo della Porta’s marble altar. To its right, above the tomb of St Leo the Great, is a fine relief by Alessandro Algardi. Under the next arch is Bernini’s last work in the basilica, the monument to Alexander VII.

Halfway down the left aisle, the Cappella Clementina is named after Clement VIII, who had Giacomo della Porta decorate it for the Jubilee of 1600. Beneath the altar is the tomb of St Gregory the Great and, to the left, a monument to Pope Pius VII by Thorvaldsen.

The next arch shelters Alessandro Algardi’s 16th-century monument to Leo XI. Beyond it, the richly decorated Cappella del Coro was created by Giovanni Battista Ricci to designs by Giacomo della Porta. The monument to Innocent VIII by Antonio Pollaiuolo in the next aisle arch is a recreation of a monument from the old basilica.

Continuing on, the Cappella della Presentazione contains two of St Peter’s most modern works: a black relief monument to John XXIII by Emilio Greco, and a monument to Benedict XV by Pietro Canonica.

Under the next arch are the so-called Stuart monuments. On the right is the monument to Clementina Sobieska, wife of James Stuart, by Filippo Barigioni, and on the left is Canova’s vaguely erotic monument to the last three members of the Stuart clan, the pretenders to the English throne who died in exile in Rome.

Dome
From the entrance of the dome (MAP GOOGLE MAP; with/without lift €7/5; h8am-5.45pm summer, to 4.45pm winter; mOttaviano-San Pietro) on the right of the basilica's main portico, you can walk the 551 steps to the top or take a small lift halfway and then follow on foot for the last 320 steps. Either way, it's a long, steep climb. But make it to the top, and you're rewarded with stunning views from a perch 120m above St Peter's Square.
Museo Storico Artistico
Accessed from the left nave, the Museo Storico Artistico (Tesoro; [MAP GOOGLE MAP]; adult/reduced €7/5; h 9am-6.15pm summer, to 5.15pm winter; m Ottaviano-San Pietro) sparkles with sacred relics. Highlights include a tabernacle by Donatello; the Colonna Santa, a 4th-century Byzantine column from the earlier church; and the 6th-century Crux Vaticana (Vatican Cross), a jewel-encrusted crucifix presented by the emperor Justinian II to the original basilica.

Vatican Grottoes
Extending beneath the basilica, the Vatican Grottoes ([MAP GOOGLE MAP]; h 9am-6pm summer, to 5pm winter; m Ottaviano-San Pietro) contain the tombs and sarcophagi of numerous popes, as well as several columns from the original 4th-century basilica. The entrance is in the Pier of St Andrew.

Tomb of St Peter
Excavations beneath the basilica have uncovered part of the original church and what archaeologists believe is the Tomb of St Peter ([MAP GOOGLE MAP]; ☏ 06 6988 5318; admission €13, over 15s only; m Ottaviano-San Pietro). In 1942 the bones of an elderly, strongly built man were found in a box hidden behind a wall covered by pilgrims' graffiti. And while the Vatican has never definitively claimed that the bones belong to St Peter, in 1968 Pope Paul VI said that they had been identified in a way that the Vatican considered 'convincing'.

The excavations can only be visited by guided tour. To book a spot, email the Ufficio Scavi (scavi@fsp.va) as early as possible.
DON’T MISS…

- Pietà
- Statue of St Peter
- The dome
- The baldachin
- Cattedra di San Pietro

PRACTICALITIES

- Basilica di San Pietro
- MAP [GOOGLE MAP]
- www.vatican.va
- St Peter's Sq
- 7am-7pm summer, to 6.30pm winter
- m Ottaviano-San Pietro
CHRISTINA, QUEEN OF SWEDEN

Famously portrayed by Greta Garbo in the 1933 film Queen Christina, the Swedish monarch is one of only three women buried in St Peter’s Basilica – the other two are Queen Charlotte of Cyprus, a minor 15th-century royal, and Agnesina Colonna, a 16th-century Italian aristocrat. Christina earned her place by abdicating the Swedish throne and converting to Catholicism in 1655. As Europe’s most high-profile convert, she became a Vatican darling and spent much of her later life in Rome, where she enjoyed fame as a brilliant patron of the arts. Her active private life was the subject of much salacious gossip, and rumours abounded of affairs with courtiers and acquaintances of both sexes.

Free English-language tours of the basilica are run from the Centro Servizi Pellegrini e Turisti at 9am every Tuesday and Thursday. In certain periods, volunteers from the Pontifical North American College also lead tours. The timetable for these varies, but they typically start at 2.15pm Monday through Friday.

FACE IN THE BALDACCHIN

The frieze on Bernini’s baldachin contains a hidden narrative that begins at the pillar to the left (looking with your back to the entrance). As you walk clockwise around the baldachin note the woman’s face carved into the frieze of each pillar. On the first three pillars her face seems to express the increasing agony of childbirth; on the last one, it’s replaced by that of a smiling baby. The woman was a niece of Pope Urban VIII and gave birth as Bernini worked on the baldachin.

Contrary to popular opinion, St Peter’s Basilica is not the world’s largest church – the Basilica of Our Lady of Peace in Yamoussoukro on the Ivory Coast is bigger. Bronze floor plates in the central aisle indicate the respective sizes of the 14 next-largest churches.
Visiting the Vatican Museums is a thrilling and unforgettable experience. With some 7km of exhibitions and more masterpieces than many small countries, this vast museum complex contains one of the world’s greatest art collections. Highlights include a spectacular collection of classical statuary, a suite of rooms painted by Raphael, and the Michelangelo-decorated Sistine Chapel.

Founded by Pope Julius II in the early 16th century, the museums are housed in the lavishly decorated halls and galleries of the Palazzo Apostolico Vaticano. This immense 5.5-hectare building consists of two palaces – the Vatican palace (nearer to St Peter’s) and the Belvedere Palace – joined by two long galleries. On the inside are three courtyards: the Cortile della Pigna, the Cortile della Biblioteca and, to the south, the Cortile del Belvedere. You’ll never cover it all in one day, so it pays to be selective.
Museum Tour
Vatican Museums

LENGTH THREE HOURS

Follow this tour to see the museums' greatest hits, culminating in the Sistine Chapel.

Once you've passed through the entrance complex, head up the modern spiral ramp (or escalator) to the 1 Cortile delle Corazze, the start point for all routes through the museums. While here take a moment to nip out to the terrace for views over St Peter's dome and the Vatican Gardens. Re-enter and follow through to the 2 Cortile della Pigna, named after the huge Augustan-era bronze pine cone in the monumental niche. Cross the courtyard and enter the long corridor that is the 3 Museo Chiaramonti. Don't stop here, but continue left, up the stairs, to the Museo Pio-Clementino, home of the Vatican’s finest classical statuary. Follow the flow of people through to the 4 Cortile Ottagono (Octagonal Courtyard), where you'll find the mythical masterpieces, the Laocoön and Apollo Belvedere. Continue through a series of rooms – the 5 Sala degli Animali (Animal...
Room), the Sala delle Muse (Room of the Muses), home of the famous Torso Belvedere, and the Sala Rotonda (Round Room), centred on a vast red basin. From the neighbouring Sala Croce Greca (Greek Cross Room), the Simonetti staircase leads up to the Galleria dei Candelabri (Gallery of the Candelabra), the first of three galleries along a lengthy corridor. It gets very crowded up here as you're funnelled through the Galleria degli Arazzi (Tapestry Gallery) and onto the Galleria delle Carte Geografiche (Map Gallery), a 120m long hall hung with huge topographical maps. At the end of the corridor, carry on through the Sala Sobieski to the Sala di Costantino, the first of the four Stanze di Raffaello (Raphael Rooms) – the others are the Stanza d'Eliodoro, the Stanza della Segnatura, featuring Raphael's superlative La Scuola di Atene, and the Stanza dell'Incendio di Borgo. Anywhere else these magnificent frescoed chambers would be the star attraction, but here they serve as the warm-up for the grand finale, the Sistine Chapel.

Pinacoteca
Often overlooked by visitors, the papal picture gallery displays paintings dating from the 11th to 19th centuries, with works by Giotto, Fra Angelico, Filippo Lippi, Perugino, Titian, Guido Reni, Guercino, Pietro da Cortona, Caravaggio and Leonardo da Vinci.

Look out for a trio of paintings by Raphael in Room VIII – the Madonna di Foligno (Madonna of Folignano), the Incoronazione della Vergine (Crowning of the Virgin), and La Trasfigurazione (Transfiguration), which was completed by his students after his death in 1520. Other highlights include Filippo Lippi's L'Incoronazione della Vergine con Angeli, Santo e donatore (Coronation of the Virgin with Angels, Saints, and donors), Leonardo da Vinci’s haunting and unfinished San Gerolamo (St Jerome), and Caravaggio’s Deposizione (Deposition from the Cross).

Museo Chiaramonti
This museum is effectively the long corridor that runs down the lower east side of the Belvedere Palace. Its walls are lined with thousands of statues and busts representing everything from immortal gods to playful cherubs and ugly Roman patricians. Near the end of the hall, off to the right, is the Braccio Nuovo (New Wing; currently closed for restoration), which contains a famous statue of the Nile as a reclining god covered by 16 babies.

Museo Pio-Clementino
This stunning museum contains some of the Vatican’s finest classical statuary, including the peerless Apollo Belvedere and the 1st-century BC Laocoön, both in the Cortile Ottagono (Octagonal Courtyard).

Before you go into the courtyard, take a moment to admire the 1st-century Apoxyomenos, one of the earliest known sculptures to depict a figure with a raised arm.

To the left as you enter the courtyard, the Apollo Belvedere is a 2nd-century Rome copy of a 4th-century-BC Greek bronze. A beautifully proportioned representation of the sun god Apollo, it’s considered one of the great masterpieces of classical sculpture. Nearby, the Laocoön shows a muscular Trojan priest and his two sons in mortal struggle with two sea serpents.

Back inside, the Sala degli Animali is filled with a selection of sculpted creatures and some magnificent 4th-century mosaics. Continuing on, you come to the Sala delle Muse (Room of the Muses), centred on the Torso Belvedere, another of the museum’s must-sees. A fragment of a muscular 1st-century BC Greek sculpture, this was found in Campo de’ Fiori and used by Michelangelo as a model for his ignudi (male nudes) in the Sistine Chapel. It's currently undergoing restoration.

The next room, the Sala Rotonda (Round Room), contains a number of colossal statues, including a gilded-bronze Ercole (Hercules) and an exquisite floor mosaic. The enormous basin in the centre of the room was found at Nero’s Domus Aurea and is made out of a single piece of red porphyry stone.

Museo Gregoriano Egizio
Founded by Pope Gregory XVI in 1839, the Egyptian museum displays pieces taken from Egypt in ancient Roman times. The collection is small, but there are fascinating exhibits including the Trono di Rameses II (part of a statue of the seated king), vividly painted sarcophagi from about 1000 BC, and a couple of macabre mummies.

Museo Gregoriano Etrusco
At the top of the Simonetti staircase, this fascinating museum contains artefacts unearthed in the Etruscan tombs of northern Lazio, as well as a superb collection of vases and Roman antiquities. Of particular interest is the Marte di Todi (Mars of Todi), a black bronze of a warrior dating to the late 5th century BC.

Galleria dei Candelabri & Galleria degli Arazzi
Originally an open loggia, the Galleria dei Candelabri is packed with classical sculpture and several elegantly carved candelabras that give the gallery its name. The corridor continues through to the Galleria degli Arazzi (Tapestry Gallery) and its huge hanging tapestries. The best, on the left, were woven in Brussels in the 16th century.

Galleria delle Carte Geografiche & Sala Sobieski
One of the unsung heroes of the Vatican Museums, the 120m-long Map Gallery is hung with 40 huge topographical maps. These were created between 1580 and 1583 for Pope Gregory XIII based on drafts by Ignazio Danti, one of the leading cartographers of his day.

Beyond the gallery, the Sala Sobieski is named after an enormous 19th-century painting depicting the victory of the Polish King John III Sobieski over the Turks in 1683.
Museum Tour

Sistine Chapel

SISTINE CHAPEL CEILING

On entering the chapel head over to the main entrance in the far (east) wall for the best views of the ceiling. Michelangelo's ceiling design – which took him four years to complete – covers the entire 800-sq-m surface. With painted architectural features and a colourful cast of biblical figures, it centres on nine central panels depicting the Creation, Adam and Eve, the Fall, and the plight of Noah.

As you look up from the east wall, the first panel is the 1 Drunkenness of Noah, followed by 2 The Flood, and the 3 Sacrifice of Noah. Next, 4 Original Sin and Banishment from the Garden of Eden famously depicts Adam and Eve being sent packing after accepting the forbidden fruit from Satan, represented by a snake with the body of a woman coiled around a tree. The 5 Creation of Eve is then followed by the 6 Creation of Adam. This, one of the most famous images in Western art, shows a bearded God pointing his finger at Adam, thus bringing him to life. Completing the sequence are the 7 Separation of Land from Sea; the 8 Creation of the Sun, Moon and Plants; and the 9 Separation of Light from Darkness, featuring a fearsome God reaching out to touch the sun.

Straight ahead of you on the west wall is Michelangelo's mesmeric Giudizio Universale (Last Judgment), showing Christ (in the centre near the top) passing sentence over the souls of the dead as they are torn from their graves to face him. The saved get to stay up in heaven (in the upper right), the damned are sent down to face the demons in hell (in the bottom right).

The chapel's side walls also feature stunning Renaissance frescoes, representing the lives of Moses (to your left) and Christ (to the right). Look out for Botticelli's Temptations of Christ and Perugino's Handing over of the Keys.

---

Stanze di Raffaello

These four frescoed chambers, currently undergoing partial restoration, were part of Pope Julius II’s private apartments. Raphael himself painted the Stanza della Segnatura (1508–11) and the Stanza d’Eliodoro (1512–14), while the Stanza dell’Incendio (1514–17) and Sala di Costantino (1517–24) were decorated by students following his designs.

The first room you come to, the Sala di Costantino (Reception Room) is dominated by the Battaglia di Costantino contro Maxentius (Battle of the Milvian Bridge), a huge fresco showing the victory of Constantine, Rome’s first Christian emperor, over his rival Maxentius.

Leading off the sala, but usually closed to the public, the Cappella di Niccolo V, Pope Nicholas V's private chapel, boasts a superb cycle of frescoes by Fra Angelico.

The Stanza d’Eliodoro, which was used for private audiences, takes its name from the Cacciata d’Eliodoro (Expulsion of Heliodorus from the Temple), an allegorical work referring to Pope Julius II's policy of forcing foreign powers off Church lands. To its right is the Messa di Bolsena (Mass of Bolsena), showing Julius II paying homage to the relic of a 13th-century miracle at the lakeside town of Bolsena. Next is the Incontro di Leone Magno con Attila (Encounter of Leo the Great with Attila), and, on the fourth wall, the Liberazione di San Pietro (Liberation of St Peter), a brilliant work illustrating Raphael’s masterful ability to depict light.

The Stanza della Segnatura, Pope Julius’ study and library, was the first room that Raphael painted, and it’s here that you’ll find his great masterpiece, La Scuola di Atene (The School of Athens), featuring philosophers and scholars gathered around Plato and Aristotle. The seated figure in front of the steps is believed to be Michelangelo, while the figure of Plato is said to be a portrait of Leonardo da Vinci, and Euclide (the bald man bending over) is Bramante. Raphael also included a self-portrait in the lower right corner (he’s the second figure from the right in the black hat). Opposite is La Disputa del Sacramento (Disputation on the Sacrament), also by Raphael.

The most famous work in the Stanza dell’Incendio di Borgo (Dining Room) is the Incendio di Borgo (Fire in the Borgo), which depicts Leo IV extinguishing a fire by making the sign of the cross. The ceiling was painted by Raphael’s master, Perugino.

From the Raphael Rooms, stairs lead to the Appartamento Borgia and the Vatican’s collection of modern religious art.

JUMP THE QUEUE

Avoiding the queues is largely a matter of luck but there are some things you can do to reduce waiting time. Book tickets online (http://biglietteriamusei.vatican.va/musei/tickets/do; €4 booking fee). On payment, you’ll receive email confirmation, which you should print and present, along with valid ID, at the museum entrance. Alternatively, book a tour with a reputable guide. Time your visit: Tuesdays and Thursdays are quietest; Wednesday mornings are good as everyone is at the pope's weekly audience; afternoon is better than the morning; avoid Mondays when many other museums are shut.

On the whole, exhibits are not well labelled, so consider hiring an audioguide (€7) or buying the excellent Guide to the Vatican Museums and City (€14). The museums are well equipped for visitors with disabilities, and wheelchairs are available free of charge from the Special Permits desk in the entrance hall. They can also be reserved by emailing accoglienza.musei@scv.va. Strollers can be taken into the museums.
CONCLAVE

The Sistine Chapel plays an important religious function as the place where the conclave meets to elect a new pope. Dating to 1274, give or take a few modifications, the rules of the voting procedure are explicit: between 15 and 20 days after the death of a pope, the entire College of Cardinals (comprising all cardinals under the age of 80) is locked in the chapel to elect a new pontiff. Four secret ballots are held every day until a two-thirds majority has been secured. News of the election is communicated by emitting white smoke through a specially erected chimney.

The heat and humidity caused by the chapels' six million annual visitors pose a constant threat to the frescoes, and the Vatican Museums' director has hinted at the possibility of having to limit the number of daily visitors to 20,000.

NIGHT OPENINGS

From mid-April to October, the Museums open late (7pm to 11pm) every Friday evening. Online booking is necessary for these night visits.

DON’T MISS…

- Sistine Chapel
- Stanze di Raffaello
- Apollo Belvedere & Laocoön, Museo Pio-Clementino
- La Trasfigurazione, Pinacoteca

PRACTICALITIES

- Musei Vaticani
- MAP GOOGLE MAP
- ☎️ 06 6988 4676
- http://mv.vatican.va
- Viale Vaticano
- adult/reduced €16/8, last Sun of month free
- ☕️ 9am-4pm Mon-Sat, 9am-12.30pm last Sun of month
- 🚌 Ottaviano-San Pietro
1 SIGHTS

Boasting priceless treasures at every turn, the Vatican is home to some of Rome’s most popular sights. The Vatican Museums and St Peter’s Basilica are the star attractions, but Castel Sant’Angelo, one of the city’s most recognisable landmarks, is also well worth a visit.

1 Vatican City
St Peter's Basilica

ST PETER'S SQUARE
(Piazza San Pietro; MAP GOOGLE MAP; mOttaviano-San Pietro)

Overlooked by St Peter's Basilica, the Vatican’s central square was laid out between 1656 and 1667 to a design by Gian Lorenzo Bernini. Seen from above, it resembles a giant keyhole with two semicircular colonnades, each consisting of four rows of Doric columns, encircling a giant ellipse that straightens out to funnel believers into the basilica. The effect was deliberate – Bernini described the colonnades as representing ‘the motherly arms of the church’.

The scale of the piazza is dazzling: at its largest it measures 340m by 240m. There are 284 columns and, atop the colonnades, 140 saints. The 25m obelisk in the centre was brought to Rome by Caligula from Heliopolis in Egypt and later used by Nero as a turning post for the chariot races in his circus.

Leading off the piazza, the monumental approach road, Via della Conciliazione, was commissioned by Mussolini and built between 1936 and 1950.

Vatican Museums

VATICAN GARDENS
(MAP GOOGLE MAP; http://biglietteriamusei.vatican.va/musei/tickets/do; adult/reduced incl Vatican Museums €32/24; h by reservation only; mOttaviano-San Pietro)

Up to half the Vatican is covered by the perfectly manicured Vatican Gardens, which contain fortifications, grottoes, monuments and fountains. Visits are by two-hour guided tour only, for which you’ll need to book at least a week in advance.

Note that after the tour you're free to visit the Vatican Museums on your own.

NECROPOLI VIA TRIUMPHALIS
(MAP GOOGLE MAP; http://biglietteriamusei.vatican.va/musei/tickets/do; adult/reduced incl Vatican Museums €26/20, incl Vatican Museums & Gardens €37/29; h by reservation only; mOttaviano-San Pietro)

Not to be confused with the Tomb of St Peter, this ancient Roman cemetery extends beneath the Vatican hill. Guided tours, which must be pre-booked, follow modern walkways through the ongoing excavations, taking in tombs and burial chambers unearthed during construction of an underground car
SEPARATE ENTRANCES

It's a common misunderstanding, but many people think that St Peter's Basilica, the Vatican Museums and the Sistine Chapel share a single entrance. They don't. The entrance to St Peter's Basilica is on St Peter's Sq, while the entrance to the Vatican Museums is on Viale Vaticano – follow the Vatican walls westwards from Piazza del Risorgimento. The Sistine Chapel is in the Vatican Museums and can only be accessed through the museums.

You can, if you're sly, pass from the Sistine Chapel through to St Peter's Basilica, although officially this short cut is reserved for guided groups. You can not, however, go from St Peter's to the Sistine Chapel.

1 Borgo

CASTEL SANT'ANGELO

With its chunky round keep, this castle is an instantly recognisable landmark. Built as a mausoleum for the emperor Hadrian, it was converted into a papal fortress in the 6th century and named after an angelic vision that Pope Gregory the Great had in 590. Nowadays, it houses the Museo Nazionale di Castel Sant'Angelo and its eclectic collection of paintings, sculpture, military memorabilia and medieval firearms.

Many of these weapons were used by soldiers fighting to protect the castle, which, thanks to a secret 13th-century passageway to the Vatican (the Passetto di Borgo), provided sanctuary to many popes in times of danger. Most famously, Pope Clemente VI holed up here during the 1527 sack of Rome.

The castle's upper floors are filled with lavishly decorated Renaissance interiors, including the beautifully frescoed Sala Paolina. Two storeys up, the terrace, immortalised by Puccini in his opera Tosca, offers unforgettable views over Rome.

Note that ticket prices may increase during temporary exhibitions.

PONTE SANT’ANGELO

The emperor Hadrian built the Ponte Sant’Angelo in 136 to provide an approach to his mausoleum, but it was Bernini who brought it to life, designing the angel sculptures in 1668. The three central arches of the bridge are part of the original structure; the end arches were restored and enlarged in 1892–94 during the construction of the Lungotevere embankments.
At 11am on Wednesdays, the pope addresses his flock at the Vatican (in July and August in Castel Gandolfo near Rome). For details of how to apply for free tickets, see the Vatican website (www.vatican.va/various/prefettura/index_en.html).

When he's in Rome, the Pope blesses the crowd in St Peter’s Sq on Sundays at noon. No tickets are required.
Beware, hungry travellers: there are an unholy number of overpriced tourist-traps around the Vatican and St Peter’s. A better bet is nearby Prati, which has lots of excellent eateries catering to the lawyers and media execs who work in the area, many at the headquarters of RAI, the Italian state broadcaster.

5 Vatican City

OLD BRIDGE

GELATERIA

MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.gelateriaoldbridge.com; Viale dei Bastioni di Michelangelo 5; gelato €2-5; h 9am-2am Mon-Sat, 2.30pm-2am Sun; g Piazza del Risorgimento, j Piazza del Risorgimento)

Ideal for a pre- or post-Vatican pick-me-up, this tiny gelateria has been cheerfully dishing up huge portions of delicious gelato for over 20 years. Alongside all the traditional flavours, there are also yoghurts and refreshing sorbets.

5 Borgo

LA VERANDA

RISTORANTE

MAP GOOGLE MAP; 06 687 29 73; www.laveranda.net; Borgo Santo Spirito 73; meals €60-70, brunch €18-27; h 12.30-3pm & 7.30-11pm Tue-Sun; g Piazza Pia)

A location in Paolo Sorrentino's Oscar-winning film The Great Beauty, this fine-dining restaurant sets a memorable stage for quality Italian cuisine. Inside, you can dine under 15th-century Pinturicchio frescoes, while in the warmer months, you can opt for a shady table in the garden. To enjoy the atmosphere for a snip of the regular price, stop by for Sunday brunch.

LOCAL KNOWLEDGE

SNACK HEAVEN

There are hundreds of bars, cafes and takeaways in the Prati area, but for a quick, cheap bite nowhere beats Dolce Maniera (MAP GOOGLE MAP; Via Barletta 27; snacks €0.30-1; h 24hr; m Ottaviano–San Pietro), an unmarked basement bakery that serves freshly made cornetti for €0.30, as well as slabs of pizza, panini and an indulgent array of cakes and biscuits.

5 Prati

FATAMORGANA

GELATERIA

It’s off the beaten track, but this superb gelateria is well worth the walk. As well as all the classic flavours there are some wonderfully original creations, such as a mouthwateringly good agrumi (citrus fruit) and a strange but delicious basilico, miele e noci (basil, honey and hazelnuts).

FA-BÌÓ

Sandwiches, salads and smoothies are all prepared with speed, skill and fresh organic ingredients at this tiny takeaway. Locals and in-the-know visitors come to grab a quick lunchtime bite, and if you can squeeze in the door you’d do well to follow suit.

MONDO ARANCINA

All sunny yellow ceramics, cheerful crowds and tantalising deep-fried snacks, this bustling takeaway brings a little corner of Sicily to Rome. Star of the show are the classic fist-sized arancine, deep-fried rice balls stuffed with fillers ranging from classic ragù to more exotic fare such as truffle risotto and quail’s eggs.

GELARMONY

Sweet-tooths are spoiled for choice at this popular Sicilian gelateria. There’s an ample selection of gelati, but for a typically Sicilian flavour go for pistachio or cassata (sponge cake with cream, marzipan, chocolate and candied fruit).

CACIO E PEPE

This humble eatery is about as hardcore as it gets with its menu of traditional Roman dishes, spartan interior and no-frills service. If you can find a free seat at one of the pavement tables, keep it simple with the namesake cacio e pepe (pasta with pecorino cheese and black peppper).

ROMEO

This chic, contemporary outfit is part bakery, part deli, part takeaway, and part restaurant. For a quick bite, there’s delicious sliced pizza or you can have a panino made up at the deli counter; for a full restaurant meal, the à la carte menu offers a mix of traditional Italian dishes and forward-looking international creations.
This welcoming restaurant continues to win diners over with its unpretentious, earthy food and honest prices. The menu reads like a directory of Roman staples, and while it's all pretty good, standout choices include fettuccine con asparagi, guanciale e pecorino (pasta ribbons with asparagus, guanciale and pecorino cheese) and polpette di bollito (fried meat balls).

IL SORPASSO

A bar-restaurant hybrid sporting a vintage cool look – vaulted stone ceilings, hanging hams, white bare-brick walls – Il Sorpasso is a hot ticket right now. Open throughout the day, it caters to a fashionable neighbourhood crowd, serving everything from pasta specials to aperitifs, trappizini (pyramids of stuffed pizza), and a full dinner menu.

HOSTARIA DINO E TONY

An authentic old-school trattoria, Dino e Tony offers simple, no-frills Roman cooking. Kick off with the monumental antipasto, a minor meal in its own right, before plunging into the trattoria's signature rigatoni all'amatriciana (pasta tubes with bacon-like guanciale, chilli and tomato sauce). No credit cards.

DEL FRATE

Locals love this upmarket wine bar with its simple wooden tables and high-ceilinged brick-arched rooms. There’s a formidable wine and cheese list with everything from Sicilian ricotta to Piedmontese gorgonzola, and a small but refined menu of tartars, salads, fresh pastas and main courses.

DAL TOSCANO

Immerse yourself in the tastes of Tuscany at this old-fashioned ristorante. Meat is a highlight, with cured hams and salamis served as starters, and grilled steaks providing the mains. But before you embark on the colossal char-grilled bistecca alla Fiorentina (Florentine-style steak), try the ribollito, a thick Tuscan soup. Reservations advised.

OSTERIA DELL’ANGELO

With rugby paraphernalia on the walls and basic wooden tables, this laid-back neighbourhood trattoria is a popular spot for genuine local cuisine. The fixed-price menu features a mixed antipasti, a robust Roman-style pasta and a choice of hearty mains with a side dish. To finish off, spiced biscuits are served with sweet dessert wine. Reservations recommended.

PIZZERIA AMALFI

This brassy, brightly coloured pizzeria-cum-restaurant flies the flag for Neapolitan cuisine with its buffalo mozzarella starters, soft, doughy pizzas and calzones. If pizza doesn't appeal, you can choose from a lengthy list of grilled meats, pastas, salads and fish dishes. Note that there's a second branch across the road at Via dei Gracchi 5.

ENOTECA LA TORRE

The art-nouveau Villa Laetitia provides the romantic setting for this refined Michelin-starred restaurant. A relative newcomer to the capital's fine-dining scene, chef Danilo Ciavattino has quickly established himself with his original culinary style and love of authentic country flavours.

RISTORANTE L'ARCANGELO

Styled as an informal bistro with wood-panelling, leather banquettes and casual table settings, L'Arcangelo enjoys a stellar local reputation. The highlight for many are the classic Roman staples such as carbonara and amatriciana, but there's also a limited selection of more innovative modern dishes. The wine list is a further plus, boasting some interesting Italian labels.

SETTEMBRINI

All labels, suits and media gossip, this fashionable restaurant is part of the ever-growing Settembrini empire. Next door is a stylish all-day cafe, while over the way, Libri & Cucina is a laid-back bookshop eatery, and L'Officina an upscale food store. At the casually chic main restaurant expect contemporary Italian cuisine and quality wine to match.
Pizzarium, or 'Bonci pizza rustica #pizzarium', as it has recently re-branded itself, serves some of Rome's best sliced pizza. Scissor-cut squares of meticulously crafted dough are topped with original combinations of seasonal ingredients and served on paper trays for immediate consumption. There's also a daily selection of freshly fried supplì (crunchy rice croquettes).
The quiet area around the Vatican and Prati harbours a few charming wine bars and cafes.

Prati

- Sciascia Caffè
  - Details: Via Fabio Massimo 80/A; 7.30am-6.30pm Mon-Sat; m Ottaviano–San Pietro
  - Description: The timeless elegance of this polished cafe is perfectly suited to the exquisite coffee it makes. There are various options but nothing can beat the caffè eccellente, a velvety smooth espresso served in a delicate cup that has been lined with melted chocolate. The result is nothing short of magnificent.

- Makasar
  - Details: Via Plauto 33; noon-midnight Tue-Thu, to 2am Fri & Sat, 5.30-11.30pm Sun; g Piazza del Risorgimento
  - Description: Recharge your batteries with a quiet drink at this oasis of bookish tranquillity. Pick your tipple from the nine-page tea menu or opt for an Italian wine and sit back in the casually stylish, softly lit interior. For something to eat, there's a small menu of salads, bruschette, baguettes and healthy hot dishes.

- Passaguai
  - Details: Via Leto 1; 10am-2am Mon-Fri, 6pm-2am Sat & Sun; g Piazza del Risorgimento
  - Description: A cosy basement bar with tables in a vaulted interior and on a quiet sidestreet, Passaguai feels pleasingly off-the-radar. It's a great spot for a beer or glass of wine – there's an excellent choice of both – accompanied by cheese and cold cuts, or even a full meal from the limited menu. Free wi-fi.

- Art Studio Café
  - Details: Via dei Gracchi 187a; 7.30am-9pm Mon-Sat; m Lepanto
  - Description: This artsy, light-filled cafe is a lovely spot for a light lunch, afternoon tea or evening aperitif (€6 to €8 depending on your choice of drink). And for the artist in you, it also offers a series of mosaic and craftwork courses.
If the sight of so much art in the Vatican has inspired you, head to the Art Studio Café, a bright cafe that doubles as a mosaic and craft school. There are various courses on offer but if time is tight, the one to go for is a two-hour introduction to mosaic-making (£50 or €35 for children). If you're in town for longer, you could sign up for an eight-lesson course in ceramics (£300) or for six lessons in drawing and painting (£180).

Note that short courses can be arranged in English.
ALEXANDERPLATZ
( MAP GOOGLE MAP; % 06 3972 1867; www.alexanderplatzjazzclub.com; Via Ostia 9; h 8.30pm-2am, concerts 9.45pm; m Ottaviano-San Pietro)
Small, intimate and underground, Rome's most celebrated jazz club draws top Italian and international performers and a respectful cosmopolitan crowd. Book a table for the best stage views or if you want to dine to the tunes. Check the website for upcoming gigs.

FONCLEA
( MAP GOOGLE MAP; % 06 689 63 02; www.fonclea.it; Via Crescenzio 82a; h 7pm-2am Sep-May; G Piazza del Risorgimento)
Fonclea is a great little pub venue, serving up nightly gigs by bands playing everything from jazz and soul to funk, rock and Latin (concerts start at around 9.30pm). Get in the mood with a drink during happy hour (7pm to 8.30pm daily). From June to August, the pub ups sticks and moves to a site by the Tiber.

AUDITORIUM CONCILIAZIONE
( MAP GOOGLE MAP; % 06 3281 0333; www.auditoriumconciliazione.it; Via della Conciliazione 4; G Piazza Pia)
On the main approach road to St Peter's Basilica, this large auditorium plays host to a wide range of events – classical and contemporary concerts, cabarets, dance spectacles, theatre productions, film screenings and exhibitions.

TEATRO GHIONE
( MAP GOOGLE MAP; % 06 637 22 94; www.teatroghione.it; Via delle Fornaci 37; G Via di Porta Cavalleggeri)
The Teatro Ghione is a big 500-seat theatre near St Peter’s that offers a varied program of classic and modern plays, concerts and musicals.
Established under the terms of the 1929 Lateran Treaty, the Vatican is the modern vestige of the Papal States, the papal fiefdom that ruled Rome and much of central Italy until Italian unification in 1861. It's an independent nation – the world's smallest – and as such has a head of state (the pope) and government, as well as its own postal service and army – the nattily dressed Swiss Guards.

The Vatican's association with Christianity dates to the 1st century when St Peter was crucified head down in Nero's Circus (roughly where St Peter's Sq now stands). To commemorate this, the emperor Constantine commissioned a basilica to be built on the site where the saint was buried.

For centuries, St Peter's Basilica stood at the centre of a densely populated quarter, but it wasn't until the 12th century that the Palazzo Apostolico Vaticano was built. Like much of the Vatican, this fell into disrepair during the exile of the papacy to Avignon (1305–78) and the Great Schism (the period between 1378 and 1417 when rival popes ruled in Rome and Avignon).

Life returned to the Vatican in the 15th and 16th centuries when a series of ambitious Renaissance popes revamped St Peter's and modernised the Palazzo Apostolico Vaticano. The baroque 17th century saw further transformations, most notably the laying of St Peter's Sq.
ENOTECA COSTANTINI
( MAP GOOGLE MAP; 7 06 3972 5679; www.antica-cappelleria.it; Via degli Scipioni 46; h9am-7pm Mon-Fri; mOttaviano–San Pietro)
If you're after a hard-to-find grappa or something special for your wine collection, this historic enoteca is the place to try. Opened in 1972, Piero Costantini's superbly stocked shop is a point of reference for aficionados across town with its 800-sq-m basement cellar and a colossal collection of Italian and world wines and more than 1000 spirits.

ANTICA MANUFATTURA CAPPELLI
( MAP GOOGLE MAP; Piazza Cavour 16; h9am-1pm Tue-Sat, 4.30-8pm Mon-Sat; gPiazza Cavour)
A throwback to a more elegant age, the atelier-boutique of milliner Patrizia Fabri offers a wide range of beautifully crafted hats. Choose from the off-the-peg line of straw Panamas, vintage cloches, felt berets and tweed deerstalkers, or have one made to measure. Prices range from about €70 to €300 and ordered hats can be delivered within the day.

RECHICLE
( MAP GOOGLE MAP; Piazza dell'Unità 21; h11am-1.30pm Tue-Sat, 2.30-7.30pm Mon-Sat; gVia Cola di Rienzo)
Search out this discreet boutique behind the covered market on Piazza dell'Unità for second-hand styles and vintage fashions. Designer labels are in evidence among the racks of women's clothes, shoes, bags and accessories displayed alongside the occasional vintage piece.

CASTRONI
( MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.castronicoladirienzo.com; Via Cola di Rienzo 196; h7.45am-8pm Mon-Sat, 9.30am-8pm Sun; gVia Cola di Rienzo)
This is a real Aladdin’s cave of gourmet treats. Towering, ceiling-high shelves groan under the weight of Italian wines and foodie specialities, classic foreign delicacies, and all manner of sweets and chocolates. Adding to the atmosphere are the coffee odours that waft up from the in-store bar.
Monti, Esquilino & San Lorenzo

1 Visiting the Palazzo Massimo alle Terme, with its incredible frescoes from imperial Rome.
2 Lingering at wine bars and pottering around the bohemian-chic neighbourhood of Monti.
3 Hobnobbing with the bohos in Pigneto, the iconic working-class district immortalised by Pasolini.
4 Taking in the splendours of Basilica di Santa Maria Maggiore.
5 Exploring the underground wonders of Domus Aurea, Nero's great, golden palace that now lies beneath Oppian Hill.

Explore: Monti, Esquilino & San Lorenzo

Esquilino is one of Rome's seven hills, and the area encompasses the sometimes scruffy area around Stazione Termini and Piazza Vittorio Emanuele II. It is also home to some fantastic sights, including some of Rome's finest medieval churches, and the Museo Nazionale Romano: Palazzo Massimo alle Terme, which displays stunning classical art.
Heading downhill, Monti was the ancient city’s notorious Suburra slum – a red-light district and the childhood home of Julius Caesar – but is now a charming neighbourhood of inviting eateries, shops and enoteche (wine bars) that's ever more popular with tourists and hip locals.

San Lorenzo is a lively student quarter east of Termini, home to the beautiful but little-visited Basilica di San Lorenzo Fuori le Mura. It was the area most damaged by Allied bombing during WWII, which is ironic given the area’s vehemently anti-Fascist politics. By day the area feels hungover, a grid of graffitied streets that nonetheless harbour some gemlike boutiques, but after dark it shows its true colours as a student nightlife haunt; it’s also home to some excellent restaurants.

A quick tram ride (and on Metro line C when it's finished) southeast, Pigneto also has edge, the Roman equivalent of London’s Dalston. Its ever-burgeoning bars and restaurants attract a regular crowd of artists and boho urbanites.

Local Life

- Hangouts While away an hour or so at Monti’s La Bottega del Caffè, watching the world go by.
- Shopping Potter around the vintage and fashion boutiques of Via Serpenti and Via Boschetto in Monti.
- Drinking Have a drink amid artists, bohos, hipsters, and wannabes in buzzing Pigneto.

Getting There & Away

- Metro The Cavour metro stop (line B) is most convenient for Monti, while the Termini (lines A and B), Castro Pretorio (line B) and Vittorio Emanuele (line A) stations are useful for Esquilino. The section of line C that will serve Pigneto is not scheduled for completion until 2020.
- Bus Termini is the city’s main bus hub, connected to places all over the city. Access Monti from buses stopping on Via Nazionale or Via Cavour. San Lorenzo is served by buses 71 and 492; Pigneto is served by buses 81, 810 and 105, and night bus n12.
- Tram This is an easy way to access San Lorenzo (tram 3) or Pigneto and Centocelle (trams 5, 14 or 19).
Lonely Planet’s Top Tip

Don’t neglect to visit the oft-overlooked patriarchal Basilica di San Lorenzo Fuori le Mura – it’s starkly beautiful.

Best Places to Eat

- L’Asino d’Oro
- Trattoria Monti
- Open Colonna
- Panella l’Arte del Pane

Best Places to Drink

- Ai Tre Scalini
- La Bottega del Caffè
- Il Tasso
- Co.So

Best Works of Art

- Frescoes at Palazzo Massimo alle Terme
- Michelangelo’s colossal Moses
- Fuga’s 13th-century facade mosaics
- Richard Meier’s modernist Chiesa Dio Padre Misericordioso
One of Rome’s finest museums, this light-filled treasure trove is packed with spectacular classical art yet remains off the beaten track. It's not to be missed.

We recommend you start your visit on the 2nd floor, so you see its wonders when you're fresh. The sensational frescoes give a more complete picture of the inside of grand ancient Roman villas than you'll see anywhere else in the world. They include scenes from nature, mythology, and domestic and sensual life, using rich, vivid (and expensive) colours.

The showstopper is the decoration covering an entire room from Villa Livia, one of the homes of Augustus’ wife Livia Drusilla. The frescoes depict a paradisaical garden full of a wild tangle of roses, violets, pomegranates, irises and camomile under a deep-blue sky. These decorated a summer triclinium, a large living and dining area built half underground to provide protection from the heat. The lighting mimics the modulation of daylight and highlights the richness of the millennia-old colours.

The ground and 1st floors are devoted to sculpture, examining imperial portraiture as propaganda and including some breathtaking works of art, including the 2nd-century-BC Greek bronzes, the Boxer and the Prince, a crouching Aphrodite from Villa Adriana, the 2nd-century-BC Sleeping Hermaphrodite, and the idealised vision of the Discus Thrower. Also fascinating are the elaborate bronze fittings that belonged to Caligula's ceremonial ships.

In the basement, the coin collection is far more absorbing than you might expect, tracing the Roman Empire's propaganda offensive via coinage. There's also jewellery dating back several millennia that looks as good as new, and the disturbing remains of mummified eight-year-old girl, the only known example of mummification dating from the Roman Empire.
DON’T MISS…

• The Boxer
• Sleeping Hermaphrodite
• Frescoes from Villa Livia

PRACTICALITIES

• MAP  GOOGLE MAP
• 06 3996 7700
• www.coopculture.it
• Largo di Villa Peretti 1
• adult/reduced €7/3.50
• 9am-7.45pm Tue-Sun
• M Termini
One of Rome’s four patriarchal basilicas, this monumental church stands on the summit of the Esquilino Hill, on the spot where snow is said to have fallen in the summer of AD 358. To commemorate the event, every year on 5 August thousands of white petals are released from the basilica’s coffered ceiling.

Outside, the 18.78m-high column came from the basilica of Massenzio in the Roman Forum. The church exterior is decorated by 13th-century mosaics, protected by a baroque porch. The 75m belfry, the highest in Rome, is 14th-century Romanesque.

The great interior retains its 5th-century structure, as well as the original mosaics in the triumphal arch and nave. The central image in the apse, signed by Jacopo Torriti, dates from the 13th century.

Twelfth-century Cosmati paving covers the nave floor. The baldachin over the high altar practically squirms with gilt cherubs; the altar itself is a porphyry sarcophagus, said to contain the relics of St Matthew and other martyrs. Gian Lorenzo Bernini and his father Pietro are buried to the right of the altar, their graves marked by a simple stone embedded in the floor.

Don't miss the upper loggia, the extraordinary creation of Ferdinando Fuga, where you'll get a closer look at the 13th-century mosaics, created by Filippo Rusuti. You'll also see Bernini's baroque helical staircase.
DON’T MISS…

- The loggia
- Cosmatesque floor
- Jacopo Torriti apse mosaics

PRACTICALITIES

- Piazza Santa Maria Maggiore
- basilica/museum/loggia/archaeological site free/€3/5/5
- h7am-7pm, museum & loggia 9am-5.30pm
- gPiazza Santa Maria Maggiore
The sometimes scruffy district of Esquilino is lined by grand 19th-century buildings. It might not be Rome’s prettiest hood, and some parts feel downright shady, but it’s studded with some stupendous art and museums, including one of Rome’s finest patriarchal basilicas in Santa Maria Maggiore, Michelangelo's Moses at San Pietro in Vincoli, and two masterpiece-packed outposts of the Museo Nazionale Romano.

Monti

Basilica di San Pietro in Vincoli

(Piazza di San Pietro in Vincoli 4a; h: 8am-12.20pm & 3-7pm summer, to 6pm winter; m Cavour)

Pilgrims and art lovers flock to this 5th-century basilica for two reasons: to marvel at Michelangelo's colossal Moses (1505) sculpture and to see the chains that supposedly bound St Peter when he was imprisoned in the Carcere Mamertino (near the Roman Forum).

Access to the church is via a flight of steps through a low arch that leads up from Via Cavour.

The church was built specially to house the shackles of St Peter, which had been sent to Constantinople after the saint's death, but were later returned as relics. They arrived in two pieces and legend has it that when they were reunited they miraculously joined together. They are now displayed under the altar.

To the right of the altar, Michelangelo's Moses forms the centrepiece of his unfinished tomb for Pope Julius II. The prophet strikes a muscular pose with well-defined biceps, a magnificent waist-length beard and two small horns sticking out of his head. These were inspired by a mistranslation of a biblical passage: where the original said that rays of light issued from Moses' face, the translator wrote 'horns'. Michelangelo was aware of the mistake, but gave Moses horns anyway. Flanking Moses are statues of Leah and Rachel, probably completed by Michelangelo's students.

The tomb, despite its imposing scale, was never finished – Michelangelo originally envisaged 40 statues, but got sidetracked by the Sistine Chapel – and Pope Julius II was buried in St Peter's Basilica.

Esquilino

Basilica di Santa Maria Maggiore

(Domus Aurea; Golden House; m Colosseo)
Nero had his Domus Aurea constructed after the fire of AD 64 (which it's rumoured he had started to clear the area). Named after the gold that lined its facade and interiors, it was a huge complex covering up to a third of the city. The excavated part of the site has been repeatedly closed due to flooding, but opened for weekend guided tours from late 2014; check the website for current opening status.

The palace was full of architectural invention, a more splendid palace than had ever been seen before. However, Nero’s successors attempted to raze all trace of his megalomania. Vespasian drained Nero’s ornamental lake and, in a symbolic gesture, built the Colosseum in its place. Domitian built a palace on the Palatino, while Trajan sacked and destroyed the 1st floor and then entombed the lower level in earth and used it for the foundations of his public baths complex, which was abandoned by the 6th century. This burial of the palace preserved it; the section that has been excavated lies beneath Oppian Hill. Wear warm clothes when visiting as the palace now lies underground and is damp. Remarkably, the humidity has helped preserve the frescoes in the chambers, though this may only be seen in one small cleaned area – the rest have not been restored. Tours last an hour and 15 minutes and are guided by archaeologists who are extremely knowledgable about the site.

During the Renaissance, artists (including Raphael and Pinturecchio) lowered themselves into the ruins, climbing across the top of Trajan's rubble in order to study the frescoed grottoes, and Raphael reproduced some of their motifs in his work on the Vatican.

MUSEO NAZIONALE D’ARTE ORIENTALE

This little-visited but impressive collection is housed in the grandiose 19th-century Palazzo Brancaccio. It includes 5th-century-BC Iranian glassware, items from the ancient settlement of Swat in Pakistan, 12th-century homewares from Afghanistan, engraved ritual vessels from China dating to between 800 BC and 900 BC, and a new Korean gallery with bronzes, seals and contemporary art.

CHIESA DI SANTA CROCE IN GERUSALEMME

One of Rome’s seven pilgrimage churches, the Chiesa di Santa Croce was founded in 320 by St Helena, mother of the emperor Constantine, in the grounds of her palace. It takes its name from the Christian relics here – including a piece of Christ’s cross and St Thomas’ doubting finger – that St Helena brought to Rome from Jerusalem, housed in a chapel to the left of the altar.

Of particular note are the lovely 15th-century Renaissance apse frescoes representing the legends of Christ's cross, showing from where the wood came and how it was turned into the cross.

NATIONAL MUSEUM OF MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS

This museum houses an extensive collection of musical instruments from around the world, including stringed, wind, percussion, and keyboard instruments. It also features a rich history of music, with exhibits dedicated to famous composers and musicians.
This little-known museum behind the church of Santa Croce stands on the site of the former home of St Helena. It’s undeservedly and refreshingly deserted, with a collection of over 3000 exquisite musical instruments that includes gorgeously painted, handle-operated 18th-century Neapolitan street pianos, and one of the oldest known pianos (1722).

CHIESA DI SANTA PUDENZIANA

( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Via Urbana 160; h 9am-noon & 3-6pm; m Cavour)

The church of Rome’s Filipino community contains a sparkling 4th-century apse mosaic, the oldest of its kind in the city. An enthroned Christ is flanked by two female figures who are crowning St Peter and St Paul; on either side of them are the apostles dressed as Roman senators. Unfortunately, you can only see 10 of the original 12 apostles, as a barbarous 16th-century facelift lopped off two and amputated the legs of the others.

CHIESA DI SANTA PRASSEDE

( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Via Santa Prassede 9a; h 7.30am-noon & 4-6.30pm; g Piazza Santa Maria Maggiore)

Famous for its brilliant mosaics, this 9th-century church is dedicated to St Praxedes, an early Christian heroine who hid Christians fleeing persecution and buried those she couldn’t save in a well. The position of the well is now marked by a marble disc on the floor of the nave.

The mosaics, produced by artists who were specially brought in by Pope Paschal I from Byzantium, bear all the hallmarks of their eastern creators, with bold gold backgrounds and a marked Christian symbolism. The apse mosaics depict Christ flanked by Sts Peter, Pudentiana and Zeno on the right, and Paul, Praxedes and Pope Paschal on the left. All the figures have golden halos except for Paschal, whose head is shadowed by a blue nimbus to indicate that he was still alive at the time. Further treasures await in the heavily mosaiced Cappella di San Zenone, including a piece of the column to which Christ was tied when he was flogged, brought back from Jerusalem – it’s in the glass case on the right.

CHIESA DI SAN MARTINO AI MONTI

( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Viale del Monte Oppio 28; h 9am-noon & 4.30-7pm; m Cavour)

This was already a place of worship in the 3rd century, when Christians would meet in what was then the home of a Roman named Equitius. In the 4th century, after Christianity was legalised, a church was constructed, and later rebuilt in the 6th and 9th centuries. It was then completely transformed by Filippo Gagliardi in the 1650s.

It’s of particular interest for Gagliardi’s frescoes showing the Basilica di San Giovanni in Laterano before it was rebuilt in the mid-17th century and St Peter’s Basilica before it assumed its present 16th-century look. Remnants of the more distant past include the ancient Corinthian columns dividing the nave and aisles.

CHIESA DI SANTA LUCIA IN SELCI

( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Via in Selci 82; h 8am-noon & 2-6pm; m Cavour)

The small Chiesa di Santa Lucia in Selci is a convent church devoted to the 4th-century martyr St Lucy. It dates to some time before the 8th century, but was reconstructed by Carlo Maderno in the 16th century, who kept it within the then monastery, hence the lack of a facade. It was later restored by Borromini in the 17th century.

PIAZZA VITTORIO EMANUELE II

(Piazza Vittorio Emanuele II (MAP GOOGLE MAP) ; mVittorio Emanuele)
Laid out in the late 19th century as the centrepiece of an upmarket residential district, but today with a rundown, seedy feel, Rome’s biggest square is a grassy expanse, surrounded by speeding traffic, porticoes and bargain stores. Within the fenced-off central section are the ruins of Trofei di Mario (Trofei di Mario (MAP GOOGLE MAP)), once a fountain at the end of an aqueduct.

In the northern corner, the Chiesa di Sant’Eusebio (MAP GOOGLE MAP) is popular with pet-owners who bring their companions to be blessed on St Anthony’s feast day (17 January).

PORTA MAGGIORE

(Piazza di Porta Maggiore; gPorta Maggiore)
Porta Maggiore was built by Claudius in AD 52. Then, as now, it was a major road junction under which passed the two main southbound roads, Via Prenestina and Via Labicana (modern-day Via Casilina). The arch supported two aqueducts – the Acqua Claudia and the Acqua Aniene Nuova – and was later incorporated into the Aurelian Wall.

MUSEO STORICO DELLA LIBERAZIONE

(Via Tasso 145; h9.30am-12.30pm Tue-Sun, 3.30-7.30pm Tue, Thu & Fri; mManzoni)F
Now a small, chilling museum, Via Tasso 145 was the headquarters of the German SS during the Nazi occupation of Rome (1943–44). Members of the Resistance were interrogated, tortured and imprisoned in the cells and you can still see graffiti scrawled on the walls by condemned prisoners.

Exhibits, which include photos, documents and improvised weapons, chart the events of the occupation, covering the persecution of the Jews, the underground resistance and the Fosse Ardeatina massacre.

PRACTICAL TIP

COMBINED TICKET

Note that the ticket (adult/reduced €7/3.50, or €10/6.50 when there's an exhibition) for the Crypta Balbi and Palazzo Altemps (Centro Storico), Palazzo Massimo, Terme di Diocleziano, and Aula Ottagona (Termini) combines admission for all five sites but is only valid for three days, so plan accordingly. Another worthwhile investment could be an Archaeologia Card (€27.50; valid seven days), which covers these sights as well as the Colosseum, Palatino, Terme di Caracalla, Villa dei Quintilli and Cecilia Metella. It's available at any of the sights.
MUSEUM NAZIONALE ROMANO: TERME DI DIOCLEZIANO

The Terme di Diocleziano was ancient Rome's largest bath complex, covering about 13 hectares and with a capacity for 3000 people. Today its ruins constitute part of the impressive Museo Nazionale Romano. This branch of the National Roman Museum supplies a fascinating insight into Roman life through memorial inscriptions and other artefacts. Outside, the vast, elegant cloister was constructed from drawings by Michelangelo.

It's lined with classical sarcophagi, headless statues and huge sculptured animal heads, thought to have come from the Foro di Traiano.

Elsewhere in the museum, look out for exhibits relating to cults and the early development of Christianity and Judaism. There's a particularly interesting section about amulets and spells, which were cast on neighbours and acquaintances to bring them bad luck and worse. Upstairs exhibits tomb objects dating from the 11th to 9th centuries BC, including jewellery and amphora.

As you wander the museum, you'll see glimpses of the original complex, which was completed in the early 4th century as a state-of-the-art combination of baths, libraries, concert halls and gardens – the Aula Ottagona and Basilica di Santa Maria degli Angeli buildings were also once part of this enormous endeavour. It fell into disrepair after the aqueduct that fed the baths was destroyed by invaders in about AD 536.

AULA OTTAGONA

The soaring, atmospheric Octagonal Hall was part of the ancient structure of the Terme di Diocleziano, and today forms a beautiful vaulted space that houses temporary exhibitions, often of sculpture.

BASILICA DI SANTA MARIA DEGLI ANGELI

This hulking basilica occupies what was once the central hall of Diocletian's baths complex. It was originally designed by Michelangelo, but only the great vaulted ceiling remains from his plans.

CHIESA DI SAN PAOLO ENTRO LE MURA

With its stripy neo-Gothic exterior, Rome’s American Episcopal church has some unusual 19th-century mosaics, designed by the Birmingham-born artist Edward Burne-Jones.

PALAZZO DELLE ESPOSIZIONI
This huge neoclassical palace was built in 1882 as an exhibition centre, though it has since served as HQ for the Italian Communist Party, a mess hall for Allied servicemen, a polling station and even a public loo. Nowadays it's a splendid cultural hub, with cathedral-scale exhibition spaces hosting blockbuster art exhibitions and sleekly designed art labs, as well as a bookshop and cafe.

The building also hosts everything from multimedia events to concert performances, film screenings and conferences, and has an excellent glass-roofed restaurant that proffers a bargain buffet lunch (€16) Monday to Friday; weekend brunch costs €30.

PIAZZA DELLA REPUBBLICA

Flanked by grand 19th-century neoclassical colonnades, this landmark piazza was laid out as part of Rome’s post-unification makeover. It follows the lines of the semicircular exedra (benched portico) of Diocletian’s baths complex and was originally known as Piazza Esedra.

First built in 1888 to designs by Alessandro Guerrieri that featured four lions, Fontana delle Naiadi (aroused puritanical ire when it was unveiled by architect Mario Rutelli in 1901. The nudity of the four naiads (water nymphs) who surround the central figure of Glaucus wrestling a fish, was considered too provocative – how Italy has changed! Each reclines on a creature symbolising water in a different form: a water snake (rivers), a swan (lakes), a lizard (streams) and a sea-horse (oceans).

LOCAL KNOWLEDGE

VILLA ALDOBRANDINI

If you’re in need of a breather around Via Nazionale or are in search of somewhere for a picnic, then take Via Mazzarino off the main road and walk up the steps, past 2nd-century ruins, where you’ll find a graceful, sculpture-dotted garden, with gravelled paths and tranquil lawns, raised approximately 10m above street level.

These are the grounds of Villa Aldobrandini, overlooked by the house built here in the 16th century by Cardinal Pietro Aldobrandini to hold his extensive art collection. Today the villa is closed to the public and houses the headquarters of an international law institute.

1 San Lorenzo & Beyond

- BASILICA DI SAN LORENZO FUORI LE MURA

This is one of Rome’s four patriarchal basilicas and is an atmospheric, tranquil edifice that’s starker than many of the city’s grand churches, a fact that only adds to its breathtaking beauty. It was the only one of Rome’s major churches to have suffered bomb damage in WWII, and although it is a hotchpotch of rebuilds and restorations, it still feels harmonious.
St Lawrence was burned to death in AD 258, and Constantine had the original basilica constructed in the 4th century over his burial place, which was rebuilt 200 years later. Subsequently, a nearby 5th-century church dedicated to the Virgin Mary was incorporated into the building, resulting in the church you see today. The nave, portico and much of the decoration date to the 13th century.

Highlights are the Cosmati floor and the frescoed portico, depicting events from St Lawrence’s life. The remains of St Lawrence and St Stephen are in the church crypt beneath the high altar. A pretty barrel-vaulted cloister contains inscriptions and sarcophagi and leads to the Catacombe di Santa Ciriaca, where St Lawrence was initially buried.

CIMITERO DI CAMPO VERANO

The city’s largest cemetery dates to the Napoleonic occupation of Rome between 1804 and 1814, when an edict ordered that the city’s dead must be buried outside the city walls. Between the 1830s and the 1980s virtually all Catholics who died in Rome (with the exception of popes, cardinals and royalty) were buried here. If you're in the area it's worth a look for its grand tombs. On 2 November (All Souls’ Day), thousands of Romans flock to the cemetery to leave flowers on the tombs of loved ones.

PASTIFICIO CERERE

An elegant former pasta factory that hung up its spaghetti racks in 1960 after 55 years of business, this is now a hub of Rome's contemporary art scene, with regular shows in the building’s gallery and courtyards.

The Pastificio came to prominence in the 1980s as home of the Nuova Scuola Romana (New Roman School), a group of six artists who are still here, alongside a new generation that includes Maurizio Savini, famous for his pink chewing gum sculptures.

WORTH A DETOUR

CHIESA DIO PADRE MISERICORDIOSO

It's well worth making the effort to visit Rome’s minimalist church, set in the suburbs, for a refreshing departure from the excesses of baroque or the classicism of Rome's many Renaissance churches. This beautiful white Richard Meier creation is completely pared down, resulting in a remarkable and appropriate-feeling purity. It's built out of white concrete, stucco, gleaming travertine and 976 sq m of glass, it is an exercise in dazzling lightness, making use of the play of light both inside and out. The structure is flanked on one side by three graduated concrete, sail-like shells, while on the other side a four-storey atrium connects the church with a community centre.
PIGNETO & CENTOCELLE

If you feel like a night bar-hopping to see where the evening takes you, head to Pigneto. Over the last decade, this working-class quarter has undergone a rapid metamorphosis to arty, hipster nightlife zone. It was previously immortalised by film-maker Pier Paolo Pasolini, who used to hang out at Necci and filmed Accattone (1961) here. There’s a small-town feel, with low-rise houses and graffiti-covered narrow streets. The action centres on Via del Pigneto, but there are also bars in the surrounding streets. The area also harbours some of Rome's best street art (listed on the street art map available from tourist kiosks). To reach here, take a tram from Termini to Via Prenestina.

The nearby suburban district of Centocele is becoming a good place to go out to eat amid in-the-know Roman foodies. It's accessible via Tram 5, the Metro Parco di Centocele, or buses 14, 105 or 150.

Eating

I PORCHETTONI

(FAST FOOD; Via del Pigneto; meals around €25; h:noon-lam; j: Via Prenestina)

Lively spot where you can feast on porchetta (pork roasted with herbs), mozzarella, earthy cured meats and simple pastas at paper-tablecloth trestle tables.

OSTERIA QUI SE MAGNA!

(OSTERIA; Via del Pigneto 307; meals €25; h:Mon-Sat; j: Via Prenestina)

A small, simple place adorned with gingham paper tablecloths with a couple of outside tables, here you can eat heavenly, hearty, home-cooked food, such as carciofi con patata (artichokes with potatoes).

NECCI

(CAFE; Via Fanfulla da Lodi 68; dinner around €45, lunch mains around €8; h:8am-2am; W; j: Via Prenestina)

Iconic Necci opened as gelataria in 1924 and later became a favourite of Pasolini. Good for a drink or a meal, it serves up sophisticated Italian cooking to an eclectic crowd of all ages, with a lovely, leafy garden terrace (ideal for families).

PRIMO

(ITALIAN; Via del Pigneto 46; meals around €45; h:7.30pm-2am Tue-Sat, Sun lunch; W; j: Via Prenestina)

Flagship of the Pigneto scene, Primo is still buzzing after several years, with outdoor tables and an industrial brasserie-style interior. Service is slow, though.

MAZZO

(IN ITALIAN; Via delle Rose 54; meals €45; h:6pm-midnight Tue-Sun, lunch Sun, aperitivio 6-8pm; j: Centocele)

In Centocele, traditional Roman cuisine is given a twist by innovative young chefs, Francesca Barreca and Marco Baccanelli, who are known as the Fooders. There are few tables and two sittings (at 8pm and 10pm); book ahead via email.

To reach here, take tram 5 or 19 from Termini towards Piazza dei Gerani.

Drinking

IL TIASO

(BAR; Via Perugia 20; W; g:Circonvallazione Casilina)

Think living room with zebra-print chairs, walls of indie art, Lou Reed biographies shelved between wine bottles, and 30-something owner Gabriele playing his latest New York Dolls album to neo-beatnik chicks, corduroy professors and the odd neighbourhood dog. Well-priced wine, an intimate chilled vibe, and regular live music.
A small, relaxed bar, with a laid-back crowd draped over blonde-wood bar stools and tables. To a soundtrack of the Doors, Blur and so on, you can drink a wide variety of craft beers, with names such as 'Total Insanity'.

CO.SO

The chicest bar in the Pigneto district, this tiny place, opened by Massimo D'Addezio, former master mixologist at Hotel de Russie, is buzzing and is hipster to the hilt, with its Carbonara Sour cocktail (with vodka infused with pork fat), bubblewrap coasters, and popcorn and M&M bar snacks.

YEAH! PIGNETO

We say si! to Yeah! Pigneto. A relaxed boho-feeling bar with DJs playing jazz and the walls covered in collages and classic album covers, this is a good place for lingering over not-too-expensive beer. Regular live gigs.
Monti, conveniently just north of the Colosseum if you’re looking for somewhere nearby, has some great eating choices and is an increasingly chic destination. An ancient slum, it’s one of Rome’s most interesting districts, with intimate bars, wine bars, restaurants and boutiques.

In the busy, hotel-packed district around Stazione Termini it’s harder to find good eateries, but there are some notable classic trattorias, restaurants and artisanal gelaterie; this area also contains Rome’s best ethnic eats.

In San Lorenzo, the vibrant boho student area east of Termini, you’ll find an enticing mix of restaurants that make it worth schlepping over here.

5 Monti

CIURI CIURI
(PASTRIES€)
(_MAP GOOGLE MAP; Via Leonina 18; snacks around €3; h 8.30am-midnight Sun-Thu, to 2am Fri & Sat; m Cavour)
Oh yes…what's not to love about a Sicilian ice-cream and pastry shop? Pop by for delectable homemade sweets such as freshly filled cannoli (ricotta-filled tubes), cassata (sponge with cream, marzipan, chocolate and candied fruit) and pasticini di mandorla (almond pastries), all available in bite-sized versions. It's not all sweet: there are also excellent freshly made arancine (fried rice balls) and other snacks. Eat in or out.

FATAMORGANA – MONTI
(GELATERIA€)
(_MAP GOOGLE MAP; Piazza Zingari; gelato from €2.50; h 1pm-12.30am; m Cavour)
Not only is Fatamorgana one of Rome's finest artisanal gelaterias, offering delicious, gluten-free flavours, but you can sit and eat your choice out on the pretty square. The large photo behind the counter is from the classic film La Banda degli Onesti (starring Totò), as the scene was shot on this corner.

GELATARIA DELL'ANGELETTO
(GELATERIA€)
(_MAP GOOGLE MAP; Via dell'Angeletto 15; gelato from €2.50; h noon-midnight; m Cavour)
An outpost of gelato-masters Dei Gracchi, who have their original gelateria close to the Vatican, this has many wonderful seasonal flavours, from pear and caramel to apple and cinnamon, and particularly fantastico pistachio.

FORNO DA MILVIO
(PIZZA€)
(_MAP GOOGLE MAP; Via dei Serpenti 7; pizza slice from €3.50; h 6.30am-midnight; m Cavour)
A small pizza al taglio (by the slice) place that's always busy and serves up a great range of deliciously light and crispy pizza. It's a fast-and-tasty option when you want a cheap lunch in the Colosseum–Monti area. Eat in or takeaway.

- L'ASINO D’ORO
  (MAP GOOGLE MAP: %06 4891 3832; Via del Boschetto 73; meals €45; h 12.30-2.30pm Sat, 7.30-11pm Tue-Sat; m Cavour)
  This fabulous restaurant was transplanted from Orvieto and its Umbrian origins resonate in Lucio Sforza’s delicious, exceptional cooking. It’s unfussy yet innovative, with dishes featuring lots of flavourful contrasts, such as lamb meatballs with pear and blue cheese. Save room for the amazing desserts. For such excellent food, this intimate, informal yet classy place is one of Rome’s best deals. Hours are changeable so call ahead.

- TEMAKINHO
  (MAP GOOGLE MAP: www.temakinho.com; Via dei Serpenti 16; meals €40; h 12.30-3.30pm & 7pm-midnight; m Cavour)
  In a city where most food is still resolutely (though deliciously) Italian, this Brazilian-Japanese hybrid serves up sushi and ceviche, and makes for a refreshing, sensational change. As well as delicious, strong caipirinhas, which combine Brazilian cachaça, sugar, lime and fresh fruit, there are sakehinhas made with sake. It's very popular so make sure you book.

- DALL'ANTÒ
  (MAP GOOGLE MAP: %06 678 07 12; Via della Madonna dei Monti 16; h noon-11pm Tue-Sat, noon-3pm Sun; m Cavour)
  In an unusual little labour of love, the owner, Antonio, takes ancient recipes from Tuscany and Liguria, and creates pancakes, which you can watch him creating on the state-of-the-art cooking equipment. Choose from farinata (made from chickpea flour), testarolo (a wheat pancake with pesto), or necci (made from chestnut flour). He's hugely enthusiastic and this is a unique place.

- DA VALENTINO
  (MAP GOOGLE MAP: %06 488 06 43; Via del Boschetto; meals €25-30; h 1-2.45pm & 7.30-11.30pm Mon-Sat; m Cavour)
  The vintage 1930s sign outside says ‘Birra Peroni’, and inside the lovely old-fashioned feel indicates that not much has changed here for years, with black-and-white photographs on the walls, white tablecloths and tiled floors. Come here when you’re in the mood for grilled scamorza (a type of Italian cheese, similar to mozzarella), as this is the main focus of the menu, with myriad variations: served with tomato and rocket, tomato and gorgonzola, cheese and artichokes, grilled meats, hamburgers and so on.

- URBANA 47
  (MAP GOOGLE MAP: %06 4788 4006; Via Urbana 47; meals €45; m Cavour)
  Opened by the owners of a vintage furniture store, this urbane, informal restaurant is filled with retro furnishings that are all for sale. Chef Alessandro Miotto operates the ‘0km’ rule (as much as possible), meaning that most things you eat here will be sourced from Lazio. Attracts a chic crowd.
On the go since 1906, this busy restaurant was favoured by the infamous Ragazzi di Panisperna, the group of young physicists whose discoveries led to the construction of the first atomic bomb. The waiters are brusque, it crackles with energy and the interior is covered in graffiti – tradition dictates that diners should leave their mark in a message on the wall.

LOCAL KNOWLEDGE

WINE-TASTING

VINO ROMA

With beautifully appointed 1000-year-old cellars and a chic tasting studio, Vino Roma guides novices and experts in tasting wine, under the knowledgable stewardship of sommelier Hande Leimer and his expert team. Tastings are in English, but German, Japanese, Italian and Turkish sessions are available on special request. It also offers a wine-and-cheese dinner (€60), with snacks, cheeses and cold cuts to accompany the wines, and bespoke three-hour food tours. Book online.

5 Esquilino

PANELLA L'ARTE DEL PANE

With a magnificent array of pizza al taglio, arancini, focaccia, fried croquettes and pastries, this smart bakery-cum-cafe is good any time of the day. The outside tables are ideal for a leisurely breakfast or chilled evening drink, or you can perch on a high stool and lunch on something from the sumptuous counter display.

ROSCIOLI

Off-the-track branch of this splendid deli-bakery-pizzeria, with delish pizza al taglio, pasta dishes and other goodies that make it ideal for a swift lunch or picnic stock-up. It's on a road leading off Piazza Vittorio Emanuele II.

PASTICCERIA REGOLI

Buns filled with whipped cream, light-as-air little cream puffs (perfect as a present when you're invited to someone's house for a meal), crostata (latticed jam tarts), and excellent ice cream are the name of the game at this much-loved Roman institution, with elegant pale-brick arches, chandeliers, and a cafe next door.
A serene choice close to Rome's main train station, where you'll get a warm, friendly welcome, and dishes come with an array of enticing little salads and pickles, known as kimchi. The diners here are mainly Korean and Chinese, and the good food makes for a refreshing change if you're hankering after something non-Italian.

LA GALLINA BIANCA

The ‘White Hen’ is a friendly, handy pizzeria amid the minefield of tourist trash around Termini, serving thick-crust Neapolitan pizzas made from slow-risen dough. It’s large and airy, decorated in cool pale blue and old wood, with shaded outside seating on a not-too-busy street.

PALAZZO DEL FREDDO DI GIOVANNI FASSI

A great back-in-time barn of a place, sprinkled with vintage gelato-making machinery, Fassi is a classic Rome experience, hugely popular with Korean and Chinese residents and visitors, specialising in flavours such as riso (rice), pistachio and nocciola (hazelnut). The granita, served with dollops of cream, deserves special mention.

INDIAN FAST FOOD

Formica tables, Hindi hits, neon lights, chapatti and naan, lip-smacking samosas and bhajis, and a simple selection of main curry dishes: when you’re feasting at this authentic joint you can almost imagine yourself in India.

TRATTORIA MONTI

The Camerucci family runs this elegant brick-arched place, proffering top-notch traditional cooking from the Marches region. There are wonderful fritti (fried things), delicate pastas and ingredients such as pecorino di fossa (sheep’s cheese aged in caves), goose, swordfish and truffles. Try the egg-yolk tortelli pasta. Desserts are delectable, including apple pie with zabaglione. Word has spread, so book ahead.

TRIMANI

Part of the Trimani family’s wine empire (their shop just round the corner stocks about 4000 international labels), this is an unpretentious yet highly professional enoteca, with knowledgable, multilingual staff. It’s Rome’s biggest wine bar and has a vast selection of Italian regional wines as AGATA E ROMEO

This elegant, restrained place was one of Rome’s gastronomic pioneers and still holds its own as one of the city’s most gourmet takes on Roman cuisine. Chef Agata Parisella prepares the menus and runs the kitchen, offering creative uses of Roman traditions; husband Romeo curates the wine cellar; and daughter Maria Antonietta chooses the cheeses. Bookings essential.

5Piazza della Repubblica & Around

DOOZO

Doozo (meaning ‘welcome’) is a spacious, Zen restaurant-bookshop and gallery that offers tofu, sushi, soba (buckwheat noodle) soup and other Japanese delicacies, plus beer and green tea in wonderfully serene surroundings. It's a little oasis, particularly the shady courtyard garden.

OPEN COLONNA

Spectacularly set at the back of Palazzo delle Esposizioni, superchef Antonello Colonna’s superb restaurant is tucked onto a mezzanine floor under an extraordinary glass roof. The cuisine is new Roman: innovative takes on traditional dishes, cooked with wit and flair. The best thing? There’s a more basic but still delectable fixed two-course lunch for €16, and Saturday and Sunday brunch is €30, served in the dramatic, glass-ceilinged hall, with a terrace for sunny days.

5San Lorenzo & Beyond

FORMULA UNO

This basic, historic San Lorenzo pizzeria is as adrenaline-fuelled as its name: waiters zoom around under whirring fans, delivering tomato-loaded bruschetta, fried courgette flowers, supplì al telefono and bubbling thin-crust pizza to eternal crowds of feasting students and wallet-savvy locals and tourists.
This trendy yet old-style lace-curtained trattoria takes its name from the trams that rattle past outside. It's a family-run concern whose menu is an unusual mix of Roman and Pugliese (southern Italian) dishes, featuring taste sensations such as tiella riso, patata and cozze (baked rice dish with rice, potatoes and mussels). Book ahead.

TRATTORIA €€

POMMIDORO

Throughout San Lorenzo’s metamorphosis from down-at-heel working-class district to down-at-heel student enclave, Pommidoro has remained the same. It was a favourite of controversial film director Pasolini and contemporary celebs stop by, but it’s an unpretentious place with superb-quality traditional food, specialising in grilled meats.

ITALIAN €€

PASTIFICIO SAN LORENZO

The biggest buzz in San Lorenzo is to be found at this brasserie-style restaurant, housed in a corner of the former pasta factory that is now Rome’s contemporary art hub as it’s also home to a collective of artists’ studios. The place is packed, the vibe is ‘this is where it’s at’, and the food…is fine – nothing to shout about, but perfectly scrumptious old favourites with pappadelle and ragu, served up in a stylish fashion with equivalent prices.

ITALIAN €€€

SAID

Said is one of San Lorenzo’s chicest haunts, housed in a 1920s chocolate factory. It includes a glorious chocolate shop, selling delights such as Japanese pink-tea pralines, and a stylish restaurant-bar, all cosy urban chic, with battered sofas, industrial antiques and creative cuisine.
DRINKING & NIGHTLIFE

The Monti area, north of the Colosseum, is splendid for an aperitivo, meal, or after-dark drinks, and is dotted with charming bars, enoteche (wine bars), and even a jazz club.

With a gritty feel, but very trendy, is the boho nightlife district of Pigneto. If you want to keep it real, head down to grungy San Lorenzo, the student district, with alternative bars and clubs, and some surprisingly chic restaurants.

Monti

AI TRE SCALINI

Via Panisperna 251; h 12.30pm-1am; m Cavour

The 'Three Steps' is always packed, with crowds spilling out into the street. Apart from a tasty choice of wines, it sells the damn fine Menabrea beer, brewed in northern Italy. You can also tuck into a heart-warming array of cheeses, salami and dishes such as polpette al sugo (meatballs with sauce; €7.50).

FAFIUCHÉ

Via della Madonna dei Monti 28; h 5.30pm-1am Mon-Sat; m Cavour

Fafiuché means 'light-hearted fun' in the Piedmontese dialect, and this place lives up to its name. The narrow, bottle-lined warm-orange space exudes charm: come here to enjoy wine and artisanal beers, eat delicious dishes originating from Puglia to Piedmont, or buy delectable foodstuffs. Aperitivo is from 6.30pm to 9pm.

LA BOTTEGA DEL CAFFÈ

Piazza Madonna dei Monti 5; h 8am-2am; m Cavour

Ideal for frittering away any balmy section of the day, this appealing cafe-bar, named after a comedy by Carlo Goldoni, has greenery-screened tables out on the pretty Piazza Madonna dei Monti. As well as drinks, it serves snacks, from simple pizzas to cheeses and salamis.

LA BARRIQUE

Via del Boschetto 41b; h 12.30-3.30pm & 5.30pm-1am Mon-Sat; m Cavour

This appealing enoteca, with wooden furniture and whitewashed walls, is a classy yet informal place to hang out and sample excellent French, Italian and German wines; a choice of perfectly cooked, delicious main courses provide a great accompaniment, or you can stick to artisanal cheeses and cold cuts.

AL VINO AL VINO
A rustic enoteca that's a favourite with the locals, mixing ceramic tabletops and contemporary paintings, this is an attractive spot to linger over a fine collection of wines, particularly passiti (sweet wines). The other speciality is distillati – grappa, whisky and so on – and there are snacks to help it all go down, including some Sicilian delicacies.

BOHEMIEN

This little bar lives up to its name; it feels like something you might stumble on in Left Bank Paris. It's small, with mismatched chairs and tables and an eclectic crowd drinking wine by the glass, and tea and coffee.

ICE CLUB

Novelty value is what the Ice Club is all about. Pay €15 (you get a free vodka cocktail served in a glass made of ice), put on a thermal cloak and mittens, and enter the bar, in which everything is made of ice (temperature – 5°C). Most people won’t chill here for long – the record is held by a Russian (four hours).

6 Esquilino

BAR ZEST AT THE RADISSON BLU ES

In need of a cocktail in the Termini district? Pop up to the 7th-floor bar at the slinkily designed Radisson Blu Es. Waiters are cute, chairs are by Jasper Morrison, views are through plate-glass and there’s a sexy rooftop pool to look at.

CASTRONI

This gourmet shop sells foodstuffs from all over the world. Although this branch doesn’t have as large a range as that on Via Cola di Rienzo, it still has the fab cafe, which has great coffee, panini and other snacks, and you can stand at the bar or sit at a few booth tables.

FIDDLER’S ELBOW

Near the Basilica di Santa Maria Maggiore, the granddaddy of Rome’s Irish pubs sticks to the formula that has served it so well over the last 25 years or so: Guinness, darts, crisps and big games, attracting a mix of Romans, expats and tourists. There are regular live-music and open-mic nights.
At first glance this seems like an identikit Irish pub, but look closer and the craic here has Italian twists – the clientele are well-groomed expats and Romans, and you can order Bellinis as well as Guinness. It’s Irish-run and shows all the big football and rugby games, and there’s occasional live music.

DRUID’S DEN

When in Rome…do as the Romans do and head to an Irish pub. The Druid’s Den attracts a cheerful crowd of young expats and Roman Anglophiles. The atmosphere is convivial, the walls are wood-panelled, Celtic paraphernalia is everywhere, Guinness is on tap and it shows all the big games.

---

San Lorenzo & Beyond

LOCANDA ATLANTIDE

Come, tickle Rome’s grungy underbelly. Descend through a door in a graffiti-covered wall into this cavernous basement dive, packed to the rafters with studenty, alternative crowds and featuring everything from prog-folk to DJ-spun electro music. It’s good to know that punk is not dead.

GENTE DI SAN LORENZO

On the corner of San Lorenzo’s Piazza dell’Immacolata, which gets thronged with students on balmy nights, this is a relaxed place for a drink and a snack or meal. The interior is airy, with warm wooden floors and brick arches, and there are some outdoor tables as well as regular DJs and occasional live music.

ESC ATELIER

This left-wing alternative arts centre hosts live gigs and club nights: expect electronica DJ sets featuring live sax, discussions, exhibitions, political events and more. Admission and drinks are cheap.

VICIOUS CLUB

Vicious is a gay-friendly club that welcomes all to dance and chatter to a soundtrack of electro, no wave, deep techno, glam indie, and deep house. It’s small enough to feel intimate; try Alchemy every Saturday.
3 ENTERTAINMENT

TEATRO DELL'OPERA DI ROMA

TEATRO DELL'OPERA DI ROMA

TEATRO DELL'OPERA DI ROMA

TEATRO DELL'OPERA DI ROMA

TEATRO DELL'OPERA DI ROMA

TEATRO DELL'OPERA DI ROMA

TEATRO DELL'OPERA DI ROMA

TEATRO DELL'OPERA DI ROMA

TEATRO DELL'OPERA DI ROMA

TEATRO DELL'OPERA DI ROMA

TEATRO DELL'OPERA DI ROMA

TEATRO DELL'OPERA DI ROMA

TEATRO DELL'OPERA DI ROMA

TEATRO DELL'OPERA DI ROMA

Rome's premier opera house boasts a plush and gilt interior, a Fascist 1920s exterior and an impressive history: it premiered Puccini's Tosca, and Maria Callas once sang here. Opera and ballet performances are staged between September and June.

BLACKMARKET

BLACKMARKET

BLACKMARKET

BLACKMARKET

BLACKMARKET

BLACKMARKET

BLACKMARKET

A bit outside the main Monti hub, this charming, living-room-style bar filled with eclectic vintage furniture is a small but rambling place, great for sitting back on mismatched armchairs for a leisurely, convivial drink. It hosts regular acoustic indie and folk gigs, which feel a bit like having a band in your living room.

CHARITY CAFÉ

CHARITY CAFÉ

CHARITY CAFÉ

CHARITY CAFÉ

CHARITY CAFÉ

CHARITY CAFÉ

CHARITY CAFÉ

Think narrow space, spindly tables, dim lighting and a laid-back vibe: this is a place to snuggle down and listen to some slinky live jazz. It’s civilised, relaxed, untouristy and very Monti. Gigs usually take place from 10pm, with live music and aperitivo on Sundays. There's open mic from 7pm on Monday and Tuesday.

ISTITUZIONE UNIVERSITARIA DEI CONCERTI

ISTITUZIONE UNIVERSITARIA DEI CONCERTI

ISTITUZIONE UNIVERSITARIA DEI CONCERTI

ISTITUZIONE UNIVERSITARIA DEI CONCERTI

ISTITUZIONE UNIVERSITARIA DEI CONCERTI

ISTITUZIONE UNIVERSITARIA DEI CONCERTI

The IUC organises a season of concerts in the Aula Magna of La Sapienza University, including many visiting international artists and orchestras. Performances cover a wide range of musical genres, including baroque, classical, contemporary and jazz.

TEATRO AMBRA JOVINELLI

TEATRO AMBRA JOVINELLI

TEATRO AMBRA JOVINELLI

TEATRO AMBRA JOVINELLI

TEATRO AMBRA JOVINELLI

TEATRO AMBRA JOVINELLI

A home from home for many famous Italian comics, the Ambra Jovinelli is a historic venue for alternative comedians and satirists. Between government-bashing, the theatre hosts productions of classics, musicals, opera, new works and the odd concert.
This swish, cutting-edge hotel (MAP GOOGLE MAP; 06 44 48 41; www.radissonblu.com/eshotel-rome; Via Filippo Turati 171; d €130-250; ais; mVittorio Emanuele II) close to Termini has a sexy rooftop pool open to nonguests for €45/55 per weekday/weekend, with a 50% discount for children (under three years old free). A cocktail bar and restaurant are located alongside.
Monti

MERCATO MONTI URBAN MARKET
(MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.mercatomonti.com; Via Leonina 46; h10am-8pm Sat & Sun; mCavour)

Vintage clothes, accessories, one-off pieces by local designers, this market in the hip hood of Monti is well worth a rummage.
Sublimely cut and whimsically retro-esque, these handmade threads are a hit with female fashion cognoscenti, including Italian rock star Carmen Consoli and the city's theatre and TV crowd. You can have adjustments made (included in the price), and dresses cost around €140.

SPOT

This small shop has an impeccable collection of mid-century furnishings, plus glassware designed by the owners and papier-mâché vases designed by their friends. It's frequented by the likes of Paolo Sorrentino (who directed La Grande Belleza).

LA BOTTEGA DEL CIOCCOLATO

Run by the younger generation of Moriondo & Gariglio, this is a magical world of scarlet walls and old-fashioned glass cabinets set into black wood, with irresistible smells wafting in from the kitchen and rows of lovingly homemade chocolates on display.

FABIO PICCIONI

A sparkling Aladdin’s cave of decadent, one-of-a-kind costume jewellery; artisan Fabio Piccioni recycles old trinkets to create remarkable art deco–inspired jewellery.

101

The collection at this individual boutique might include gossamer-light jumpers, broad-brimmed hats, chain-mail earrings and silk dresses: it's always worth a look to discover a special something.

PODERE VECCIANO

Selling produce from its Tuscan farm, this shop is a great place to pick up presents, such as different varieties of pesto, honey and marmalade, selected wines, olive oil–based cosmetics and beautiful olive wood chopping boards. There's even an olive tree growing in the middle of the shop.

CREJE

This eclectic, inexpensive Monti boutique sells a mix of clothing sourced from exotic places, including Indian dresses, plus dramatic silver costume jewellery and soft leather bags.

ABITO
Wilma Silvestre designs elegant clothes with a difference. Choose from the draped, chic, laid-back styles on the rack, and you can have one made up just for you in a day or just a few hours – customise the fabric and the colour. There’s usually one guest designer’s clothes also being sold at the shop.

GIACOMO SANTINI

( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 06 488 09 34; Via Cavour 106; h3.30-7.30pm Mon, 10am-1pm & 3.30-7.30pm Tue-Sat; mCavour)

Close to the Basilica di Santa Maria Maggiore, this Fausto Santini outlet store is named after the accessory designer's father, Giacomo. It sells end-of-line and discounted Fausto Santini boots, shoes and bags, and has bargain signature architectural designs in butter-soft leather at a fraction of the retail price. Sizes are limited, however.

7Esquilino

ARION ESPOSIZIONI

( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 06 4891 3361; Via Milano 15-17; h10am-8pm Sun-Thu, to 10.30pm Fri & Sat; Via Nazionale)

In cool, gleaming white rooms designed by Firouz Galdo, Arion Esposizioni – the bookshop attached to Palazzo delle Esposizioni – is just made for browsing. There are books on art, architecture and photography, DVDs, CDs, vinyl, children’s books and gifts for the design-lover in your life.

MAS

(Magazzino allo Statuto; MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 06 446 80 78; Via dello Statuto 11; h9am-12.45pm & 3.45-7.45pm; mVittorio Emanuele)

Glorious MAS is a multistorey temple of glorious didn’t-know-I-needed-it, cheap-as-chips practical goods: thermal vests, bags, watches, pants and the kitchen sink, all piled high and at bargain prices.

NUOVO MERCATO ESQUILINO

( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Via Lamarmora; h5am-3pm Mon-Sat; mVittorio Emanuele)

Cheap, colourful food market, and the best place to find exotic herbs and spices.

7Piazza della Repubblica & Around

FELTRINELLI INTERNATIONAL

( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 06 482 78 78; Via VE Orlando 84; h9am-8pm Mon-Sat, 10.30am-1.30pm & 4-8pm Sun; mRepubblica)

The international branch of Italy’s ubiquitous bookseller has a splendid collection of books in English, Spanish, French, German and Portuguese. You’ll find everything from recent bestsellers to dictionaries, travel guides, DVDs and an excellent assortment of maps.

IBS.IT

( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Via Nazionale 254-255; h9am-8pm Mon-Sat, 10am-1.30pm & 4-8pm Sun; mRepubblica)
IBS.it, on three floors, has a good range of Italian literature, reference books and travel guides, as well as CDs, half-priced books (general-fiction paperbacks), a cheery children’s section and a few books in English and French.

7 San Lorenzo

LA GRANDE OFFICINA

(JEWELLERY)

Via dei Sabelli 165B
h11am-7.30pm Tue-Fri, 11am-2pm Sat, 1-7.30pm Mon; Via Tiburtina)

Under dusty workshop lamps, husband-and-wife team Giancarlo Genco and Daniela Ronchetti turn everything from old clock parts and Japanese fans into beautiful work-of-art jewellery. Head here for something truly unique.
Rome’s Churches

Rome is a feast, and whatever your faith, it’s impossible not to be awestruck by its riches. Nowhere will you be able to visit such a splendid array and wealth of ecclesiastic architecture, from the stark simplicity of Basilica di Santa Sabina and the tiny perfection of Bramante’s Tempietto to the awe-inspiring grandeur of St Peter’s Basilica (the world’s greatest church) and the Sistine Chapel, Rome’s other inspirational pilgrimage sites include huge edifices such as the basilicas of San Lorenzo Fuori le Mura, Santa Maria Maggiore, San Giovanni in Laterano and the Chiesa di Santa Croce in Gerusalemme.

Ancient Architecture

Whether they’re baroque, medieval or Renaissance, many churches also feature a form of recycling that’s uniquely Roman, integrating leftover architectural elements from imperial Rome. For example, you’ll see ancient columns in Santa Maria in Trastevere, and the famous ancient manhole, the Bocca della Verità, in the beautiful medieval Chiesa di Santa Maria in Cosmedin. Taking the idea to the limit, the mesmerising Pantheon is an entire Roman temple converted into a church.
Divine Art

Rome’s churches, which dot almost every street corner, also serve as free art galleries, bedecked in gold, inlay-work, mosaic and carvings. The wealth of the Roman Catholic church has benefited from centuries of virtuoso artists, architects and artisans who descended here to create their finest and most heavenly works in the glorification of God. Without paying a cent, anyone can wander in off the street to see this glut of masterpieces, including works by Michelangelo (in San Pietro in Vincoli, and St Peter’s Basilica), Caravaggio (in Santa Maria del Popolo, and San Luigi dei Francesi) and Bernini (in Santa Maria della Vittoria).
Ecstasy of St Teresa, by Gian Lorenzo Bernini, in Chiesa di Santa Maria della Vittoria
DEA / G. NIMATALLAH / Getty Images ©
Trastevere & Gianicolo

Sights

Eating

Drinking & Nightlife

Entertainment

Shopping
Neighbourhood Top Five

1. Discovering the Piazza di Santa Maria in Trastevere and visiting its beautiful church, with its exquisite interior and exterior mosaics.

2. Bar-hopping and people-watching at local haunts such as Ma Che Siete Venuti a Fà’.

3. Visiting the nuns’ choir of Basilica di Santa Cecilia in Trastevere to see the Cavallini fresco.

4. Feeling as if you're soaring over Rome: the views from Gianicolo Hill.

5. Enjoying the breathtakingly beautiful, Renaissance Villa Farnesina, with interior decor by Raphael.

Explore: Trastevere & Gianicolo

Trastevere is one of Rome’s most vivacious neighbourhoods, an outdoor circus of ochre palazzi, ivy-clad facades and photogenic cobbled lanes, peopled with a bohemian and eclectic cast of tourists, travellers, students and street hawkers. The bohos and original Romans might be increasingly rubbing shoulders with wealthy expats and American students from the local John Cabot University, as rental prices in this most beguiling district go through the roof, but Trastevere still clings onto its distinct, Roman character. The very name means ‘across the Tiber’ (tras tevere), emphasising the sense of difference.

The area is ideal for aimless, contented wandering, home cooking in local trattorias and an evening drink to watch the world go by: it buzzes after dark, especially on summer evenings. There are also some beautiful sights here: glittering Basilica di Santa Maria is one of Rome’s most charming churches, Villa Farnesina is the most breathtaking frescoed mansion you're ever likely to see (home decor by Raphael and others), and exquisitely frescoed Palazzo Corsini is home to a dazzling, almost forgotten-feeling art collection. Close by is its former park, now botanical gardens, and you can hike up Gianicolo (Janiculum Hill) to see Rome laid out before you like a dome-punctuated patchwork. Don't neglect to see Bramante’s perfect little Tempietto on your way up. To the east, Basilica di Santa Cecilia is the resting place of Santa Cecilia, patron saint of music, with a wonderful, hidden Cavallini fresco.

---

Local Life

Drinking A coffee or sambuca con la mosca (‘with a fly’; sambucca with a coffee bean) at Bar San Calisto.

Passeggiata An evening stroll to see and be seen, with a stop for an ice cream.

Football Trastevere is a Roma supporters’ stronghold: come a big game, the air of excitement is palpable.

---

Getting There & Away

Tram From Largo di Torre Argentina tram 8 runs along the main drag of Viale di Trastevere, ending up at Villa Doria Pamphilj. Tram 3 also stops at the southern end of Viale Trastevere, connecting with Testaccio (Via Marmorata), Colosseo, San Giovanni and Villa Borghese.

Bus From Termini, bus H runs to Viale di Trastevere, while the 780 runs from Piazza Venezia. For Gianicolo, if you don’t fancy the steep steps from Via G Mameli, take bus 870 from Piazza delle Rovere.
Lonely Planet’s Top Tip

Visit Santa Cecilia between 10am and 2.30pm Monday to Saturday, so that you can gain entrance to the hushed convent next door to see the Cavallini fresco.

Best Places to Eat
- Glass Hostaria
- La Gensola
- Pianostrada Laboratorio di Cucina
- Fatamorgana

Best Places to Drink
- Ma Che Siete Venuti a Fà
- Ombre Rosse
- Freni e Frizioni
- Bar San Calisto

Best Works of Art
- Basilica di Santa Maria in Trastevere
- Stefano Maderno’s sculpture in Santa Cecilia in Trastevere
- Frescoes in Villa Farnesina
- Caravaggios in Galleria Nazionale d’Arte Antica di Palazzo Corsini
This glittering church is said to be the oldest church in Rome dedicated to the Virgin Mary. Its facade is decorated with a beautiful medieval mosaic depicting Mary feeding Jesus surrounded by 10 women bearing lamps. Two are veiled and hold extinguished lamps, symbolising widowhood, while the lit lamps of the others represent their virginity.

The church was first constructed in the early 3rd century over the spot where, according to legend, a fountain of oil miraculously sprang from the ground. Its current Romanesque form is the result of a 12th-century revamp. The portico was added by Carlo Fontana in 1702, with its balustrade decorated by four popes.

Inside it’s the golden 12th-century mosaics that stand out. In the apse, look out for the dazzling depiction of Christ and his mother flanked by various saints and, on the far left, Pope Innocent II holding a model of the church. Beneath this is a series of six mosaics by Pietro Cavallini (c 1291) illustrating the life of the Virgin.

Note the 21 Roman columns, some plundered from the Terme di Caracalla, the wooden ceiling designed in 1617 by Domenichino and, on the right of the altar, a spiralling Cosmati candlestick, on the exact spot where the oil fountain is said to have sprung. The Cappella Avila is also worth a look for its stunning 17th-century dome. The spiralling Cosmatesque floor was relaid in the 1870s, a recreation of the 13th-century original.
DON’T MISS…

• Facade mosaics
• The 13th-century Cavallini mosaics in the apse
• Ancient Roman granite columns

PRACTICALITIES

• MAP  GOOGLE MAP
• Piazza Santa Maria in Trastevere
• h 7.30am-9pm
• g Viale di Trastevere, j Viale di Trastevere
1 SIGHTS

Trastevere is dotted with exquisite churches and artworks, yet some of its most memorable sights are picturesque glimpses down narrow, ochre-and-orange-shaded lanes that will make you catch your breath.

To the north of Trastevere there are the slopes of Gianicolo. Today a tranquil and leafy area that combines Rome's finest views, embassies, monuments, piazzas, Rome’s botanical gardens and some beautiful architecture, it’s difficult to imagine today that in 1849 the Gianicolo was the scene of fierce and bloody fighting. A makeshift army under Giuseppe Garibaldi defended Rome against French troops sent to restore papal rule.
TOP SIGHT
VILLA FARNESINA

Serenely and symmetrically proportioned on the outside, this 16th-century villa’s interior is fantastically frescoed.

Villa Farnesina was built for Agostino Chigi, the immensely wealthy papal banker. At his banquets he’d encourage his guests to throw their solid gold plates out of the window once they’d finished (servants would stand beneath the windows to catch them in nets). The house was bought by Cardinal Alessando Farnese in 1577.

The architect was Baldassare Peruzzi, formerly Bramante's assistant; he also painted several of the frescoes. On the ground floor is the Loggia of Galatea, attributed to Raphael and depicting a sea nymph, with the vault frescoed by Peruzzi, and mythological scenes by Sebastiano del Piombo. Next door, the Loggia of Cupid and Psyche was also frescoed by Raphael and seethes with naked figures and muscular cupids.

On the 1st floor, Peruzzi’s frescoes in the Salone delle Prospettive are a superb illusionary perspective of a panorama of 16th-century Rome, while Chigi's bedchamber is filled with cavorting cherubs, gods and goddesses.

DON’T MISS…

- Frescoes by Sebastiano del Piombo
- Raphael-attributed loggia decoration
- Peruzzi's panoramas in the Salone delle Prospettive

PRACTICALITIES

- MAP GOOGLE MAP
- %06 6802 7268
- www.villafarnesina.it
- Via della Lungara 230
- adult/reduced €6/5
- 9am-2pm daily, to 5pm 2nd Sun of month
- Lgt della Farnesina, Viale di Trastevere
This church, with its remarkable frescoes by Pietro Cavallini, and ancient Roman excavations, is the last resting place of St Cecilia, the patron saint of music. The centrepiece is Stefano Maderno’s delicate sculpture, showing how her miraculously preserved body was apparently found when it was unearthed in the Catacombe di San Callisto in 1599.

This basilica stands on the site of a 5th-century church, itself built over the ancient Roman house where it’s believed Cecilia was martyred in AD 230. You can visit the network of excavated houses that lie beneath the church.

In the right-hand nave the Cappella del Caldarium, complete with two works by Guido Reni, marks the spot where the saint was allegedly tortured.

But the Basilica's hidden wonder is Cavallini's spectacular 13th-century fresco, showing a section of his Last Judgement, in the nun’s choir. Much of this late-medieval masterwork was lost during the 18th-century remodelling of the church, but what remains gives an idea of its splendour.

DON’T MISS…

- Cavallini’s Last Judgement fresco
- Maderno’s sculpture
- Excavated buildings

PRACTICALITIES

- MAP  GOOGLE MAP
- Piazza di Santa Cecilia
- fresco & crypt each €2.50
- basilica & crypt 9.30am-1pm & 4-7.15pm, fresco 10am-2.30pm Mon-Sat
- Viale di Trastevere, j Viale di Trastevere

1 East of Viale di Trastevere

CHIESA DI SAN FRANCESCO D’ASSISI A RIPA

MAP  GOOGLE MAP  : Piazza di San Francesco d’Assisi 88; h 7.30am-noon & 2-7.30pm; j Viale di Trastevere, j Viale di Trastevere)

St Francis is said to have stayed here in the 13th century, and you can still see the rock that he used as a pillow and his crucifix in his cell. Rebuilt several times, the church's current incarnation dates from the 1680s. It contains one of Bernini’s most daring works, the Beata Ludovica Albertoni (Blessed Ludovica Albertoni; 1674), a work of highly charged sexual ambiguity.

It shows Ludovica, a Franciscan nun, in a state of rapture as she reclines, eyes shut, mouth open,
Once home to Queen Christina of Sweden, whose richly frescoed bedroom witnessed a steady stream of male and female lovers, 16th-century Palazzo Corsini was designed by Ferdinando Fuga, in grand Versailles style, and houses part of Italy's national art collection. The highlights include Caravaggio's mesmerising San Giovanni Battista (St John the Baptist), Guido Reni's unnerving Salome con la Testa di San Giovanni Battista (Salome with the Head of John the Baptist), and Fra Angelico's Corsini Triptych, plus works by Rubens, Poussin and Van Dyck.

Trastevere’s focal square is a prime people-watching spot. By day it’s full of mums with strollers, chatting locals and guidebook-toting tourists; by night it’s the domain of foreign students, young Romans and out-of-towners, all out for a good time. The fountain in the centre of the square is of Roman origin and was restored by Carlo Fontana in 1692.

Resembling a crenellated keep, Porta Settimiana marks the start of Via della Lungara, the 16th-century road that connects Trastevere with the Borgo. It was built in 1498 by Pope Alexander VI over a small passageway in the Aurelian Wall and later altered by Pope Pius VI in 1798.

From Porta Settimiana, Via Santa Dorotea leads to Piazza Trilussa, a popular evening hang-out with local youth, and Ponte Sisto, which connects with the centro storico.
Gianicolo (Janiculum) is dotted with monuments to Garibaldi and his army, who fought the French on this spot in 1849. The Italian hero is commemorated with a massive monument in Piazzale Giuseppe Garibaldi, while his Brazilian-born wife, Anita, has her own equestrian monument about 200m away in Piazzale Anita Garibaldi; she died shortly after the siege from malaria, together with their unborn child.

The Gianicolo is a superb viewpoint with sweeping panoramas over Rome’s rooftops, and has several summer-only bars that are blessed with thrilling views. There are also regular children’s puppet shows on the hill, a long-standing tradition.

Orto Botanico
Formerly the private grounds of Palazzo Corsini, Rome’s 12-hectare botanical gardens are a little-known, slightly neglected-feeling gem and a great place to unwind in a tree-shaded expanse covering the steep slopes of the Gianicolo, though the admission charge is unfortunately also a bit steep. Plants have been cultivated here since the 13th century.

However, in their present form, the gardens were established in 1883, when the grounds of Palazzo Corsini were given to the University of Rome. They now contain up to 8000 species, including some of Europe’s rarest plants. There are also various architectural delights, including the Scalineta delle Undici Fontane (Staircase of 11 Fountains) designed by Ferdinando Fuga, who was also responsible for the Palazzo Corsini and the loggia at Santa Maria in Maggiore.

Tempioetto di Bramante & Chiesa di San Pietro in Montorio
Considered the first great building of the High Renaissance, Bramante’s sublime Tempietto (Little Temple; 1508) is a perfect surprise, squeezed into the courtyard of the Chiesa di San Pietro in Montorio, on the spot where St Peter is said to have been crucified. Small, but perfectly formed, the church has a classically inspired design and ideal proportions epitomise the Renaissance zeitgeist.

It has a circular interior surrounded by 16 columns and topped by a classical frieze, elegant balustrade and dome. More than a century later, in 1628, Bernini added a staircase. Bernini also contributed a chapel to the adjacent church, the last resting place of Beatrice Cenci, an Italian noblewoman who helped murder her abusive father in the 16th century, and subsequently was tried and beheaded on Ponte Sant'Angelo.

It’s quite a climb uphill, but you’re rewarded by the views. To cheat, take bus 870 from Via Paola just off Corso Vittorio Emanuele II near the Tiber.
Just up from the Chiesa di San Pietro in Montorio, this monumental white fountain was built in 1612 to celebrate the restoration of a 2nd-century aqueduct that supplied (and still supplies) water from Lago di Bracciano, 35km to the north of Rome. Four of the fountain’s six pink-stone columns came from the facade of the old St Peter’s Basilica, while much of the marble was pillaged from the Roman Forum. Originally the fountain had five small basins, but these were replaced by a large granite basin, added by Carlo Fontana, in 1690.

VILLA DORIA PAMPHILJ

Rome’s largest park is Rome's favourite place to escape the city noise and bustle. Once a vast private estate, it was laid out around 1650 for Prince Camillo Pamphilj, nephew of Pope Innocent X. It's a huge expanse of rolling parkland, shaded by Rome's distinctive umbrella pines. At its centre is the prince’s summer residence, the Casino del Belrespiro, and its manicured gardens and citrus trees. It’s now used for official government functions.

GIANICOLO CANNON

If you're meandering through Trastevere, or further afield, and hear a loud crack, panic not, it's just the midday cannon salute from the top of the Gianicolo. In 1847 Pope Pius IX ordered that a cannon fire blank shells at this time daily to set a standard for all the city's bells. Since 1904 it's been shot from the Gianicolo, as it's a little less disturbing from there, but it can still be heard across the city. It wasn't fired during the World Wars, but recommenced in 1959.
EATING

Traditionally working-class and poor, nowadays chic and pricey, picturesque Trastevere is packed with restaurants, trattorias, cafes and pizzerias. The better places dot the maze of side streets, and it pays to be selective, as many of the restaurants are bog-standard tourist traps. But there are not just tourists here – Romans like to eat in Trastevere too.

East of Viale di Trastevere

INNOCENTI

BAKERY€

MAP GOOGLE MAP; %06 580 39 26; Via delle Luce 21; h8am-8pm Mon-Sat, 9.30am-2pm Sun; g Viale di Trastevere, j Viale di Trastevere)

It’s at reassuring spots like this that you can feel that the world never changes, in some corners at least. Here you can buy light-as-air crostata, and stock up on biscuits such as brutti ma buoni (ugly but good).

DA ENZO

TRATTORIA€

MAP GOOGLE MAP; %06 5812 260; www.daenzoal29.com; Via dei Vascellari 29; meals €25; h Mon-Sat; g Viale di Trastevere, j Viale di Trastevere)

This snug dining room serves up seasonally based Roman meals, such as spaghetti with clams and mussels or grilled lamb cutlets. There's a tiny terrace on the quintessential Trastevere cobbled street.

PANATTONI

PIZZA€

MAP GOOGLE MAP; %06 580 09 19; Viale di Trastevere 53; pizzas €6.50-9; h 6.30pm-1am Thu-Tue; g Viale di Trastevere, j Viale di Trastevere)

Known as 'ai Marmi,,' Panattoni is also nicknamed l’obitorio (the morgue) because of its marble-slab tabletops. Thankfully the similarity stops there. This is one of Trastevere’s liveliest pizzerias, with paper-thin pizzas, a clattering buzz, testy waiters, street-side seating and fried starters – specialities are supplì (rice balls) and baccalà (cod).

LA GENSOLA

SICILIAN€

MAP GOOGLE MAP; %06 581 63 12; Piazza della Gensola 15; meals €45; h 12.30-3pm & 7.30-11.30pm, closed Sun mid-Jun–mid-Sep; g Viale di Trastevere, j Viale di Trastevere)

This tranquil, classy yet unpretentious trattoria thrills foodies with delicious food that has a Sicilian slant and emphasis on seafood, including an excellent tuna tartare, linguine with fresh anchovies and divine zuccheneri (tiny fish) with fresh mint.

LE MANI IN PASTA

RISTORANTE€

MAP GOOGLE MAP; %06 580 45 15; Via Cavour 45; meals €45-60; h 7.30-11.30pm Mon-Sat; g Viale di Trastevere, j Viale di Trastevere)
Popular and lively, this rustic, snug place has arched ceilings and an open kitchen that serves up delicious fresh pasta dishes such as fettucine con ricotta e pancetta. The grilled meats are great, too.

DA TEO

Tucked away on the quieter side of Trastevere, Da Teo gets packed out with locals dining on its steaming platefuls of Roman standards, such as cacio e pepe (cheese and pepper) or fried lamb chops. It's great to eat out on the small piazza when the weather suits. Make sure you book.

LOCAL KNOWLEDGE

GRATTACHECCA

It's summertime, the living is easy, and Romans like nothing better in the sultry evening heat than to amble down to the river and partake of some grattachecca (crushed ice covered in fruit and syrup). It's the ideal way to cool down and there are kiosks along the riverbank satisfying this very Roman need; try Sora Mirella Caffè (MAP GOOGLE MAP; grattachecca €3-6; h 11am-3am May-Sep), next to Ponte Cestio.

---

5 West of Viale di Trastevere

FATAMORGANA – TRASTEVERE

One of several Fatamorgana outlets across Rome, this is one of the finest among the city's gourmet gelaterie. Quality natural ingredients are used to produce creative flavour combos such as pineapple and ginger or pear and gorgonzola. Gluten-free.

DA CORRADO

Don't expect refined service or a fancy interior. This is a proper old-school Roman trattoria, with no outdoor seating, but an unfussy, rough-and-ready atmosphere. It's packed with locals, feasting on hearty Roman soul food, such as amatriciana (pasta with bacon and tomato sauce).

DA AUGUSTO

For a Trastevere feast, plonk yourself at one of Augusto's rickety tables, either inside or out on the small piazza, and prepare to enjoy some mamma-style cooking. The gruff waiters dish out hearty platefuls of rigatoni all'amatriciana and straciatella (clear broth with egg and Parmesan) among a host of Roman classics. Be prepared to queue. Cash only.

CIURI CIURI
(SICILIAN€)
(Map Google Map: ☎️ 06 9521 6082; www.ciuri-ciuri.it; Piazza San Cosimato 49b; snacks around €3; h 10.30am-midnight; ᴅ Viale di Trastevere, ḥ Viale di Trastevere)
A splendid Sicilian cafe selling cakes (the cannoli – pastry tubes of ricotta – are filled for you then and there), and creamy artisanal ice cream.

FIOR DI LUNA
(GELATERIA€)
(Map Google Map: ☎️ 06 6456 1314; Via della Lungaretta 96; gelato from €1.70; h noon-12.30am Tue-Sun; ᴅ Viale di Trastevere, ḥ Viale di Trastevere)
This busy little hub serves up handmade gelato and sorbet – it’s made in small batches and only uses natural, seasonal ingredients, such as hazelnuts from Tonda and pistachios from Bronte. Cones are not available, as they'd detract from the taste. They make a few flavours from donkeys' milk.

PIZZERIA IVO
(PIZZA€)
(Map Google Map: ☎️ 06 581 70 82; Via di San Francesco a Ripa 158; pizzas from €7; h 7pm-midnight Wed-Mon; ᴅ Viale di Trastevere, ḥ Viale di Trastevere)
One of Trastevere’s most famous pizzerias, Ivo’s has been slinging pizzas for some 40 years, and still the hungry come. With the TV on in the corner and the tables full (a few outside on the cobbledstone street), Ivo is a noisy and vibrant place, and the waiters fit the gruff-and-fast stereotype.

OLD BRIDGE
(GELATERIA)
(Map Google Map: Via Della Scala 70; gelato from €2; h noon-2am; ᴅ Piazza Trilussa)
The artisanal gelataria Old Bridge has been keeping punters near the Vatican happy for over 25 years, and have now opened this Trastevere outlet, offering large scoops of creamy gelato.

FORNO LA RENELLA
(BAKERY€)
(Map Google Map: ☎️ 06 581 72 65; Via del Moro 15-16; pizza slices from €2.50; h 7am-2am Tue-Sat, to 10pm Sun & Mon; ᴅ Piazza Trilussa)
The wood-fired ovens at this historical Trastevere bakery have been going for decades, producing a delicious daily batch of pizza, bread and biscuits. Piled-high toppings (and fillings) vary seasonally. It's popular with everyone from skinheads with big dogs to elderly ladies with little dogs.

DA OLINDO
(TRATTORIA€)
(Map Google Map: ☎️ 06 581 88 35; Vicolo della Scala 8; meals €25; h 7.30-11pm Mon-Sat; ḥ Viale di Trastevere)
This is your classic family affair: the menu is short, cuisine robust, portions huge, and the atmosphere lively. Expect baccalà con patate (salted cod and potatoes) on Fridays and gnocchi on Thursdays, but other dishes – such as coniglio all cacciatore (rabbit, hunter-style) or polpette al sugo (meatballs...
PIANOSTRADA LABORATORIO DI CUCINA

A diminutive, tucked-away place, this all-female-run foodie stop has been attracting attention with its delicious meals such as parmigiana with aubergine and pumpkin, meatballs, burgers, pasta with swordfish and wild fennel, and gourmet sandwiches. It's all exquisitely made and conceived, so squeeze in along the bar or take one of the tiny tables with barstools.

SISINI

Locals love this fast-food takeaway joint (the sign outside says ‘Supplì’), serving up fresh pizza al taglio and different pasta and risotto dishes served in plastic boxes. It’s also worth sampling the supplì (fried rice balls), and roast chicken.

BIR & FUD

This orange-and-terracotta, vaulted, yet contemporary-styled pizzeria wins plaudits for its organic take on pizzas, crostini and fried things (potato, pumpkin etc) and has a microbrewery on site, so serves seasonable tipples such as Birrificio Troll Palanfrina (winter only; made from chestnuts).

VALZANI

The speciality of this glorious, stuck-in-time cake shop, opened in 1925 and not redecorated since, is the legendary torta sacher, the favourite cake of Roman film director Nanni Moretti. But there are also chocolate-covered mostaccioli (biscuits), Roman pangiallo (honey, nuts and dried fruit – typical for Christmas) and Roman torrone (nougat).

DAR POETA

Locals and tourists flock to Dar Poeta for filling wood-fired pizzas and a buzzing atmosphere. As well as the usual selection of pizzas, served with crusts that are somewhere between wafer-thin Roman and Neapolitan deep pan, it's also famous for its trademark ricotta and Nutella calzone.

GLASS HOSTARIA

Trastevere’s foremost foodie address, the Glass is a modernist-styled, sophisticated setting decorated in warm wood and contemporary gold, with fabulous cooking to match. Chef Cristina Bowerman creates inventive, delicate dishes that combine with fresh ingredients and traditional elements to delight and surprise the palate. There are tasting menus for €75, €80 and €100.

An old-school restaurant set in a 17th-century building with tables on a small piazza, Paris – named for its founder, not the French capital – is the best place outside the Ghetto to sample Roman-Jewish cuisine. Signature dishes include gran fritto vegetale con baccalà (deep-fried vegetables with salt cod) and carciofo alla giudia (fried artichoke).
DRINKING & NIGHTLIFE

Trastevere is one of the city’s most popular areas to wander, drink and decide what to do afterwards. Foreign visitors often love it, as do those who love foreign visitors, but it’s also a local haunt. The streets in summer are packed, with stalls, bars spilling into the street, and a carnival atmosphere – it’s even a bit overcrowded and won’t be to everyone’s taste.

6 West of Viale di Trastevere

MA CHE SIETE VENUTI A FÀ

Named after a football chant, which translates politely as ‘What did you come here for?’, this pint-sized Trastevere pub is a beer-buff's paradise, packing in at least 13 international craft beers on tap and even more by the bottle.

BAR SAN CALISTO

Those in the know head to the down-at-heel 'Sanca' for its basic, stuck-in-time atmosphere and cheap prices (beer €1.50). It attracts everyone from intellectuals to keeping-it-real Romans, alcoholics and American students. It's famous for its chocolate – hot with cream in winter, ice cream in summer. Try the sambuca con la mosca ('with a fly' – a raw coffee bean). Expect occasional late-night jam sessions.

DA BIAGIO

With the sign 'Vini & Olio' scrawled above the door, this is a hole-in-the-wall Trastevere institution, lined by bottles of grappa and wine-for-sale, but also offering wine and spirits by the glass, shots and beer on tap. The owner is a funny guy, and has been serving up tipples since 1972. In the evening, drinkers spill out on the cobblestoned Trastevere street.

FRENI E FRIZIONI

This perennially cool Trastevere bar is housed in a former mechanic's workshop – hence its name ('brakes and clutches'). It draws a young spritz-loving crowd that swells onto the small piazza outside to sip well-priced cocktails (from €7) and to snack on the daily aperitivo (€6 to €10; 7pm to 10pm).
A seminal Trastevere hang-out; grab a table on the terrace and watch the world go by amid a clientele ranging from elderly Italian wide boys to wide-eyed tourists. Tunes are slinky and there’s live music (jazz, blues, world) on Thursday evenings from September to April.

BIG STAR

Off the beaten Trastevere track, this is a cool backstreet bar set away from the main action, with an alternative feel and its drink prices scrawled up on a blackboard. It's a small yet airy interior, where you can drink a wide range of beers and cocktails while listening to the hipster DJs, with a laid-back, appealing vibe.

LA MESCITA

This tiny bar inside the entrance to upmarket restaurant Enoteca Ferrara serves delectable aperitivo and has a wide range of wines by the glass, from €7. Fancy an intimate tête-à-tête, with fine wines and yummy snacks? This is your place.

BAR LE CINQUE

There’s no sign outside, and it looks like a rundown ordinary bar, but this is a long-standing Trastevere favourite and it always has a small crowd clustered around outside; they’re here for the pivotal location, easygoing vibe and cheap drinks.

6 Gianicolo

BAR STUZZICHINI

This little kiosk nestles on the top of Gianicolo, and serves up coffees and drinks, including cocktails. There are a few tables to perch at and the views are unmatchable. On New Year's Eve it opens all night.

IL BARETTO

Venture a little way up the Gianicolo, up a steep flight of steps from Trastevere. Go on, it’s worth it: you’ll discover this well-kept-secret cocktail bar. The basslines are meaty, the bar staff hip, and the interior mixes vintage with pop art.
3 ENTERTAINMENT

BIG MAMA
( MAP GOOGLE MAP :  06 581 25 51;  www.bigmama.it; Vicolo di San Francesco a Ripa 18; h9pm-1.30am, shows 10.30pm, closed Jun-Sep;  Viale di Trastevere, J Viale di Trastevere)

Head to this cramped Trastevere basement for a mellow night of Eternal City blues. A long-standing venue, it also stages jazz, funk, soul and R&B, as well as popular Italian cover bands.

LETTERE CAFFÈ GALLERY
( MAP GOOGLE MAP :  06 9727 0991;  www.letterecaffe.org; Vicolo di San Francesco a Ripa 100/101; h7pm-2am, closed mid-Aug–mid-Sep;  Viale di Trastevere, J Viale di Trastevere)

Like books? Poetry? Blues and jazz? Then you’ll love this place – a clutter of barstools and books, where there are regular live gigs, poetry slams, comedy and gay nights, plus DJ sets playing indie and new wave.

TEATRO VASCELLO
( MAP GOOGLE MAP :  06 588 10 21;  www.teatrovascello.it; Via Giacinto Carini 72, Monteverde;  Via Giacinto Carini)

Left-field in vibe and location, this independent, fringe theatre stages interesting, cutting-edge new work, including avant-garde dance, multimedia events and works by emerging playwrights.

ALCAZAR CINEMA
( MAP GOOGLE MAP :  06 588 00 99;  Via Merry del Val 14;  Viale di Trastevere, J Viale di Trastevere)

This old-style cinema with plush red seats occasionally shows films in their original language with Italian subtitles.

NUOVO SACHER
( MAP GOOGLE MAP :  06 581 81 16;  www.sacherfilm.eu; Largo Ascianghi 1;  Viale di Trastevere, J Viale di Trastevere)

Owned by cult Roman film director Nanni Moretti, this small cinema with red-velvet seats is the place to catch the latest European art-house offering, with regular screenings of films in their original language.
7 SHOPPING

PORTA PORTESE MARKET
( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Piazza Porta Portese; h6am-2pm Sun; gViale di Trastevere, j Viale di Trastevere)
To see another side of Rome, head to this mammoth flea market. With thousands of stalls selling everything from rare books and fell-off-a-lorry bikes to Peruvian shawls and MP3 players, it's crazily busy and a lot of fun. Keep your valuables safe and wear your haggling hat.

ROMA-STORE
( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; %06 581 87 89; Via della Lungaretta 63; h10am-8pm; gViale di Trastevere, j Viale di Trastevere)
An enchanting perfume shop crammed full of deliciously enticing bottles of scent, including lots of lesser-known brands that will have perfume-lovers practically fainting with joy.

ANTICA CACIARA TRASTEVERINA
( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Via San Francesco a Ripa 140; h7am-2pm & 4-8pm Mon-Sat; gViale di Trastevere, j Viale di Trastevere)
The fresh ricotta is a prized possession at this century-old deli, and usually snapped up by lunch. If you’re too late, take solace in the famous pecorino romano or the burrata pugliese (a creamy cheese from the Puglia region), or simply lust after the fragrant hams, bread, Sicilian anchovies and local wines.

OFFICINA DELLA CARTA
( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; %06 589 55 57; Via Benedetta 26b; h10.30am-7.30pm Mon-Sat; gPiazza Trilussa)
A perfect present pitstop, this tiny workshop produces attractive hand-painted paper-bound boxes, photo albums, recipe books, notepads, photo frames and diaries.

ALMOST CORNER BOOKSHOP
( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; %06 583 69 42; Via del Moro 45; h10am-7.30pm Mon-Thu, 10am-8pm Fri & Sat, 11am-8pm Sun; gPiazza Trilussa)
This is how a bookshop should look: a crammed haven full of rip-roaring reads, with every millimetre of wall space containing English-language fiction and nonfiction (including children's) and travel guides.

OPEN DOOR BOOKSHOP
( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Via della Lungaretta 23; h10am-8pm Mon-Sat; gViale di Trastevere, j Viale di Trastevere)
This lovely crammed secondhand bookshop is a great place to browse and happen on a classic novel or nonfiction book in English, Italian, French and Spanish.

LA CRAVATTA SU MISURA
( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; %06 890 69 41; Via di Santa Cecilia 12; h10am-7pm Mon-Sat; gViale di Trastevere, j Viale di Trastevere)
With ties draped over the wooden furniture, this inviting shop resembles the study of an absent-minded professor. But don’t be fooled: these guys know their ties. Only the finest Italian silks and English wools are used in neckwear made to customers’ specifications. At a push, a tie can be ready in a few hours.

SCALA QUATTORODICI CLOTHING

( MAP  GOOGLE MAP; Villa della Scala 13-14; h10am-1.30pm & 4-8pm Tue-Sat, 4-8pm Mon; g Piazza Trilussa)

Make yourself over à la Audrey Hepburn with these classically tailored clothes in beautiful fabrics – either made-to-measure or off-the-peg. Pricey (a frock will set you back €600 plus) but oh so worth it.
Rome Street Life

As in many sunny countries, much of life in Rome is played out on the street. In the morning, you can watch the city slowly wake up. Shop shutters are cranked open, rubbish collectors do the rounds, restaurants set out their tables: Rome is readying itself for its close-up.

Day to Night

During the next phase, the fruit and veg markets in every rione (neighbourhood) will swell with people, with a predominance of matriarchs wielding grocery trolleys and showing a reckless disregard for queuing.

Throughout the day, people come and go on Rome’s piazzas and public spaces. In Campo de’ Fiori, there’s a busy food market during the day, then the character of the piazza changes towards the evening when its bars become busy, taking over corners of the square.

Pedestrianised Via del Pigneto, to Rome’s northeast, follows a similar trajectory: market in the morning, bars and cafes creating a party atmosphere in the evening. In the historic centre, locals and tourists gather to rest and people-watch on the Spanish Steps, but these empty as night falls.

Day or evening, the stadium-sized Piazza Navona ebbs and flows with people-watching entertainment, with hawkers, caricaturists and occasional street performers.
La Passeggiata

In the early evening, the passeggiata (an early evening stroll) is an important part of Roman life, as it is elsewhere in Italy. Locals will usually dress up before heading out. Like many other parts of everyday life, such as coffee-drinking, Italians have elevated a seemingly simple practice into something special.

Romans will usually head to the area that’s most convenient for them. Trastevere tends to be a broader mix of tourists and young people. Villa Borghese and the Pincio Hill Gardens attract more families and are more tranquil. Via del Corso is popular among younger window-shoppers, while Rome’s smartest shopping strip, Via dei Condotti, attracts a mix of ages. In summer, there’s the Lungo il Tevere festival on Isola Tiberina, and stalls along the riverside create a new area for early evening wanders.

Many people out on the stroll will opt, instead of paying €6 or so to sit and drink at a bar, to stop for a more affordable gelato, which they can eat on their way. In summer, you’ll see lots of people enjoying grattachecca – flavoured, crushed ice – along the banks of the Tiber.

The bella figura (‘beautiful figure’, better explained as ‘keeping up appearances’) is important here, and the passeggiata is as much about checking everyone else out as it is about enjoying the atmosphere. The passeggiata reaches its height in summer, as 5pm or 6pm is when the heat of the day subsides. There’s not much else to do, so why not head out into the street?
San Giovanni & Testaccio

Sights

Eating

Drinking & Nightlife

Entertainment

Shopping
Neighbourhood Top Five

1. Facing up to the monumental splendour of the Basilica di San Giovanni in Laterano, and feeling very small as you explore the echoing baroque interior of Rome’s oldest Christian basilica.

2. Being over-awed by the colossal ruins of the Terme di Caracalla.

3. Looking through the keyhole of the Priorato dei Cavalieri di Malta.

4. Going underground through layers of history at the Basilica di San Clemente.

5. Grave-spotting in the Cimitero Acattolico per gli Stranieri.

Explore: San Giovanni & Testaccio

Encompassing two of Rome's seven hills, this oft-overlooked part of town offers everything from barnstorming basilicas and medieval churches to ancient ruins, busy markets and hip clubs. The area can easily be divided into two separate patches: San Giovanni and the Celio; and Aventino and Testaccio. A day in each is more than enough to cover the main sights.
Start off at the landmark Basilica di San Giovanni in Laterano, the focal point of the largely residential San Giovanni neighbourhood. It’s easily accessible by metro and quite magnificent, both inside and out. Once you’ve explored the cathedral and surrounding piazza, head down Via di San Giovanni in Laterano towards the Colosseum. Near the bottom, the Basilica di San Clemente is a fascinating church with some thrilling underground ruins. From there, you can walk across to the Celio, the green hill that rises south of the Colosseum. There’s not a lot to see but the graceful Villa Celimontana park is a great place to escape the crowds. Further south, the ruins of the Terme di Caracalla are a thrilling sight.

Further west, on the banks of the Tiber, the once working-class area of Testaccio is a foodie hotspot with a number of excellent trattorias and a popular nightlife district. Rising above it, the Aventino hill boasts a number of serene medieval churches and one of Rome’s great curiosities – the famous keyhole view of St Peter’s dome.

Local Life

Romance Local Lotharios out to impress their loved ones take them to enjoy the sunset views from the Parco Savello on the Aventino.

Offal Testaccio is the spiritual home of ‘blood-and-guts’ Roman cooking and its popular trattorias and restaurants are the place to try it.

Parks You’ll often see locals relaxing with a book or going for a leisurely lunchtime stroll in Villa Celimontana.

Getting There & Away

Bus Useful bus routes include 85 and 87, both of which stop near the Basilica di San Giovanni in Laterano, and 714, which serves San Giovanni and the Terme di Caracalla.

Metro San Giovanni is accessible by metro line A. For Testaccio take line B to Piramide. The Aventino is walkable from Testaccio and Circo Massimo.

Tram From San Giovanni tram 3 runs along Viale Aventino and to the Piramide area.
Lonely Planet’s Top Tip

If you like opera and ballet, check www.operaroma.it for details of summer performances at the Terme di Caracalla. If contemporary art in a gritty urban setting is more your thing, look out for exhibitions and installations at MACRO Testaccio, a gallery space in Rome’s former abattoir.

Best Places to Eat

- Flavio al Velavevodetto
- Cafè Cafè
- Da Felice
- Pizzeria Da Remo
- Aroma

Best Places to Drink

- Rec 23
- * Il Pentagrappolo
- Linari
- L’Oasi della Birra

Best Little Known Gems

- Priorato dei Cavalieri di Malta
- Cimitero Acattolico per gli Stranieri
- Chiesa di Santo Stefano Rotondo
- Basilica di SS Quattro Coronati
For a thousand years this monumental cathedral was the most important church in Christendom. Dating to the 4th century, it was the first Christian basilica built in the city and, until the late 14th century, it was the pope’s main place of worship. It's still Rome’s official cathedral and the pope’s seat as the bishop of Rome.

The oldest of Rome’s four papal basilicas, it was commissioned by the Emperor Constantine and consecrated by Pope Sylvester I in 324. From then until 1309, when the papacy moved to Avignon, it was the principal pontifical church, and the adjacent Palazzo Laterano was the pope’s official residence. Both buildings fell into disrepair during the pope's French interlude, and when Pope Gregory XI returned to Rome in 1377 he preferred to decamp to the fortified Vatican.

Over the centuries the basilica has been revamped several times, most notably by Borromini in the 17th century, and by Alessandro Galilei, who added the immense white facade in 1735.

Facade
Surmounted by 15 7m-high statues – Christ with St John the Baptist, John the Evangelist and the 12 Apostles – Galilei’s huge facade is an imposing work of late-baroque classicism. Behind the colossal columns there are five sets of doors in the portico. The central bronze doors were moved here from the Curia in the Roman Forum, while, on the far right, the Holy Door is only opened in Jubilee years.

Interior
The enormous marble-clad interior owes much of its present look to Francesco Borromini, who redecorated it for the 1650 Jubilee. It’s a breathtaking sight with a golden gilt ceiling, a 15th-century mosaic floor, and a wide central nave lined with 18th-century sculptures of the apostles, each 4.6m high and set in its own dramatic niche.

At the head of the nave, an elaborate Gothic baldachin stands over the papal altar. Dating to the 14th century, this towering ensemble is said to contain the relics of the heads of Sts Peter and Paul. In front, a double staircase leads down to the confessio and the Renaissance tomb of Pope Martin V.

Behind the altar, the massive apse is decorated with sparkling mosaics. Parts of these date to the 4th century, but most were added in the 1800s.

At the other end of the basilica, on the first pillar in the right-hand nave is an incomplete Giotto fresco. While admiring this, cock your ear towards the next column, where a monument to Pope Sylvester II is said to creak when the death of a pope is imminent.

Cloister
To the left of the altar, the basilica's 13th-century cloister is a lovely, peaceful place with graceful twisted columns set around a central garden. Lining the ambulatories are marble fragments from the original church, including the remains of a 5th-century papal throne and inscriptions of two papal bulls.

DON’T MISS…

• Monument to Pope Sylvester II
• The baldachin
• The cloister

PRACTICALITIES

•  MAP  GOOGLE MAP
• Piazza di San Giovanni in Laterano 4
• basilica/cloister free/€5
• h 7am-6.30pm, cloister 9am-6pm
• m San Giovanni
1 SIGHTS

1 San Giovanni
Basilica di San Giovanni in Laterano

PALAZZO LATERANO HISTORIC BUILDING
(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Piazza di San Giovanni in Laterano; m San Giovanni)
Adjacent to the Basilica di San Giovanni in Laterano, Palazzo Laterano was the official papal residence until the pope moved to the Vatican in 1377. It's still technically Vatican property and today houses offices of the Vicariate of Rome. Much altered over the centuries, it owes its current form to a 16th-century facelift by Domenico Fontana.

Overlooking the palazzo is Rome’s oldest and tallest obelisk (MAP GOOGLE MAP).

BATTISTERO
CHAPEL
(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Piazza di San Giovanni in Laterano; h 9am-12.30pm & 4-6.30pm; m San Giovanni)
Built by Constantine in the 4th century, this octagonal baptistry served as the prototype for later Christian churches and bell towers. The chief interest, apart from the architecture, is the decorative mosaics, some of which date to the 5th century.

SANTUARIO DELLA SCALA SANTA & SANCTA SANCTORUM
CHAPEL
(MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.scala-santa.it; Piazza di San Giovanni in Laterano 14; admission Scala free, Sancta with/without audioguide €5/3.50; h Scala 6am-1pm & 3-7pm summer, to 6.30pm winter, Sancta Sanctorum 9.30am-12.40pm & 3-5.10pm Mon-Sat; m San Giovanni)
The Scala Sancta, said to be the staircase that Jesus walked up in Pontius Pilate’s Jerusalem palace, was brought to Rome by St Helena in the 4th century. Pilgrims consider it sacred and climb it on their knees, saying a prayer on each of the 28 steps. At the top, the richly frescoed Sancta Sanctorum (Holy of Holies) was formerly the pope’s private chapel.

Behind the sanctuary building you’ll see a cut-off cross-section of a building adorned with a showy gold mosaic. This is the Triclinium Leoninum (MAP GOOGLE MAP; m San Giovanni), an 18th-century reconstruction of a wall from the original Palazzo Laterano.

1 Celio

BASILICA DI SS QUATTRO CORONATI
BASILICA
(MAP GOOGLE MAP; Via dei Santissimi Quattro Coronati 20; h 10-11.45am & 4-5.45pm Mon-Sat, 4-5.45pm Sun; g Via di San Giovanni in Laterano)
This brooding fortified church harbours some lovely 13th-century frescoes and a delightful hidden
The frescoes, in the Oratorio di San Silvestro, depict the story of the Donation of Constantine, a notorious forged document with which the emperor Constantine ceded control of Rome and the Western Roman Empire to the papacy.

To access the Oratorio, ring the bell in the entrance courtyard. You might also have to ring for the cloister, which is situated off the northern aisle.

The basilica, which dates to the 6th century, took on its present form in the 12th-century after the original was destroyed by Normans in 1084. Its name – the Basilica of the Four Crowned Martyrs – is a reference to four Christian sculptors who were supposedly killed by Diocletian for refusing to make a statue of a pagan god.

The basilica's frescoed Aula Gotica (Gothic Hall) was recently reopened to occasional guided tours. For details, see www.aulagoticasantiquattrocronati.it.

CASE ROMANE

According to tradition, the apostles John and Paul lived in these subterranean houses beneath the Basilica di SS Giovanni e Paolo before they were beheaded by the emperor Julian. There's actually no direct evidence for this, although research has revealed that the houses were used for Christian worship. There are more than 20 rooms, many of them richly decorated.

Entry is to the side of the basilica on the Clivo di Scauro.

CHIESA DI SAN GREGORIO MAGNO

Ring for admission to this landmark church which stands on the spot where Pope Gregory supposedly dispatched St Augustine to convert the British. It was originally the pope’s family home but in 575 he converted it into a monastery. It was rebuilt in the 17th century and given a baroque makeover a century later.

Inside, look out for the Cappella Salviati, a 16th-century chapel by Carlo Maderno, which contains a fresco of a Madonna with Child.

Outside, the Cappella di Sant’Andrea is the most interesting of three small chapels, with frescoes by Domenichino, Guido Reni and Giovanni Lanfranco.

VILLA CELIMONTANA

With its grassy banks and colourful flower beds, this leafy park is a wonderful place to escape the crowds and enjoy a summer picnic. At its centre is a 16th-century villa housing the Italian Geographical Society.

CHIESA DI SANTO STEFANO ROTONDO
Set in its own secluded grounds, this haunting church boasts a porticoed facade and a round, columned interior. But what really gets the heart racing is the graphic wall decor – a cycle of 16th-century frescoes depicting the tortures suffered by many early Christian martyrs.

Describing them in 1846, Charles Dickens wrote: 'Such a panorama of horror and butchery no man could imagine in his sleep, though he were to eat a whole pig, raw, for supper.'

The church, one of Rome’s oldest, dates to the late 5th century, although it was subsequently altered in the 12th and 15th centuries.
This fascinating basilica provides a vivid glimpse into Rome’s multi-layered past: a 12th-century basilica built atop a 4th-century church, which, in turn, stands over a 2nd-century pagan temple and a 1st-century Roman house. Beneath everything are foundations dating to the Roman Republic.

The ground-floor basilica superiore contains some glorious works of medieval art. These include a golden 12th-century apse mosaic, the Trionfo della Croce (Triumph of the Cross), showing the Madonna and St John the Baptist standing by a cross on which Christ is represented with 12 white doves (symbolising the apostles). Also impressive are Masolino’s 15th-century frescoes in the Cappella di Santa Caterina, depicting a crucifixion scene and episodes from the life of St Catherine.

Steps lead down to the 4th-century basilica inferiore, mostly destroyed by Norman invaders in 1084, but with some faded 11th-century frescoes illustrating the life of San Clemente. Follow down another level and you’ll find yourself walking an ancient lane leading to a 1st-century Roman house and a dark, 2nd-century temple to Mithras, with an altar showing the god slaying a bull. Beneath it all, you can hear the eerie sound of a subterranean river flowing through a Republic-era drain.

DON’T MISS…
- Trionfo della Croce
- Cappella di Santa Caterina
- Basilica inferiore
- Temple of Mithras

PRACTICALITIES
- MAP  GOOGLE MAP
- www.basilicasanclemente.com
- Via di San Giovanni in Laterano
- excavations adult/reduced €10/5
- 9am-12.30pm & 3-6pm Mon-Sat, 12.15-6pm Sun
- Via Labicana
The cult of Mithraism was hugely popular with the ancient Roman military. According to its mythology, Mithras, a young, handsome god, was ordered to slay a wild bull by the Sun. As the bull died, it gave life, its blood causing wheat and other plants to grow.

Mithraic temples, known as Mithraeums, were almost always in underground locations or caves, reflecting the belief that caverns represented the cosmos. In these Mithraeums, devotees underwent complex initiation rites, and ate bread and water as a representation of the body and the blood of the bull. Sound familiar? The early Christians thought so too, and were fervently opposed to the cult.
The remains of the emperor Caracalla’s vast baths complex are among Rome’s most awe-inspiring ruins. Inaugurated in 216, the original 10-hectare complex comprised baths, gyms, libraries, shops and gardens. Between 6000 and 8000 people passed through every day, while, underground, hundreds of slaves sweated in 9.5km of tunnels, tending to the intricate plumbing systems.

The baths remained in continuous use until 537, when the invading Visigoths cut off Rome's water supply. Excavations in the 16th and 17th centuries unearthed a number of important sculptures, many of which found their way into the Farnese family's art collection.

Most of the ruins are what’s left of the central bath house. This was a huge rectangular edifice bookended by two palestre (gyms) and centred on a frigidarium (cold room), where bathers would stop after spells in the warmer tepidarium and dome-capped caldaria (hot room).

As you traverse the ruins towards the palestra orientale, look out for a slab of white, pockmarked marble on your right. This is a board from an ancient game called tropa (the hole game).

Underground, archaeologists have discovered a Mithraeum (temple) dedicated to the Persian god Mithras. Unfortunately, this is currently off-limits to visitors.

In summer the ruins are used to stage spectacular opera and ballet performances.

DON’T MISS…

- The frigidarium
- The caldaria
- The palestre

PRACTICALITIES

- MAP  GOOGLE MAP
- ☏ 06 3996 7700
- www.coopculture.it
- Viale delle Terme di Caracalla 52
- adult/reduced €6/3
- h9am-1hr before sunset Tue-Sun, 9am-2pm Mon
- Viale delle Terme di Caracalla

1Aventino & Around

BASILICA DI SANTA SABINA  (MAP)  GOOGLE MAP  ☏ 06 5 79 41; Piazza Pietro d’Illiria 1; h6.30am-12.45pm & 3-8pm; gLungotevere Aventino)
This solemn basilica, one of Rome's most beautiful medieval churches, was founded by Peter of Illyria in around AD 422. It was enlarged in the 9th century and again in 1216, just before it was given to the newly founded Dominican order – note the tombstone of Muñoz de Zamora, one of the order’s founding fathers, in the nave floor. A 20th-century restoration returned it to its original look.

One of the few features to have survived since the 4th century are the basilica’s cypress-wood doors. They feature 18 carved panels depicting biblical events, including one of the oldest Crucifixion scenes in existence. It’s quite hard to make out in the top left, but there’s a depiction of Jesus and the two thieves, although, strangely, not their crosses.

Inside, 24 custom-made columns support an arcade decorated with a faded red-and-green frieze. Light streams in from high nave windows that were added in the 9th century, along with the carved choir, pulpit and bishop’s throne.

Behind the church is a garden and a meditative 13th-century cloister.

PARCO SAVELLO
Known to Romans as the Giardino degli Aranci (Orange Garden), this pocket-sized park is a romantic haven. Grab a perch at the small panoramic terrace and watch the sun set over the Tiber and St Peter’s dome.

PRIORATO DEI CAVALIERI DI MALTA
Fronting an ornate cypress-shaded piazza, the Roman headquarters of the Cavalieri di Malta (Knights of Malta) boast one of Rome's most celebrated views. It's not immediately apparent but look through the keyhole in the Priorato's green door and you’ll see the dome of St Peter’s Basilica perfectly aligned at the end of a hedge-lined avenue.

1 Testaccio

CIMITERO ACATTOLICO PER GLI STRANIERI
Despite the roads that surround it, Rome’s 'non-Catholic' Cemetery is a verdant oasis of peace. An air of Grand Tour romance hangs over the site where up to 4000 people lie buried, including poets Keats and Shelley, and Italian political thinker Antonio Gramsci.

Among the gravestones and cypress trees look out for the Angelo del Dolore (Angel of Grief), a much-replicated 1894 sculpture that US artist William Wetmore Story created for his wife's grave.

PIRAMIDE DI CAIO CESTIO
Sticking out like, well, an Egyptian pyramid, this distinctive landmark looms over a busy traffic junction near Piramide metro station. A 36m-high marble-and-brick tomb, it was built for Gaius Cestius, a 1st-century-BC magistrate, and some 200 years later was incorporated into the Aurelian walls near Porta San Paolo. The surrounding area is today known as Piramide.

MONTE TESTACCIO

In the heart of the eponymous neighbourhood, Monte Testaccio, aka Monte dei Cocci, is an artificial grass-covered hill made of smashed amphorae (testae in Latin, hence the area's name, Testaccio).

Between the 2nd century BC and the 3rd century AD, Testaccio was Rome’s river port. Supplies of olive oil were transported here in huge terracotta amphorae, which, once emptied, were broken and the fragments stacked in a huge pile near the storehouses. Over time, this pile grew into a substantial 49m-high hill – Monte Testaccio.

MACRO TESTACCIO

Housed in Rome’s former slaughterhouse, MACRO Testaccio (the second of MACRO's two exhibition spaces) is part of a cultural complex that also includes Rome's Accademia di Belle Arti and the University of Roma Tre's Architecture Faculty. Contemporary art exhibitions are staged in two cavernous industrial halls.

Note that the gallery opens only when there's an exhibition on – check the website for details.
5 EATING

5 San Giovanni & Celio

CAFÈ CAFÈ

○ CAFÈ CAFÈ

( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; % 06 700 87 43; www.cafecafebistrot.it; Via dei Santissimi Quattro Coronati 44; meals €15-20; h 9.30am-11pm; g Via di San Giovanni in Laterano)

Cosy, relaxed and welcoming, this café-bistro is a far cry from the usual impersonal eateries in the Colosseum area. With its rustic wooden tables, butternut walls and wine bottles, it's a charming spot to recharge your batteries over tea and homemade cake, a light lunch or laid-back dinner. There's also brunch on Sundays.

LI RIONI

○ LI RIONI

( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; % 06 7045 0605; Via dei Santissimi Quattro Coronati 24; meals €15-20; h 7pm-midnight Thu-Tue, closed Aug; g Via di San Giovanni in Laterano)

Locals swear by Li Rioni, arriving for the second sitting around 9pm after the tourists have left. A classic neighbourhood pizzeria, it buzzes most nights as diners squeeze into the kitschy interior – set up as a Roman street scene – and tuck into wood-fired thin-crust pizzas and crispy fried starters.

IL BOCCONCINO

○ IL BOCCONCINO

( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; % 06 7707 9175; www.ilbocconcino.com; Via Ostilia 23; meals €35; h 12.30-3.30pm & 7.30-11.30pm Thu-Tue, closed Aug; g Via Labicana)

This laid-back trattoria is one of the better options in the touristy pocket near the Colosseum, standing out for its authentic regional cooking and use of locally sourced seasonal ingredients. Daily specials are chalked up on blackboards; plus there's a regular menu of classic Roman pastas, meaty mains and imaginative desserts.

TAVERNA DEI QUARANTA

○ TAVERNA DEI QUARANTA

( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; % 06 700 05 50; www.tavernadeiquaranta.com; Via Claudia 24; meals €30; h noon-3.30pm & 7.30pm-midnight; g Via Claudia)

Tasty traditional food and a prime location – near the Colosseum but just off the beaten track – are the hallmarks of this family-run trattoria. There are no great surprises on the menu but daily specials add variety and the desserts are homemade – always a good sign.

CAFFÈ PROPAGANDA

○ CAFFÈ PROPAGANDA

( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; % 06 9453 4256; www.caffepropaganda.it; Via Claudia 15; meals €30-40; h 12.30pm-2am Tue-Sun; g Via Claudia)

This Paris-inspired bistro is a good-looking place with a striking zinc bar, 5m-high ceilings, bric-a-brac on the white-tiled walls, and a menu that covers all the bases, with everything from cocktails and cake to traditional Roman pastas, omelettes, salads and dolci.

AROMA
(RISTORANTE€€€)
( MAP GOOGLE MAP; Via Labicana 125; tasting menu €130; h12.30-3pm & 7.30-11.30pm; g Via Labicana)
One for a special-occasion dinner, the rooftop restaurant of the Palazzo Manfredi hotel offers 'marry-me' views of the Colosseum and Michelin-starred food that rises to the occasion. Overseeing the kitchen is chef Giuseppe Di Iorio, whose brand of luxurious, forward-thinking Mediterranean cuisine has won widespread applause from critics and diners alike.

5 Aventino & Around

IL GELATO
(GELATERIA€)
( MAP GOOGLE MAP; Viale Aventino 59; gelato €2-4.50; h10am-midnight summer, 11am-9pm winter; g Viale Aventino)
This is the Aventine outpost of the gelato empire built by Rome's ice-cream king, Claudio Torcè. His creamy creations are seasonal and preservative free, ranging from the classic to the decidedly not – anyone for salted peanut or green tea?

5 Testaccio

TRAPIZZINO
(FAST FOOD€)
( MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.trapizzino.it; Via Branca 88; trapizzini from €3.50; hnoon-1am Tue-Sun; g Via Marmorata)
This pocket-size joint is the birthplace of the trapizzino, a kind of hybrid sandwich made by stuffing a small cone of doughy bread with fillers like polpette al sugo (meatballs in tomato sauce) or pollo alla cacciatore (stewed chicken). They're messy to eat but quite delicious.

PIZZERIA DA REMO
(PIZZA€)
( MAP GOOGLE MAP; Via Santa Maria Liberatrice 44; pizzas from €5.50; h7pm-1am Mon-Sat; g Via Marmorata)
For an authentic Roman experience, join the noisy crowds at one of the city's best-known and most popular pizzerias. It's a spartan-looking place, but the thin-crust Roman pizzas are the business, and there's a cheerful, boisterous vibe. Expect to queue after 8.30pm.

MORDI E VAI
(FAST FOOD€)
( MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.mordievai.it; Box 15, Nuovo Mercato Testaccio; panini €3; h6am-3pm Mon-Sat; g Via Galvani)
This critically acclaimed market stall – 'Bite and Go' in English – is all about fast food. But fast food Roman style, which means bread rolls filled with allesso di scottona (tender slow-cooked beef, the stall's signature dish) or plastic plates of no-nonsense meat-and-veg dishes.
FLAVIO AL VELAVEVODETTO

Housed in a rustic Pompeian-red villa, this welcoming eatery specialises in earthy, no-nonsense cucina romana (Roman cuisine). Expect antipasti of cheeses and cured meats, huge helpings of homemade pastas, and uncomplicated meat dishes.

DA FELICE

Foodies swear by this historic stalwart, famous for its unwavering dedication to local culinary traditions. In contrast to the light-touch modern decor, the menu is pure old-school with a classic weekly timetable: pasta e fagioli (pasta and beans) on Tuesdays, bollito di manzo (boiled beef) on Thursdays, seafood on Fridays. Reservations essential.

TRATTORIA DA BUCATINO

This genuine neighbourhood trattoria is hugely popular. It's far from refined with its dated decor and brusque service, but the typical Roman food is excellent – try its trademark bucatini all'amatriciana – and helpings are generous.

CHECCHINO DAL 1887

A pig’s whisker from the city’s former slaughterhouse, Checchino is one of the grander restaurants specialising in the quinto quarto (‘fifth quarter’ – the insides of the animal). Signature dishes include coda all vaccinara (oxtail stew) and rigatoni alla pajata (pasta tubes with a sauce of tomato and veal intestines).

PRACTICAL TIP

MENU DECODER

The hallmark of an authentic Roman menu is the presence of offal. The Roman love of nose-to-tail eating arose in Testaccio around the city abattoir, and many of the area’s trattorias still serve traditional offal-based dishes. So whether you want to avoid them or try them, look out for pajata (veal's intestines), trippa (tripe), coda alla vaccinara (oxtail), coratella (heart, lung and liver), animelle (sweetbreads), testarella (head), lingua (tongue) and zampe (trotters).
San Giovanni & Celio

IL PENTAGRAPPOLO
WINE BAR
( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Via Celimontana 21b; 12noon-3pm & 6pm-1am Tue-Fri, 6pm-1am Sat & Sun; mColosseo)

This vaulted, softly lit bar is the perfect antidote to sightseeing overload. Join the mellow crowd for an evening of wine and jazz courtesy of the frequent live gigs. There's also lunch and a daily aperitif.

COMING OUT
BAR
( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; www.comingout.it; Via di San Giovanni in Laterano 8; 12noon-2am; gVia Labicana)

On warm evenings, with lively crowds on the street and the Colosseum as a backdrop, there are few finer places to sip at than this friendly, gay bar. It's open all day but is at its best in the evening when the atmosphere hots up and the gigs, drag shows and karaoke nights get under way.

LOCAL KNOWLEDGE

GAY STREET

The bottom end of Via di San Giovanni di Laterano, the sloping street that runs from the Basilica di San Giovanni in Laterano to near the Colosseum, is a favourite haunt of Rome's gay community. Not so much during the day but in the evening bars like Coming Out and My Bar ( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Via di San Giovanni in Laterano 12; 12noon-2am; gVia Labicana) burst into life, attracting large crowds of mainly gay men.

Testaccio

REC 23
BAR
( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; %06 8746 2147; www.rec23.com; Piazza dell'Emporio 2; 12.30-3.30pm & 6pm-2am daily & 6.30pm-2am Sat & Sun; gVia Marmorata)

All plate glass and exposed brick, this popular, New York-inspired venue caters to all moods, serving aperitifs, restaurant meals, and a weekend brunch. Arrive thirsty to take on the Testaccio Mule, one of a long list of cocktails, or get to grips with the selection of Scottish whiskies and Latin American rums. It also hosts regular live gigs.

LINARI
CAFE
( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Via Nicola Zabaglia 9; 12noon-11pm Wed-Mon; gVia Marmorata)

An authentic local hangout, Linari has the busy clatter of a good bar, with excellent pastries, splendid coffee and plenty of barside banter. There are a few outside tables, ideal for a cheap lunch, but you'll have to outfox the neighbourhood ladies to get one.

BIG BANG

(Map, Google Map; www.bigbangroma.org; Via di Monte Testaccio 22; 10pm-4.30am Fri & Sat; g Via Galvani)

For one of the capital's best reggae parties, head to the Bababoomtime Friday-night session at Big Bang. The club, housed in Rome's graffiti-splayed former slaughterhouse, draws a casual, music-loving crowd who know their reggae, dancehall, dub and techno.

L’OASI DELLA BIRRA

(Map, Google Map; 06 574 61 22; Piazza Testaccio 41; 4.30pm-2am; g Via Marmorata)

In a local bottle shop, this cramped cellar bar is exactly what it says it is – an Oasis of Beer. With up to 500 labels, from Teutonic heavyweights to boutique brews, as well as wines, cheeses, cold cuts and the like, it's ideally set up for elbow-to-elbow quaffing.

L’ALIBI

(Map, Google Map; Via di Monte Testaccio 44; 11.30pm-5am Thu-Sun; g Via Galvani)

A historic gay club, L’Alibi does high-camp with style, putting on kitsch shows and playing house, techno and dance to a mixed gay and straight crowd. It's spread over three floors and if the sweaty atmosphere on the dance floors gets too much, head up to the spacious summer terrace. Saturday's Tommy Night is the hot date right now.
With an under-the-stars terrace and cool, arched interior, ConteStaccio is one of the top venues on the Testaccio clubbing strip. It's something of a multi-purpose outfit with a cocktail bar, a pizzeria and a restaurant but is best known for its daily concerts. Gigs by emerging groups set the tone, spanning indie, rock, acoustic, funk and electronic.
This superstocked deli, considered by many the best in town, is a treasure trove of gourmet delicacies. Helpful staff will guide you through the extensive selection of smelly cheeses, homemade pastas, olive oils, vinegars, cured meats, veggie pies, wines and grappas. It also serves excellent sliced pizza.

Even if you don't need to buy anything, a trip to Testaccio's daily food market is fun. Occupying a modern, purpose-built site, it hums with activity as locals go about their daily shopping, picking, prodding and sniffing the brightly coloured produce and cheerfully shouting at all and sundry.

From just-off-the-runway heels to classic driving shoes, high-end trainers and timeless lace-ups, this historic shoe shop stocks a wide range of footwear by top international brands, as well as bags, belts and leather accessories.

Run by Hate Records, Soul Food is a laid-back record store with an eclectic collection of vinyl that runs the musical gamut, from ’60s garage and rockabilly to punk, indie, new wave, folk, funk and soul. You'll also find retro-design T-shirts, fanzines and other groupie clobber.

This clothes market in the shadow of the Aurelian Walls is awash with wardrobe staples. It has a good assortment of new and vintage clothes, bargain-price shoes, jeans and leather jackets.
Neighbourhood Top Five

1 Getting to grips with artistic genius at the lavish Museo e Galleria Borghese, where Bernini’s sculptures steal the show, but you'll also find masterpieces by Canova, Caravaggio, Titian and Raphael.

2 Strolling the leafy lanes of Rome’s most famous park, Villa Borghese.

3 Applauding the sophistication of Etruscan art at the Museo Nazionale Etrusco di Villa Giulia.

4 Going face to face with the greats of modern art at the Galleria Nazionale d’Arte Moderna e Contemporanea.

5 Catching a world-class concert at the Auditorium Parco della Musica.

Explore Villa Borghese & Northern Rome

Although less packed with traditional sights than elsewhere, this large swathe of northern Rome is rich in interest. The obvious starting point is Villa Borghese, an attractive park counting the city's zoo, its largest modern art gallery, and a stunning Etruscan museum among its myriad attractions. But its great scene-stealing highlight is the Museo e Galleria Borghese, one of Rome’s top art museums.

From Piazzale Flaminio, a tram heads up Via Flaminia to two of Rome’s most important modern buildings: Renzo Piano’s arts centre, the Auditorium Parco della Musica, and Zaha Hadid’s contemporary art gallery, MAXXI. Continue up the road and you come to Ponte Milvio, a handsome footbridge and scene of an ancient Roman battle. Over the river and to the west, the Stadio Olimpico is Rome’s impressive football stadium.

To the east of Villa Borghese, Via Salaria, the old Roman sale (salt) road, runs through a smart residential and business district. To the north, Villa Ada expands northwards while, to the south, Via Nomentana traverses acres of housing as it heads out of town. On Via Nomentana, Villa Torlonia is a captivating park, and the Basilica di Sant’Agnese fuori le Mura claims Rome’s oldest Christian mosaic.

Local Life

- Concerts & Events Romans are avid supporters of concerts at the Auditorium Parco della Musica.
Also check for events at the MAXXI and MACRO art galleries.

- Parks Tourists tend to stop at Villa Borghese, but locals often head to Villa Torlonia and Villa Ada.

- Hangouts Piazzale Ponte Milvio is a favourite lunchtime haunt and an evening meeting point for young locals.

Getting There & Away

- Bus Buses 116 and 53 head up to Villa Borghese from Via Vittorio Veneto near Barberini metro station. There are regular buses along Via Nomentana and Via Salaria.

- Metro Villa Borghese is accessible from Flaminio and Spagna stations (both line A).

- Tram Tram 2 trundles up Via Flaminia from Piazzale Flaminio; tram 3 connects Villa Borghese with San Lorenzo, San Giovanni and Testaccio; tram 19 runs from Piazza del Risorgimento (near the Vatican) to Villa Borghese and Viale Regina Margherita.
Lonely Planet’s Top Tip

Be sure to book your visit to the Museo e Galleria Borghese. It only takes a quick phone call and you won’t get in without a reservation.

On football and rugby match days – usually a Saturday or Sunday – the routes into the Stadio Olimpico get very busy, so watch out around Piazza Mancini and in the river area near the stadium.

Best Places to Eat
- Metamorfosi
- Neve di Latte
- Molto
- Bar Pompi

Best Places to Drink
- Momart
- Brancacone
- Lanificio 159
- Chioschetto di Ponte Milvio

Best Museums & Galleries
- Museo e Galleria Borghese
- Museo Nazionale Etrusco di Villa Giulia
- Galleria Nazionale d’Arte Moderna e Contemporanea
- MAXXI
- MACRO
If you have time, or inclination, for only one art gallery in Rome, make it this one. Housing what's often referred to as the ‘queen of all private art collections’, it boasts some of the city's finest art treasures, including a series of sensational sculptures by Gian Lorenzo Bernini and important paintings by the likes of Caravaggio, Titian, Raphael and Rubens.

To limit crowds, visitors are admitted at two-hourly intervals, so you’ll need to book your ticket and get an entry time.

The Villa
The museum's collection was formed by Cardinal Scipione Borghese (1579–1633), the most knowledgable and ruthless art collector of his day. It was originally housed in the cardinal's residence near St Peter's but in the 1620s he had it transferred to his new villa just outside Porta Pinciana. And it's here, in the villa's central building, the Casino Borghese, that you'll see it today.

Over the centuries the villa has undergone several overhauls, most notably in the late 1700s when Prince Marcantonio Borghese added much of the lavish neoclassical decor. But while the villa remained intact, the collection did not. Much of the antique statuary was carted off to the Louvre in the early 19th century, and other pieces were gradually sold off. In 1902 the Italian State bought the Casino, but it wasn’t until 1997 that the collection was finally put on public display.

The villa is divided into two parts: the ground-floor museum, with its superb sculptures, intricate Roman floor mosaics and hypnotic trompe l‘oeil frescoes; and the upstairs picture gallery.

Ground Floor
The entrance hall features 4th-century floor mosaics of fighting gladiators and a 2nd-century Satiro Combattente (Fighting Satyr). High on the wall is a gravity-defying bas-relief of a horse and rider falling into the void by Pietro Bernini (Gian Lorenzo’s father).

Sala I is centred on Antonio Canova’s daring depiction of Napoleon’s sister, Paolina Bonaparte Borghese, reclining topless as Venere Vincitrice (Venus Victrix; 1805–08). Its suggestive pose and technical virtuosity is typical of Canova's elegant, mildly erotic neoclassical style.

But it’s Gian Lorenzo Bernini’s spectacular sculptures – flamboyant depictions of pagan myths – that really steal the show. Just look at Daphne’s hands morphing into leaves in the swirling Apollo e Dafne (1622–25) in Sala III, or Pluto’s hand pressing into the seemingly soft flesh of Persephone’s thigh in the Ratto di Proserpina (Rape of Proserpina; 1621–22) in Sala IV.

Caravaggio, one of Cardinal Scipione’s favourite artists, dominates Sala VIII. You’ll see a dissipated Bacchino malato (Young Sick Bacchus; 1593–94), the strangely beautiful La Madonna dei Palafrenieri (Madonna of the Palafrenieri; 1605–06), and San Giovanni Battista (St John the Baptist; 1609–10), probably his last work. There’s also the much-loved Ragazzo col Canestro di Frutta (Boy with a Basket of Fruit; 1593–95) and dramatic Davide con la Testa di Golia (David with the Head of Goliath; 1609–10) – Goliath’s head is said to be a self-portrait.

Picture Gallery
With works representing the best of the Tuscan, Venetian, Umbrian and northern European schools, the upstairs picture gallery offers a wonderful snapshot of Renaissance art.

In Sala IX don’t miss Raphael’s extraordinary La Deposizione di Cristo (The Deposition; 1507) and his charming Dama con Liocorno (Lady with a Unicorn; 1506). In the same room you'll find Fra Bartolomeo's superb Adorazione del Bambino (Adoration of the Christ Child; 1499) and Perugino’s Madonna col Bambino (Madonna and Child; early 16th century).

Next door, Correggio’s Danäe (1530–31) shares wall space with a willowy Venus, as portrayed by Cranach in his Venere e Amore che Reca Il Favo do Miele (Venus and Cupid with Honeycomb; 1531).

Moving on, Sala XIV boasts two self-portraits by Bernini, and Sala XVIII contains two significant works by Rubens: Compianto su Cristo morto (The Deposition; 1603) and Susanna e I Vecchioni (Susanna and the Elders; 1605–07).

To finish off, Titian’s early masterpiece Amor Sacro e Amor Profano (Sacred and Profane Love; 1514) in Sala XX is one of the collection's most prized works.
DON’T MISS

- Ratto di Proserpina
- Venere Vincitrice
- Ragazzo col Canestro di Frutta
- La Deposizione di Cristo
- Amor Sacro e Amor Profano

PRACTICALITIES

- MAP  GOOGLE MAP
- +39 06 3 28 10
- www.galleriaborghese.it
- Piazzale del Museo Borghese 5
- adult/reduced €11/6.50
- h: 9am-7pm Tue-Sun
- g: Via Pinciana

CARDINAL SCIPIONE BORGHESE

Cardinal Scipione Caffarelli Borghese (1576–1633) was one of the most influential figures in Rome’s baroque art world. Blessed with wealth, power and position – his uncle Pope Paul V made him a cardinal when he was just 26 – he sponsored the greatest artists of the day, including Caravaggio, Bernini, Domenichino, Guido Reni and Peter Paul Rubens. Yet while he promoted the artists he didn’t always see eye to eye with them and he was quite prepared to play dirty to get his hands on their works: he had the fashionable painter Cavaliere d’Arpino flung into jail in order to confiscate his canvases and had Domenichino arrested to force him to surrender La Caccia di Diana (The Hunt of Diana).

For a restorative coffee, there's a cafe next to the bookshop in the basement reception hall.
1 SIGHTS

1 Villa Borghese & Around

Museo e Galleria Borghese

VILLA BORGHÈSE

( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; entrances at Piazzale San Paolo del Brasile, Piazzale Flaminio, Via Pinciana, Via Raimondo, Largo Pablo Picasso; h dawn-dusk; g Porta Pinciana)

Locals, lovers, tourists, joggers – no one can resist the lure of Rome’s most celebrated park. Originally the 17th-century estate of Cardinal Scipione Borghese, it covers about 80 hectares of wooded glades, gardens and grassy banks. Among its attractions are several excellent museums, the landscaped Giardino del Lago ( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; boat hire per person €3 for 20 minutes; h 7am-9pm), and Piazza di Siena ( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; g Porta Pinciana), a dusty arena used for Rome’s top equestrian event in May.

Film buffs should head to the area around the Piazzale San Paolo del Brasile entrance, where the Casa del Cinema hosts regular film-related events, and the Cinema dei Piccoli ( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 06 855 34 85; www.cinemadeipiccoli.it; Viale delle Pineta 15; tickets Mon-Fri €5, Sat & Sun €6; g Porta Pinciana) is the world’s smallest cinema.

Bike hire is available at various points, including Largo Pablo Picasso, for €5/15 per hour/day.

MUSEO CARLO BILOTTI

( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 06 06 08; www.museocarlobilotti.it; Viale Fiorello La Guardia; h 10am-4pm Tue-Fri winter, 1-7pm Tue-Fri summer, 10am-7pm Sat & Sun year-round; g Porta Pinciana)

The Orangery of Villa Borghese provides the handsome setting for the art collection of billionaire cosmetics magnate Carlo Bilotti. The main focus are 18 works by Giorgio de Chirico (1888–1978), one of Italy's foremost modern artists, but also of note is a Warhol portrait of Bilotti’s wife and daughter.

GALLERIA NAZIONALE D'ARTE MODERNA E CONTEMPORANEA

( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 06 3229 8221; www.gnam.beniculturali.it; Viale delle Belle Arti 131, disabled entrance Via Gramsci 73; adult/reduced €8/4; h 8.30am-7.30pm Tue-Sun; j Piazza Thorvaldsen)

Housed in a vast belle époque palace, this oft-overlooked gallery is an unsung gem. Its superlative collection runs the gamut from neoclassical sculpture to abstract expressionism with works by many of the most important exponents of 19th- and 20th-century art.

There are canvases by the macchiaioli (Italian Impressionists) and futurists Boccioni and Balla, as well as sculptures by Canova and major works by Modigliani, De Chirico and Guttuso. International artists represented include Van Gogh, Cézanne, Monet, Klimt, and Alberto Giacometti, whose trademark stick-figures share a room with a Jackson Pollock canvas, a curvaceous Henry Moore sculpture, and a hanging mobile by Alexander Calder.

PRACTICAL TIP

AVOID MONDAYS

Monday is not a good day to explore Villa Borghese. Sure, you can walk the park, but all of the museums and galleries are shut – they open Tuesday through Sunday.

---

1. Flaminio

AUDITORIUM PARCO DELLA MUSICA

Designed by archistar Renzo Piano and inaugurated in 2002, Rome's flagship cultural centre is an audacious work of architecture consisting of three grey pod-like concert halls set round a 3000-seat amphitheatre.

Excavations during its construction revealed remains of an ancient Roman villa, which are now on show in the Auditorium's small Museo Archeologico.

Guided tours (for a minimum of 10 people) depart hourly between 11.30am and 4.30pm Saturday and Sunday, and by arrangement from Monday to Friday.

MUSEO NAZIONALE DELLE ARTI DEL XXI SECOLO (MAXXI)

As much as the exhibitions, the highlight of Rome’s leading contemporary art gallery is the Zaha Hadid-designed building it occupies. Formerly a barracks, the curved concrete structure is striking inside and out with a multilayered geometric facade and a cavernous light-filled interior full of snaking walkways and suspended staircases.

The gallery has a small permanent collection but more interesting are the temporary exhibitions. In recent times these have included installations by avant-garde Chinese sculptor Hang Yong Ping and an exhibition of contemporary Iranian art.

PONTE MILVIO

A cobblestoned footbridge, Ponte Milvio is best known as the site of the ancient Battle of the Milvian Bridge. The bridge was first built in 109 BC to carry Via Flaminia over the Tiber and survived intact until 1849, when Garibaldi’s troops blew it up to stop advancing French soldiers. Pope Pius IX had it... rebuilt a year later.

On the northern end, the Torretta Valadier was formerly used to stage art exhibitions.

FORO ITALICO

At the foot of the heavily wooded Monte Mario, the Foro Italico is a grandiose Fascist-era sports complex, centred on the Stadio Olimpico, Rome’s 70,000-seat football stadium. Most people pass through en route to a football or rugby match, but if you’re interested in Fascist architecture, it’s worth a look.

Designed by the architect Enrico Del Debbio, it remains much as it was originally conceived. A 17m-high marble obelisk stands at the beginning of a broad avenue leading down to the Stadio dei Marmi, a running track surrounded by 60 marble nudes, and the Stadio Olimpico.

EXPLORA – MUSEO DEI BAMBINI DI ROMA

Rome’s only dedicated kids’ museum, Explora is aimed at the under-12s. It’s divided into thematic sections and has everything from a supermarket to a play pool and fire engine, it’s a hands-on, feet-on, full-on experience that your nippers will love. Outside there’s also a free play park open to all.

Booking is recommended.

THE BATTLE OF THE MILVIAN BRIDGE

Constantine’s defeat of Maxentius at the Battle of the Milvian Bridge on 28 October 312 is one of the most celebrated victories in Roman history.

The battle came as the culmination of a complex seven-year power struggle for control of the Western Roman Empire. Constantine and his vastly outnumbered army approached Rome from the north along Via Flaminia, meeting Maxentius’ forces on the northern bank of the Tiber. Fighting was short and bloody, leaving Maxentius dead, his army in tatters, and the path to Rome unopposed.

But while this is historically significant, the real reason for the battle’s mythical status is the Christian legend that surrounds it. According to the Roman historian Lactantius, Constantine dreamt a message telling him to paint a Christian symbol on his troops’ shields. A second historian, Eusebius, provides a more dramatic account, recounting how on the eve of the battle Constantine saw a cross in the sky, accompanied by the words, ‘In this sign, conquer.’ Whatever the case, the reality is that Constantine won a resounding victory and in so doing set the seeds for the spread of Christianity in the Roman world.

1 Salario

MUSEO D’ARTE CONTEMPORANEA DI ROMA (MACRO)

Along with MAXXI, this is Rome’s most important contemporary art gallery. Occupying a converted...
Peroni brewery, it hosts temporary exhibitions and displays works from its permanent collection of post-1960s Italian art.

Vying with the exhibits for your attention is the museum's sleek black-and-red interior design. The work of French architect Odile Decq, this retains much of the building's original structure while also incorporating a sophisticated steel-and-glass finish.

CATACOMBE DI PRISCILLA

Dug between the 2nd and 5th centuries, this network of creepy tunnels was known as the Queen of Catacombs. It was an important early Christian burial site and numerous martyrs and popes were buried in the tombs and chambers that line the 13km of tunnels.

Visits take in a decorated Greek chapel and a scratchy fresco of the Virgin Mary. Dating to around 230 AD, this is thought to be the oldest ever image of the Madonna.

VILLA ADA

Once the private property of King Vittorio Emanuele III, Villa Ada is a big rambling park with shady paths, lakes, lawns and woods. It's popular with locals and explodes into life in summer when outdoor concerts are staged during the Roma Incontro il Mondo festival.

QUARTIERE COPPEDÈ

Best entered from the corner of Via Tagliamento and Via Dora, the compact Quartiere Coppedè is a fairy-tale neighbourhood of Tuscan turrets, Liberty sculptures, Moorish arches, Gothic gargoyles, frescoed facades and palm-fringed gardens. The mind behind the madness belonged to the little-known Florentine architect, Gino Coppedè, who designed and built the quarter between 1913 and 1926.

At the heart of the district is the whimsical Fontana delle Rane (Fountain of the Frogs) , a modern take on the better known Fontana delle Tartarughe in the Jewish Ghetto.

1 Nomentano

Michelangelo's last architectural work, this crenellated structure was commissioned by Pope Pius IV to replace Porta Nomentana, one of the original gates in the Aurelian walls.

Bitter street fighting took place here in 1870 as Italian troops breached the adjacent walls to wrest the city from the pope and claim it for the nascent kingdom of Italy.

VILLA TORLONIA

Full of towering pine trees, atmospheric palms and scattered villas, this splendid 19th-century park once belonged to Prince Giovanni Torlonia (1756–1829), a powerful banker and landowner. His large neoclassical villa, Casino Nobile, later became the Mussolini family home (1925–43) and, in the latter part of WWII, Allied headquarters (1944–47). These days it houses an art museum.

MUSEI DI VILLA TORLONIA

Housed in three villas – Casino Nobile, Casina delle Civette and Casino dei Principi – this museum boasts an eclectic collection of sculpture, paintings, furnishings, and decorative stained glass.

The main ticket office is just inside the Via Nomentana entrance to Villa Torlonia.

Casino Nobile makes quite an impression. In the lavishly decorated interior you can admire the Torlonia family’s fine collection of classically inspired sculpture and early-20th-century paintings from the Scuola Romana (Roman School of Art).

To the northeast, the much smaller Casina delle Civette is a bizarre mix of Swiss cottage, Gothic castle and twee farmhouse decorated in art-nouveau style. Built between 1840 and 1930, it's now a museum dedicated to stained glass.

Casino dei Principi, which houses the archive of the Scuola Romana, stages temporary exhibitions.

BASILICA DI SANT’AGNESE FUORI LE MURA & MAUSOLEO DI SANTA COSTANZA

Although a bit of a hike, it’s well worth searching out this intriguing medieval church complex, comprising the Basilica di Sant'Agnese Fuori le Mura and the 4th-century Mausoleo di Santa Costanza, home to some of Christendom's earliest mosaics.

The current basilica, whose origins date to the 7th century BC, was built over the catacombs where St Agnes was buried. It has been much modified over the centuries but its golden apse mosaic, one of the best examples of Byzantine art in Rome, has survived intact. It shows St Agnes, flanked by popes Honorius and Symmachus, standing over the signs of her martyrhood – a sword and a flame.
According to tradition, the 13-year-old Agnes was sentenced to be burnt at the stake, but when the flames failed to kill her she was beheaded on Piazza Navona and buried beneath this church.

Up from the main basilica is the Mausoleo di Santa Costanza. This squat circular building has a dome supported by 12 pairs of granite columns and a vaulted ambulatory decorated with beautiful 4th-century mosaics.

GOING UNDERGROUND IN VILLA TORLONIA

VILLA TORLONIA BUNKER

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>VILLA TORLONIA BUNKER</th>
<th>HISTORIC SITE</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>(MAP GOOGLE MAP; 347 3811874; www.sotterraneidiroma.it; Villa Torlonia; guided tour €7, reservations obligatory; Via Nomentana)</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Beneath the greenery of Villa Torlonia lie reminders of a dark chapter in Rome's history. Between 1940 and 1943, Mussolini had two air raid shelters and an underground bunker built beneath what was, at the time, his family estate. Guided tours take you down into these bare underground chambers, complete with anti-gas doors and air filtration systems. The bunker, whose 4m-thick walls lie 6m below the Casino Nobile, was still being worked on when the Duce was arrested on 25 July 1943.
TOP SIGHT
MUSEO NAZIONALE ETRUSCO DI VILLA GIULIA

Pope Julius III’s 16th-century villa provides the charming setting for Italy’s finest collection of Etruscan and pre-Roman treasures. Exhibits, many of which came from tombs in the surrounding Lazio region, range from bronze figurines and black bucchero tableware to temple decorations, terracotta vases and dazzling jewellery.

Must-sees include a polychrome terracotta statue of Apollo, from the Etruscan town of Veio, just north of Rome, and the Euphronios Krater, a celebrated Greek vase that was returned to Italy in 2008 after a 30-year tug of war between the Italian government and New York’s Metropolitan Museum of Art. But perhaps the museum’s most famous piece is the 6th-century BC Sarcofago degli Sposi (Sarcophagus of the Betrothed). This astonishing work, originally unearthed in a tomb in Cerveteri, depicts a husband and wife reclining on a stone banqueting couch. And although called a sarcophagus, it was actually designed as an elaborate urn for the couple’s ashes.

Further finds relating to the pre-Roman Umbri and Latin peoples are on show in the nearby Villa Poniatowski (MAP; +06 321 96 98; www.villagiulia.beniculturali.it; Piazzale di Villa Giulia; incl Museo Nazional Etrusco di Villa Giulia adult/reduced €8/4; 8.30am-1.30pm Tue-Sat, booking necessary; Via delle Belle Arti). You'll need to book to enter here, with Sunday visits restricted to guided tours run by the Coop Arteingioco. Call 06 4423 9949 for details.

DON’T MISS

• Sarcofago degli Sposi
• Apollo di Veio
• Euphronios Krater

PRACTICALITIES

• MAP GOOGLE MAP
• www.villagiulia.beniculturali.it
• Piazzale di Villa Giulia
• adult/reduced €8/4
• 8.30am-7.30pm Tue-Sun
• Via delle Belle Arti
5 Villa Borghese & Around

SERENELLA

PIZZA€

( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Via Salaria 70; pizza slices from €1.50; h8am-10pm; v Via Salaria)

It's a bit out of the way, but this humble pizza takeaway makes for a top pit stop. It uses natural yeast in its pizza bases which come capped with a selection of imaginative toppings. For a cheap, easy-to-eat snack, the pizza bianca (plain white pizza) is excellent.

CINECAFFÈ

CAFE€

( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; www.cinecaffe.it; Casina delle Rose, Largo Marcello Mastroianni 1; meals €15-25; h8.30am-8.30pm; v Porta Pinciana)

Part of the Casa del Cinema complex, this modern cafe is one of the few places to get a decent bite in Villa Borghese. Stop by for a morning coffee or claim a table on the sunny deck and tuck into an ample lunch buffet (€15 for one plate, €25 for no-limits access).

CAFFÈ DELLE ARTI

CAFE, RISTORANTE€

( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; 06 3265 1236; www.caffedelleartiroma.com; Via Gramsci 73; meal €45; h12.30-3.30pm daily & 7.30-11pm Tue-Sun; p Piazza Thorvaldsen)

The cafe-restaurant of the Galleria Nazionale d'Arte Moderna sits in neoclassical splendour in a tranquil corner of Villa Borghese. An elegant venue, it's at its best on sultry summer evenings when you can sit on the terrace and revel in the romantic atmosphere over coffee, cocktails or an al fresco dinner of classic Italian cuisine.

LOCAL KNOWLEDGE

HIDDEN GELATO GEMS

This neck of Rome harbours some outstanding gelaterie. They're not the easiest to find, though, and unless you know where to look you're unlikely to stumble on them. A typical case in point is Neve di Latte ( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Via Poletti 6; gelato €2.50-5; hnoon-10pm Sun-Thu, to 11pm Fri & Sat), an innocuous looking place near MAXXI that serves some of the best classical ice creams in town. Over the river, Al Settimo Gelo ( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; www.alsettimogelo.it; Via Vodice 21a; gelato €2-5; h10-8pm Mon-Sat winter, to 11pm summer, 11.30am-2pm & 3.30-8pm Sun; p Piazza Giuseppe Mazzini) is another much-lauded gelateria, known for its creative flavours and use of natural ingredients.

5 Flaminio

BAR POMPI
This renowned pasticceria serves Rome's most celebrated tiramisu. Alongside the classic coffee, liqueur and cocoa combination, there are several other versions including strawberry, pistachio, and banana and chocolate.

IL GIANFORNAIO

This popular lunch spot is something of a Jack of all trades, serving a fantastic range of sweet and savoury snacks – think cornettos (croissants), home-baked biscuits and excellent pizza slices – as well as daily pasta and meat dishes.

PALLOTTA

An unpretentious spot with a shady garden, this landmark trattoria is good for traditional Roman pastas, uncomplicated grilled meats and classic, crispy pizzas. It's well known locally and can get busy, so it's best to book.

5 Salario

PASTICCERIA GRUÈ

One of many eateries on Viale Regina Margherita, this sleek pasticceria-cafe is a local hotspot – suits and sharply dressed office workers lunch here and evening sees the local aperitif crowd move in. But its real calling cards are the exquisitely designed pastries and chocolates that stare out from beneath the counter.

5 Parioli

METAMORFOSI

Since opening in 2011, chef Roy Carceres' Michelin-starred restaurant has established itself as one of Rome's top dining tickets, offering innovative, contemporary cuisine, impeccable service, and a chic but informal setting. Various tasting menus are available, including a three-course lunch option.

MOLTO

Fashionable and quietly glamorous, Molto is a Parioli favourite. The discreet entrance gives onto an elegant, modern interior and open-air terrace, while the menu offers everything from simple, homemade pastas to more decadent truffle-flavoured dishes and succulent roast meats.
6 DRINKING & NIGHTLIFE

MOMART
( GOOGLE MAP; www.momartcafe.it; Viale XXI Aprile 19; h:noon-2am Mon-Fri, 6pm-2am Sat & Sun; g Via XXI Aprile)
A spacious modern bar in the university district near Via Nomentana, Momart serves one of Rome's most popular aperitifs. A mixed crowd of students and local professionals flocks here to fill up on the pizza-led buffet and kick back over cocktails on the pavement terrace.

BRANCALEONE
( GOOGLE MAP; www.brancaleone.eu; Via Levanna 11; h:hours vary, typically 10.30pm-late; g Via Nomentana)
From its anti-establishment roots as a centro sociale (social centre), Brancaleone has grown to become one of Rome's top clubs, drawing blockbuster DJs and a young clubbing crowd. Rap, hip-hop, drum’n’bass, and electronica feature heavily, and there's a regular calendar of events and one-off evenings. The club is in the outlying Montesacro district.

LANIFICIO 159
( GOOGLE MAP; www.lanificio159.com; Via Pietralata 159a; h:hours vary, typically 11pm-4am; g Via Val Brembana)
Occupyng an ex-wool factory in Rome's northeastern suburbs, this cool underground venue hosts live gigs and hot clubbing action, led by top Roman crews and international DJs. The club is part of a larger complex that stages more reserved events such as Sunday markets, exhibitions and aperitifs.

CHIOSCHETTO DI PONTE MILVIO
( MAP GOOGLE MAP; Ponte Milvio 44; h:6pm-2am summer only; g Ponte Milvio)
A local landmark, this green kiosk next to the Ponte Milvio bridge is perennially popular with the young crowd from Rome's wealthy northern suburbs. It might look like a shack – it is a shack – but the mojitos are the business and it does an excellent thirst-quenching grattachecca (shaved ice flavoured with fruit syrup).

PIPER CLUB
( MAP GOOGLE MAP; www.piperclub.it; Via Tagliamento 9; h:11pm-5am Fri & Sat; g Viale Regina Margherita)
To Rome what Studio 54 was to New York, Piper has been a nightlife fixture for 50 years, and it just keeps on going. Fridays it hosts themed parties, everything from Latin nights to '90s house celebrations, while on Saturdays resident DJs drive the rhythms.
The hub of Rome's thriving cultural scene, the Auditorium is the capital's premier concert venue and one of Europe's most popular arts centres. Its three concert halls offer superb acoustics, and, together with a 3000-seat open-air arena, stage everything from classical-music concerts to jazz gigs, public lectures, and film screenings.

The Auditorium is also home to Rome's world-class Orchestra dell' Accademia Nazionale di Santa Cecilia (www.santacecilia.it).

The Teatro Olimpico is home to the Accademia Filarmonica Romana (www.filarmonicaromana.org), a classical-music organisation whose past members have included Rossini, Donizetti and Verdi. The theatre offers a varied program of classical and chamber music, opera, ballet, one-man shows and comedies.

In Villa Borghese, the Casa del Cinema comprises three projection halls, an exhibition space, and an outdoor theatre. It screens everything from documentaries to shorts, indie flicks and art-house classics (sometimes in their original language), and hosts a regular program of retrospectives and film-related events.

Like London’s Globe Theatre but with better weather, Villa Borghese's open-air Elizabethan theatre serves up Shakespeare (performances mostly in Italian) from July through to September.
Watching a game of football (or rugby) at Rome’s Stadio Olimpico (MAP GOOGLE MAP; 06 3685 7520; Viale dei Gladiatori 2, Foro Italico) is an unforgettable experience, although you’ll have to keep your wits about you as crowd trouble is not unheard of.

Throughout the football season (September to May) there’s a game most Sundays involving one of the city’s two teams: A.S. Roma (www.asroma.it), known as the giallorossi (yellow and reds), or Lazio (www.sslazio.it), the biancazzurri (white and blues). Tickets cost from about €16 depending on the match and can be bought at Lottomatica outlets, at the stadium, at ticket agencies, online (www.listicket.it) or at one of the several Roma or Lazio stores around town. The stadium also hosts Italy’s 6 Nations rugby matches between February and March.
LIBRERIA L’ARGONAUTA

This travel bookshop is a lovely place to browse. With its serene atmosphere and shelves of travel literature, guides, maps and photo tomes, it can easily spark daydreams of far-off places.

BULZONI

This historic wine shop has been supplying Parioli with wine since 1929. It has a formidable collection of Italian regional wines, as well as European and New World labels, and a carefully curated selection of champagnes, liqueurs, olive oils and gourmet delicacies.

BAGHEERA

This modish boutique has long been a local go-to for the latest fashions. Alongside sandals and vampish high heels you'll find dresses by Dries Van Noten and a selection of bags and accessories by big-name international designers.

ANTICAGLIE A PONTE MILVIO

The 2nd-century-BC Ponte Milvio forms the backdrop to this monthly antique market. On the first and second Sunday of every month up to 200 stalls spring up on the riverbank laden with antiques, objets d'art, vintage clothes, period furniture and all manner of collectable clobber.
Southern Rome

Sights

Eating

Drinking & Nightlife

Entertainment
Southern Rome

Neighbourhood Top Five

1. Walking or cycling along the Via Appia Antica, tracing the route of a thousand ancient Roman footsteps.

2. Exploring Rome’s Christian burial catacombs, such as the Catacombe di San Sebastiano.

3. Checking out the colourful, edgy street art in Ostiense.

4. Wandering around the ingenious location for the overflow from the Capitoline Museums: Centrale Montemartini.

5. Feeling dwarfed by the majesty of Basilica de San Paolo Fuori Le Mura.

Explore Southern Rome

Southern Rome is a sprawling neighbourhood that comprises four distinct areas of interest to tourists: Via Appia Antica, famous for its catacombs; hip, post-industrial, street-art-covered Via Ostiense; picturesque Garbatella; and EUR, Mussolini’s futuristic building development. It’s all quite spread out, but public transport connections are good.

Heading southeast from Porta San Sebastiano, Via Appia Antica (the Appian Way) is one of the world’s oldest roads and a much-prized Roman address. It’s a beautiful part of town, with crumbling ruins set amid pea-green fields and towering umbrella pines.

To the west, Via Ostiense presents a very different picture. Desolate-looking disused factories and warehouses surprisingly harbour restaurants, pubs, clubs and bars, and the huge Eataly, a restaurant and Italian foodstuffs complex. Planned redevelopments for the ex-Mercati Generali as a 'City of Youth' – comprising leisure, cultural and office space and designed by Rem Koolhaas – have started but stalled.

Ostiense also harbours a couple of gem-like sights: Centrale Montemartini, a disused power plant housing superb classical statuary, and Basilica di San Paolo fuori le Mura, the world’s third-largest church. The area also has some of Rome's best street art, with entire buildings covered in rainbows of colour. Nearby, the character-filled Garbatella district merits exploration for its original architecture, while further south, EUR was built by Mussolini as a showcase for his Fascist regime, a fascinating, Orwellian quarter of wide boulevards and linear buildings.

---

Local Life

Eating Pick up some delicious pastries at Andreotti or sampling the virtuoso pizza at Pizza Ostiense.

Clubbing Some of Rome’s coolest clubs are clustered around Via Ostiense.

Cycling Escape from the frenetic city centre along the beautiful Appian Way.

---

Getting There & Away

Metro Metro line B runs to Piramide, Garbatella, Basilica San Paolo, EUR Palasport and EUR Fermi.

Bus There are bus connections to Porta San Sebastiano (118, 218 and 714), Via Ostiense (23 and 716) and Via Appia Antica (118).
Lonely Planet’s Top Tip

On Sunday, the first section of Appia Antica is supposedly traffic free, but in recent years this has not been enforced. The first section, stretching 1km from Porta San Sebastiano, is not at all pleasant to walk along, even on supposedly 'traffic free' days. It's best to take bus 118 to the Basilica of San Sebastiano, close to the genuinely traffic-free section.

Best Places to Eat

- Trattoria Priscilla
- Qui Non se More Mai
- Il Giardino di Giulia e Fratelli
- Andreotti
- Pizza Ostiense

Best Places to Drink

- Porto Fluviale
- Doppiozeroo
- Neo Club
- Goa

Best Entertainment

- La Casa del Jazz
- Caffè Letterario
- Goa
- Piscina delle Rose
Heading southeast from Porta San Sebastiano, the Appian Way was known to the Romans as the regina viarum (queen of roads). Named after Appius Claudius Caecus, who laid the first 90km section in 312 BC, it was extended in 190 BC to reach Brindisi, some 540km away on the southern Adriatic coast.

Via Appia Antica has long been one of Rome’s most exclusive addresses, a beautiful cobbledstoned thoroughfare flanked by grassy fields, Roman structures and towering pine trees. Most splendid of the ancient houses was Villa dei Quintilli – so desirable that emperor Commodus murdered its owners and took it for himself.

The Appia Antica, peaceful today, resounds with history: it’s where Spartacus and 6000 of his slave rebels were crucified in 71 BC, and around it lie 300km of underground tunnels that were carved out of soft tufa rock, and used as burial chambers by the early Christians. Corpses were wrapped in simple white sheets and usually placed in rectangular niches carved into the walls, which were then closed with marble or terracotta slabs. You can’t visit all 300km, but three major catacombs (San Callisto, San Sebastian and Santa Domitilla) are open for guided exploration.

If you’re planning on really doing the sights, think about buying the Appia Antica Card. Near the start of the road, the Appia Antica Regional Park Information Point is very informative. You can buy a map of the park here and hire bikes. To be sure of a bike, arrive early, as they run out quickly. Child-sized bikes aren't available, but child seats (up to 20kg) are; book these in advance as there are not many available. The park runs tours on foot/by bike (€8/12) in English, Spanish and German, which have to be booked by email in advance.
DON’T MISS…

- The catacombs
- Cycling along the Appia
- Villa dei Quintilli

PRACTICALITIES

- Appian Way
- Map
- Google Map
- 06 513 53 16
- www.parcoappiaantica.it
- Bike hire hr/day €3/15
- Info Point 9.30am-1pm & 2-5.30pm Mon-Fri, 9.30am-6.30pm Sat & Sun, to 5pm winter
- Via Appia Antica
The most famous of the catacombs, these contain frescoes, stucco work, epigraphs and several immaculately preserved mausoleums. The catacombs extend for more than 12km and are divided into three levels: 3m, 9m and 12m deep. They once harboured more than 65,000 tombs.

Basilica
The 4th-century basilica (MAP GOOGLE MAP; Via Appia Antica 136; h 8am-1pm & 2-5.30pm; g Via Appia Antica) that was built here by Emperor Constantine was mostly destroyed by Saracen raids in the 9th century, and the church you see today mainly dates from the reconstruction initiated by Cardinal Borghese in the 17th century. It is dedicated to St Sebastian, who was martyred and buried here in the late 3rd century. In 826 his body was transferred to St Peter's for safekeeping, but he was re-interred here in the 12th century. In the Capella delle Reliquie you’ll find one of the arrows used to kill him and the column to which he was tied. On the other side of the church is a marble slab with Jesus’ footprints.

Catacombs
A warren of tunnels that lie beneath the church and beyond, the Catacombe di San Sebastiano were the first catacombs to be so called, the name deriving from the Greek kata (near) and kymbas (cavity), because they were located near a cave. During the persecution of Christians by the emperor Vespasian from AD 258, it's believed that the catacombs were used as a safe haven for the remains of St Peter and St Paul and became a popular pilgrimage site. A plastered wall is covered with hundreds of invocations, engraved by worshippers in the 3rd and 4th centuries, featuring personalised entreaties such as 'Peter and Paul, pray for Victor'. However, it may be the case that the remains were never kept here, and the catacombs simply served as a focus for worship during those difficult times.

Mausoleums
Within the catacombs there are three beautifully preserved, decorated mausoleums. Each of the monumental facades feature a door, above which are inscribed symbols and the names of the owners. The first mausoleum belonged to Marcus Clodius Ermete, while the second one is named 'of the innocentiores', which is thought to have been the name of an association. During the 3rd century the area was filled in to build a place of pilgrimage where visitors could come to honour St Peter and St Paul, which is why the delicate stucco has remained so immaculately well-preserved.
DON’T MISS…

- Graffiti to St Peter and St Paul
- Mausoleums
- Basilica di San Sebastiano

PRACTICALITIES

- MAP  GOOGLE MAP
- 06 785 03 50
- www.catacombe.org
- Via Appia Antica 136
- adult/reduced €8/5
- 10am-5pm Mon-Sat, closed Dec
- Via Appia Antica
The awe-inspiring Appian Way stretches south of Rome, dotted by Roman ruins above and riddled with catacombs below.
The world’s third-largest church and the biggest in Rome after St Peter’s, this magnificent basilica stands on the site where St Paul was buried after being decapitated in AD 67. Built by Constantine in the 4th century, it was largely destroyed by fire in 1823.

Much of what you see today is a 19th-century reconstruction, which remained as faithful as possible to the original building. However, not everything was decimated in the fire; many treasures survived, including the 5th-century triumphal arch, with its heavily restored mosaics, and the Gothic marble tabernacle over the high altar. Arnolfo di Cambio designed this around 1285, together with another artist, possibly Pietro Cavallini.

Doom-mongers should check out the papal portraits beneath the nave windows. Every pope since St Peter is represented and legend has it that when there is no room for the next portrait, the world will fall.

The stunning 13th-century Cosmati mosaic work in the cloisters of the adjacent Benedictine abbey also survived the 1823 fire, and is well worth a visit. Here, unusually, the mosaic work decorated the spiralled, twisted and straight columns.

DON’T MISS…
- 5th-century triumphal arch and mosaics
- Papal portraits
- Cloister

PRACTICALITIES
- MAP
- GOOGLE MAP
- www.abbaziasanpaolo.net
- Via Ostiense 190
- Cloisters €4, archaeological walk €4, audioguide €5
- h7am-6.30pm
- San Paolo

The outstanding feature of Maxentius’ enormous 4th-century palace complex is the Circo di Massenzio, Rome’s best-preserved ancient racetrack – you can still make out the starting stalls used for chariot races. The 10,000-seat arena was built by Maxentius around 309, but he died before ever seeing a race here.

Above the arena are the ruins of Maxentius’ imperial residence. Near the racetrack, the Mausoleo di Romolo (Tombo di Romolo; MAP GOOGLE MAP ; Via Appia Antica 153; g Via Appia Antica) was built by Maxentius for his 17-year-old son Romulus. The huge mausoleum was originally crowned with a large dome and surrounded by an imposing colonnade, in part still visible. The Torlonia family extended the tomb, turning it into a country house.

MAUSOLEO DI CECILIA METELLA
(MAP GOOGLE MAP; % 06 3996 7700; www.coopculture.it; Via Appia Antica 161; adult/reduced incl Terme di Caracalla & Villa dei Quintili €7/4; h 9am-1hr before sunset Tue-Sun; g Via Appia Antica)

Dating to the 1st century BC, this great drum of a mausoleum encloses a burial chamber, now roofless. In the 14th century it was converted into a fort by the Caetani family, who were related to Pope Boniface VIII, and used to frighten passing traffic into paying a toll.

The tomb was built for the daughter of the consul Quintus Metellus Creticus. Cecilia Metella was of particular significance as she joined two important families by marriage – she was also daughter-in-law of Crassus, Julius Caesar's banker. The walls are made of travertine and the interior is decorated with a sculpted frieze featuring Gaelic shields, ox skulls and festoons.

CAPO DI BOVE
(GOOGLE MAP; % 06 7839 2729; Via Appia Antica 222; h 9am-1.30pm & 2.30-5pm Mon-Sat)

Discovered when excavating the grounds of a private villa to build a swimming pool, the remains of this Roman villa give a sense of how a gracious ancient Roman life was lived, with mosaics and the remains of its private bath house, set amid the countryside of the Appia Antica Regional Park.

VILLA DEI QUINTILI
(GOOGLE MAP; % 06 3996 7700; www.coopculture.it; Via Appia Nuova 1092; adult/reduced incl Terme di Caracalla & Mausoleo di Cecilia Metella €7/4; h 9am-1hr before sunset Tue-Sun; g Via Appia Antica)

Towering over green fields, this 2nd-century villa is one of Rome's unsung splendours. It was the luxurious abode of two consuls, the Quintili brothers, but its splendour was their downfall. The emperor Commodus had them both killed, taking over the villa for himself. You may now enter the complex from the Via Appia entrance (previously its only entrance was from Via Appia Nuova), making it much more accessible.

The emperor added to the complex and the ruins are fabulously impressive. The highlight is the well-preserved baths complex with a pool, caldarium (hot room) and frigidarium (cold room). There's an interesting small museum.

CATACOMBE DI SAN CALLISTO
(MAP GOOGLE MAP; % 06 513 01 51; www.catacombe.roma.it; Via Appia Antica 110 & 126; adult/reduced €8/5; h 9am-noon & 2-5pm, closed Wed & Feb; g Via Appia Antica)
These are the largest and busiest of Rome’s catacombs. Founded at the end of the 2nd century and named after Pope Calixtus I, they became the official cemetery of the newly established Roman Church. In the 20km of tunnels explored to date, archaeologists have found the tombs of 500,000 people and seven popes who were martyred in the 3rd century.

The patron saint of music, St Cecilia, was also buried here, though her body was later removed to the Basilica di Santa Cecilia in Trastevere. When her body was exhumed in 1599, more than a thousand years after her death, it was apparently perfectly preserved, as depicted in Stefano Maderno’s softly contoured sculpture, a replica of which is here.

Mausoleo delle Fosse Ardeatine

This moving mausoleum is dedicated to the victims of Rome’s worst WWII atrocity. Buried here, outside the Ardeatine Caves, are 335 Italians shot by the Nazis on 24 March 1944. Following the massacre, ordered in reprisal for a partisan attack, the Germans used mines to explode sections of the caves and bury the bodies. After the war, the bodies were exhumed, identified and reburied in a mass grave, now marked by a huge concrete slab and sculptures.

The site also has a tiny museum dedicated to the Italian Resistance (doors close 15 minutes before the rest of the site).

Catacombe di Santa Domitilla

Among Rome’s largest and oldest, these wonderful catacombs stretch for about 18km. They were established on the private burial ground of Flavia Domitilla, niece of the emperor Domitian and a member of the wealthy Flavian family. They contain Christian wall paintings and the haunting underground Chiesa di SS Nereus e Achilleus, a 4th-century church dedicated to two Roman soldiers martyred by Diocletian.

Chiesa del Domine Quo Vadis?

This pint-sized church marks the spot where St Peter, fleeing Rome, met a vision of Jesus going the other way. When Peter asked: ‘Domine, quo vadis?’ (Lord, where are you going?), Jesus replied, ‘Venio Roman iterum crucifigi’ (I am coming to Rome to be crucified again). Reluctantly deciding to join him, Peter tramped back into town where he was arrested and executed.

In the aisle are copies of Christ’s footprints; the originals are in the Basilica di San Sebastiano.

Museo delle Mura

This small museum has an excellent collection of Roman wall paintings and mosaics. Many are replications of Roman originals, others are better than the originals. One room shows how the paintings would have been viewed in an underground tomb. There’s an excellent video presentation of the Forum and another on the Colosseum. The last room displays Roman mosaics in their original context. The museum is very crowded at times, so go early and book a guided tour if possible.

Monument:

Museum:

Church:

Catacomb:
Marking the start of Via Appia Antica, the 5th-century Porta San Sebastiano is the largest of the gates in the Aurelian Wall. During WWII the Fascist Party secretary Ettore Muti lived here; today it houses the modest Museo delle Mure, which offers the chance to walk along the top of the walls for around 50m as well as displaying the history of the city's fortifications.

The gate was originally known as Porta Appia but took on its current name in honour of the thousands of pilgrims who passed under it on their way to the Catacombe di San Sebastiano.

1 Ostiense, San Paolo & Garbatella

Heading south from Stazione Roma-Ostia, the gritty Via Ostiense encompasses clubs in converted warehouses and a couple of notable sights. Street-art fans are in for a treat, particularly on Via del Porto Fluviale.

CAPITOLINE MUSEUMS AT CENTRALE MONTEMARTINI

Housed in a former power station, this fabulous outpost of the Capitoline Museums (Musei Capitolini) boldly juxtaposes classical sculpture against diesel engines and giant furnaces. The collection’s highlights are in the Sala Caldaia, where ancient statuary strike poses around the giant furnace. Beautiful pieces include Fanciulla Seduta (Seated Girl) and Musa Polimnia (Muse Polyhymnia), and there are also some exquisite Roman mosaics, depicting favourite subjects such as hunting scenes and foodstuffs.

QUARTIERE GARBATELLA

A favourite location for TV and film-makers, Quartiere Garbatella was originally conceived as a workers’ residential quarter, but in the 1920s the Fascists hijacked the project and used the area to house people who’d been displaced by construction work in the city. Many people were moved into alberghi suburbani (suburban hotels), big housing blocks designed by Innocenzo Sabbatini, the leading light of the ‘Roman School’ of architecture. The most famous, Albergo Rosso (MAP GOOGLE MAP; Piazza Michele da Carbonara), is typical of the style. Other trademark buildings are the Scuola Cesare Battisti (MAP GOOGLE MAP; Piazza Damiano Sauli) on Piazza Damiano Sauli and Teatro Palladium on Piazza Bartolomeo Romano.
OSTIENSE STREET ART

Rome's street-art scene has exploded in recent years, with many of Rome's less picturesque suburbs given a burst of colour via some astounding, mammoth murals. Rome's tourist kiosks are even offering a free street-art map to help you explore, and different street-art itineraries for various areas are available online at www.turismoroma.it.

The ex-industrial units and alternative culture of Ostiense have created an ideal marriage between edgy street artists and grey wallspace in need of some colour. With over 30 works, this area is one of the best parts of Rome to wander and enjoy the outdoor gallery.

Rome's annual Outdoor Festival was the source of many works, while others were supported by the gallery 999 Contemporary (www.999gallery.com), which has a detailed map of works in Ostiense online at www.ostiensedistrict.it.

Highlights include the murals on a former military warehouse (MAP GOOGLE MAP; Via del Porto Fluviale), where the entire building is covered in a rainbow of sinister faces, incorporating the building's 48 arched windows as eyes. These apparently represent the evils of homelessness, on a building that has been a long-term squat. A fantastical mural on the side of the building shows a boat topped by cranes and robots. These are all the work of Italian artist Blu (www.blublu.org), from Bologna, who completed the works in 2014.

Another place to look out for (but mind the traffic as you explore) is the underpass on Via delle Conce, with works by artists Lucamaleonte and Gaucholadri, among others. Further up Via Ostiense, near Centrale Montmartini, is another work by Blu depicting interlocking yellow cars that covers the entire facade of the social centre, Alexis (MAP GOOGLE MAP; Via Ostiense 122). The centre is named for Alexis Grigoropoulos, the 15-year-old student who was killed, allegedly by a police bullet, during demonstrations in Greece in 2008 – the mural incorporates his portrait and the date of his death.

Other areas to look out for some great street art include Pigneto, San Basilio, San Lorenzo and Testaccio.

WORTH A DETOUR

ROMAN UNIVERSAL EXHIBITION (EUR)

One of the few planned developments in Rome’s history, EUR was built for an international exhibition in 1942. Although war intervened and the exhibition never took place, the name stuck – Esposizione Universale di Roma (Roman Universal Exhibition) or EUR. There are a few museums but the area’s interest lies in its spectacular rationalist architecture. It’s unique, if not on a particularly human scale, and the style is beautifully expressed in a number of distinctive palazzi, including the iconic Palazzo della Civiltà del Lavoro (Palace of the Workers; GOOGLE MAP; Quadrato della Concordia; mEUR Magliana), dubbed the Square Colosseum. The Palace of the Workers is EUR's architectural icon, a rationalist masterpiece clad in gleaming white travertine. Designed by Giovanni Guerrini, Ernesto Bruno La Padula and Mario Romano, and built between 1938 and 1943, it consists of six rows of nine arches, rising to a height of 50m. It's recently become Fendi's headquarters.

Elsewhere, other monumental architecture includes the Chiesa Santi Pietro e Paolo (GOOGLE MAP; Piazzale Santi Pietro e Paolo), the Palazzetto dello Sport (Palalottomatica) (GOOGLE MAP; Piazzale dello Sport) and the wonderful Palazzo dei Congressi (GOOGLE MAP; Piazza JF Kennedy). Massimiliano Fuksas’ cutting-edge Nuvola (‘cloud’) congress centre is the most recent dramatic architectural addition to the area, but work has stalled, due to lack of funding.

The Museo della Civiltà Romana (GOOGLE MAP; §06 06 08; Piazza G Agnelli 10; hclosed for renovations; mEUR Fermi) covers Roman history, and was founded by Mussolini in 1937 to glorify imperial Rome. Children will enjoy the models and weapons. It adjoins the Museo Astronomico & Planetario (GOOGLE MAP; §06 06 08; www.planetarioroma.it; hclosed for renovation), show in Italian. Both were being renovated at the time of research, but were expected to reopen in 2016.

Also in EUR is Rome's largest public swimming pool, Piscina delle Rose (GOOGLE MAP; §06 5422 0333; www.piscinadellerose.it; Viale America 20; admission before/after 1pm €16/14, 3hr Mon-Fri €10, under 10yr free; h10am-10pm Mon-Fri, 9am-7pm Sat & Sun mid-May–Sep; mEUR Palasport). It gets crowded, so arrive early to grab a deck chair.
5 EATING

The increasingly fashionable southern neighbourhoods of Ostiense and Garbatella feature some excellent restaurants, including those in Ostiense's Eataly complex. You can also eat well in a rural setting close to Via Appia Antica.

5 Via Appia Antica

TRATTORIA PRISCILLA

TRATTORIA€€

( MAP GOOGLE MAP; % 06 513 63 79; Via Appia Antica 68; meals €30; h 1-3pm daily, 8-11pm Mon-Sat; g Via Appia Antica)

Set in a 16th-century former stable, this intimate family-run trattoria has been feeding hungry travellers along the Appian Way for more than a hundred years, serving up traditional cucina Romana, so think carbonara, amatriciana (bacon and tomato sauce) and cacio e pepe (cheese and pepper). The tiramisu wins plaudits.

QUI NON SE MORE MAI

ITALIAN€€

( MAP GOOGLE MAP; % 06 780 3922; Via Appia Antica 198; meals around €40; h 12.30-3pm & 6.30-11.30pm Tue-Sat; g Via Appia Antica)

This small, charismatically rustic restaurant has an open fire for grilling, plus a small terrace for when the weather's good. The menu offers Roman classics such as pasta amatriciana, carbonara, alla gricia (with pig’s cheek), cacio e pepe, and so on. Just the thing to set you up for the road ahead.

IL GIARDINO DI GIULIA E FRATELLI

ITALIAN€€

( MAP GOOGLE MAP; % 347 5092772; Via Appia Antica 176; meals €25-30; h noon-3pm & 7-11.30pm Tue-Sat; g Via Appia Antica)

Almost opposite the tomb of Cecilia Metella, this is lovely, especially when the weather is good, as there's seating out in the garden, as well as inside with greenery-filled views. It's ideal for lunch or aperitivo, and a particularly good family choice. There's a simple menu of mains such as lasagne or meatballs.

5 Ostiense, San Paolo & Garbatella

PIZZA OSTIENSE

PIZZA€

( MAP GOOGLE MAP; Via Ostiense 56; h 6.30pm-1am; m Pyramide)

Run by folk formerly of the much-lauded classic Roman pizzeria Remo, in Testaccio, Pizza Ostiense offers similarly paper-thin, crispy bases and delicious fresh toppings and scrumptious fritti (fried things) in unfussy surroundings, with a friendly vibe.
Film director and Ostiense local Ferzan Ozpetek is such a fan of the pastries here he's been known to cast them in his films. They're all stars, from the buttery crostate (tarts) to the piles of golden sfogliatelle romane (ricotta-filled pastries). You can also eat a cheap lunch or dinner here from the tasty tavola calda (hot table), with pasta dishes ringing in at €5.

Eataly is an enormous, mall-like complex, a glittering, gleaming, somewhat confusing department store, entirely devoted to Italian food. As well as foodstuffs from all over the country, books, and cookery implements, the store is also home to 19 cafes and restaurants, including excellent pizzas, pasta dishes, ice cream and more.

A hip, buzzing restaurant in the industrial-chic vein, Porto Fluviale is a great space and a good place to go with families: it's lively, spacious and good value, offering pasta, pizza and cicchetti (tapas-style appetisers, such as artichoke and ham bruschetta) that are served until late.
DRINKING & NIGHTLIFE

The ex-industrial area of Ostiense is fertile clubbing land, with its many warehouses, workshops and factories given a new lease of life as pockets of nightlife nirvana. This is where Rome’s serious clubbers lose countless hours worshipping at the shrines of electro, nu-house, nu-funk and all sorts of other eclectica.

DOPPIOZEROO

BAR

This easygoing bar was once a bakery, hence the name (‘double zero’ is a type of flour). But today the sleek, modern interior attracts hungry, trendy Romans like bees to honey, especially for the cheap lunches (primo/secondo €4.50/€6.50) and famously lavish, dinnertastic aperitivo between 6pm and 9pm.

PORTO FLUVIALE

BAR

A large bar in a converted factory, this has an ex-industrial look – dark-green walls and a brickwork floor – and is a relaxing, appealing place for morning coffee, aperitivo or an evening drink to a soundtrack of plinky jazz. In line with Rome's current love of artisanal brews, it serves its own Porto Fluviale craft beer (medium €5.50).

GOA

CLUB

Goa is Rome's serious super-club, with international names, ethnic-styling, a fashion-forward crowd, podium dancers and heavies on the door.

NEO CLUB

CLUB

This small, dark two-level club has an underground feel and is one of the funkiest choices in the zone, featuring a dancetastic mish-mash of breakbeat, techno and old-skool house.

LA SAPONERIA

CLUB

Formerly a soap factory, nowadays La Saponeria is a cool space that's all exposed brick and white walls and brain-twisting light shows. It lathers up the punters with guest DJs spinning everything from nu-house to nu-funk, minimal techno, dance, hip-hop and 1950s retro.

RASHOMON

CLUB

Rashomon is sweaty, not posey, and where to head when you want to dance your ass off. Shake it to a music-lovers’ feast of the sound of the underground, especially house, techno and electronica.
FILM STUDIOS

WORTH A DETOUR
CINECITTÀ, CINEMA CITY

CINECITTÀ FILM STUDIOS (06 88816182; cinecittastudios.it; Via Tuscolana 1055; adult/child €20/10 set tours (Italian/English) & exhibitions; 9.30am-7pm Wed-Mon; Ciné Città)

Italy’s foremost film studio, was founded in 1937 by Mussolini, and used for many iconic Italian and international films. It's now possible to take a tour of the studios, where you get to visit several impressive sets, including 1500s Florence and ancient Rome, and there are interesting exhibitions, one dedicated to the work of Fellini, and another exploring the history of the studios, with some hands-on exhibits, and, most excitingly, an American submarine set.

Originally intended by Mussolini to turn out propaganda pictures, the studios were used during WWII variously as a refugee camp and hospital, but post war they went from strength to strength. In the 1950s many major Hollywood films were made here, including Cleopatra, and Rome became nicknamed Hollywood on the Tiber. This was also to become Fellini’s stomping ground – he even had a bedroom here – and La Dolce Vita was filmed in Theatre 5, within which the director re-created Via Veneto.

Later, spaghetti westerns dominated the schedule, as directors such as Sergio Leone directed films such as A Fistful of Dollars and The Good, the Bad & the Ugly. Recent blockbusters to have been made here include Ben Hur and Zoolander 2.
3 ENTERTAINMENT

LA CASA DEL JAZZ
( MAP GOOGLE MAP; %06 70 47 31; www.casajazz.it; Viale di Porta Ardeatina 55; admission varies; h gigs around 8-9pm; m Piramide)
In the middle of a 2500-sq-m park in the southern suburbs, the Casa del Jazz is housed in a three-storey 1920s villa that once belonged to a Mafia boss. When he was caught, the Comune di Roma (Rome Council) converted it into a jazz-fuelled complex, with a 150-seat auditorium, rehearsal rooms, a café and a restaurant. Some events are free.

CAFFÈ LETTERARIO
( MAP GOOGLE MAP; %06 5730 2842, 340 3067460; www.caffeletterarioroma.it; Via Ostiense 83, 95; h 10am-2am Tue-Fri, 4pm-2am Sat & Sun; g Via Ostiense)
Caffè Letterario is an intellectual hang-out housed in the funky converted, post-industrial space of a former garage. It combines designer looks, a bookshop, a gallery, performance space and a lounge bar. There are regular gigs from 10pm to midnight, ranging from soul and jazz to Indian dance.

XS LIVE
( MAP GOOGLE MAP; %06 5730 5102; www.xsliveroma.com; Via Libetta 13; h 11.30pm-4am Thu-Sun Sep-May; m Garbatella)
A rocking live music and club venue, hosting regular gigs. Big names playing here in recent times range from Peter Doherty to Jefferson Starship, and club nights range from Cool Britannia—themed trips to '80s odysseys.

TEATRO INDIA
( MAP GOOGLE MAP; %06 8400 0311; www.teatrodiroma.net; Lungotevere dei Papareschi; tickets €10-30; g Via Enrico Fermi)
Inaugurated in 1999 in the post-industrial landscape of Rome’s southern suburbs, the India is the younger sister of Teatro Argentina. It’s a stark modern space in a converted industrial building, a fitting setting for its cutting-edge program, with a calendar of international and Italian works.
Roman Catacombs

Ancient Roman law forbade burying the dead within the city walls, for reasons of hygiene. Rome’s persecuted Christian community didn’t have their own cemeteries, so in the 2nd century AD they began to build an extensive network of subterranean burial grounds outside the city.

The tombs were dug by specialised gravediggers, who tunnelled out the galleries. Bodies were wrapped in simple shrouds and then either placed individually in carved-out niches, called loculi, or in larger family tombs. Many tombs were marked with elaborate decorations, from frescoes to stucco work, which remain remarkably well preserved. A great many tombs discovered here bear touching inscriptions, such as the following: ‘Apuleia Crysopolis, who lived for 7 years, 2 months; (her) parents made (this) for their dearest daughter’.

Symbolism

An almost secretive language of symbols had evolved to represent elements of the Christian faith. Since many early Christians could not read and write, these symbols served as both a secret code and a means to communicate among the illiterate. The most common of the symbols include the fish, the Greek word for which is ichthys, standing for Iesous Christos Theou Yios Soter (Jesus Christ, son of God, Saviour). The anchor, which also appears regularly, symbolises the belief in Christ as a safe haven, a comforting thought in times of persecution. It’s thought, too, that this was again an example of Greek wordplay: ankura resembling en kuriol, which means ‘in the Lord’. A dove with an olive branch in the beak is a reference to the biblical dove, meaning salvation.
Abandonment

The catacombs began to be abandoned as early as 313, when Constantine issued the Milan decree of religious tolerance and Christians were thus able to bury their dead in churchyards.

In about 800, after frequent incursions by invaders, the bodies of the martyrs and first popes were transferred to the basilicas inside the city walls for safe keeping. The catacombs were abandoned and by the Middle Ages many had been forgotten.

Since the 19th century, more than 30 catacombs have been uncovered in the area. The warren of tunnels are fascinating to explore, and sections of three sets of catacombs are accessible via guided tour. Unless you’re passionate about catacombs, visiting one set will be sufficient.
TOP 5 CATACOMB READS

- The Roman Catacombs, by James Spencer Northcote (1859)
- Tombs and Catacombs of the Appian Way: History of Cremation, by Olinto L Spadoni (1892)
- Valeria, the Martyr of the Catacombs, by WH Withrow (1892)
Ostia Antica
Wander through complete streets, gape at ancient toilets, and clamber over an amphitheatre at the ancient port of Ostia Antica, Rome's very own Pompeii.

Tivoli
A hilltop town home to two Unesco World Heritage sites: Villa Adriana, the emperor Hadrian's colossal country estate, and Villa d’Este, famous for its landscaped gardens and lavish fountains.

Castelli Romani
A pretty pocket of verdant hills south of Rome, the Colli Albani (Alban Hills) and their 13 towns have long provided a green escape for overheated Romans.

Cerveteri
The evocative tombs and archaeological treasures of this once important Etruscan city provide a window into a mysterious ancient world.

Orvieto
Home to one of Italy's most awe-inspiring Gothic cathedrals, this hilltop Umbrian town makes for a rewarding day trip.
Ostia Antica

Explore
Half a day or more would be ideal to explore the impressive remains of Ostia Antica. This ancient Roman city was a busy working port, and its extensive ruins are substantial and well preserved. Most of the headline sights are situated on or near the main drag, the Decumanus Maximus, which runs for more than a kilometre from the main entrance (Porta Romana) to Porta Marina, the city gate that originally led to the sea.

The site gets busy at weekends, but is much quieter during the week.

The Best…
A Sight Terme di Nettuno
A Place to Eat Ristorante Monumento

Top Tip
Bring a picnic or time your visit so that you can eat at a restaurant as the on-site canteen gets extremely busy.

Getting There & Away
A Car Take Via del Mare, parallel to Via Ostiense, and follow signs for the scavi (ruins).
A Train Take the Ostia Lido train from Stazione Porta San Paolo (next to Piramide metro station) and get off at Ostia Antica. Trains leave approximately every 15 minutes and the trip, which is covered by a standard Rome public-transport ticket, takes 25 minutes. On arrival, walk over the pedestrian bridge and continue until you see the castle to your right and the ruins straight ahead.

Need to Know
A Location 25km southwest of Rome
First settled in the 4th century BC, Ostia (the name means the mouth or ostium of the Tiber) grew to become a great port and an important commercial centre with a population of around 50,000.

Decline set in after the fall of the Roman Empire, and by the 9th century the city had largely been abandoned, its citizens driven off by barbarian raids and outbreaks of malaria. Over subsequent centuries, it was plundered of marble and building materials and its ruins were gradually buried in river silt, hence their survival.

SCAVI ARCHEOLOGICI DI OSTIA ANTICA

(06 5635 0215; www.ostiaantica.beniculturali.it; Viale dei Romagnoli 717; adult/reduced €10/6; h 8.30am-6.15pm Tue-Sun summer, earlier closing winter)

An easy train ride from Rome, Ostia Antica is one of Italy's most under-appreciated archaeological sites. The ruins of ancient Rome's main seaport are spread out and you'll need a few hours to do them justice. Highlights include the Terme di Nettuno (Baths of Neptune), a steeply stacked amphitheatre, and an ancient cafe, complete with bar and traces of the original menu frescoed on the wall.

Note that the site gets busy at weekends, but is much quieter on weekdays.

Near the entrance, Porta Romana gives onto the Decumanus Maximus, the site's central strip, which runs over 1km to Porta Marina, the city's original sea-facing gate.

On the Decumanus, the Terme di Nettuno is a must-see. This baths complex, one of 20 that originally stood in town, dates to the 2nd century and boasts some superb mosaics, including one of Neptune driving his sea-horse chariot. In the centre of the complex are the remains of an arcaded Palestra (gym).

Next to the Terme is the Teatro, an amphitheatre built by Agrippa and later enlarged to hold 4000 people.

The grassy area behind the amphitheatre is the Piazzale delle Corporazioni (Forum of the Corporations), home to the offices of Ostia's merchant guilds. The mosaics that line the perimeter – ships, dolphins, a lighthouse, an elephant – are thought to represent the businesses housed on the square: ships and dolphins indicated shipping agencies, while the elephant probably referred to a business involved in the ivory trade.

The Forum, Ostia's main square, is overlooked by what remains of the Capitolium, a temple built by Hadrian and dedicated to Jupiter, Juno and Minerva.

Nearby is another highlight: the Thermopolium, an ancient cafe. Check out the bar, the frescoed menu, the kitchen and the small courtyard where customers would have relaxed next to a fountain.

Across the road are the remains of the 2nd-century Terme del Foro, originally the city's largest baths complex. Here, in the forica (public toilet), you can see 20 well-preserved latrines set sociably in a long stone bench.
For more modern facilities, there's a cafeteria/bar complex with toilets and a gift shop to the north of the Decumanus (head up Via dei Mulini). Also at this complex is a small museum displaying statues and sarcophagi excavated at the site.
5 EATING

RISTORANTE MONUMENTO
(€€; 06 565 00 21; www.ristorantemonumento.it; Piazza Umberto I 8; fixed-price lunch menu €14, meals €30; h 12.30-3.30pm & 8-11pm)

This historic restaurant started life in the 19th century, catering to the men working on reclaiming the local marshlands. Nowadays, it feeds sightseers fresh out of the nearby ruins, serving homemade pastas and excellent seafood. A fixed-price lunch menu is available Monday through Friday.

Tivoli

Explore
Throughout its history, Tivoli has provided a summer haven for rich Romans. Testifying to this are its two historic playgrounds, both Unesco World Heritage Sites: Villa Adriana, the emperor Hadrian's sprawling country estate just outside town, and the 16th-century Villa d’Este, an aristocratic Renaissance retreat up in the hilltop centre.

You can visit both in a day, though you’ll have to start early. The best way is to visit Villa d'Este first, then have lunch in the centre before heading down to Villa Adriana. After you've visited the Villa, pick up the bus back to Rome.

The Best…

- Sight The canopo at Villa Adriana.
- Place to Eat Sibilla

Top Tip
Villa Adriana is at its best in spring when the flowers are out, but if you suffer from hay fever, make sure you take some antihistamines.

Getting There & Away

- Bus Tivoli is accessible by Cotral bus (€2.20, 50 minutes, every 15 to 20 minutes) from Ponte Mammolo metro station. To get to Villa Adriana from Tivoli's historic centre, take local CAT bus 4 or 4X (€1, 10 minutes, half-hourly) from Largo Garibaldi.
- Car Take either Via Tiburtina (SS5) or the faster Rome–L’Aquila autostrada (A24).
Train From Stazione Tiburtina (€2.60, one hour, at least hourly).

Need to Know

Location 30km east of Rome

Tourist Information Point (0774 31 35 36; Piazzale delle Nazioni Unite; h 9.30am-5.30pm Tue-Sun) In the hilltop centre near where the bus arrives.
1 SIGHTS

VILLA ADRIANA

(®0774 38 27 33; www.villaadriana.beniculturali.it; adult/reduced €8/4; h9am-1hr before sunset)
The ruins of Hadrian's vast country villa, 5km outside Tivoli proper, are quite magnificent, easily on a par with anything you'll see in Rome. Built between AD 118 and 138, the villa was one of the largest in the ancient world, encompassing more than 120 hectares, of which about 40 are now open to the public. You'll need several hours to explore it.

Must-sees include the canopo, a landscaped canal overlooked by a nymphaeum (shrine to the water nymph), and the Teatro Marittimo, Hadrian's personal refuge.

Hadrian, a great traveller and enthusiastic architect, designed much of the villa himself, basing his ideas on buildings he'd seen around the world. The pecile, the large pool area near the walls, is a reproduction of a building in Athens. Similarly, the canopo is a copy of a sanctuary in the Egyptian town of Canopus, with a narrow 120m-long pool flanked by sculptural figures. At its head, the Serapeum is a semi-circular nymphaeum that was used to host summer banquets. Flanking the water, the antiquarium is used to stage temporary exhibitions (note that when these are on, admission to the Villa costs slightly more than usual).

To the northeast of the pecile, the Teatro Marittimo is one of the villa's signature buildings, a mini-villa built on an island in an artificial pool. Originally accessible only by swing bridges, it's currently off-limits due to ongoing restoration.

To the east, Piazza d'Oro makes for a memorable picture, particularly in spring when its grassy centre is cloaked in wild yellow flowers.

There are also several bath complexes, temples and barracks.

Parking (€3) is available at the site.

VILLA D'ESTE

(®0774 31 20 70; www.villadestetivoli.info; Piazza Trento; adult/reduced €8/4; h8.30am-1hr before sunset Tue-Sun)
In Tivoli's hilltop centre, the steeply terraced grounds of Villa d'Este are a superlative example of a Renaissance garden, complete with monumental fountains, elegant tree-lined avenues and landscaped grottoes. The villa, originally a Benedictine convent, was converted into a luxury retreat by Lucrezia Borgia's son, Cardinal Ippolito d'Este, in the late 16th century. It later provided inspiration for composer Franz Liszt who stayed here between 1865 and 1886 and immortalised it in his 1877 piano composition The Fountains of the Villa d'Este.

Before heading out to the gardens, take time to admire the villa's rich mannerist frescoes. Outside, the manicured gardens feature water-spouting gargoyles and shady lanes flanked by lofty cypresses and extravagant fountains, all powered by gravity alone. Look out for the Bernini-designed Fountain of the Organ, which uses water pressure to play music through a concealed organ, and the 130m-long Avenue of the Hundred Fountains.
EATING

TRATTORIA DEL FALCONE
(0774 31 23 58; Via del Trevio 34; meals €30; h noon-4pm & 6.30-11pm)
Near Villa d'Este, this cheerful, family run trattoria has been serving pizzas, classic pastas, meat and seafood since 1918. Boasting exposed stone decor and a small internal courtyard, it's popular with both tourists and locals.

SIBILLA
(0774 33 52 81; Via della Sibilla 50; meals €50; h 12.30-3pm & 7.30-10.30pm)
With tables set out by two ancient Roman temples and water cascading down the green river gorge below, the Sibilla's outdoor terrace sets a romantic stage for seasonally driven menus and superlative wine.

LOCAL KNOWLEDGE

ESCAPE TO THE BEACH

When you start wilting in Rome's heat, it's time to hit the beach. The nearest is at Ostia Lido, but there are better options further afield:

Fregene A popular resort backed by a tall pine forest. Good for nightlife and beach posing. Regular Cotral buses (€2.20, 50 minutes) run here from Cornelia metro station.

Lago di Bracciano A beautiful volcanic lake with a popular beach at Anguillara Sabazia. Half-hourly trains serve Anguillare from Termini (€2.60, 55 minutes).

Santa Severa Has a lovely strip of sand overlooked by a brooding castle. Nearby Santa Marinella is another good option. Hourly trains run to Santa Severa from Termini (€4, one hour).

Anzio South of Rome, Anzio boasts sandy beaches and some excellent seafood restaurants. Trains run from Termini (€3.60, 70 minutes) every hour (every two hours on Sundays).

Sabaudia Harder to get to, but you're rewarded with clean waters and a fabulous stretch of dune-backed sand. Hourly Cotral buses head here from Laurentina metro station (€5, two hours).

Sperlonga A fashionable spot with a crescent of white sand and a steeply stacked medieval town. From Termini take the train to Fondi (€6.90, 1¼ hours, hourly), then a connecting bus.

Castelli Romani

Explore
A pretty pocket of verdant hills and volcanic lakes 20km south of Rome, the Colli Albani (Alban Hills) and their 13 towns are collectively known as the Castelli Romani. Since early Roman days they've provided a green refuge from the city, and still today Romans flock to the area on hot summer weekends. The easiest towns to get to are Frascati, renowned for its white wine, and Castel Gandolfo, a handsome hilltop centre where the pope has his summer residence. Also of interest is Grottaferrata, which has a fine medieval abbey, and Lago Albano, a scenic volcanic lake.

The Best...

- Sight Lago Albano
- Place to Eat Cacciani
- Place to Drink The town of Frascati

Top Tip

In Frascati, search out a cantina (cellar-cum-trattoria) and settle down for a simple feast of porchetta (herb-roasted pork) and fresh local wine.

Getting There & Away

- Car For Frascati and Grottaferrata take Via Tuscolana (SS215); for Castel Gandolfo and Lago Albano take Via Appia Nuova (SS7), following signs for Ciampino Airport.
- Train There are buses to Frascati, but the best way to reach it is by train from Stazione Termini (€2.10, 30 minutes, hourly Monday to Saturday, every two hours Sunday). There are also regular trains to Castel Gandolfo from Termini (€2.10, 45 minutes). There are no trains between Frascati and Castel Gandolfo.

Getting Around

- Bus To travel between the Castelli towns you'll need to take the bus. From Frascati's Piazza Marconi Cotral buses connect with Grottaferrata (€1.10, 10 minutes, twice hourly) and Castel Gandolfo (€1.10, 30 minutes).

Need to Know

- Location 20km southeast of Rome
- Frascati Point Tourist Office (%06 9401 5378; Piazza Marconi 5; h8am-8pm Mon-Fri, 10am-8pm Sat & Sun)
1 SIGHTS

Frascati

SCUDERIE ALDOBRANDINI

MUSEUM

(06 941 71 95; Piazza Marconi 6; adult/reduced €5.50/3; h10am-6pm Tue-Fri, 10am-7pm Sat & Sun)

The former stables of Villa Aldobrandini, restored by architect Massimiliano Fuksas, house Frascati's single museum of note, the Museo Tuscolano. Dedicated to local history, its collection includes ancient Roman artefacts and several interesting models of local villas.

VILLA ALDOBRANDINI GARDENS

GARDENS

(Via Cardinal Massai 18; h9am-5.30pm Mon-Fri)

Looming over Frascati's main square, Villa Aldobrandini is a haughty 16th-century villa designed by Giacomo della Porta and built by Carlo Maderno. It's closed to the public, but you can visit its impressive baroque gardens during the week.

Grottaferrata

MONASTERO ESARCHICO DI SANTA MARIA DI GROTTAFERRATA

CHURCH

(www.abbaziagreca.it; Viale San Nilo; h9am-noon & 4-7pm Mon-Sat)

Better known as the Abbazia Greca di San Nilo, this fortified monastery was founded in 1004. The walls and battlements were added some 400 years later to provide a protective perimeter to the Chiesa di Santa Maria di Grottaferrata. This bejewelled, icon-laden church features a series of 17th-century frescoes by Domenichino and a revered Byzantine image of Santa Maria.

Castel Gandolfo

One of the Castelli's prettiest towns, Castel Gandolfo is a refined hilltop borgo (medieval town). There are no must-see sights but Piazza della Libertà is a lovely spot for an ice cream, and the views over Lago Albano are gorgeous. Facing onto the piazza is the pope's 17th-century summer residence, the Palazzo Pontificio (closed to the public), where he holds his regular weekly audiences in July and August.

BARBERINI GARDENS

GARDENS

(http://biglietteriamusei.vatican.va/musei/tickets/do; guided tours €26; h by reservation Mon-Sat)

Castel Gandolfo's Palazzo Pontificio might be off-limits, but you can explore its gardens on a guided visit. The 90-minute tours, which must be booked online, take in Roman ruins and sweeping views as they navigate the garden's immaculately manicured lanes.

1 Lago Albano

The largest and most developed of the Castelli's two volcanic lakes – the other is Lago di Nemi – Lago Albano is set in a steeply banked wooded crater. It's a popular hangout, particularly in spring and summer, when Romans flock here to top up their tans and eat in the many lakeside eateries.
EATING & DRINKING

Frascati

The Frascati area is famous for its white wine and there are plenty of places where you can try local varieties. Frascati itself is dotted with cantine, down-to-earth eateries where you can try the local porchetta and jugs of fresh young wine. Alternatively, you can pick up a panino con porchetta (porchetta roll) from one of the stands on and around Piazza del Mercato.

CANTINA SIMONETTI
(www.cantinasimonetti.com; Piazza San Rocco 4; meals €20; h 7.45-midnight Wed-Sun & 1-4pm Sat & Sun, longer hours summer)
For an authentic dining experience, search out this traditional cantina and sit down to a casual meal of porchetta, cold cuts and cheese, accompanied by local white wine. In keeping with the food, the decor is rough-and-ready rustic with plain wooden tables and paper tablecloths.

CACCIANI
(% 06 942 03 78; www.cacciani.it; Via Armando Diaz 13; fixed-price lunch menu €25, meals from €45; h 12.15-3pm & 7-11pm Tue-Sat, 12.15-3pm Sun)
Frascati’s most renowned restaurant offers fine food and twinkling terrace views over Rome. The menu lists various modern creative dishes, but it's the classics like cannelloni con ragù (cannelloni with meat sauce) that really stand out. There's also a weighty wine list and a couple of fixed-price menus, including a €25 weekday lunch option.

Castel Gandolfo

ANTICO RISTORANTE PAGNANELLI
(% 06 936 00 04; www.pagnanelli.it; Via Antonio Gramsci 4, Castel Gandolfo; meals €60-70; h noon-3.30pm & 6.30-11.45pm)
Housed in a wisteria-clad villa, this celebrated restaurant is a great place for a romantic meal. It's no casual trattoria, erring on the formal and touristy side, but the seasonally driven menu is excellent, there's a colossal wine list and the views over Lago Albano are unforgettable.

Cerveteri

Explore
The quiet provincial town of Cerveteri is home to one of Italy's greatest Etruscan treasures – the weird and magnificent Necropoli di Banditaccia. Situated in the verdant countryside just outside the modern town, this Unesco-listed burial complex is the only surviving trace of the once-powerful Etruscan city that stood here from the 9th century BC.

Spend the morning wandering around the necropolis, a veritable city of the dead where you half expect to see hobbits popping out of the grassy mounds, then lunch in the medieval town centre, before completing your day with a visit to the fascinating archaeological museum.

The Best…

A Sight Necropoli di Banditaccia

A Place to Eat Antica Locanda le Ginestre

Top Tip
Don’t miss Cerveteri’s Etruscan museum, which provides context for the tombs and brings the ancient era to life.

Getting There & Away

A Bus Take the Cotral bus (€2.80, 55 minutes, half-hourly) from outside Cornelia metro station. To get to the necropolis from the town centre, bus G runs approximately hourly from the main square (€1.10, five minutes).

A Car Take either Via Aurelia (SS1) or the Civitavecchia autostrada (A12) and exit at Cerveteri–Ladispoli.

Need to Know

A Location 35km northwest of Rome

A Tourist Information Point (%06 9955 2637; Piazza Aldo Moro; h:9.30am-12.30pm Mon-Sat, 10am-1pm Sun winter, 9.30am-12.30pm & 4-6pm spring, 9.30am-12.30pm & 5.30-7.30pm summer)
Cerveteri (Kysry to the Etruscans and Caere to Latin speakers) was one of the most important commercial centres in the Mediterranean from the 7th to the 5th centuries BC. But the city was largely built of wood and as such very little has survived. Only the necropolis, carved underground, remains to hint at the splendours of the Etruscan city.

Cerveteri’s fortunes faded as Roman power grew, and in 358 BC the city was annexed by Rome. After the fall of the Roman Empire, the spread of malaria and repeated Saracen invasions caused further decline. In the 13th century there was a mass exodus from the city to the nearby town of Ceri, and Caere became Caere Vetus (Old Caere), from which its current name derives. The early 19th century saw the first tentative archaeological explorations in the area, and in 1911 systematic excavations began in earnest.

NECROPOLI DI BANDITACCIA

This haunting 12-hectare necropolis is a veritable city of the dead, with streets, squares and terraces of tumuli (circular tombs cut into the earth and capped by turf). Some tombs, including the 6th-century-BC Tomba dei Rilievi, retain traces of painted reliefs, many of which illustrate endearingly domestic household items, as well as figures from the underworld.

Another interesting tomb is the 7th-century BC Tumulo Mengarelli, whose plain interior shows how the tombs were originally structured.

To bone up on the site's history, you can watch short films in the Sala Mengarelli every half past the hour. You can also take a tour that features 3D installations reconstructing the tombs' frescoes and funerary items.

MUSEO NAZIONALE CERITE

Housed in a medieval fortress on what was once ancient Caere's acropolis, this splendid museum charts the history of the Etruscan city, housing archaeological treasures unearthed at the necropolis.

On the ground floor, a multimedia display illustrates the stories behind some of the collection's prize exhibits.
For a full immersion in Etruscan culture, push on to Tarquinia, about 50km north of Cerveteri. This, the second of Lazio's great Etruscan towns, is famous for its extraordinary frescoed tombs but also boasts a fantastic Etruscan museum (the best outside of Rome) and a graceful medieval centre.

On the edge of the centro storico, the Museo Archeologico Nazionale Tarquinesi (0766 85 00 80; www.tarquinia-cerveteri.it; Via Cavour 1; adult/reduced €6/3, incl necropoli €8/4; h:8.30am-7.30pm Tue-Sun) displays innumerable treasures, notably a terracotta frieze of winged horses (the Cavalli Alati), and several painted tombs. But to see Tarquinia's Etruscan tombs in situ, head to the Unesco-listed Necropoli di Monterozzi (0766 84 00 00; www.tarquinia-cerveteri.it; Via Ripagretta; adult/reduced €6/3, incl museum €8/4; h:8.30am-7.30pm Tue-Sun summer, to 1hr before sunset winter, 1.5km outside the centre). Must-see's here include the Tomba della Caccia e della Pesca, which has some wonderful hunting and fishing frescoes, the Tomba dei Leopardi, and the Tomba della Fustigazione, which is named after a scratchy S&M scene.

To reach Tarquinia from Cerveteri, take a Cotral bus to Ladispoli station and then a train to Tarquinia (€3.60, 35 minutes, hourly). Returning to Rome from Tarquinia, there are direct trains to Termini (€6.90, 1 hour 20 minutes, hourly).

If you decide to overnight in town, and you might as Cerveteri, Tarquinia and back to Rome in a day is quite a tough proposition, the Camere Del Re (0766 85 58 31; www.cameredelre.com; Via San Pancrazio 41; s €55-70, d €69-120, q €99-129; a) has decent rooms in the historic centre.
5 EATING

ANTICA LOCANDA LE GINESTRE

(06 994 33 65; www.anticaloneginestre.com; Piazza Santa Maria 5; fixed-price menus €20-30, meals €40-45; h 12.30-2.30pm & 7.30-10.30pm Tue-Sun)

On a delightful centro storico piazza, this family run restaurant is a top choice for quality regional food. Dishes such as risotto with asparagus tips and saffron are prepared with seasonal local produce and served in an elegant dining room and flower-filled courtyard. Book ahead.

Orvieto

Explore

Strategically located on the main train line between Rome and Florence, the spectacularly sited hilltop town of Orvieto is home to one of Italy's most awe-inspiring cathedrals. The humbug-striped Gothic Duomo is a truly breathtaking site as it towers over the town's medieval centre. Unsurprisingly, it's a tourist honeypot, attracting hordes of visitors, particularly in summer. But don’t let that deter you. It's well worth the effort and the surrounding streets are a wonderful place to stroll and enjoy a leisurely lunch.

The Best…

A Sight Duomo di Orvieto

A Place to Eat Trattoria del Moro Aronne

A Place to Drink Vinosus

Top Tip

Stay overnight to experience the medieval atmosphere of the town once all the day trippers have ebbed away.

Getting There & Away

A Car The city is on the A1 north–south autostrada. There's metered parking on Piazza Cahen and in designated areas outside the city walls, including Campo della Fiera.

A Train Regular trains run to Orvieto from Stazione Termini (€7.50 to €17, 1¾ hours, hourly).
Getting Around

A Funicular From the train station take the funicular (€1.30) up to Piazza Cahen in the historic centre. The fare includes a bus ride from Piazza Cahen up to Piazza Duomo.

A Bus Bus 1 runs up to the old town from the train station (€1.30), and bus A connects Piazza Cahen with Piazza Duomo.

Need to Know

A Location 120km northwest of Rome

A Tourist Office (GOOGLE MAP; %0763 34 17 72; www.orvieto.regioneumbria.eu; Piazza Duomo 24; h8.15am-1.50pm & 4-7pm Mon-Fri, 10am-1pm & 3-6pm Sat & Sun)
1 SIGHTS

Sitting astride a volcanic plug of rock above fields streaked with vines, olive and cypress trees, Orvieto's centro storico harbours Etruscan antiquities and underground caves besides its magnificent cathedral.

DUOMO DI ORVIETO
(GOOGLE MAP; 0763 34 24 77; www.opsm.it; Piazza Duomo 26; admission €3; h 9.30am-6pm Mon-Sat, 1-5.30pm Sun, shorter hours winter)

Nothing can prepare you for the visual feast that is Orvieto's soul-stirring Gothic cathedral. Dating to 1290, it sports a black-and-white banded exterior fronted by what is perhaps the most astonishing facade to grace any Italian church: a mesmerising display of rainbow frescoes, jewel-like mosaics, bas-reliefs and delicate braids of flowers and vines.

The building took 30 years to plan and three centuries to complete. It was started by Fra Bevignate and later additions were made by Sienese master Lorenzo Maitani, Andrea Pisano (of Florence Cathedral fame) and his son Nino Pisano, Andrea Orcagna and Michele Sanicheli.

Of the art on show inside, it's Luca Signorelli's magnificent Giudizio Universale that draws the crowds. The artist began work on the vast fresco in 1499 and over the course of the next four years covered every inch of the Cappella di San Brizio with a swirling and, at times, grotesque depiction of the Last Judgment. Michelangelo is said to have taken inspiration from the work. Indeed, to some, Michelangelo's masterpiece runs a close second to Signorelli's creation.

On the other side of the transept, the Cappella del Corporale houses a 13th-century altar cloth stained with blood that miraculously poured from the communion bread of a priest who doubted the transubstantiation.

MUSEO DELL'OPERA DEL DUOMO DI ORVIETO
(GOOGLE MAP; 0763 34 24 77; www.museomodo.it; Piazza Duomo 26; admission €5; h 9.30am-7pm)

Housed in the former papal palace, this museum contains a fine collection of religious relics from the cathedral, as well as Etruscan antiquities and paintings by artists such as Arnolfo di Cambio and the three Pisanos (Andrea, Nino and Giovanni).

TORRE DEL MORO
(Moor's Tower; GOOGLE MAP; Corso Cavour 87; adult/reduced €2.80/2; h 10am-8pm)

From the Piazza Duomo, head northwest along Via del Duomo to Corso Cavour and the 13th-century Torre del Moro. Climb all 250 steps for sweeping views of the city.

ORVIETO UNDERGROUND
(GOOGLE MAP; www.orviетounderground.it; Piazza Duomo 24; adult/reduced €6/5; h tours 11am, 12.15pm, 4pm & 5.15pm daily)

The coolest place in Orvieto (literally), this series of 440 caves has been used for millennia by locals for various purposes, including as WWII bomb shelters, refrigerators, wells and, during many a pesky Roman or barbarian siege, as dovecotes to trap the usual one-course dinner: pigeon (still seen on local restaurant menus as palombo).
5 EATING & DRINKING

TRATTORIA DEL MORO ARONNE
( Google Map; %0763 34 27 63; www.trattoriadelmoro.info; Via San Leonardo 7; meals €25-30; h noon-2.30pm & 7.30-9.30pm Wed-Mon)

This welcoming trattoria has a convivial feel, authentic food and honest prices. The focus is on traditional cooking and strong regional flavours. Warm up with a goat cheese and fig marmalade starter before hitting your stride with a healthy cut of grilled beef.

LE GROTTE DEL FUNARO
( Google Map; %0763 34 32 76; www.grottedelfunaro.it; Via Ripa Serancia 41; pizza €4-8.50, meals €25-35; h noon-3pm & 7pm-midnight)

What could be more romantic – well, at least in a Snow White fairy-tale kind of way – than dining in a proper underground grotto? But this restaurant has more going for it than novelty factor alone. Alfredo and Sandra make a cracking kitchen duo, preparing wood-fire-oven pizzas alongside Umbrian dishes like truffle-ricotta-filled ravioli and braised Chianina beef.

VINOSUS
( Google Map; Piazza Duomo 15; h 11am-4pm & 7pm-midnight Tue-Sun)

In photo-op range of the cathedral's northwest wall is this wine bar and eatery. Try the cheese platter with local honey and pears for an elegant addition to wine.
SLEEPING

B&B LA MAGNOLIA
( GOOGLE MAP; ☏️ 0763 34 28 08, 349 4620733; www.blamagnolia.it; Via del Duomo 29; d €60-90; a)

Tucked down a sidestreet north of the Duomo (the sign is easily missed), this light-filled Renaissance residence has delightful rooms and apartments, an English-speaking owner, a large shared kitchen and a balcony overlooking the rooftops. The owner, Serena, can tell you all about Orvieto – whatever you want to know, just ask.

---

POMPEII & NAPLES IN A DAY

Just over an hour's fast train ride south of Rome, Naples is one of Italy's most exhilarating cities, a combustible mix of bombastic streetlife, world-class museums and a Unesco-listed historic centre. Further around the bay, Pompeii is an unforgettable sight, an ancient Roman city preserved almost in its entirety. A port and thriving commercial centre, the city was buried by volcanic debris when Vesuvius erupted in AD 79 and its ruins today provide a unique model of a working Roman town. You can cover both on a day trip from Rome, but you'll need to be fired up and full of energy.

To get to Pompeii by mid-morning, take the 7.35am (or 8.45am) Frecciarossa train from Termini to Napoli Centrale (around €40 one way). On arrival, follow signs for the Circumvesuviana (beneath the main station) and catch the earliest available train to Pompei-Scavi-Villa dei Misteri (€3.20). Pompeii (+081 857 53 47; www.pompeiisites.org; entrances at Porta Marina, Piazza Esedra & Piazza Anfiteatro; adult/reduced €11/5.50, incl Herculaneum €20/10; 8.30am-7.30pm summer, to 5pm winter) is huge and you'll need around three hours to cover its greatest hits, which include the Forum, Lupanare (an ancient brothel), amphitheatre, and Villa dei Misteri. Pick up a free site map when you buy your ticket.

For lunch, grab a panino from the on-site cafeteria or push onto Pompeii town for a more refined meal at President (+081 850 72 45; www.ristorantepresident.it; Piazza Schettini 12; meals €35; noon-4pm & 7pm-midnight, closed Mon Oct-Apr; aFS to Pompei, Circumvesuviana to Pompei Scavi-Villa dei Misteri).

Once back in Naples, spend the afternoon exploring the centro storico. If you can handle more ancient treasures, head to the Museo Archeologico Nazionale (GOOGLE MAP; Piazza Museo Nazionale 19; adult/reduced €8/4; 9am-7.30pm Wed-Mon; nMuseo, Piazza Cavour), whose stunning collection of classical art includes many prize finds from Pompeii. Also worth a look is the Cappella Sansevero (GOOGLE MAP; Via Francesco de Sanctis 19; adult/reduced €7/5; 9.30am-6.30pm Mon & Wed-Sat, to 2pm Sun; nDante).

You'll need to dine early to make your evening train, so head to Pizzeria Gino Sorbillo (GOOGLE MAP; Via dei Tribunali 32; pizzas from €3.30; noon-3.30pm & 7pm-1am Mon-Sat; nDante) for a taste of authentic Neapolitan pizza.

The last fast train back to Rome leaves at 7.30pm, but there's a slower Intercity at 8.31pm or a snail-paced regionale at 8.48pm.
4 Sleeping

From opulent five-star palaces to chic boutique hotels, family-run pensions, B&Bs, hostels and convents, Rome has accommodation to please everyone. But while there’s plenty of choice, rates are universally high and you’ll need to book early to get the best deal.

BOOK YOUR STAY ONLINE

For more accommodation reviews by Lonely Planet authors, check out http://lonelyplanet.com/hotels/. You’ll find independent reviews, as well as recommendations on the best places to stay. Best of all, you can book online.

Pensions & Hotels
The bulk of Rome's accommodation consists of pensioni (pensions) and alberghi (hotels).

A pensione is a small, family-run hotel, often in a converted apartment. Rooms are usually fairly simple though most come with a private bathroom.

Hotels are rated from one to five stars. Most hotels in Rome's historic centre tend to be three-star and up. As a rule, a three-star room will come with a hairdryer, a minibar (or fridge), a safe, air-con and wi-fi. Some may also have satellite TV.

Note that Roman hotel rooms tend to be small, especially in the centro storico and Trastevere, where hotels are often housed in centuries-old palazzi.

B&Bs & Guesthouses
Alongside traditional B&Bs, Rome has many boutique-style guesthouses offering chic, upmarket accommodation at midrange to top-end prices.

Breakfast in a Roman B&B usually consists of bread rolls, croissants, yoghurt, ham and cheese.

Hostels
Rome's hostels cater to everyone from backpackers to budget-minded families. Many offer hotel-style rooms alongside traditional dorms.

Some hostels don’t accept reservations for dorm beds, so it’s first come, first served.

Religious Institutions
Many of Rome's religious institutions offer cheap(ish) rooms. These often impose strict curfews and are fairly short on frills. Book well ahead.

Rental Accommodation
For longer stays, renting an apartment will generally work out cheaper than an extended hotel sojourn.
Bank on about €900 per month for a studio apartment or one-bedroom flat. For longer stays, you'll probably have to pay bills plus a building maintenance charge.

Seasons & Rates
Rome doesn’t have a low season as such but rates are at their lowest from November to March (excluding Christmas and New Year) and from mid-July through August. Expect to pay top whack in spring (April to June) and autumn (September and October) and over the main holiday periods (Christmas, New Year and Easter).

Most midrange and top-end hotels accept credit cards. Budget places might, but it’s always best to check in advance.

Accommodation Websites
- Lonely Planet (www.lonelyplanet.com/italy/rome/hotels) Consult a list of author-reviewed accommodation options and book online.
- 060608 (www.060608.it/en/accoglienza/dormire) Official Comune di Roma site with accommodation lists. Details are not always up to date.
- Bed & Breakfast Association of Rome (www.b-b.rm.it) Lists B&Bs and short-term apartment rentals.
- Bed & Breakfast Italia (www.bbitalia.it) Rome's longest-established B&B network.
- Rome As You Feel (www.romeasyoufeel.com) Apartment rentals, from cheap studio flats to luxury apartments.
- Sleep in Italy (www.sleepinitaly.com) A reliable rental operator.

Lonely Planet’s Top Choices
- Palm Gallery Hotel Arty retreat in elegant surroundings.
- Babuino 181 Chic luxury on top shopping street.
- Arco del Lauro Minimalist comfort in Trastevere B&B.
- Villa Spalletti Trivelli Stately style in a city-centre mansion.

Best by Budget

**€
- Arco del Lauro A cool bolthole in happening Trastevere.
- Althea Inn Designer comfort at budget prices.
- Beehive Classy hostel near Termini.
Palm Gallery Hotel A delightful villa hotel.
Residenza Maritti Welcoming hideaway near the forums.
Daphne Inn Boutique hotel with superlative service.

**€€€
Babuino 181 Bask in understated luxury
Villa Spalletti Trivelli Live like country-house nobility

Best for Location

Albergo Abruzzi Wake up to the Pantheon.
Casa di Santa Brigida A convent overlooking Piazza Farnese.

Best for Romance

Hotel Sant’Anselmo Escape to this beautiful Liberty-style villa.
Hotel Locarno Star in your own romance at this art-deco gem.

Best B&Bs

Maria-Rosa Guesthouse Your Trastevere home from home.
La Piccola Maison Quiet comfort near Piazza Barberini.

Best Value for Money

Althea Inn A hidden gem near Testaccio.
Le Stanze di Orazio Get your money's worth at this Vatican B&B.
La Controra Quality hostel in upscale area.
Where to Stay

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Neighbourhood</th>
<th>For</th>
<th>Against</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Ancient Rome</td>
<td>Close to major sights such as Colosseum, Roman Forum and Capitoline Museums; quiet at night.</td>
<td>Not cheap and has few budget options; restaurants are touristy.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Centro Storico</td>
<td>Atmospheric area with everything on your doorstep – Pantheon, Piazza Navona, restaurants, bars, shops.</td>
<td>Most expensive part of town; few budget options; can be noisy.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tridente, Trevi &amp; The Quirinale</td>
<td>Good for Spanish Steps, Trevi Fountain and designer shopping; excellent midrange to top-end options; good transport links.</td>
<td>Upmarket area with prices to match; subdued after dark.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Monti, Esquilino &amp; San Lorenzo</td>
<td>Lots of budget accommodation around Stazione Termini; top eating options in Monti and good nightlife in San Lorenzo; good transport links.</td>
<td>Some dodgy streets in Termini area, which is not Rome’s most characterful.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>San Giovanni &amp; Testaccio</td>
<td>Authentic atmosphere with good eating and drinking options; Aventino, a quiet, romantic area, Testaccio, a top food and nightlife district.</td>
<td>Few options available; not many big sights.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Trastevere &amp; Gianicolo</td>
<td>Gorgeous, atmospheric area, party vibe with hundreds of bars, cafes, and restaurants; some interesting sights.</td>
<td>Very noisy, particularly on summer nights; expensive.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Vatican City, Borgo &amp; Prati</td>
<td>Near St Peter’s Basilica and Vatican Museums; decent range of accommodation; some excellent shops and restaurants; on the metro.</td>
<td>Expensive near St Peter’s; not much nightlife; sells out quickly for religious holidays.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Villa Borghese &amp; Northern Rome</td>
<td>Largely residential area good for the Auditorium and some top museums; generally quiet after dark.</td>
<td>Out of the centre; few budget choices.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

NEED TO KNOW

Price Ranges
These price ranges are for a high-season double room with private bathroom:
- € under €110
- €€ €110 to €200
- €€€ over €200
Breakfast is included unless otherwise stated.

Reservations
- Always try to book ahead, especially for the major religious festivals.
- Ask for a camera matrimoniale for a room with a double bed; a camera doppia has twin beds.

Checking In & Out
- When you check in you'll need to present your passport or ID card.
- Checkout is usually between 10am and noon. In hostels it’s around 9am.
- Some guesthouses and B&Bs require you to arrange a time to check in.
RESIDENZA MARITTI
- GUESTHOUSE€€ €€
  - MAP GOOGLE MAP; %06 678 82 33; www.residenzamaritti.com; Via Tor de' Conti 17; s €50-120, d €80-170, tr €100-190; a,W; mCavour)

Boasting stunning views over the forums, this gem has rooms spread over several floors. Some are bright and modern, others are more cozy in feel with antiques and family furniture. There's no breakfast but you can use a fully equipped kitchen.

NERVA BOUTIQUE HOTEL
- BOUTIQUE HOTEL€€
  - MAP GOOGLE MAP; %06 678 18 35; www.hotelnerva.com; Via Tor de' Conti 3; s €70-180, d €90-300; a,W; mCavour)

Fresh from a recent makeover, this friendly hotel is tucked away behind the Imperial Forums. Its snug rooms display a contemporary look in shades of cream, grey and black, with padded leather bedsteads, hanging lamps, and the occasional art tome.

FORTY SEVEN
- BOUTIQUE HOTEL€€
  - MAP GOOGLE MAP; %06 678 78 16; www.fortysevenhotel.com; Via Petroselli 47; r €170-300; a,W; g Via Petroselli)

Near the Bocca della Verità, the plain grey facade of this classy four-star gives onto a bright modern interior, full of sunshine and sharply designed guest rooms. There’s also a rooftop restaurant and, in the basement, a gym and Turkish bath.

HOTEL FORUM
- HISTORIC HOTEL€€
  - MAP GOOGLE MAP; %06 679 24 46; www.hotelforum.com; Via Tor de’ Conti 25-30; r €180-350; a,W; mCavour)

The stately Forum offers formal elegance and inspiring views. From the rooftop restaurant you can survey a sea of ruins, while inside it's all antiques, wood-panelling and dangling chandeliers. Rooms are small and classically attired. Parking is available for €40 per day.

HOTEL TAX

Everyone overnighting in Rome has to pay a room-occupancy tax on top of their regular accommodation bill.

- €3 per person per night in one- and two-star hotels
- €3.50 in B&Bs and room rentals
- €4/6/7 in three-/four-/five-star hotels.

The tax is applicable for a maximum of 10 consecutive nights. Prices in reviews do not include the tax.

CENTRO STORICO

HOTEL PENSIONE BARRETT
- PENSIONE€
This charming pension boasts a convenient central location and an exuberant decor that marries leafy pot plants with statues, busts and vibrant stucco. Rooms are cosy and come with thoughtful extras like foot spas and fully stocked fridges.

ALBERGO DEL SOLE

This simple, no-frills place is supposedly the oldest hotel in Rome, dating to 1462. There’s nothing special about the functional rooms, but each floor has its own outdoor terrace, and the location near Campo de’ Fiori is excellent. No breakfast.

ALBERGO CESÀRI

This friendly three-star has been welcoming guests since 1787 and both Stendhal and Mazzini are said to have slept here. Modern visitors can expect traditional rooms, a stunning rooftop terrace, and a wonderful central location.

HOTEL DUE TORRI

If the rooms at this refined hotel could talk, they’d have some stories to tell. The Due Torri might now be a classically attired three-star with period furniture and 26 cosy rooms, but in centuries past it housed a cardinals' residence and a brothel.

ARGENTINA RESIDENZA

Escape the hustle and relax in the comfort of this quiet boutique hotel on Largo di Torre Argentina. Its six decently sized rooms sport a low-key contemporary look with design touches and elegant furnishings.

HOTEL NAVONA

This small hotel offers a range of handsome, modern rooms in a 15th-century palazzo near Piazza Navona. They come in various shapes and looks but the most striking feature a showy silver-and-grey design. Breakfast costs €10 extra.
Tucked away behind Campo de’ Fiori, this charming hotel sits atop the 1st-century-BC Theatre of Pompey – the basement breakfast room is actually in the theatre's ruins. Rooms are attractive with classic wooden furniture, terracotta floor tiles, and, in some, sloping wood-beamed ceilings.

DIMORA DEGLI DEI

Location and discreet style are the selling points of this elegant bolthole near the Pantheon. On the 1st floor of a centuries-old palazzo, it has six high-ceilinged tastefully furnished rooms. Breakfast (€10) is optional.

CASA DI SANTA BRIGIDA

Named after the Swedish St Brigid who died here in 1373, this tranquil convent enjoys a superb location overlooking Piazza Farnese. Rooms are simple, clean and decidedly low-tech – entertainment here is limited to a piano in the communal room, a small library and views from the roof terrace.

HOTEL CAMPO DE’ FIORI

This rakish four-star has got the lot – baroque boudoir decor, an enviable location, professional staff and a fabulous panoramic roof terrace. The interior feels delightfully decadent with its boldly coloured walls, low wooden ceilings, gilt mirrors and restored bric-a-brac. Also available are 13 apartments.

ALBERGO ABRUZZI

As locations go, the Abruzzi’s tops the charts, bang opposite the Pantheon. But there's more to the place than its views. Its recently refurbished rooms sport a smart look with blown-up photos printed on white walls and dark wood flooring. They are small, though, and late-night noise might be a problem.

---

4 Tridente, Trevi & the Quirinale

LA CONTRORA
Quality budget accommodation is thin on the ground in the upmarket area north of Piazza Repubblica, but this great little hostel is a top choice. It has a friendly laid-back vibe, cool staff, double rooms and bright, airy mixed dorms (for three and four people), with parquet floors, air-con and private bathrooms.

HOTEL PANDA
( MAP; %06 678 01 79; www.hotelpanda.it; Via della Croce 35; s €65-90, d €85-130, tr €120-150, q €160-190; a,W; mSpagna)

Near the Spanish Steps, in an area where a bargain is a Bulgari watch bought at the sales, the Panda flies the flag for budget accommodation. It's a friendly place with high-ceilinged rooms and simple, tasteful decor. Air-con is free in summer, but €6 in other periods.

LA PICCOLA MAISON
( MAP; %06 4201 6331; www.lapiccolamaison.com; Via dei Cappuccini 30; s €50-180, d €70-270; a; W; mBarberini)

The excellent Piccola Maison is housed in a 19th-century building in a great location close to Piazza Barberini, and has pleasingly plain, neutrally decorated rooms and thoughtful staff. It’s a great deal.

DAPHNE INN
( MAP; %06 8745 0086; www.daphne-rome.com; Via di San Basilio 55; s €115-180, d €130-240, ste €190-290, without bathroom s €70-130, d €90-160; a,W; mBarberini)

Run by an American-Italian couple, the Daphne has helpful English-speaking staff and chic, comfortable rooms. They come in various shapes and sizes, but the overall look is smart contemporary. There’s a second branch, Daphne Trevi, offering more of the same at Via degli Avignonesi 20.

HOTEL SUISSE
( MAP; %06 678 36 49; www.hotelsuisserome.com; Via Gregoriana 54; s €80-100, d €135-170, tr €180-200; i,W; mSpagna, mBarberini)

An air of old-school elegance pervades at this delightful family-run pension. Attractive antique furniture and creaking, polished parquet floors set the tone for the 12 tasteful, modestly decorated rooms.

GREGORIANA
( MAP; %06 679 42 69; www.hoteldigregoriana.it; Via Gregoriana 18; s €120-168, d €150-288; a; mSpagna)

This low-key, polished art-deco hotel is fantastically set behind the Spanish Steps. Beds have beautiful, circular maple-wood headboards, snow-white linen and lots of gleaming rosewood. Staff are friendly and unpretentious.

MARGUTTA GLAMOUR STUDIOS
Four charming apartments on one of Rome's prettiest streets, which has a village feel despite being in the thick of Tridente. All are decorated with flair, and the two larger apartments, in former artists' studios, are spectacular, with double height ceilings; the smaller two are charming, with pretty outlooks.

HOTEL MOZART
€€€
Via dei Greci 23b; r €140-200; a iW; mSpagna)

The Mozart has classic, immaculate rooms, decorated in dove greys, eggshell blues, golden yellows and rosy pinks, with comfortable beds, gleaming linen and polished wooden furniture; deluxe rooms have jacuzzis and small terraces.

It also administers the Vivaldi Luxury Suites and several apartments nearby. Look out for special offers on the website, where rooms can go for as little as €80.

HOTEL BAROCCO
€€
Piazza Barberini 9; d €160-290; a iW; mBarberini)

Very central, this well-run, welcoming 41-room hotel overlooking Piazza Barberini (the pricier rooms have views) has a classic feel, with rooms featuring oil paintings, spotless linen, gentle colour schemes and fabric-covered walls. Breakfast is ample and served in a wood-panelled room.

HOTEL LOCARNO
€€
Via della Penna 22; s €90-260, d €120-270; a iW; mFlaminio)

With its ivy-clad exterior, stained-glass doors and rattling cage-lift, the Locarno is an art-deco classic – the kind of place Hercule Poirot might stay if he were in town. Many rooms have silk wallpaper and period furniture, and are occasionally in need of TLC, but full of charm. There’s a roof garden, a restaurant and an atmospheric bar.

HOTEL MODIGLIANI
€€
Via della Purificazione 42; s €100-160, d €100-270; a iW; mBarberini)

Run by an artistic couple, the Modigliani is all about attention to detail and customer service. The 23 dove-grey rooms are spacious and light, and the best ones have views and balconies, either outside or over the quiet internal courtyard garden.

BABUINO 181
BOUTIQUE €€€€
Via del Babuino 181; r €240-715; a iW; mFlaminio)

A beautifully renovated old palazzo, Babuino offers discreet luxury, with great attention to detail, a sleek roof terrace and modern, chic rooms with touches such as a Nespresso machine and fluffy bathrobes. A new annexe across the street has added more suites and rooms that continue the theme of understated elegance. The same company runs the similarly impressive Margutta 54.
CASA FABBRINI

A beautifully styled boutique B&B that could have sprung from the pages of Elle Decoration, with weathered antique doors as bedheads, coloured glass lamps, and painted furniture.

CROSSING CONDOTTI

This is one of Rome’s breed of upmarket guesthouses, where all the fittings, linen and comforts are top of the range, and the pretty, though not large, rooms have lots of character and antique furnishings. There’s also a well-stocked kitchen with drinks and a Nespresso machine. The more expensive rooms, recently added, have walk-in showers and a kitchenette, and the top choice has a Turkish bath.

HOTEL DE RUSSIE

The historic de Russie is almost on Piazza del Popolo, and has exquisite terraced gardens. The decor is softly luxurious in many shades of grey, and the rooms offer state-of-the-art entertainment systems, massive mosaic-tiled bathrooms and all the luxuries. There's a lovely courtyard bar.

4 Vatican City, Borgo & Prati

HOTEL SAN PIETRINO

Within easy walking distance of St Peter's, family-run San Pietrino is an excellent budget choice. Its 11 cosy rooms are characterful and prettily decorated with terracotta-tiled floors and the occasional statue. No breakfast.

COLORS HOTEL

Popular with young travellers, this welcoming hotel impresses with its fresh, artful design and vibrantly coloured rooms. These come in various shapes and sizes, including some cheaper ones with shared bathrooms and, from June to August, dorms for guests under 38. Breakfast on request costs €6.50.

LE STANZE DI ORAZIO

This small boutique B&B is excellent value for money. It has five bright, playfully decorated rooms – think shimmering rainbow wallpaper, lilac accents, and designer bathrooms – and a small breakfast
BOUTIQUE HOTEL

FABIO MASSIMO DESIGN HOTEL
(+ MAP GOOGLE MAP; 06 321 30 44; www.hotelfabiomassimo.com; Viale Giulio Cesare 71; r €89-229; a W; m Ottaviano-San Pietro)

Walkable from Ottaviano metro station, this sleek design hotel is convenient as well as stylish. From the 4th-floor reception and breakfast area, corridors lead off to nine rooms, each furnished in contemporary reds and slate greys, with flower motifs and hanging lamps.

HOTEL BRAMANTE
(+ MAP GOOGLE MAP; 06 6880 6426; www.hotelbramante.com; Vicolo delle Palline 24-25; s €100-160, d €140-240, tr €175-260, q €190-300; a W; g Borgo Sant'Angelo)

Nestled under the Vatican walls, the Bramante exudes country-house charm with its cosy internal courtyard, wood-beamed ceilings and antique furniture. It’s housed in the 16th-century building where architect Domenico Fontana once lived.

VILLA LAETITIA
(+ GOOGLE MAP; 06 322 67 76; www.villalaetitia.com; Lungotevere delle Armi 22; r €200-280, ste €500; a W; g Lungotevere delle Armi)

Villa Laetitia is a stunning boutique hotel in a riverside art-nouveau villa. Its 20 rooms, each individually designed by Anna Venturini Fendi of the famous fashion house, marry modern design touches with vintage pieces and rare finds, such as an original Picasso in the Garden Room.

HOSTEL

BEEHIVE
(+ MAP GOOGLE MAP; 06 4470 4553; www.the-beehive.com; Via Marghera 8; dm €25-35, s €50-80, d €90-100, without bathroom s €60-70, d €70-80, tr €95-105; a W; m Termini)

More boutique chic than backpacker dive, the Beehive is Rome's best hostel; book well ahead. There's a spotless, eight-person mixed dorm or six private double rooms, some with air-con. Original artworks and funky modular furniture add colour, and there's a cafe. Some bright, well-cared-for off-site rooms, sharing communal bathrooms and kitchen, are another bargain (single €40 to €50, double €60 to €80).

BLUE HOSTEL
(+ MAP GOOGLE MAP; 340 925 85 03; www.bluehostel.it; Via Carlo Alberto 13, 3rd fl; d €60-150, apt €100-180; a W; m Vittorio Emanuele)

A hostel in name only, this pearl offers small, hotel-standard rooms, each with its own en-suite bathroom, and decorated in tasteful low-key style – beamed ceilings, wooden floors, French windows, black-and-white framed photos. There's also an apartment, with kitchen, that sleeps up to four. No lift and no breakfast.

Further pluses include tea-/coffee-making kits in rooms and a personalised map that the owner provides, complete with recommendations and tips.

WELROME HOTEL

MAP [GOOGLE MAP]; ☏ 06 4782 4343; [www.welcome.it]; Via Calatafimi 15-19; d/tr/q €110/148/187; a/W; mTermini

A small, spotless hotel in a quiet backstreet not far from Termini. Owners Mary and Carlo take great pride in looking after their guests and will enthusiastically advise you on where to eat, what to do and where to avoid. Their seven simply decorated rooms are clean and comfortable. No breakfast but kettles and fridges are provided, and there are plenty of nearby bars for a cornetto (croissant) and coffee.

PAPA GERMANO

MAP [GOOGLE MAP]; ☏ 06 48 69 19; [www.hotelpapagermano.it]; Via Calatafimi 14a; d €50-110, without bathroom dm €15-35, s €30-65, d €40-85; a/W; mTermini

Easy-going and popular, Papa Germano is a budget stalwart. There are various sleeping options, ranging from four-person dorms to private rooms with or without bathrooms. It has a family-run feel, the decor is plain and fairly smart, and all rooms are scrupulously clean.

ALESSANDRO PALACE HOSTEL

MAP [GOOGLE MAP]; ☏ 06 446 19 58; [www.hostelsalessandro.com]; Via Vicenza 42; dm €19-35, d €70-110, tr €85-120; a/W; mCastro Pretorio

This long-standing, well-kept favourite offers spick-and-span, terracotta-floored doubles and triples, as well as dorms sleeping from four to eight, all with cheery bedspreads. Every room has its own bathroom with hairdryer. There's a basement bar, and it runs local tours.

HOTEL ARTORIUS

MAP [GOOGLE MAP]; ☏ 06 482 11 96; [www.hotelartoriusrome.com]; Via del Boschetto 13; d €86-140; a/W; mCavour

The art-deco lobby looks promising, and the rest delivers too in this 10-room Monti hotel with a family-run feel. Rooms are simple and plain – not large, but perfectly comfortable – and one (room 109) has a terrace. Book well ahead.

DUCA D’ALBA

MAP [GOOGLE MAP]; ☏ 06 48 44 71; [www.hotelducadalba.com]; Via Leonina 14; r €115-380; a/W; mCavour

This appealing four-star hotel in the Monti district has small but charming rooms: most have fabric-covered or handpainted walls, wood-beamed ceilings, big flat-screen TVs and sleek button-studded headboards.

RESIDENZA CELLINI

MAP [GOOGLE MAP]; ☏ 06 4782 5204; [www.residenzacellini.it]; Via Modena 5; s €100-135, d €115-150; a/W; mRepubblica

With grown-up furnishings featuring potted palms, polished wood, pale-yellow walls, oil paintings... and a hint of chintz, this charming, family-run place on a quiet road parallel to Via Nazionale offers spacious, elegant rooms, all with satellite TV and jacuzzi or hydro-massage shower. There’s a sunny flower-surrounded terrace for summer breakfasts.

○ VILLA SPALLETTI TRIVELLI

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; %06 4890 7934; www.villaspalletti.it; Via Piacenza 4; r €450-620; a i; m Spagna)

With 12 rooms in a glorious mansion in central Rome, Villa Spalletti Trivelli was built by Gabriella Rasponi, widow of Italian senator Count Venceslao Spalletti Trivelì and the niece of Carolina Bonaparte (Napoleon's sister). It's a soujourn in a stately home: rooms are soberly and elegantly decorated, and the sitting rooms are hung with 16th-century tapestries or lined with antique books. There's a basement spa.

4 Trastevere & Gianicolo

MARIA-ROSA GUESTHOUSE

(B&B €)

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; %338 7700067; www.maria-rosa.it; Via dei Vascellari 55; s €45-65, d €65-80, tr €80-120; i; g Viale di Trastevere, j Via Trastevere)

This is a delightful B&B on the 3rd floor of a Trastevere townhouse. It's a simple affair with two guestrooms sharing a single bathroom and a small living room, but the homey decor, pot plants and books create a lovely, warm atmosphere. The owner, Sylvie, also has a further three rooms on the floor above at La Casa di Kaia (MAP GOOGLE MAP ; %338 7700067; www.kaia-trastevere.it; Via dei Vascellari 55; with shared bathroom s €45-55, d €65-75; g Viale di Trastevere, j Via Trastevere). There’s no lift.

LA FORESTERIA ORSA MAGGIORE

(Hotel €€)

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; %06 689 37 53; www.casainternazionaledelledonne.org; 2nd fl, Via San Francesco di Sales 1a; dm €26, s/d €75/110, without bathroom s/d €52/72; i; g Piazza Trilussa)

This lesbian-friendly, women-only guesthouse (boys aged 12 or younger are welcome) is housed in a lovely 16th-century convent, close to the river. It is run by the Casa Internazionale delle Donne (International Women’s House) and offers safe and well-priced accommodation in a quiet corner of Trastevere. Reception is open from 7am to 3am.

The 13 simple rooms sleep two, four, five or eight, and some have views onto the attractive internal garden. It's wheelchair accessible.

○ ARCO DEL LAURO

(B&B €€)

(MAP GOOGLE MAP ; %346 2443212, 9am-2pm 06 9784 0350; www.arcodellauro.it; Via Arco de' Tolomei 27; s €72-132, d €132-145; a; g Viale di Trastevere, j Via Trastevere)

A real find, this fab six-room B&B occupies a centuries-old palazzo on a narrow cobbled street. Its gleaming white rooms combine rustic charm with a modern low-key look and comfortable beds. The owners extend a warm welcome and are always ready to help.
RELAYS LE CLARISSE
( MAP GOOGLE MAP : %06 5833 4437; www.leclarisse.com; Via Cardinale Merry del Val 20; r €80-230; a+W; g Viale di Trastevere, j Viale di Trastevere)

Set hacienda-style around a pretty internal courtyard with an olive tree and a smattering of cast-iron tables, this is a delightful oasis in Trastevere's bustling core. In contrast to the urban mayhem outside, the hotel is a picture of farmhouse charm with rooms, each named after a plant, decorated in rustic style with wrought-iron bedsteads and wood-beamed ceilings.

RESIDENZA ARCO DE’ TOLOMEI
( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; %06 5832 0819; www.bbarcodeitolomei.com; Via Arco de’ Tolomei 27; d €155-205; a+W; g Viale di Trastevere, j Viale di Trastevere)

This gorgeous place is decorated with polished antiques and rich contrasting chintzes that make the interiors feel like a country cottage. It’s a lovely place to stay, and the owners are friendly and helpful.

BUONANOTTE GARIBALDI
( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; %06 5833 0733; www.buonanottegaribaldi.com; Via Garibaldi 83; r €210-280, closed 7 Jan to 7 Mar; a+i; g Piazza Sonnino, j Piazza Sonnino)

With only three rooms, this is a haven: an upmarket B&B in a divinely pretty inner-city villa, set around a courtyard. The rooms, themed Green, Orange and Blue, are beautifully decorated and there are works of art and sculpture all over the place – this is artist Luisa Longo’s house.

Pick of the rooms is Blue, upstairs, which opens onto a greenery-shaded terrace.

HOTEL SANTA MARIA
( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; %06 589 46 26; www.hotelsantamaria.info; Vicolo del Piede 2; s €90-225, d €100-290, tr €130-330; a+i; g Viale di Trastevere, j Viale di Trastevere)

Walk along the ivy-lined approach and you’ll enter a tranquil haven. Surrounding a spacious modern cloister (a former convent site), shaded by orange trees, rooms are cool and comfortable, decorated in sunny colours, and with terracotta floors. There are some larger family rooms. Staff are helpful and professional, and there's access for people with a disability. There are deals offered for longer stays in summer.

Its smaller sister is Residenza Santa Maria ( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; %06 5833 5103; www.residenzasantamaria.com; Via dell’Arco di San Calisto 20; s €90-190, d €100-230; a+W), a few streets away.

VILLA DELLA FONTE
( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; %06 580 37 97; www.villafonte.com; Via della Fonte dell'Olio 8; r €80-230; a+W; g Viale di Trastevere, j Viale di Trastevere)

A lovely terracotta-hued, ivy-shrouded gem, Villa della Fonte is a romantic choice, occupying a 17th-century building in a street off Piazza Santa Maria in Trastevere. It has only five rooms, all of which are simply decorated but have pretty outlooks, good bathrooms and comfortable beds. The sunny garden terrace (for breakfast in warm weather) is a plus.

DONNA CAMILLA SAVELLI

( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; %06 58 88 61; www.hoteldonacamillassavelli.com; Via Garibaldi 27; d €165-250; a i W; g Viale di Trastevere, j Viale di Trastevere)

It's seldom you have such an exquisite opportunity as to stay in a converted convent that was designed by baroque genius Borromini. It’s been beautifully updated; muted colours complement the serene concave and convex curves of the architecture, and service is excellent. The pricier of the 78 rooms overlook the lovely cloister garden or have views of Rome, and are decorated with antiques – it's worth forking out that bit extra.

4 San Giovanni & Testaccio

ALTHEA INN

( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; %339 4353717, 06 9893 2666; www.altheainn.com; Via dei Conciatori 9; d €70-125; m Piramide)

In a workaday apartment block, this friendly B&B offers superb value for money and easy access to Testaccio's bars, clubs and restaurants. Its spacious, light-filled rooms sport a modish look with white walls and tasteful modern furniture. Each also has a small terrace.

HOTEL LANCELOT

( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; %06 7045 0615; www.lancelothotel.com; Via Capo d'Africa 47; s €100-128, d €130-196; a W; g Via di San Giovanni in Laterano)

A great location near the Colosseum, striking views, and super-helpful English-speaking staff – the family-run Lancelot scores across the board. The lobby and communal areas gleam with marble and crystal while the spacious rooms exhibit a more modest classic style.

HOTEL ROMANCE

( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; %06 8929 5106; www.hotelromance.it; Via Marco Aurelio 37a; s €70-140, d €70-200; a W; m Colosseo)

A warm welcome awaits at this family-run three-star near the Colosseum. It has quiet, comfy rooms decorated in traditional Roman style and views over a lush garden next door.

HOTEL SANT’ANSELMO

( MAP GOOGLE MAP ; %06 57 00 57; www.aventinohotels.com; Piazza Sant’Anselmo 2; s €90-265, d €99-290; a W; g Via Marmorata)

A ravishing romantic hideaway in the elegant Aventino district. Its rooms are not the biggest but they are stylish, juxtaposing four-poster beds, Liberty-style furniture and marble bathrooms with modern touches and contemporary colours.

4 Villa Borghese & Northern Rome
Housed in an early-20th-century villa, this gorgeous hotel sports an eclectic look that effortlessly blends African and Middle Eastern art with original art-deco furniture, exposed brickwork and hand-painted tiles. Rooms are individually decorated, with the best offering views over the wisteria and thick greenery in the surrounding streets.

4 Southern Rome

HOTEL ABITART

If you'd like to stay in the gritty, trendy Ostiense area, the Abitart is funkily decorated, with a pop-arty feel, and close to some good restaurants.
ROME TODAY
Political scandal goes hand in hand with monumental clean-ups and a papal charm offensive.

HISTORY
The lust for power lies at the heart of Rome’s thrilling 3000-year history.

THE ARTS
Michelangelo, Virgil and Fellini are among the artists, poets and auteurs to have found inspiration in Rome.

ARCHITECTURE
Architecture’s major developments are writ large on Rome’s magnificent cityscape.

THE ROMAN WAY OF LIFE
What’s it really like to live in Italy’s Eternal City?
Rome Today

Recent events have left Rome shaken and angry. In late 2014 the city was shocked to the core as details emerged of deep-rooted corruption in city hall and links to organised crime. This, coming after a year of spending cuts and economic uncertainty, was a bitter pill for the city's already weary residents to swallow. On the plus side, restoration work concluded on several high-profile monuments, and Pope Francis continues to win over fans in the Vatican.

Scandal Rocks the City

Rome is no stranger to controversy but even hardened observers were shocked by the Mafia Capitale scandal that rocked the city in late 2014.

The controversy centred on a criminal gang that had infiltrated city hall and was making millions by milking off funds earmarked for immigration centres and camps for the city's Roma population. Thirty-seven people were arrested and up to 100 politicians and public officials, including former mayor Gianni Alemanno, were placed under police investigation. The Romans, not unused to the colourful behaviour of their elected officials, were appalled and a feeling of genuine outrage swept the city.

The man charged with cleaning up the mess – quite literally in some places as the gang had also muscled in on waste disposal contracts – was mayor Ignazio Marino. A former surgeon who likes to cycle around town, Marino has not had an easy ride since taking over from Alemanno in mid-2013. He has had to deal with the city's parlous finances – Rome narrowly avoided bankruptcy in early 2014 – while also managing local exasperation at the state of degradation and neglect in the city.

He has come under enormous pressure to resign but so far he has resisted, and, in a defiant move to promote the city, he recently backed a bid for Rome to host the 2024 Olympics.

Restoration & Urban Art

Rome's recent economic straits have put an enormous strain on the city's capacity to maintain its historical monuments. But walk around town today and you'll see several high-profile monuments gleaming in the wake of recent makeovers.

Despite the very public nature of these restoration projects, most of them were actually financed by private money. In the past few years Rome's cultural administrators have been actively courting private investment to help shore up municipal budgets. And while this has attracted heated debate, it has proved successful: the Colosseum clean-up was sponsored by Tod's, the Fendi fashion house footed the bill for work on the Trevi Fountain, and Bulgari has pledged €1.5 million towards an overhaul of the Spanish Steps.

But away from the spotlight, it's been a very different story. Little private money has been pouring into Rome's suburbs, so the locals have taken it on themselves to brighten things up. Street art has exploded onto the scene in recent times, and giant murals have become a real feature of some of the city's lesser-known neighbourhoods.

The Pope's Charm Offensive

Over on the west bank of the Tiber, the Vatican continues to capture the world's attention.

In April 2014 an estimated 800,000 people flocked to St Peter's to witness the dual canonisation of Popes John Paul II and John XXIII. Overseeing events was Pope Francis, the popular Argentinian pontiff whose papacy has done much to resurrect the Church's image in the wake of Benedict XVI's troubled tenure.

His humble, everyman style has proved a hit, and efforts to put social and environmental issues at the centre of the Church agenda have won him widespread applause.

In a surprise recent move, he generated much excitement, as well as a fair degree of panic, by proclaiming a Jubilee Year to run from December 2015 to November 2016. A Jubilee or Holy Year is one in which the Church offers a plenary indulgence to Catholics who visit one of Rome's patriarchal basilicas and observe certain religious conditions. City officials, while delighted at the prospect of all the money the pilgrims will bring, are understandably daunted at the prospect of having to prepare for such a huge event in such a short time.

Tourism Thrives

As well as wooing Catholics back to the fold, Pope Francis has had a positive effect on tourism, and in 2014 he was credited with inspiring a 28% increase in the number of Argentinian visitors to the city.

Surprisingly, Rome's recent tribulations haven't adversely affected tourism, which continues to go from strength to strength – arrivals in 2014 were up on previous years, confirming the recent upward trend.

But a rise in tourist numbers, while generally a good thing for the city, has proved a mixed blessing for the Sistine Chapel. This, the star attraction of the Vatican Museums, is full to bursting, and in March 2015 the Museums' director announced that he would have to limit daily visits if visitor numbers continued to grow.

Best on Film

La grande bellezza (The Great Beauty; 2013) Paolo Sorrentino's Fellini-esque homage to the Eternal City.

Roma Città Aperta (Rome Open City; 1945) A neo-realist study of desperation in Nazi-occupied Rome.

Dear Diary (1994) Cult director Nanni Moretti scoots around a semi-deserted Rome.

The Talented Mr Ripley (1999) Murderous intrigue on Piazza di Spagna and in other Italian locations.
Best in Print

Roman Tales (Alberto Moravia; 1954) Short stories set in Rome’s poorest neighbourhoods.

Rome (Robert Hughes; 2012) A personal portrait of the city by the straight-talking Australian art critic.

Michelangelo & the Pope’s Ceiling (Ross King; 2003) Fascinating account of the painting of the Sistine Chapel.

population per sq km

```plaintext ROME ITALY

≈ 200 people
```
nationality
(% of population)

88

12

Italian

Others

if Rome were 100 people

51 would commute by car
28 would use public transport
15 would commute by scooter
6 would commute on foot
Rome’s history spans three millennia, from the classical myths of vengeful gods to the follies of Roman emperors, from Renaissance excess to swaggering 20th-century fascism. Emperors, popes and dictators have come and gone, playing out their ambitions and conspiring for their place in history. Everywhere you go in this remarkable city, you’re surrounded by the past. Martial ruins, Renaissance palazzi and flamboyant baroque basilicas all have tales to tell – of family feuding, historic upheavals, artistic rivalries, intrigues and dark passions.
Ancient Rome, the Myth
As much a mythical construct as a historical reality, ancient Rome’s image has been carefully nurtured throughout history. Intellectuals, artists and architects have sought inspiration from this skilfully constructed legend, while political and religious rulers have invoked it to legitimise their authority and serve their political ends.

Imperial Spin Doctors
Rome’s original myth-makers were the first emperors. Eager to reinforce the city’s status as capital of the world, they turned to writers such as Virgil, Ovid and Livy to create an official Roman history. These authors, while adept at weaving epic narratives, were less interested in the rigours of historical research and frequently presented myth as reality. In the Aeneid, Virgil brazenly draws on Greek legends and stories to tell the tale of Aeneas, a Trojan prince who arrives in Italy and establishes Rome’s founding dynasty. Similarly, Livy, a writer celebrated for his monumental history of the Roman Republic, makes liberal use of mythology to fill the gaps in his historical narrative.

Ancient Rome’s rulers were sophisticated masters of spin and under their tutelage, art, architecture and elaborate public ceremony were employed to perpetuate the image of Rome as an invincible and divinely sanctioned power. Monuments such as the Ara Pacis, the Colonna di Traiano and the Arco di Costantino celebrated imperial glories, while gladiatorial games highlighted the Romans’ physical superiority. The Colosseum, the Roman Forum and the Pantheon were not only sophisticated feats of engineering, they were also impregnable symbols of Rome’s eternal might.

Excavations under the Lapis Niger in the Roman Forum have unearthed a wall dating to between the end of the 9th century BC and the early 8th century BC. This would suggest that Rome was founded a century or so before its traditional birth date of 753 BC.

The Past as Inspiration
During the Renaissance, a period in which ancient Rome was hailed as the high point of Western civilisation, the city's great monuments inspired a whole generation of artists and architects. Bramante, Michelangelo and Raphael modelled their work on classical precedents as they helped rebuild Rome as the capital of the Catholic Church.

But more than anyone, it was Italy’s 20th-century fascist dictator Benito Mussolini who invoked the glories of ancient Rome. Il Duce spared no effort in his attempts to identify his fascist regime with imperial Rome – he made Rome’s traditional birthday, 21 April, an official Fascist holiday, he printed stamps with images of ancient Roman emperors, and he commissioned archaeological digs to unearth further proof of Roman might. His idealisation of the Roman Empire underpinned much of his colonialist ideology.

Nowadays, the myth of Rome is used less as a rallying cry and more as an advertising tool – and with some success. However cynical and world-weary you are, it’s difficult to deny the thrill of ROMULUS & REMUS, ROME’S LEGENDARY TWINS

The most famous of Rome’s many legends is the story of Romulus and Remus and the foundation of the city on 21 April 753 BC.

According to myth, Romulus and Remus were the children of the vestal virgin Rhea Silva and the god of war, Mars. While still babies they were set adrift on the Tiber to escape a death penalty imposed by their great-uncle Amulius, who at the time was battling with their grandfather Numitor for control of Alba Longa. However, they were discovered near the Palatino by a she-wolf, who suckled them until a shepherd, Faustulus, found and raised them.

Years later the twins decided to found a city on the site where they’d originally been saved. They didn’t know where this was, so they consulted the omens. Remus, on the Aventino, saw six vultures; his brother over on the Palatino saw 12. The meaning was clear and Romulus began building, much to the outrage of his brother. The two subsequently argued and Romulus killed Remus.

Romulus continued building and soon had a city. To populate it he created a refuge on the Campidoglio, Aventino, Celio and Quirinale Hills, to which a ragtag population of criminals, ex-slaves and outlaws soon decamped. However, the city still needed women. Romulus therefore invited everyone in the surrounding country to celebrate the Festival of Consus (21 August). As the spectators watched the festival games, Romulus and his men pounced and abducted all the women, an act that was to go down in history as the Rape of the Sabine Women.
Rising out of the bloodstained remains of the Roman Republic, the Roman Empire was the Western world’s first great superpower. At its zenith under the emperor Trajan (r AD 98–117), it extended from Britannia in the north to North Africa in the south, from Hispania (Spain) in the west to Palestina (Palestine) and Syria in the east. Rome itself had more than 1.5 million inhabitants and the city sparkled with the trappings of imperial splendour: marble temples, public baths, theatres, circuses and libraries. Decline eventually set in during the 3rd century, and by the latter half of the 5th century, Rome was in barbarian hands.

The patron saints of Rome, Peter and Paul, were both executed during Nero’s persecution of the Christians between 64 and 68. Paul, who as a Roman citizen was entitled to a quick death, was beheaded, while Peter was crucified head down on the Vatican Hill.

Europe Divided
The empire’s most immediate legacy was the division of Europe into east and west. In AD 285 the emperor Diocletian, prompted by widespread disquiet across the empire, split the Roman Empire into eastern and western halves – the west centred on Rome, the east on Byzantium (later called Constantinople) – in a move that was to have far-reaching consequences. In the west, the fall of the Western Roman Empire in AD 476 paved the way for the emergence of the Holy Roman Empire and the Papal States, while in the east, Roman (later Byzantine) rule continued until 1453 when the empire was conquered by Ottoman armies.
Democracy & the Rule of Law

In broader cultural terms, Roman innovations in language, law, government, art, architecture, engineering and public administration remain relevant to this day.

One of the Romans’ most striking contributions to modern society was democratic government. Democracy had first appeared in 5th-century-BC Athens, but it was the Romans, with their genius for organisation, who took it to another level. Under the Roman Republic (509–47 BC), the Roman population was divided into two categories: the Senate and the Roman people. Both held clearly defined responsibilities. The people, through three assembly bodies – the Centuriate Assembly, the Tribal Assembly and the Council of the People – voted on all new laws and elected two annual tribunes who had the power of veto in the Senate. The Senate, for its part, elected and advised two annual consuls who acted as political and military leaders. It also controlled the Republic’s purse strings and, in times of grave peril, could nominate a dictator for a six-month period.

This system worked pretty well for the duration of the Republic, and remained more or less intact during the empire – at least on paper. In practice, the Senate assumed the assemblies’ legislative powers and the emperor claimed power of veto over the Senate, a move that pretty much gave him complete command.

The observance of law was an important element in Roman society. As far back as the 5th century BC, the Republic had a bill of rights, known as the Twelve Tables. This remained the foundation stone of Rome’s legal system until the emperor Justinian (r 527–65) produced his mammoth Corpus Iuris Civilis (Body of Civil Law) in 529. This not only codified all existing laws, but also included a systematic treatise on legal philosophy. In particular, it introduced a distinction between ius civilis (civil law; laws particular to a state), ius gentium (law of nations; laws established and shared by states) and ius naturale (natural law; laws concerning male-female relationships and matrimony).

Latin

More than the laws themselves, Rome’s greatest legacy to the legal profession was the Latin language. Latin was the lingua franca of the Roman Empire and was later adopted by the Catholic Church, a major reason for its survival. It is still one of the Vatican’s official languages and until the second Vatican Council (1962–65) it was the only language in which Catholic Mass could be said. As the basis for modern Romance languages such as Italian, French and Spanish, it provides the linguistic roots of many modern words.

Virgil (70 BC–19 BC), real name Publius Vergilius Maro, was born near the northern Italian town of Mantua to a wealthy family. He studied in Cremona, Milan, Rome and Naples, before becoming Rome’s best-known classical poet. His most famous works are the Eclogues, Georgics and the Aeneid.

Roman Roads

Just as many words lead to Latin, so all roads lead to Rome. The ancient Romans were the master engineers of their day, and their ability to travel quickly was an important factor in their power to rule. The queen of all ancient roads was Via Appia Antica, which connected Rome with the southern Adriatic port of Brindisi. Via Appia survives to this day, as do many of the other consular roads: Via Aurelia, Via Cassia, Via Flaminia and Via Salaria among them.

A WHO'S WHO OF ROMAN EMPERORS

Of the 250 or so emperors of the Roman Empire, only a few were truly heroic. Here we highlight 10 of the best, worst and completely insane.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Emperor</th>
<th>Biography / Achievements</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Augustus</td>
<td>Rome’s first emperor. Ushers in a period of peace and security; the arts flourish and many monuments are built, including the Ara Pacis and Pantheon.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Caligula</td>
<td>Emperor number three after Augustus and Tiberius. Remains popular until illness leads to the depraved behaviour for which he becomes infamous. Is murdered by his bodyguards on the Palatino.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Claudius</td>
<td>Expands the Roman Empire and conquers Britain. Is eventually poisoned, probably at the instigation of Agrippina, his wife and Nero’s mother.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Nero</td>
<td>Initially rules well but later slips into madness – he has his mother murdered, persecutes the Christians, and attempts to turn half the city into a palace, the Domus Aurea. He is eventually forced into suicide.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Vespasian</td>
<td>First of the Flavian dynasty, he imposes peace and cleans up the imperial finances. His greatest legacy is the Colosseum.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Trajan</td>
<td>Conquers the east and rules over the empire at its zenith. He revamps Rome’s city centre, adding a forum, marketplace and column, all of which still stand.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hadrian</td>
<td>Puts an end to imperial expansion and constructs walls to mark the empire’s borders. He rebuilds the Pantheon and has one of the ancient world’s greatest villas built at Tivoli.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Aurelian</td>
<td>Does much to control the rebellion that sweeps the empire at the end of the 3rd century. Starts construction of the city walls that still today bear his name.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Diocletian</td>
<td>Splits the empire into eastern and western halves in 285. Launches a savage persecution of the Christians as he struggles to control the empire’s eastern reaches.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Constantine I</td>
<td>Although based in Byzantium (later renamed Constantinople in his honour), he legalises Christianity and embarks on a church-building spree in Rome.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Via Appia Antica is named after Appius Claudius Caecus, the Roman censor who initiated its construction in 312 BC. He also built Rome’s first aqueduct, the Aqua Appia, which brought in water from the Sabine Hills.
Christianity & Papal Power
For much of its history Rome has been ruled by the pope, and still today the Vatican wields immense influence over the city.

The ancient Romans were remarkably tolerant of foreign religions. They themselves worshipped a cosmopolitan pantheon of gods, ranging from household spirits and former emperors to deities appropriated from Greek mythology (Jupiter, Juno, Neptune, Minerva etc). Religious cults were also popular – the Egyptian gods Isis and Serapis enjoyed a mass following, as did Mithras, a heroic saviour-god of vaguely Persian origin, who was worshipped by male-only devotees in underground temples.

Emergence of Christianity
Christianity entered this religious cocktail in the 1st century AD, sweeping in from Judaea, a Roman province in what is now Israel and the West Bank. Its early days were marred by persecution, most notably under Nero (r 54–68), but it slowly caught on, thanks to its popular message of heavenly reward and the evangelising efforts of Sts Peter and Paul. However, it was the conversion of the emperor Constantine (r 306–37) that really set Christianity on the path to European domination. In 313 Constantine issued the Edict of Milan, officially legalising Christianity, and later, in 378, Theodosius (r 379–95) made Christianity Rome’s state religion. By this time, the Church had developed a sophisticated organisational structure based on five major sees: Rome, Constantinople, Alexandria, Antioch and Jerusalem. At the outset, each bishopric carried equal weight, but in subsequent years Rome emerged as the senior party. The reasons for this were partly political – Rome was the wealthy capital of the Roman Empire – and partly religious – early Christian doctrine held that St Peter, founder of the Roman Church, had been sanctioned by Christ to lead the universal Church.

Papal Control
But while Rome had control of Christianity, the Church had yet to conquer Rome. This it did in the dark days that followed the fall of the Roman Empire. And although no one person can take credit for this, Pope Gregory the Great (r 590–604) did more than most to lay the groundwork. A leader of considerable foresight, he won many friends by supplying free bread to Rome’s starving citizens and restoring the city’s water supply. He also stood up to the menacing Lombards, who presented a very real threat to the city.

It was this threat that pushed the papacy into an alliance with the Frankish kings, an alliance that resulted in the creation of the two great powers of medieval Europe: the Papal States and the Holy Roman Empire. In Rome, the battle between these two superpowers translated into endless feuding between the city’s baronial families and frequent attempts by the French to claim the papacy for their own. This political and military fighting eventually culminated in the papacy transferring to the French city of Avignon between 1309 and 1377, and the Great Schism (1378–1417), a period in which the Catholic world was headed by two popes, one in Rome and one in Avignon.

As both religious and temporal leaders, Rome’s popes wielded influence well beyond their military capacity. For much of the medieval period, the Church held a virtual monopoly on Europe’s reading material (mostly religious scripts written in Latin) and was the authority on virtually every aspect of human knowledge. All innovations in science, philosophy and literature had to be cleared by the Church’s hawkish scholars, who were constantly on the lookout for heresy.

DONATION OF CONSTANTINE

The most famous forgery in medieval history, the Donation of Constantine is a document in which the Roman emperor Constantine purportedly grants Pope Sylvester I (r 314–35) and his successors control of Rome and the Western Roman Empire, as well as primacy over the holy sees of Antioch, Alexandria, Constantinople, Jerusalem and all the world’s churches.

No one is exactly sure when the document was written but the consensus is that it dates to the mid- or late 8th century. Certainly this fits with the widespread theory that the author was a Roman cleric, possibly working with the knowledge of Pope Stephen II (r 752–57).

For centuries the donation was accepted as genuine and used by popes to justify their territorial claims. But in 1440 the Italian philosopher Lorenzo Valla proved that it was a forgery. By analysing the Latin used in the document he was able to show that it was inconsistent with the Latin used in the 4th century.

Modern Influence

Almost a thousand years on and the Church is still a major influence on modern Italian life. Its rigid stance on social and ethical issues such as abortion, same-sex marriage and euthanasia informs much public debate, often with highly divisive results. A famous example was a right-to-die case in 2008 that saw the Vatican try to block a High Court decision allowing doctors to cease treatment of a long-term coma patient.

The relationship between the Church and Italy’s modern political establishment has been a fact of life since the founding of the Italian Republic in 1946. For much of the First Republic (1946–94), the Vatican was closely associated with the Christian Democrat party (DC, Democrazia Cristiana), Italy’s most powerful party and an ardent opponent of communism. At the same time, the Church, keen to weed communism out of the political landscape, played its part by threatening to excommunicate anyone who voted for Italy’s Communist Party (PCI, Partito Comunista Italiano).

Today, no one political party has a monopoly on Church favour, and politicians across the spectrum tread warily around Catholic sensibilities. But this reverence isn’t limited to the purely political sphere; it also informs much press reporting and even law enforcement. In September 2008 Rome’s public prosecutor threatened to prosecute a comedian for comments made against the pope, invoking the 1929 Lateran Treaty under which it is a criminal offence to ‘offend the honour’ of the pope and Italian president. The charge, which ignited a heated debate on censorship and the right to free speech, was eventually dropped by the Italian justice minister.
You’ll see the letters SPQR everywhere in Rome. They were adopted during the Roman Republic and stand for Senatus Populusque Romanus (the Senate and People of Rome).
Renaissance – a New Beginning
Bridging the gap between the Middle Ages and the modern era, the Renaissance (Rinascimento in Italian) was a far-reaching intellectual, artistic and cultural movement. It emerged in 14th-century Florence but quickly spread to Rome, where it gave rise to one of the greatest makeovers the city had ever seen.

The Borgias, led by family patriarch Rodrigo, aka Pope Alexander VI (r 1492−1503), were one of Renaissance Rome’s most notorious families. Machiavelli supposedly modelled Il Principe (The Prince) on Rodrigo’s son, Cesare, while his daughter, Lucrezia, earned notoriety as a femme fatale with a penchant for poisoning her enemies.

Humanism & Rebuilding
The movement’s intellectual cornerstone was humanism, a philosophy that focused on the central role of humanity within the universe, a major break from the medieval world view, which had placed God at the centre of everything. It was not anti-religious, though. Many humanist scholars were priests and most of Rome’s great works of Renaissance art were commissioned by the Church. In fact, it was one of the most celebrated humanist scholars of the 15th century, Pope Nicholas V (r 1447–84), who is generally considered the harbinger of the Roman Renaissance.

When Nicholas became pope in 1447, Rome was not in good shape. Centuries of medieval feuding had reduced the city to a semi-deserted battleground, and its bedraggled population lived in constant fear of plague, famine and flooding (the Tiber regularly broke its banks). In political terms, the papacy was recovering from the trauma of the Great Schism and attempting to face down Muslim encroachment in the east.

It was against this background that Nicholas decided to rebuild Rome as a showcase for Church power. To finance his plans, he declared 1450 a Jubilee year, a tried and tested way of raising funds by attracting hundreds of thousands of pilgrims to the city (in a Jubilee year anyone who comes to Rome and confesses receives a full papal pardon).

Over the course of the next 80 years or so, Rome underwent a complete overhaul. Pope Sixtus IV (r 1471–84) had the Sistine Chapel built and, in 1471, gave the people of Rome a selection of bronzes that became the first exhibits of the Capitoline Museums. Julius II (r 1503–13) laid Via del Corso and Via Giulia, and ordered Bramante to rebuild St Peter’s Basilica. Michelangelo frescoed the Sistine Chapel and designed the dome of St Peter’s, while Raphael inspired a whole generation of painters with his masterful grasp of perspective.

The Sack of Rome & Protestant Protest
But outside Rome an ill wind was blowing. The main source of trouble was the long-standing conflict between the Holy Roman Empire, led by the Spanish Charles V, and the Italian city states. This simmering tension came to a head in 1527 when Rome was invaded by Charles’ marauding army and ransacked while Pope Clement VII (r 1523–34) hid in Castel Sant’Angelo. The sack of Rome, regarded by most historians as the nail in the coffin of the Roman Renaissance, was a hugely traumatic event. It left the papacy reeling and gave rise to the view that the Church had been greatly weakened by its own moral shortcomings. That the Church was corrupt was well known, and it was with considerable public support that Martin Luther pinned his 95 Theses to a church door in Wittenberg in 1517, thus sparking the Protestant Reformation.

The Counter-Reformation

The Counter-Reformation, the Catholic response to the Reformation, was marked by a second wave of artistic and architectural activity as the Church once again turned to bricks and mortar to restore its authority. But in contrast to the Renaissance, the Counter-Reformation was also a period of persecution and official intolerance. With the full blessing of Pope Paul III, Ignatius Loyola founded the Jesuits in 1540, and two years later the Holy Office was set up as the Church’s final appeals court for trials prosecuted by the Inquisition. In 1559 the Church published the Index Librorum Prohibitorum (Index of Prohibited Books) and began to persecute intellectuals and freethinkers. Galileo Galilei (1564–1642) was forced to renounce his assertion of the Copernican astronomical system, which held that the earth moved around the sun. He was summoned by the Inquisition to Rome in 1632 and exiled to Florence for the rest of his life. Giordano Bruno (1548–1600), a freethinking Dominican monk, fared worse. Arrested in Venice in 1592, he was burned at the stake eight years later in Campo de’ Fiori. The spot is today marked by a sinister statue.

Despite, or perhaps because of, the Church’s policy of zero tolerance, the Counter-Reformation was largely successful in re-establishing papal prestige. And in this sense it can be seen as the natural finale to the Renaissance that Nicholas V had kicked off in 1450. From being a rural backwater with a population of around 20,000 in the mid-15th century, Rome had grown to become one of Europe’s great 17th-century cities.

---

The Roman Inquisition was set up in the 16th century to counter the threat of Protestantism. It was responsible for prosecuting people accused of heresy, blasphemy, immorality and witchcraft, and although it did order executions, it often imposed lighter punishments such as fines and the recital of prayers.
Power & Corruption
The exercise of power has long gone hand in hand with corruption. And no one enjoyed greater power than Rome’s ancient emperors and Renaissance popes.

Gladiatorial combat was part of the public games (ludi) that the state put on at the Colosseum. Gladiators were prisoners of war, condemned criminals or volunteers who would fight in bouts of 10 to 15 minutes. Surprisingly, these rarely ended in death.

Imperial Follies & Papal Foibles
Of all ancient Rome’s cruel and insane leaders, few are as notorious as Caligula. A byword for depravity, he was hailed as a saviour when he inherited the empire from his hated great-uncle Tiberius in AD 37. But this optimism was soon to prove ill-founded, and after a bout of serious illness, Caligula began showing disturbing signs of mental instability. He made his senators worship him and infamously tried to make his horse a senator. By AD 41 everyone had had enough of him, and on 24 January the leader of his own Praetorian Guard stabbed him to death.

Debauchery on such a scale was rare in the Renaissance papacy, but corruption was no stranger to the corridors of ecclesiastical power. It was not uncommon for popes to father illegitimate children and nepotism was rife. The Borgia pope Alexander VI (r 1492–1503) had two illegitimate children with the first of his two high-profile mistresses. The second, Giulia Farnese, was the sister of the cardinal who was later to become Pope Paul III (r 1534–59), himself no stranger to earthly pleasures. When not persecuting heretics during the Counter-Reformation, the Farnese pontiff managed to father four children.

The pope’s personal fiefdom, the Papal States were established in the 8th century after the Frankish King Pepin drove the Lombards out of northern Italy and donated large tracts of territory to Pope Stephen II. At the height of their reach, the States encompassed Rome and much of central Italy.

Tangentopoli
Corruption has also featured in modern Italian politics, most famously during the 1990s Tangentopoli (Kickback City) scandal. Against a backdrop of steady economic growth, the controversy broke in Milan in 1992 when a routine corruption case – accepting bribes in exchange for contracts – blew up into a nationwide crusade against corruption.

Led by magistrate Antonio di Pietro, the Mani Pulite (Clean Hands) investigations exposed a political and business system riddled with corruption. Politicians, public officials and business people were investigated and for once no one was spared, not even the powerful Bettino Craxi (prime minister between 1983 and 1989), who rather than face trial fled Rome in 1993. He was subsequently convicted in absentia on corruption charges and died in self-imposed exile in Tunisia.
Contemporary Controversies

Controversy and lurid gossip were a recurring feature of Silvio Berlusconi's three terms as prime minister (1994, 2000–06, and 2008–11). In 2010, one of his right-hand men, Guido Bertolaso, was caught up in a police probe into the allocation of construction contracts for the 2009 G8 conference, while Berlusconi himself faced a series of trials, mostly for business-related tax offences. His prosecutors finally got him in 2012 when he was convicted of tax fraud and sentenced to community service and a two-year ban on holding public office.

More recently, city hall became the focus of a massive corruption investigation in late 2014 as allegations surfaced that members of the city's municipal council had been colluding with criminals to skim the cream off public funds.

BERLUSCONI, THE BILLIONAIRE POLITICIAN

A charismatic media magnate, Silvio Berlusconi dominated Italian political and public life in the noughties. The undisputed leader of Italy's right wing (and one of Italy's richest men), he headed three governments and a business empire that spanned the media, advertising, finance, construction and sport.

From the start his political career was controversial and highly divisive. Fans worshipped him for what they saw as his modern 'can-do' attitude and cheerful optimism. They readily forgave him his 'bunga bunga' sex parties and questionable jokes. Enemies railed against his hold over the country's media and claimed that he was in politics solely to protect himself from prosecution and safeguard his extensive business interests.

It's now more than 20 years since he entered politics, and while he is still around, he is no longer the force he was. He resigned as PM in 2011 and, despite a good showing in the 2013 election, his days as Italy's commander-in-chief are well and truly behind him.
The First Tourists
Pilgrims have been pouring into Rome for centuries but it was the classically minded travellers of the 18th and 19th centuries who established the city's reputation as a modern holiday hotspot.

Religious Pilgrimages
As seat of the Catholic Church, Rome was already one of the main pilgrim destinations in the Middle Ages, when, in 1300, Pope Boniface VIII proclaimed the first ever Holy Year (Jubilee). Promising full forgiveness for anyone who made the pilgrimage to St Peter’s Basilica and the Basilica di San Giovanni in Laterano, his appeal to the faithful proved a resounding success. Hundreds of thousands answered his call and the Church basked in popular glory.

Some 700 years later and the Holy Year tradition is still going strong. Up to 24 million visitors descended on the city for Pope John Paul II’s 2000 Jubilee, a feat that the Vatican will be hoping to repeat in the Holy Year that Pope Francis has declared for 2016.

The Grand Tour
While Rome has a long past as a pilgrimage site, its history as a modern tourist destination can be traced back to the late 1700s and the fashion for the Grand Tour. The 18th-century version of a gap year, the Tour was considered an educational rite of passage for wealthy young men from northern Europe, and Britain in particular. In the 19th century it became fashionable for young ladies to travel, chaperoned by spinster aunts, but in the late 1700s it was largely a male preserve.

The overland journey through France and into Italy followed the medieval pilgrim route, entering Italy via the St Bernard Pass and descending the west coast before cutting in to Florence and then down to Rome. After a sojourn in the capital, tourists would venture down to Naples, where the newly discovered ruins of Pompeii and Herculaneum were causing much excitement, before heading up to Venice.

Rome, enjoying a rare period of peace, was perfectly set up for this English invasion. The city was basking in the aftermath of the 17th-century baroque building boom, and a craze for all things classical was sweeping Europe. Rome’s papal authorities were also crying out for money after their excesses had left the city coffers bare, reducing much of the population to abject poverty.

Thousands came, including Goethe, who stopped off to write his travelogue Italian Journey (1817), as well as Byron, Shelley and Keats, who all fuelled their romantic sensibilities in the city’s vibrant streets. So many English people stayed around Piazza di Spagna that locals christened the area er ghetto de l’inglesi (the English ghetto).

Artistically, rococo was the rage of the moment. The Spanish Steps, built between 1723 and 1726, proved a major hit with tourists, as did the exuberant Trevi Fountain.
In his 1818 work Childe Harold's Pilgrimage, the English poet Lord Byron quotes the words of the 8th-century monk Bede: ‘While stands the Coliseum, Rome shall stand; When falls the Coliseum, Rome shall fall! And when Rome falls – the World.’

Romantic poet John Keats lived the last months of his short life in a house by the Spanish Steps. He died in February 1821 and, along with fellow poet Percy Bysshe Shelley, was buried in Rome's Cimitero Acattolico per gli Stranieri.
The Ghosts of Fascism

Rome’s fascist history is a highly charged subject. In recent years historians on both sides of the political spectrum have accused each other of recasting the past to suit their views: left-wing historians have criticised their right-wing counterparts for glossing over the more unpleasant aspects of Mussolini’s regime, while right-wingers have attacked their left-wing colleagues for whitewashing the facts to perpetuate an overly simplistic anti-fascist narrative.

Mussolini

Benito Mussolini was born in 1883 in Forlì, a small town in Emilia-Romagna. As a young man he was a member of the Italian Socialist Party, but service in WWI and Italy’s subsequent descent into chaos led to a change of heart, and in 1919 he founded the Italian Fascist Party. Calling for rights for war veterans, law and order, and a strong nation, the party won support from disillusioned soldiers, many of whom joined the squads of Blackshirts that Mussolini used to intimidate his political enemies.

In 1921 Mussolini was elected to the Chamber of Deputies. His parliamentary support was limited but on 28 October 1922 he marched on Rome with 40,000 black-shirted followers. Fearful of civil war between the fascists and socialists, King Vittorio Emanuele III responded by inviting Mussolini to form a government. His first government was a coalition of fascists, nationalists and liberals, but victory in the 1924 elections left him better placed to consolidate his power, and by the end of 1925 he had seized complete control of Italy. In order to silence the Church he signed the Lateran Treaty in 1929, which made Catholicism the state religion and recognised the sovereignty of the Vatican State.

On the home front, Mussolini embarked on a huge building program: Via dei Fori Imperiali and Via della Conciliazione were laid out; parks were opened on the Oppio Hill and at Villa Celimontana; the Imperial Forums and the temples at Largo di Torre Argentina were excavated; and the monumental Foro Italico sports complex and EUR were built.

Abroad, Mussolini invaded Abyssinia (now Ethiopia) in 1935 and sided with Hitler in 1936. In 1940, standing on the balcony of Palazzo Venezia, he announced Italy’s entry into WWII to a vast, cheering crowd. The good humour didn’t last, as Rome suffered, first at the hands of its own Fascist regime, then, after Mussolini was ousted in 1943, at the hands of the Nazis. Rome was liberated from German occupation on 4 June 1944.

Post-War Period

Defeat in WWII didn’t kill off Italian fascism, and in 1946 hardline Mussolini supporters founded the Movimento Sociale Italiano (MSI; Italian Social Movement). For close on 50 years this overtly fascist party participated in mainstream Italian politics, while on the other side of the spectrum the Partito Comunista Italiano (PCI; Italian Communist Party) grew into Western Europe’s largest communist party. The MSI was finally dissolved in 1994, when Gianfranco Fini rebranded it as the post-Fascist Alleanza Nazionale (AN; National Alliance). AN remained an important political player until it was incorporated into Silvio Berlusconi’s Popolo della Libertà party in 2009.

Outside the political mainstream, fascism (along with communism) was a driving force of the domestic terrorism that rocked Rome and Italy during the anni di piombo (years of lead), between the late 1960s and the early ’80s. Terrorist groups emerged on both sides of the ideological spectrum, giving rise to a spate of politically inspired violence. In one of the era's most notorious episodes, the communist Brigate Rosse (Red Brigades) kidnapped and killed former prime minister Aldo Moro in 1978, leaving his bullet-ridden body in the boot of a car on Via Michelangelo Caetani near the Jewish Ghetto.

Now an established political player, former comedian Beppe Grillo hit the big time when his 5 Star Movement took a quarter of the vote in Italy's 2013 election. A charismatic rabble-rouser, Grillo articulated the anger felt by many Italians against the country's pampered political elite.

TIMELINE

753 BC
According to legend, Romulus kills his twin brother Remus and founds Rome. Archaeological evidence exists of an 8th-century settlement on the Palatino.

509 BC
On the death of the king Tarquinius Superbus, the Roman Republic is founded, paving the way for Rome's rise to European domination.

146 BC
Carthage is razed to the ground at the end of the Third Punic War and mainland Greece is conquered by rampant legionaries. Rome becomes undisputed master of the Mediterranean.

73–71 BC
Spartacus leads a slave revolt against dictator Cornelius Sulla. Defeat is inevitable; punishment is brutal. Spartacus and 6000 followers are crucified along Via Appia Antica.

49 BC
Alea iacta est (‘The die is cast’). Julius Caesar leads his army across the River Rubicon and marches on Rome. In the ensuing civil war, Caesar defeats rival Pompey.

15 March, 44 BC
On the Ides of March, soon after Julius Caesar is proclaimed dictator for life, he is stabbed to death in the Teatro di Pompeo (on modern-day Largo di Torre Argentina).

AD 14
Augustus dies after 41 years as Rome’s first emperor. His reign is successful, unlike those of his mad successors, Tiberius and
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Year</th>
<th>Event</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>64</td>
<td>Rome is ravaged by a huge fire that burns for five and a half days. Some blame Nero, although he was in Anzio when the conflagration broke out.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>67</td>
<td>St Peter and St Paul become martyrs as Nero massacres Rome’s Christians. The persecution is a thinly disguised ploy to win back popularity after the great fire of 64 AD.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>80</td>
<td>The 50,000-seat Flavian Amphitheatre, better known as the Colosseum, is inaugurated by the emperor Titus. Five thousand animals are slaughtered in the 100-day opening games.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>285</td>
<td>To control anarchy within the Roman Empire, Diocletian splits it into two. The eastern half is later incorporated into the Byzantine Empire; the western half falls to the barbarians.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>313</td>
<td>A year after his victory at the Battle of Milvian Bridge, the emperor Constantine issues the Edict of Milan, officially establishing religious tolerance and legally ending Christian persecution.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>476</td>
<td>The fall of Romulus Augustulus marks the end of the Western Empire. This had been on the cards for years: in 410 the Goths sacked Rome; in 455 the Vandals followed suit.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>754</td>
<td>Pope Stephen II and Pepin, king of the Franks, cut a deal resulting in the creation of the Papal States. The papacy is to rule Rome until Italian unification.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>800</td>
<td>Pope Leo III crowns Pepin’s son, Charlemagne, Holy Roman Emperor during Christmas mass at St Peter’s Basilica. A red disk in the basilica marks the spot where it happened.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1084</td>
<td>Rome is sacked by a Norman army after Pope Gregory VII invites them in to help him against the besieging forces of the Holy Roman Emperor Henry IV.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1300</td>
<td>Pope Boniface VIII proclaims Rome’s first ever Jubilee, offering a full pardon to anyone who makes the pilgrimage to the city. Up to 200,000 people are said to have come.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1309</td>
<td>Fighting between French-backed pretenders to the papacy and Roman nobility ends in Pope Clement V transferring to Avignon.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Only in 1377 does Pope Gregory XI return to Rome.

1347
Cola di Rienzo, a local notary, declares himself dictator of Rome. Surprisingly, he’s welcomed by the people; less surprisingly he’s later driven out of town by the hostile aristocracy.

1378–1417
Squabbling between factions in the Catholic Church leads to the Great Schism. The pope rules in Rome while the alternative antipope sits in Avignon.

1506
Pope Julius II employs 150 Swiss mercenaries to protect him. The 100-strong Swiss Guard, all practising Catholics from Switzerland, are still responsible for the pope’s personal safety.

1508
Michelangelo starts painting the Sistine Chapel, while down the hall Raphael begins to decorate Pope Julius II’s private apartments, better known as the Stanze di Raffaello (Raphael Rooms).

1527
Pope Clement VII takes refuge in Castel Sant’Angelo as Rome is sacked by troops loyal to Charles V, king of Spain and Holy Roman Emperor.

1540
Pope Paul III officially recognises the Society of Jesus, aka the Jesuits. The order is founded by Ignatius de Loyola, who spends his last days in the Chiesa del Gesù.

1555
As fear pervades Counter-Reformation Rome, Pope Paul IV confines the city’s Jews to the area known as the Jewish Ghetto. Official intolerance continues on and off until the 20th century.

1626
After more than 150 years of construction, St Peter’s Basilica is consecrated. The hulking basilica remains the largest church in the world until well into the 20th century.

1632
Galileo Galilei is summoned to appear before the Inquisition. He is forced to renounce his belief that the earth revolves around the sun and is exiled to Florence.

1656–67
Gian Lorenzo Bernini lays out St Peter’s Sq for Pope Alexander VII. Bernini, along with his great rival Francesco Borromini, are the leading exponents of Roman baroque.

1798
Napoleon marches into Rome, forcing Pope Pius VI to flee. A republic is announced, but it doesn’t last long and in 1801 Pius VI’s
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Year</th>
<th>Event</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1870</td>
<td>Nine years after Italian unification, Rome’s city walls are breached at Porta Pia and Pope Pius IX is forced to cede the city to Italy. Rome becomes the Italian capital.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1885</td>
<td>To celebrate Italian unification and honour Italy’s first king, Vittorio Emanuele II, construction work begins on Il Vittoriano, the mountainous monument dominating Piazza Venezia.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1922</td>
<td>Some 40,000 fascists march on Rome. King Vittorio Emanuele III, worried about the possibility of civil war, invites the 39-year-old Mussolini to form a government.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1929</td>
<td>Keen to appease the Church, Mussolini signs the Lateran Treaty, creating the state of the Vatican City. To celebrate, Via della Conciliazione is bulldozed through the medieval Borgo.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1944</td>
<td>On 24 March, 335 Romans are shot by Nazi troops in an unused quarry on Via Ardeatina. The massacre is a reprisal for a partisan bomb attack in Via Rasella.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1946</td>
<td>The Italian republic is born after a vote to abolish the monarchy. Two years later, on 1 January 1948, the Italian constitution becomes law.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1957</td>
<td>Leaders of Italy, France, West Germany, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg meet in the Capitoline Museums to sign the Treaty of Rome and establish the European Economic Community.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1960</td>
<td>Rome stages the Olympic Games while Federico Fellini films La Dolce Vita at Cinecittà studios. Three years later Elizabeth Taylor falls for Richard Burton while shooting Cleopatra at Cinecittà.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1968</td>
<td>Widespread student unrest results in mass protests across Italy. In Rome, students clash with police at La Sapienza’s architecture faculty, an event remembered as the Battle of Valle Giulia.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1978</td>
<td>Former PM Aldo Moro is kidnapped and shot by a cell of the extreme left-wing Brigate Rosse (Red Brigades) during Italy's anni di piombo (years of lead).</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
| 1992–93 | A nationwide anti-corruption crusade, Mani Puliti (Clean Hands), shakes the political and business establishment. Many high-2000
Pilgrims pour into Rome from all over the world to celebrate the Catholic Church’s Jubilee year. A highpoint is a mass attended by two million people at Tor Vergata university.

2001
Colourful media tycoon Silvio Berlusconi becomes prime minister for the second time. His first term in 1994 was a short-lived affair; his second lasts the full five-year course.

2005
Pope John Paul II dies after 27 years on the papal throne. He is replaced by his long-standing ally Josef Ratzinger, who takes the name Benedict XVI.

2008
Gianni Alemanno, a former member of the neo-fascist party MSI (Movimento Sociale Italiano), sweeps to victory in Rome’s mayoral elections. The news makes headlines across the world.

2011
PM Berlusconi resigns as Italy's debt crisis threatens to spiral out of control. He is replaced by economist Mario Monti.

2012
On 31 October the Church's top brass meet in the Sistine Chapel to celebrate the 500th anniversary of Michelangelo's ceiling frescoes.

2013
Pope Benedict XVI becomes the first pope to resign since Gregory XII in 1415. He is replaced by the Argentinian cardinal Jorge Mario Bergoglio who is elected Pope Francis.

2013
Work gets underway on a three-year €23 million clean-up of the Colosseum, the first in the arena's 2000-year history.

2014
The former mayor of Florence, 39 year-old Matteo Renzi, ousts PD party colleague Enrico Letta to become Italy's youngest ever prime minister.

2014
Ex-mayor Gianni Alemanno and up to 100 politicians and public officials are placed under police investigation as the so-called Mafia Capitale scandal rocks Rome.

2015
Rome’s presidential palace, Palazzo del Quirinale, gets a new resident as Sergio Mattarella replaces 89-year old Giorgio Napolitano as Italy's Presidente della Repubblica.
The Arts

Rome’s turbulent history and magical cityscape have long provided inspiration for painters, sculptors, film-makers, writers and musicians. The great classical works of Roman antiquity fuelled the imagination of Renaissance artists; Counter-Reformation persecution led to baroque art and popular street satire; the trauma of Mussolini and WWII found expression in neo-realist cinema. More recently, the story has been of street art and film-making in the face of austerity and funding cutbacks.
Painting & Sculpture

Home to some of the Western world’s most recognisable art, Rome is a visual feast. Its churches alone contain more masterpieces than many small countries, and the city’s galleries are laden with works by world famous artists.

Etruscan Groundwork

Laying the groundwork for much later Roman art, the Etruscans placed great importance on their funerary rites and they developed sepulchral decoration into a highly sophisticated art form. Elaborate stone sarcophagi were often embellished with a reclining figure or a couple, typically depicted with a haunting, enigmatic smile. A stunning example is the Sarcofago degli Sposi (Sarcophagus of the Betrothed) in the Museo Nazionale Etrusco di Villa Giulia. Underground funerary vaults, such as those unearthed at Tarquinia, were further enlivened with bright, exuberant frescoes. These frequently represented festivals or scenes from everyday life, with stylised figures shown dancing or playing musical instruments, often with little birds or animals in the background.

The Etruscans were also noted for their bronze work and filigree jewellery. Bronze ore was abundant and was used to craft everything from chariots to candelabras, bowls and polished mirrors. One of Rome’s most iconic sculptures, the 5th-century-BC Lupa Capitolina (Capitoline Wolf), now in the Capitoline Museums, is, in fact, an Etruscan bronze. Etruscan jewellery was unrivalled throughout the Mediterranean and goldsmiths produced elaborate pieces using sophisticated filigree and granulation techniques that were only rediscovered in the 20th century.

For Italy’s best collection of Etruscan art, head to the Museo Nazionale Etrusco di Villa Giulia; to see Etruscan treasures in situ head up to Cerveteri and Tarquinia.

The best-surviving examples of Etruscan frescoes are found in Tarquinia, where up to 6000 tombs have been discovered. Particularly impressive are the illustrations in the Tomba delle Leonesse (Tomb of the Lionesses).

Roman Developments

In art, as in architecture, the ancient Romans borrowed heavily from the Etruscans and Greeks. In terms of decorative art, the Roman use of mosaics and wall paintings was derived from Etruscan funerary decoration. By the 1st century BC, floor mosaics were a popular form of home decor. Typical themes included landscapes, still lifes, geometric patterns and depictions of gods. Later, as production and artistic techniques improved, mosaics were displayed on walls and in public buildings. In the Museo Nazionale Romano: Palazzo Massimo alle Terme, you’ll find some spectacular wall mosaics from Nero’s villa in Anzio, as well as a series of superb 1st-century-BC frescoes from Villa Livia, one of the homes of Livia Drusilla, Augustus’ wife.
One of Rome's great medieval artists was Pietro Cavallini (c 1240−1330). Little is known about this Roman-born painter, but his most famous work is the Giudizio Universale (Last Judgment) fresco in the Chiesa di Santa Cecilia in Trastevere.

A number of Rome's churches boast impressive ornamental floors with geometrical arrangements of coloured marble. This revolutionary paving style was developed in the 12th and 13th centuries by a group of Roman stoneworking families, collectively known as the Cosmati.

Sculpture

Sculpture was an important element of Roman art, and was largely influenced by Greek styles. In fact, early Roman sculptures were often made by Greek artists or were, at best, copies of imported Greek works. They were largely concerned with the male physique and generally depicted visions of male beauty in mythical settings – the Apollo Belvedere and Laocoön in the Vatican Museums’ Museo Pio-Clementino are classic examples.

However, over time Roman sculpture began to lose its obsession with form and to focus on accurate representation, mainly in the form of sculptural portraits. Browse the collections of the Capitoline Museums or the Museo Nazionale Romano: Palazzo Massimo alle Terme and you’ll be struck by how lifelike – and often ugly – so many of the marble faces are.

In terms of function, Roman art was highly propagandistic. From the time of Augustus (r 27 BC − AD 14), art was increasingly used to serve the state, and artists came to be regarded as little more than state functionaries. This new narrative art often took the form of relief decoration illustrating great military victories – the Colonna di Traiano and Ara Pacis are stunning examples of the genre.

Dramatically ensconced in a Richard Meier−designed pavilion, the Ara Pacis is a key work of ancient Roman sculpture. The vast marble altar is covered with detailed reliefs, including one showing Augustus with his family.

Early Christian Art

The earliest Christian art in Rome are the traces of biblical frescoes in the Catacombe di Priscilla and the Catacombe di San Sebastiano. These, and other early works, are full of stock images: Lazarus being raised from the dead, Jesus as the good shepherd, the first Christian saints. Symbols also abound: the dove representing peace and happiness, the anchor or trident symbolising the cross, fish in reference to an acrostic from the ancient Greek word for fish (Ichthys) which spells out Jesus Christ, Son of God, Saviour.

Mosaics

With the legalisation of Christianity in the 4th century, these images began to move into the public arena, appearing in mosaics across the city. Mosaic work was the principal artistic endeavour of early Christian Rome and mosaics adorn many of the churches built in this period, including the Chiesa di Santa Pudenziana, the Mausoleo di Santa Costanza, and the Basilica di Santa Maria Maggiore.
Eastern influences became much more pronounced between the 7th and 9th centuries, when Byzantine styles swept in from the East, leading to a brighter, golden look. The best examples in Rome are in the Basilica di Santa Maria in Trastevere and the 9th-century Chiesa di Santa Prassede.

---

Top Galleries & Museums

- Vatican Museums
- Museo e Galleria Borghese
- Capitoline Museums
- Museo Nazionale Romano: Palazzo Massimo alle Terme

---

The Renaissance

Originating in late-14th-century Florence, the Renaissance had already made its mark in Tuscany and Venice before it arrived in Rome in the latter half of the 15th century. But over the next few decades it was to have a profound impact on the city as the top artists of the day were summoned to decorate the many new buildings going up around town.

---

Key Renaissance Works

- Pietà (St Peter’s Basilica)
- La Scuola di Atene (Vatican Museums)
- Deposizione di Cristo (Galleria e Museo Borghese)
- Handing over of the Keys (Sistine Chapel)

---

Michelangelo & the Sistine Chapel

Rome’s most celebrated works of Renaissance art are Michelangelo’s paintings in the Sistine Chapel – his cinematic ceiling frescoes, painted between 1508 and 1512, and the Giudizio Universale (Last Judgment), which he worked on between 1536 and 1541. Regarded as the high point of Western artistic achievement, these two works completely outshine the chapel’s wall paintings, themselves masterpieces of 15th-century fresco art by Pietro Vannucci (Perugino; 1446–1523), Sandro Botticelli (1445–1510), Domenico Ghirlandaio (1449–94), Cosimo Rosselli (1439–1507), Luca Signorelli (c 1445–1523) and Bernadino di Betto (Pinturicchio; 1454–1513).

Michelangelo Buanarroti (1475–1564), born near Arrezzo in Tuscany, was the embodiment of the Renaissance spirit. A painter, sculptor, architect and occasional poet, he, more than any other artist of the era, left an indelible mark on the Eternal City. The Sistine Chapel, his Pietà in St Peter’s Basilica, sculptures in the city’s churches – his masterpieces are legion and they remain city highlights to this day.
Michelangelo and Raphael didn’t get on. Despite this, Raphael felt compelled to honour his elder after sneaking into the Sistine Chapel to look at Michelangelo’s half-finished ceiling frescoes. He was so impressed with what he saw that he painted Michelangelo into his masterpiece La Scuola di Atene.

Raphael, Master of Perspective

Renaissance art, inspired by humanism which held man to be central to the God-created universe and beauty to represent a deep inner virtue, focused heavily on the human form. This, in turn, led artists to develop a far greater appreciation of perspective. Early Renaissance painters made great strides in formulating rules of perspective but they still struggled to paint harmonious arrangements of figures. And it was this that Raffaello Sanzio (Raphael; 1483–1520) tackled in his great masterpiece La Scuola di Atene (The School of Athens; 1510–11) in the Vatican Museums.

Originally from Urbino, Raphael arrived in Rome in 1508 and went on to become the most influential painter of his generation. A paid-up advocate of the Renaissance exaltation of beauty, he painted many versions of the Madonna and Child, all of which epitomise the Western model of ‘ideal beauty’ that perseveres to this day.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>TOP ART CHURCHES</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>St Peter’s Basilica</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Basilica di San Pietro in Vincoli</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Chiesa di San Luigi dei Francesi</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Chiesa di Santa Maria del Popolo</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Chiesa di Santa Maria della Vittoria</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Chiesa di Santa Prassede</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Counter-Reformation & the Baroque

The baroque burst onto Rome’s art scene in the early 17th century in a swirl of emotional energy. Combining a dramatic sense of dynamism with highly charged emotion, it was enthusiastically appropriated by the Catholic Church, which used it as a propaganda tool in its persecution of Counter-Reformation heresy. The powerful popes of the day eagerly championed the likes of Caravaggio, Gian Lorenzo Bernini, Domenichino, Pietro da Cortona and Alessandro Algardi.

Not surprisingly, much baroque art has a religious theme and you’ll often find depictions of martyrdoms, ecstasies and miracles.

Caravaggio

One of the key painters of the period was Caravaggio (1573–1610), the Milan-born enfant terrible of Rome’s art world. A controversial and often violent character, he arrived in Rome around 1590 and immediately set about rewriting the artistic rule books. While his peers and Catholic patrons sought to glorify and overwhelm, he painted subjects as he saw them. He had no time for ‘ideal beauty’ and caused uproar with his lifelike portrayal of hitherto sacrosanct subjects – his Madonna dei Pellegrini (Madonna of the Pilgrims) in the Chiesa di Sant’Agostino is typical of his audacious approach.
Gian Lorenzo Bernini
While Caravaggio shocked his patrons, Gian Lorenzo Bernini (1598–1680) delighted them with his stunning sculptures. More than anyone else before or since, Bernini was able to capture a moment, freezing emotions and conveying a sense of dramatic action. His depiction of Santa Teresa traffita dall’amore di Dio (Ecstasy of St Teresa) in the Chiesa di Santa Maria della Vittoria does just that, blending realism, eroticism and theatrical spirituality in a work that is widely considered one of the greatest of the baroque period. You'll find further evidence of his genius in his mythical sculptures at the Museo e Galleria Borghese.

Emerging around 1520, mannerism bridged the gap between the Renaissance and baroque era. Signature traits include the use of artificial colours, and figures with elongated limbs posed in florid settings.

Frescoes
Fresco painting continued to provide work for artists well into the 17th century. Important exponents include Domenichino (1581–1641), whose decorative works adorn the Chiesa di San Luigi dei Francesi and the Chiesa di Sant’Andrea della Valle; Pietro da Cortona (1596–1669), author of the Trionfo della Divina Provvidenza (Triumph of Divine Providence) in Palazzo Barberini; and Annibale Carracci (1560–1609), the genius behind the frescoes in Palazzo Farnese, said by some to equal those of the Sistine Chapel.

NEOCLASSICISM
Emerging in the late 18th and early 19th centuries, neoclassicism signalled a departure from the emotional abandon of the baroque and a return to the clean, sober lines of classical art. Its major exponent was the sculptor Antonio Canova (1757–1822), whose study of Paolina Bonaparte Borghese as Venere Vincitrice (Venus Victrix) in the Museo e Galleria Borghese is typical of the mildly erotic style for which he became known.

20th-Century Futurism
Often associated with fascism, Italian futurism was an ambitious wide-ranging movement, embracing not only the visual arts but also architecture, music, fashion and theatre. The futurists, who first met in 1906 in a studio on Via Margutta, were evangelical advocates of modernism and their works highlighted dynamism, speed, machinery and technology.

One of the movement’s founding fathers, Giacomo Balla (1871–1958) encapsulated the futurist ideals in works such as Espansione dinamica Velocità (Dynamic Expansion and Speed), one of a series of paintings exploring the dynamic nature of motion, and Forme Grido Viva l’Italia (The Shout Viva l'Italia), an abstract work inspired by the futurists’ desire for Italy to enter WWI. Both are on show at the Galleria Nazionale d’Arte Moderna.

Contemporary Scene

Rome’s contemporary art scene is centred on the capital's two flagship galleries: the Museo Nazionale delle Arti del XXI Secolo, better known as MAXXI, and the Museo d’Arte Contemporanea di Roma, aka MACRO. Both have struggled since opening in 2010 and 2011 respectively, but the 2013 appointment of Chinese art critic and curator Hou Hanru as MAXXI's artistic director has shaken up the scene, and recent exhibitions have provoked considerable interest, both locally and abroad.

Rome also has a burgeoning gallery scene with an increasing number of private galleries across town.

Street art has really taken off in Rome, particularly in the suburbs of Ostiense, Pigneto, San Basilio, San Lorenzo and Testaccio, where giant murals have been painted on housing blocks, abandoned buildings and disused factories. Providing an impetus is the Out Door Festival, an urban art event now in its sixth year.
Literature
A history of authoritarian rule has given rise to a rich literary tradition, encompassing everything from ancient satires to dialect poetry and anti-fascist prose. As a backdrop, Rome has inspired authors as diverse as Goethe and Dan Brown.

Cicero, Virgil et al – the Classics
Famous for his blistering oratory, Marcus Tullius Cicero (106−43 BC) was the Roman Republic’s pre-eminent author. A brilliant barrister, he became consul in 63 BC and subsequently published many philosophical works and speeches. Fancying himself as the senior statesman, he took the young Octavian under his wing and attacked Mark Antony in a series of 14 speeches, the Philippics. But these proved fatal, for when Octavian changed sides and joined Mark Antony, he demanded, and got, Cicero’s head.

Virgil gave us some of our most famous expressions: ‘fortune favours the bold’, ‘love conquers all’ and ‘time flies’. However, it was Juvenal who issued the classic warning: ‘quis custodiet ipsos custodes?’ or ‘who guards the guards?’

Poetry & Satire
A contemporary of Cicero, Catullus (c 84−54 BC) cut a very different figure. A passionate and influential poet, he is best known for his epigrams and erotic verse.

On becoming emperor, Augustus (aka Octavian) encouraged the arts, and Virgil (70−19 BC), Ovid, Horace and Tibullus all enjoyed freedom to write. Of the works produced in this period, it’s Virgil’s rollicking Aeneid that stands out. A glorified mix of legend, history and moral instruction, it tells how Aeneas escapes from Troy and after years of mythical mishaps ends up landing in Italy where his descendants Romulus and Remus eventually found Rome.

Little is known of Decimus Iunius Iuvenalis, better known as Juvenal, but his 16 satires have survived as classics of the genre. Writing in the 1st century AD, he combined an acute mind with a cutting pen, famously scorning the masses as being interested in nothing but ‘bread and circuses’.

Rome’s most influential contribution to literature was the Vulgate Bible. This dates to the 4th century when Pope Damasus (r 366−384) had his secretary Eusebius Hieronymous, aka St Jerome, translate the bible into accessible Latin. His version is the basis for the bible currently used by the Catholic Church.

Ancient Histories
The two major historians of the period were Livy (59 BC−AD 17) and Tacitus (c 56−116). Although both wrote in the early days of empire they displayed very different styles. Livy, whose history of the Roman Republic was probably used as a school textbook, cheerfully mixed myth with fact to produce an entertaining and popular tome. Tacitus, on the other hand, took a decidedly colder approach. His Annals and Histories, which cover the early years of the Roman Empire, are cutting and often witty, although imbued with an underlying pessimism.

---

Street Writing & Popular Poetry

Rome’s tradition of street writing goes back to the dark days of the 17th century Counter-Reformation. With the Church systematically suppressing criticism, disgruntled Romans began posting pasquinades (anonymous messages; named after the first person who wrote one) on the city’s so-called speaking statues. These messages, often archly critical of the authorities, were sensibly posted in the dead of night and then gleefully circulated around town the following day. The most famous speaking statue stands in Piazza Pasquino near Piazza Navona.

Dialect Verse

Poking savage fun at the rich and powerful was one of the favourite themes of Gioacchino Belli (1791–1863), one of a trio of poets who made their names writing poetry in Roman dialect. Born poor, Belli started his career with conventional and undistinguished verse, but found the crude and colourful dialect of the Roman streets better suited to his outspoken attacks on the chattering classes.

Carlo Alberto Salustri (1871–1950), aka Trilussa, is the best known of the trio. He also wrote social and political satire, although not exclusively so, and many of his poems are melancholy reflections on life, love and solitude. One of his most famous works, the anti-fascist poem All’Ombra (In the Shadow), is etched onto a plaque in Piazza Trilussa, the Trastevere square named in his honour.

The poems of Cesare Pescarella (1858–1940) present a vivid portrait of turn-of-the-century Rome. Gritty and realistic, they pull no punches in their description of the everyday life of Rome’s forgotten poor.

Rome as Inspiration

With its magical cityscape and historic atmosphere, Rome has provided inspiration for legions of foreign authors.

Romantic Visions

In the 18th century the city was a hotbed of literary activity as historians and Grand Tourists poured in from northern Europe. The German author Johann Wolfgang von Goethe captures the elation of... discovering ancient Rome and the colours of the modern city in his celebrated travelogue Italian Journey (1817).

Rome was also a magnet for the English Romantic poets. John Keats, Lord Byron, Percy Bysshe Shelley, Mary Shelley and other writers all spent time in the city. Keats came to Rome in 1821 in the hope that it would cure his ill health, but it didn’t and he died of tuberculosis in his lodgings at the foot of the Spanish Steps.

Later, in the 19th century, American author Nathaniel Hawthorne took inspiration from a sculpture in the Capitoline Museums to pen his classic The Marble Faun (1860).

Rome as Backdrop

In the first decade of the 2000s it became fashionable for novelists to use Rome as a backdrop. Most notably, Dan Brown’s thriller Angels and Demons (2001) is set in Rome, as is Jeanne Kalogridis sumptuous historical novel The Borgia Bride (2006).

Robert Harris’s accomplished fictional biographies of Cicero, Imperium (2006) and Lustrum (Conspirata in the US; 2010), are just two of many books set in ancient Rome. Other popular books in the genre include Lindsey Davis' Falco series of ancient murder mysteries.

Literature & Fascism

A controversial figure, Gabriele D’Annunzio (1863–1938) was the most flamboyant Italian writer of the early 20th century. A WWI fighter pilot and ardent nationalist, he was born in Pescara and settled in Rome in 1881. Forever associated with fascism, he wrote prolifically, both poetry and novels.

In 1559 Pope Paul IV published the Index Librorum Prohibitorum (Index of Prohibited Books), a list of books forbidden by the Catholic Church. Over the next 400 years it was revised 20 times, the last edition appearing in 1948. It was officially abolished in 1966.

The Anti-Fascists

On the opposite side of the political spectrum, Roman-born Alberto Moravia (1907–90) was banned from writing by Mussolini and, together with his wife, Elsa Morante (1912–85), was forced into hiding for a year. The alienated individual and the emptiness of fascist and bourgeois society are common themes in his writing. In La Romana (The Woman of Rome; 1947) he explores the broken dreams of a country girl, Adriana, as she slips into prostitution and theft.

The novels of Elsa Morante are characterised by a subtle psychological appraisal of her characters and can be seen as a personal cry of pity for the sufferings of individuals and society. Her 1974 masterpiece, La Storia (History), is a tough tale of a half-Jewish woman’s desperate struggle for dignity in the poverty of occupied Rome.

Taking a similarly anti-fascist line, Carlo Emilio Gadda (1893–1973) combines murder and black humour in his classic whodunnit, Quer Pasticciaccio Brutto de Via Merulana (That Awful Mess on Via Merulana; 1957). Although the mystery is never solved, the book’s a brilliant portrayal of the pomposity and corruption that thrived in Mussolini’s Rome.
PIER PAOLO PASOLINI, MASTER OF CONTROVERSY

Poet, novelist and film-maker Pier Paolo Pasolini (1922–75) was one of Italy’s most important and controversial 20th century intellectuals. His works, which are complex, unsentimental and provocative, provide a scathing portrait of Italy’s postwar social transformation.

Although he spent much of his adult life in Rome, he had a peripatetic childhood. He was born in Bologna but moved around frequently and rarely spent more than a few years in any one place.

Politically, he was a communist, but he never played a part in Italy’s left-wing establishment. In 1949 he was expelled from the Partito Comunista Italiano (PCI; Italian Communist Party) after a gay sex scandal and for the rest of his career he remained a sharp critic of the party. His most famous outburst came in the poem Il PCI ai giovani, in which he dismisses left-wing students as bourgeois and sympathises with the police, whom he describes as figli di poveri (sons of the poor). In the context of 1968 Italy, a year marked by widespread student agitation, this was a highly incendiary position to take.

Pasolini was no stranger to controversy. His first novel Ragazzi di Vita (The Ragazzi), set in the squalor of Rome’s forgotten suburbs, earned him success and a court case for obscenity. Similarly, his early films – Accattone (1961) and Mamma Roma (1962) – provoked righteous outrage with their relentlessly bleak depiction of life in the Roman underbelly.

True to the scandalous nature of his art, Pasolini was murdered in 1975. It was originally thought that his death was linked to events in the gay underworld but revelations in 2005 hinted that it might, in fact, have been a politically motivated killing.

Writing Today

Born in Rome in 1966, Niccolò Ammaniti is the best known of the city's crop of contemporary authors. In 2007 he won the Premio Strega, Italy’s top literary prize for his novel, Come Dio comanda (As God Commands), although he’s probably best known for Io Non Ho Paura (I’m Not Scared; 2001), a soulful study of a young boy’s realisation that his father is involved in a child kidnapping.

Another name to look out for is Andrea Bajani (b 1975), who has already scooped an impressive number of awards in his short writing career. The only one of his books that has so far been translated into English is Ogni promessa (Every Promise; 2010), a slow, beautifully written novel exploring themes of relationships, vulnerability, and coming to terms with the past.

Niccolò Ammaniti's 2009 Che la festa cominci (Let the Games Begin) offers debauchery, laughs, and Satanic sects as it gleefully satires the bizarre excesses of modern society.
Cinema
Rome has a long cinematic tradition, spanning the works of the postwar neo-realists and film-makers as diverse as Federico Fellini, Sergio Leone, and Paolo Sorrentino, the Oscar-winning director of La grande belleza (The Great Beauty).

Since its inception in 2006, the Festa del Cinema di Roma has established itself on the European circuit. But harsh economic realities have seen it scale back its ambitions and it now strives to champion home-grown talent.

The Golden Age
For the golden age of Roman film-making you have to turn the clocks back to the 1940s, when Roberto Rossellini (1906–77) produced a trio of neo-realist masterpieces. The first and most famous was Roma Città Aperta (Rome Open City; 1945), filmed with brutal honesty in the Prenestina district east of the city centre. Vittorio de Sica (1901–74) kept the neo-realist ball rolling in 1948 with Ladri di Biciclette (Bicycle Thieves), again filmed in Rome’s sprawling suburbs.

Federico Fellini (1920–94) took the creative baton from the neo-realists and carried it into the following decades. His disquieting style demands more of audiences, abandoning realistic shots for pointed images at once laden with humour, pathos and double meaning. Fellini’s greatest international hit was La Dolce Vita (1960), starring Marcello Mastroianni and Anita Ekberg.

The films of Pier Paolo Pasolini (1922–75) are similarly demanding. A communist Catholic homosexual, he made films such as Accattone (The Scrounger; 1961) that not only reflect his ideological and sexual tendencies but also offer a unique portrayal of Rome’s urban wasteland.

Contemporary Directors
Born in Naples but Roman by adoption, Paolo Sorrentino is the hottest property in Italian cinema right now. His 2013 hit La grande bellezza (The Great Beauty) won worldwide critical acclaim and a host of major awards, including the Oscar for Best Foreign Language Film. The movie, which focuses on a world-weary habitué of Rome's dolce vita society, presents Italy’s ancient capital as a complex, suffocating city whose lavish beauty masks a decadent, morally bankrupt heart.

In contrast to Sorrentino, a Neapolitan best known for a film about Rome, Matteo Garrone (b 1968) is a Roman best known for a film about Naples. Gomorrah (Gomorrah; 2008), a hard-hitting exposé of the Neapolitan camorra (mafia), pulls no punches as it unflinchingly depicts the grim realities of Naples' criminal underbelly.

Other Roman directors to have enjoyed recent critical acclaim include Emanuele Crialese (b 1965), author of Terraferma, a thought-provoking study of the effects of immigration on a small Sicilian island, and Saverio Costanzo (b 1975), who hit the bullseye with his 2010 adaptation of Paolo Giordano’s bestselling book La solitudine dei numeri primi (The Solitude of Prime Numbers). Gabriele Muccino (b 1967), director of the 2001 smash L’Ultimo Bacio (The Last Kiss), returned to his earlier success in 2010 with Baciami ancora (Kiss Me Again), a sequel to L’Ultimo Bacio.

Before Muccino, Rome was generally represented by Carlo Verdone (b 1950) and Nanni Moretti (b 1953). A comedian in the Roman tradition, Verdone has made a name for himself satirising his fellow citizens in a number of bittersweet comedies, such as the 1995 Viaggi di Nozze (Honeymoons).

Moretti, on the other hand, falls into no mainstream tradition. A politically active writer, actor and director, his films are often whimsical and self-indulgent. Arguably his best work, Caro Diario (Dear Diary; 1994) earned him the Best Director prize at Cannes in 1994 – an award that he topped in 2001 when he won the Palme d’Or for La Stanza del Figlio (The Son’s Room).

Throughout the 1960s and ’70s Italy was a prolific producer of horror films. Rome’s master of terror was, and still is, Dario Argento (b 1940), director of the 1975 cult classic Profondo Rosso (Deep Red) and more than 20 other movies.

On Location in Rome

Recently, the big news in cinema circles has been the return of international film-making to Rome. In 2015 Daniel Craig was charging around town in a souped-up Aston Martin for the next James Bond outing, Spectre, while Ben Stiller was camping it up for Zoolander 2, the follow-up to his 2001 hit fashion comedy. Down in the city’s southern reaches, a remake of Ben-Hur was filmed at the Cinecittà film studios, the very same place where the original sword-and-sandal epic was shot in 1959.

This renaissance in the city's cinematic fortunes is largely due to a series of tax breaks that Matteo Renzi's government has introduced to lure film-makers back to Rome and tackle the crisis that has been afflicting the city's film industry. For years Rome was a favourite film location, drawing big-name American directors and earning itself the nickname 'Hollywood on the Tiber'. However, competition from cheaper eastern European countries, combined with a fall in domestic production and cuts in government funding, led to a serious decline in fortunes in the late noughties and early part of this decade.
SERGIO LEONE, MR SPAGHETTI WESTERN

Best known for virtually single-handedly creating the spaghetti western, Sergio Leone (1929−89) is a hero to many. Astonishingly, though, he only ever directed seven films.

The son of a silent-movie director, Leone cut his teeth as a screenwriter on a series of sword-and-sandal epics, before working as assistant director on Quo Vadis? (1951) and Ben-Hur (1959). He made his directorial debut three years later on Il Colosso di Rodi (The Colossus of Rhodes; 1961).

However, it was with his famous dollar trilogy – Per un pugno di dollari (A Fistful of Dollars; 1964), Per qualche dollaro in più (For a Few Dollars More; 1965) and Il buono, il brutto, il cattivo (The Good, the Bad and the Ugly; 1966) – that he really hit the big time. The first, filmed in Spain and based on the 1961 samurai flick Yojimbo, set the style for the genre. No longer were clean-cut, morally upright heroes pitted against cartoon-style villains, but characters were complex, often morally ambiguous and driven by self-interest.

Stylistically, Leone introduced a series of innovations that were later to become trademarks. Chief among these was his use of musical themes to identify his characters. And in this he was brilliantly supported by his old schoolmate, Ennio Morricone. One of Hollywood’s most prolific composers, Morricone (b 1928) has worked on more than 500 films, but his masterpiece remains his haunting score for Il buono, il brutto, il cattivo.

---

ROME IN THE MOVIES

Rome’s monuments, piazzas and atmospheric streets provide the backdrop to many classic, and some not so classic, films.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Film Title</th>
<th>Description</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Roma Città Aperta (1945)</td>
<td>Neo-realist masterpiece shot on the streets of Pretestina.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ladri di Biciclette (1948)</td>
<td>Classic drama that ranges from the city’s desolate outskirts to Porta Portese market.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Roman Holiday (1953)</td>
<td>Gregory Peck and Audrey Hepburn scoot around Rome’s headline sights.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>La Dolce Vita (1960)</td>
<td>The Trevi Fountain stars in Fellini’s great Roman masterpiece.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Talented Mr Ripley (1999)</td>
<td>Rome sets the stage for this chilling psychological thriller.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pranzo di Ferragosto</td>
<td>A gentle comedy-drama set in a deserted Trastevere.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>(Midsummer Lunch; 2008)</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>La grande belleza (2013)</td>
<td>Rome’s beauty masks cynicism and moral decadence in Sorrentino’s Oscar-winner.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Inaugurated in 1937, Rome’s Cinecittà studios are part of cinematic folklore. Ben-Hur, Cleopatra, La Dolce Vita and Martin Scorsese’s 2002 epic Gangs of New York are among the classics that were filmed at on the studios’ vast 40-hectare site.
Music
Despite years of austerity-led cutbacks, Rome’s music scene is bearing up well. International orchestras perform to sell-out audiences, jazz greats jam in steamy clubs and rappers rage in underground venues.

Choral & Sacred Music
In a city of churches, it’s little wonder that choral music has deep roots in Rome. In the 16th and 17th centuries, Rome’s great Renaissance popes summoned the top musicians of the day to tutor the papal choir. Two of the most famous were Giovanni Pierluigi da Palestrina (c 1525–94), one of Italy’s foremost Renaissance composers, and the Naples-born Domenico Scarlatti (1685–1757).

The papal choirs were originally closed to women and the high parts were taken by castrati, boys who had been surgically castrated to preserve their high voices. The use of castrati lasted until the early 20th century, when in, 1913, Alessandro Moreschi (1858–1922), the last known castrato, retired from the Sistine Chapel choir.

To support the pope's musicians, Sixtus V established the Accademia di Santa Cecilia in 1585. Originally this was involved in the publication of sacred music, but it later developed a teaching function, and in 1839 it completely reinvented itself as an academy with wider cultural and academic goals. Today it is a highly respected conservatory with its own world class orchestra and chorus.

Opera
Rome is often snubbed by serious opera buffs who prefer their Puccini in Milan, Venice or Naples. However, performances at the city’s main opera house, the Teatro dell’Opera, are passionately followed. The Romans have long been keen opera-goers and in the 19th century a number of important operas were premiered in Rome, including Rossini’s Il Barbiere di Siviglia (The Barber of Seville; 1816), Verdi’s Il Trovatore (The Troubadour; 1853) and Giacomo Puccini’s Tosca (1900).

Tosca not only premiered in Rome but is also set in the city. The first act takes place in the Chiesa di Sant’Andrea della Valle, the second in Palazzo Farnese, and the final act in Castel Sant’Angelo, the castle from which Tosca jumps to her death.

Jazz, Rap & Hip Hop
Jazz has long been a mainstay of Rome’s music scene. Introduced by US troops during WWII, it grew in popularity during the postwar period and took off in the 1960s with the opening of the mythical Folkstudio club. Since then, it has gone from strength to strength and the city now boasts some fabulous jazz clubs, including Alexanderplatz, Big Mama, and the Casa del Jazz. Big names to look out for include Enrico Pieranunzi, a Roman-born pianist and composer, and Doctor 3, whose idiosyncratic sound has earned it considerable acclaim.

Rome also has a vibrant rap and hip-hop scene. Hip hop, which arrived in the city in the late 1980s and spread via the centro sociale (organised squat) network, was originally highly politicised and many early exponents associated themselves with Rome’s alternative left-wing scene. Since then, exposure and ever-increasing commercialisation has diluted, though not entirely extinguished, this political element. Names to look out for include Colle der Formento, Cor Veleno, Jesto, and the ragamuffin outfit Villa Ada Posse.
Theatre & Dance
Surprisingly for a city in which art has always been appreciated, Rome has no great theatrical tradition. That said, theatres such as Teatro Vascello and Teatro India stage wide-ranging programs offering everything from avant-garde dance to cutting-edge street theatre.

Although not strictly speaking a Roman, Dacia Maraini (b 1936) has produced her best work while living in Rome. Considered one of Italy's most important feminist writers, she has more than 30 plays to her name, many of which continue to be translated and performed around the world.

Dance is a major highlight of Rome’s big autumn festival, Romaeuropa. But while popular, performances rarely showcase homegrown talent, which remains thin on the ground.

Major ballet performances are staged at the Teatro dell’Opera, home to Rome’s principal ballet company, the Balletto del Teatro dell’Opera led by the Sicilian director, Eleonora Abbagnato.
Architecture

From ancient ruins and Renaissance basilicas to baroque churches and hulking fascist palazzi, Rome’s architectural legacy is unparalleled. Michelangelo, Bramante, Borromini and Bernini are among the architects who have stamped their genius on its remarkable cityscape, which features some of the Western world’s most celebrated buildings. But it’s not all about history. In recent times a number of high-profile building projects have drawn the world’s top architects to Rome, their futuristic designs provoking discussion, debate and soul-searching among the city’s passionate critics.
The Ancients
Architecture was central to the success of the ancient Romans. In building their great capital, they were among the first people to use architecture to tackle problems of infrastructure, urban management and communication. For the first time, architects and engineers designed houses, roads, aqueducts and shopping centres alongside temples, tombs and imperial palaces. To do this, the Romans advanced methods devised by the Etruscans and Greeks, developing construction techniques and building materials that allowed them to build on a massive and hitherto unseen scale.

Etruscan Roots
By the 7th century BC the Etruscans were the dominant force on the Italian peninsula, with important centres at Tarquinia, Caere (Cerveteri) and Veii (Veio). These city-states were fortified with defensive walls, and although little actually remains – the Etruscans generally built with wood and brick, which don't age well – archaeologists have found evidence of aqueducts, bridges and sewers, as well as sophisticated temples. In Rome, you can still see foundations of an Etruscan temple on the Campidoglio (Capitoline Hill).

Much of what we now know about the Etruscans derives from findings unearthed in their elaborate tombs. Like many ancient peoples, the Etruscans placed great emphasis on their treatment of the dead and they built impressive cemeteries. These were constructed outside the city walls and harboured richly decorated stone vaults covered by mounds of earth. The best examples are to be found in Cerveteri, north of Rome.

Roman Developments
When Rome was founded in 753 BC (or earlier if recent archaeological findings are to be believed), the Etruscans were at the height of their power and Greek colonists were establishing control over southern Italy. In subsequent centuries a three-way battle for domination ensued, with the Romans emerging victorious. Against this background, Roman architects borrowed heavily from Greek and Etruscan traditions.

Ancient Roman architecture was monumental in form and often propagandistic in nature. Huge amphitheatres, aqueducts and temples joined muscular and awe-inspiring basilicas, arches and thermal baths in trumpeting the skill and vision of the city’s early rulers and the nameless architects who worked for them.
Rome's ancient ruins are revealing in many ways, but the one thing they lack is colour. Ancient Rome would have been a vivid, brightly coloured place with buildings clad in coloured marble, gaudily painted temples and multicoloured statues.

Aqueducts & Sewers
One of the Romans' crowning architectural achievements was the development of a water supply infrastructure, based on a network of aqueducts and underground sewers. In the early days, Rome got its water from the Tiber and natural underground springs, but as its population grew so demand outgrew supply. To meet this demand, the Romans constructed a complex system of aqueducts to bring water in from the hills of central Italy and distribute it around town.

The first aqueduct to serve Rome was the 16.5km Aqua Appia, which became fully operational in 312 BC. Over the next 700 years or so, up to 800km of aqueducts were built in the city, a network capable of supplying up to one million cubic metres of water a day.

This was no mean feat for a system that depended entirely on gravity. All aqueducts, whether underground pipes, as most were, or vast overland viaducts, were built at a slight gradient to allow the water to flow. There were no pumps to force the water along so this gradient was key to maintaining a continuous and efficient flow.

At the other end of the water cycle, waste water was drained away via an underground sewerage system known as the Cloaca Maxima (Great Sewer) and emptied downstream into the river Tiber. The Cloaca was commissioned by Rome’s seventh and last king, Tarquin the Proud (r 535–509 BC), as part of a project to drain the valley where the Roman Forum now stands. It was originally an open ditch, but from the beginning of the 2nd century BC it was gradually built over.

Rome’s first aqueduct, the Aqua Appia, is named after the censor Appius Claudius Caecus, the same man who built Via Appia Antica.

Residential Housing

While Rome’s emperors and aristocrats lived in luxurious palaces on the Palatino (Palatine Hill), the city’s poor huddled together in large residential blocks called insulae. These were huge, poorly built structures, sometimes up to six or seven storeys high, that accommodated hundreds of people in dark, unhealthy conditions. Little remains of these early palazzi but near the foot of the Aracoeli staircase – the steps that lead up to the Chiesa di Santa Maria in Aracoeli – you can see a section of what was once a typical city-centre insula.

---

ALL ROADS LEAD TO ROME

The Romans were the great road builders of the ancient world. Approximately 80,000km of surfaced highways spanned the Roman Empire, providing vital military and communication links. Many of Rome’s modern roads retain the names of their ancient forebears and follow almost identical routes.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Road</th>
<th>Description</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Via Appia</td>
<td>The ‘queen of roads’ ran down to Brindisi on the southern Adriatic coast.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Via Aurelia</td>
<td>Connected Rome with France by way of Pisa and Genoa.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Via Cassia</td>
<td>Led north to Viterbo, Siena and Tuscany.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Via Flaminia</td>
<td>Traversed the Apennines to Rimini on the east coast.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Via Salaria</td>
<td>The old salt road linked with the Adriatic port of Castrum Truentinum,</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>south of modern-day Ancona.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The Romans used a variety of building materials. Wood and tufa, a soft volcanic rock, were used initially but travertine, a limestone quarried in Tivoli, later took over as the favoured stone. Marble, imported from across the empire, was used mainly as decorative panelling, attached to brick or concrete walls.

Concrete & Monumental Architecture

Most of the ruins that litter modern Rome are the remains of the ancient city’s big, show-stopping monuments – the Colosseum, the Pantheon, the Terme di Caracalla, the Forums. These grandiose constructions are not only reminders of the sophistication and intimidatory scale of ancient Rome – just as they were originally designed to be – they are also monuments to the vision and bravura of the city’s ancient architects.

One of the key breakthroughs the Romans made, and one that allowed them to build on an ever-increasing scale, was the invention of concrete in the 1st century BC. Made by mixing volcanic ash with lime and an aggregate, often tufa rock or brick rubble, concrete was quick to make, easy to use, and cheap. Furthermore, it freed architects from their dependence on skilled masonry labour – up to that point construction techniques required stone blocks to be specially cut to fit into each other. Concrete allowed the Romans to develop vaulted roofing, which they used to span the Pantheon’s ceiling and the huge vaults at the Terme di Caracalla.

Concrete wasn’t particularly attractive, though, and while it was used for heavy-duty structural work it was usually lined with travertine and coloured marble, imported from Greece and North Africa. Brick was also an important material, used both as a veneer and for construction.

Triumphal arches were designed as honorary monuments to commemorate military victories or an important individual. Only three of the 36 that stood in 5th-century Rome survive: the Arco di Tito and Arco di Settimio Severo in the Roman Forum, and the Arco di Costantino next to the Colosseum.

OBELISKS

More readily associated with ancient Egypt than Rome, obelisks are a distinctive feature of the Roman cityscape. Many were brought over from Egypt after it was conquered by Augustus in 31 AD and used to decorate the spina (central spine) of the city's circuses (chariot-racing arenas). Later the Romans began to make their own for their elaborate mausoleums.

The highest, and one of the oldest – it dates to the 15th century BC – towers 32.1m over Piazza San Giovanni in Laterano. The most curious sits atop Bernini's famous Elefantino statue outside the Chiesa di Santa Maria Sopra Minerva.

MAIN ARCHITECTURAL PERIODS

c 8th–3rd centuries BC
The Etruscans in central Italy and the Greeks in their southern Italian colony, Magna Graecia, lay the groundwork for later Roman developments. Particularly influential are Greek temple designs.

c 4th century BC–5th century AD
The ancient Romans make huge advances in engineering techniques, constructing monumental public buildings, bridges, aqueducts, housing blocks and an underground sewerage system.

4th–12th centuries
Church building is the focus of architectural activity in the medieval period as Rome’s early Christian leaders seek to stamp their authority on the city.
15th–16th centuries
Based on humanism and a reappraisal of classical precepts, the Renaissance hits an all-time high in the first two decades of the 16th century, a period known as the High Renaissance.

17th century
Developing out of the Counter-Reformation, the baroque flourishes in Rome, fuelled by Church money and the genius of Gian Lorenzo Bernini and Francesco Borromini.

18th century
A short-lived but theatrical style born out of the baroque, the florid rococo gifts Rome some of its most popular sights.

late 18th–19th centuries
Piazza del Popolo takes on its current form and Villa Torlonia gets a facelift courtesy of Rome's top neoclassical architect, Giuseppe Valadier.

late 19th century
Rome gets a major post-unification makeover – roads are built, piazzas are laid, and residential quarters spring up to house government bureaucrats.

early 20th century
Muscular and modern, Italian rationalism plays to Mussolini’s vision of a fearless, futuristic Rome, a 20th-century caput mundi (world capital).

1990s–
Rome provides the historic stage upon which some of the world’s top contemporary architects experiment. Criticism and praise are meted out in almost equal measure.
Early Christian
The history of early Christianity is one of persecution and martyrdom. Introduced in the 1st century AD, it was legalised by the emperor Constantine in 313 AD and became Rome’s state religion in 378. The most startling reminders of early Christian activity are the catacombs, a series of underground burial grounds built under Rome’s ancient roads. Christian belief in the resurrection meant that the Christians could not cremate their dead, as was the custom in Roman times, and with burial forbidden inside the city walls they were forced to go outside the city.

Church Building
The Christians began to abandon the catacombs in the 4th century and increasingly opted to be buried in the churches the emperor Constantine was building in the city. Although Constantine was actually based in Byzantium, which he renamed Constantinople in his own honour, he nevertheless financed an ambitious building program in Rome. The most notable of the many churches he commissioned is the Basilica di San Giovanni in Laterano. Built between 315 and 324 and re-worked into its present shape in the 5th century, it was the model on which many subsequent basilicas were based. Other period showstoppers include the Basilica di Santa Maria in Trastevere and the Basilica di Santa Maria Maggiore.

A second wave of church-building hit Rome in the period between the 8th and 12th centuries. As the early papacy battled for survival against the threatening Lombards, its leaders took to construction to leave some sort of historical imprint, resulting in the Basilica di Santa Sabina, the Chiesa di Santa Prassede and the 8th-century Chiesa di Santa Maria in Cosmedin, home of the Bocca della Verità (Mouth of Truth).

The 13th and 14th centuries were dark days for Rome as internecine fighting raged between the city’s noble families. While much of northern Europe and even parts of Italy were revelling in Gothic arches and towering vaults, little of lasting value was being built in Rome. The one great exception is the city’s only Gothic church, the Chiesa di Santa Maria Sopra Minerva.

Basilica Style
In design terms, these early Christian churches were modelled on, and built over, Rome’s great basilicas. In ancient times, a basilica was a large rectangular hall used for public functions, but as Christianity took hold they were increasingly appropriated by the city’s church-builders. The main reason for this was that they lent themselves perfectly to the new style of religious ceremonies that the Christians were introducing, rites that required space for worshippers and a central focus for the altar. Rome’s pagan temples, in contrast, had been designed as symbolic cult centres and were not set up to house the faithful – in fact, most pagan ceremonies were held outside, in front of the temple, not inside as the Christian services required.

Over time, basilica design became increasingly standardised. A principal entrance would open onto an atrium, a courtyard surrounded by colonnaded porticoes, which, in turn, would lead to the porch. The interior would be rectangular and divided by rows of columns into a central nave and smaller, side aisles. At the far end, the main altar and bishop’s throne (cathedra) would sit in a semi-circular apse. In some churches a transept would bisect the central nave to form a Latin cross.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Early Basilicas</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Basilica di San Giovanni in Laterano</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Basilica di Santa Sabina</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Basilica di Santa Maria Maggiore</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Basilica di Santa Maria in Trastevere</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
The Renaissance
Florence, rather than Rome, is generally regarded as Italy’s great Renaissance city. But while many of the movement’s early architects hailed from Tuscany, the city they turned to for inspiration was Rome. The Eternal City might have been in pretty poor nick in the late 15th century, but as the centre of classical antiquity it was much revered by budding architects and a trip to study the Colosseum and the Pantheon was considered a fundamental part of an architect’s training.

One of the key aspects they studied, and which informs much Renaissance architecture, is the concept of harmony. This was achieved through the application of symmetry, order and proportion. To this end many Renaissance buildings incorporated structural features copied from the ancients – columns, pilasters, arches and, most dramatically, domes. The Pantheon’s dome, in particular, proved immensely influential, serving as a blueprint for many later works.

Early Years
It’s impossible to pinpoint the exact year the Renaissance arrived in Rome, but many claim it was the election of Pope Nicholas V in 1447 that sparked off the artistic and architectural furore that was to sweep through the city in the next century or so. Nicholas believed that as head of the Christian world Rome had a duty to impress, a theory that was eagerly taken up by his successors, and it was at the behest of the great papal dynasties – the Barberini, Farnese and Pamphilj – that the leading artists of the day were summoned to Rome.

The Venetian Pope Paul II (r 1464−71) commissioned many works, including Palazzo Venezia, Rome’s first great Renaissance palazzo. His successor, Sixtus IV (r 1471−84), had the Sistine Chapel built, and enlarged the Chiesa di Santa Maria del Popolo.

High Renaissance
It was under Pope Julius II (1503−13) that the Roman Renaissance reached its peak, thanks largely to a classically minded architect from Milan, Donato Bramante (1444−1514).

Considered the high priest of Renaissance architecture, Bramante arrived in Rome in 1499. Here, inspired by the ancient ruins, he developed a refined classical style that was to prove hugely influential. His 1502 Tempietto, for example, perfectly illustrates his innate understanding of proportion. Similarly harmonious is his 1504 cloister at the Chiesa di Santa Maria della Pace near Piazza Navona.

In 1506 Julius commissioned him to start work on the job that would eventually finish him off – the rebuilding of St Peter’s Basilica. The fall of Constantinople’s Aya Sofya (Church of the Hagia Sophia) to Islam in the mid-14th century had pricked Nicholas V into ordering an earlier revamp, but the work had never been completed and it wasn’t until Julius took the bull by the horns that progress was made. However, Bramante died in 1514 and he never got to see how his original Greek-cross design was developed.
St Peter’s Basilica occupied most of the other notable architects of the High Renaissance, including Giuliano da Sangallo (1445–1516), Baldassarre Peruzzi (1481–1536) and Antonio da Sangallo the Younger (1484–1546). Michelangelo (1475–1564) eventually took over in 1547, modifying the layout and creating the basilica’s crowning dome. Modelled on Brunelleschi’s cupola for the Duomo in Florence, this is considered the artist’s finest architectural achievement and one of the most important works of the Roman Renaissance.

Architecture Reads

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Title</th>
<th>Author</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Rome</td>
<td>Amanda Claridge</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The Genius in the Design: Bernini, Borromini and the Rivalry that Transformed Rome</td>
<td>Jake Morrissey</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rome and Environs: An Archaeological Guide</td>
<td>Filippo Coarelli</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Mannerism

As Rome’s architects strove to build a new Jerusalem, the city’s leaders struggled to deal with the political tensions arising outside the city walls. These came to a head in 1527 when the city was invaded and savagely routed by troops of the Holy Roman Emperor, Charles V. This traumatic event forced many of the artists working in Rome to flee the city and ushered in a new style of artistic and architectural expression. Mannerism was a relatively short-lived form but in its emphasis on complexity and decoration, in contrast to the sharp, clean lines of traditional Renaissance styles, it hinted at the more ebullient designs that would arrive with the advent of the 17th-century baroque.

One of mannerism’s leading exponents was Baldassarre Peruzzi, whose Palazzo Massimo alle Colonne on Corso Vittorio Emanuele II reveals a number of mannerist elements – a pronounced facade, decorative window mouldings, showy imitation stonework.
Giuseppe Valadier (1762–1839) was the Pope's go-to architect in the early 19th century. He is best known for his neoclassical revamp of Piazza del Popolo and the Pincio Hill, but also worked on important restorations of Ponte Milvio and the Arco di Tito.

BRAMANTE, THE ARCHITECT’S ARCHITECT

One of the most influential architects of his day, Donato Bramante (1444–1514) was the godfather of Renaissance architecture. His peers, Michelangelo, Raphael and Leonardo da Vinci, considered him the only architect of their era equal to the ancients. Born near Urbino, he originally trained as a painter before taking up architecture in his mid-30s in Milan. However, it was in Rome that he enjoyed his greatest success. Working for Pope Julius II, he developed a monumental style that while classical in origin was pure Renaissance in its expression of harmony and perspective. The most perfect representation of this is his Tempietto, a small but much-copied temple. His original designs for St Peter’s Basilica also revealed a classically inspired symmetry with a Pantheon-like dome envisaged atop a Greek-cross structure.

Rich and influential, Bramante was an adept political operator who was not above badmouthing his competitors. It’s said, for example, that he talked Pope Julius II into giving Michelangelo the contract for the Sistine Chapel ceiling in the hope that it would prove the undoing of his young Tuscan rival.
The Baroque

As the principal motor of the Roman Renaissance, the Catholic Church became increasingly powerful in the 16th century. But with power came corruption and calls for reform. These culminated in Martin Luther’s 95 Theses and the far-reaching Protestant Reformation. This hit the Church hard and prompted the Counter-Reformation (1560–1648), a vicious and sustained campaign to get people back into the Catholic fold. In the midst of this great offensive, baroque art and architecture emerged as a highly effective form of propaganda. Stylistically, baroque architecture aims for a dramatic sense of dynamism, an effect that it often achieves by combining spatial complexity with clever lighting and a flamboyant use of decorative painting and sculpture.

One of the first great Counter-Reformation churches was the Jesuit Chiesa del Gesù, designed by the leading architect of the day, Giacomo della Porta (1533–1602). In a move away from the style of earlier Renaissance churches, the facade has pronounced architectural elements that create a contrast between surfaces and a play of light and shade.

The end of the 16th century and the papacy of Sixtus V (1585–90) marked the beginning of major urban-planning schemes. Domenico Fontana (1543–1607) and other architects created a network of major thoroughfares to connect previously disparate parts of the sprawling city and decorative obelisks were erected at vantage points across town. Fontana also designed the main facade of Palazzo del Quirinale, the immense palace that served as the pope’s summer residence for almost three centuries. His nephew, Carlo Maderno (1556–1629), also worked on the palazzo when not amending Bramante’s designs for St Peter’s Basilica.

Bernini vs Borromini

No two people did more to fashion the face of Rome than the two great figures of the Roman baroque – Gian Lorenzo Bernini (1598–1680) and Francesco Borromini (1599–1667). Two starkly different characters – Naples-born Bernini was suave, self-confident and politically adept; Borromini, from Lombardy, was solitary and peculiar – they led the transition from Counter-Reformation rigour to baroque exuberance.

Bernini is perhaps best known for his work in the Vatican. He designed St Peter’s Sq, famously styling the colonnade as ‘the motherly arms of the Church’, and was chief architect at St Peter’s Basilica from 1629. While working on the basilica, he created the baldachin (altar canopy) over the main altar, using bronze stripped from the Pantheon.

Under the patronage of the Barberini pope Urban VIII, Bernini was given free rein to transform the city, and his churches, palazzi, piazzas and fountains remain landmarks to this day. However, his fortunes nose-dived when the pope died in 1644. Urban’s successor, Innocent X, wanted as little contact as possible with the favourites of his hated predecessor, and instead turned to Borromini, Alessandro Algardi (1595–1654) and Girolamo and Carlo Rainaldi (1570–1655 and 1611–91, respectively). Bernini later came back into favour with his 1651 Fontana dei Quattro Fiumi in the centre of Piazza Navona, opposite Borromini’s Chiesa di Sant’Agnese in Agone.
Borromini, the son of an architect and well versed in stonemasonry and construction techniques, created buildings involving complex shapes and exotic geometry. A recurring feature of his designs was the skilful manipulation of light, often obtained by the clever placement of small oval-shaped windows. His most memorable works are the Chiesa di San Carlo alle Quattro Fontane, which has an oval-shaped interior, and the Chiesa di Sant’Ivo alla Sapienza, which combines a complex arrangement of convex and concave surfaces with an innovative spiral tower.

Throughout their careers, the two geniuses were often at each other’s throats. Borromini was deeply envious of Bernini’s early successes, and Bernini was scathing of Borromini’s complex geometrical style.

Key Bernini Works
- St Peter’s Square
- Chiesa di Sant’Andrea al Quirinale
- Fontana dei Quattro Fiumi
- Palazzo di Montecitorio

Key Borromini Works
- Chiesa di San Carlo alle Quattro Fontane
- Chiesa di Sant’Agnese in Agone
- Chiesa di Sant’Ivo alla Sapienza
- Prospettiva, Palazzo Spada

ROCOCO FRILLS

In the early days of the 18th century, as baroque fashions began to fade and neoclassicism waited to make its 19th-century entrance, the rococo burst into theatrical life. Drawing on the excesses of the baroque, it was a short-lived fad but one that left a memorable mark.

The Spanish Steps, built between 1723 and 1726 by Francesco de Sanctis, provided a focal point for the many Grand Tourists who were busy discovering Rome’s classical past. A short walk to the southwest, Piazza Sant’Ignazio was designed by Filippo Raguzzini (1680–1771) to provide a suitably melodramatic setting for the Chiesa di Sant’Ignazio di Loyola, Rome’s second most important Jesuit church.

Most spectacular of all, however, was the Trevi Fountain, one of the city’s most exuberant and enduringly popular monuments. It was designed in 1732 by Nicola Salvi (1697–1751) and completed three decades later.
Fascism, Futurism & the 20th Century
Rome entered the 20th century in good shape. During the last 30 years of the 19th century it had been treated to one of its periodic makeovers – this time after being made capital of the Kingdom of Italy in 1870. Piazzas were built – Piazza Vittorio Emanuele II, at the centre of a new upmarket residential district, and neoclassical Piazza della Repubblica, over Diocletian’s bath complex – and roads were laid. Via Nazionale and Via Cavour were constructed to link the city centre with the new railway station, Stazione Termini, and Corso Vittorio Emanuele II was built to connect Piazza Venezia with the Vatican.

Rationalism & Rebuilding
Influenced by the German Bauhaus movement, architectural rationalism was all the rage in 1920s Europe. In its international form it advocated an emphasis on sharply defined linear forms, but in Italy it took on a slightly different look, thanks to the influence of the Gruppo Sette, its main Italian promoters, and Benito Mussolini, Italy’s fascist dictator. Basically, the Gruppo Sette acknowledged the debt Italian architecture owed to its classical past and incorporated elements of that tradition into their modernistic designs. Aesthetically and politically, this tied in perfectly with Mussolini’s vision of fascism as the modern bearer of ancient Rome’s imperialist ambitions.

A shrewd manipulator of imagery, Mussolini embarked on a series of grandiose building projects, including the 1928–31 Foro Italico sports centre, Via dei Foro Imperiali, and the residential quarter of Garbatella. Garbatella, now a colourful neighbourhood in southern Rome, was originally planned as an English-style garden city to house city workers, but in the 1920s the project was hijacked by the fascist regime, which had its own designs. Central to these were innovative housing blocks, known as alberghi suburbani (suburban hotels), which were used to accommodate people displaced from the city centre. The most famous of these hotels, the Albergo Rosso, was designed by Innocenzo Sabbatini (1891–1983), the leading light of the Roman School of architecture.
Via dei Fori Imperiali, the road that divides the Roman Forums from the Imperial Forums, was one of Mussolini’s most controversial projects. Inaugurated in 1932, it was conceived to link the Colosseum (ancient power) with Piazza Venezia (fascist power) but in the process tarmacked over much of the ancient forums.

EUR

Mussolini’s most famous architectural legacy is the EUR district in the extreme south of the city. Built for the Esposizione Universale di Roma in 1942, this Orwellian quarter of wide boulevards and huge linear buildings owes its look to the vision of the razionalisti (rationalists). In practice, though, only one of their number, Adalberto Libera, actually worked on the project, as by this stage most of the Gruppo Sette had fallen out with the ruling Fascist junta. Libera’s Palazzo dei Congressi is a masterpiece of rationalist architecture, but EUR’s most iconic building is the ‘Square Colosseum’, the Palazzo della Civiltà del Lavoro, designed by Giovanni Guerrini, Ernesto Bruno La Padula and Mario Romano.

The term Scuola romana (Roman School) is used to define a group of architects working in the 1920s and ’30s, mainly on large-scale housing projects. Their designs sought to ally modern functionalism with a respect for tradition and a utopian vision of urban development.

Postwar Developments

For much of the postwar period, architects in Rome were limited to planning cheap housing for the city’s ever-growing population. Swathes of hideous apartment blocks were built along the city’s main arteries, and grim suburbs sprang up on land claimed from local farmers.

The 1960 Olympics heralded a spate of sporting construction, and both Stadio Flaminio and Stadio Olimpico date to this period. Pier Luigi Nervi, Italy’s master of concrete and a hugely influential innovator, added his contribution in the form of the Palazzetto dello Sport.

Designed by Paolo Portoghesi, Rome's postmodernist mosque is one of Europe's largest. Its critically acclaimed design is centred on a beautiful, luminous interior capped by a cupola and 16 surrounding domes.

CONTEMPORARY BRIDGES

In recent years, three new bridges have opened in Rome. In 2011 the Ponte della Musica footbridge was inaugurated after three years’ construction. Spanning the Tiber between the Flaminio district and the Foro Italico sports complex, it features a steel arch design by English studio Buro Happold and architects Powell-Williams.

A year later, the Cavalcavia Ostiense was inaugurated in the southern Ostiense district. Known locally as the ‘Cobra’, this road bridge sports a sinuous white steel arch as it runs over the railway line that had long separated Ostiense from nearby Garbatella.

Also in Ostiense, the foot and cycle bridge Ponte della Scienza was opened in May 2014, spanning the Tiber between the Riva Ostiense and Riva Portuense.
Modern Rome
The 21st century has witnessed a flurry of architectural activity in Rome. A clutch of ‘starchitects’ have worked on projects in the city, including Renzo Piano, Italy’s foremost architect, renowned American Richard Meier, Anglo-Iraqi Zaha Hadid, and Odile Decq, a major French architect.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Modern Icons</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Palazzo della Civiltà del Lavoro</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Auditorium Parco della Musica</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Museo dell’Ara Pacis</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Museo Nazionale delle Arti del XXI Secolo (MAXXI)</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Controversy & Acclaim
The foundations of this building boom date to the early 1990s, when the then mayor Francesco Rutelli launched a major clean-up of the historic centre. As part of the process, he commissioned Richard Meier to build a new pavilion for the 1st-century-AD Ara Pacis. Predictably, Meier’s glass-and-steel Museo dell’Ara Pacis caused controversy when it was unveiled in 2006. Vittorio Sgarbi, an outspoken art critic and politician, claimed that the American’s design was the first step to globalising Rome’s unique classical heritage. The Roman public appreciated the idea of modern architecture in the city centre, but few were entirely convinced by Meier’s design.

   Meier won far more acclaim for a second project, his striking Chiesa Dio Padre Misericordioso in Tor Tre Teste, a dreary suburb east of the city centre. This was one of a number of churches commissioned by the Vicariate of Rome for the 2000 Jubilee. Another, the Chiesa di Santa Maria della Presentazione, designed by the Rome-based Nemesi studio, sparked interest when it was inaugurated in the outlying Quartaccio neighbourhood in 2002.

   Other headline buildings from this period include Renzo Piano’s Auditorium Parco della Musica (2002), Zaha Hadid's MAXXI (2010) and Odile Decq's 2010 MACRO building.

In 2010 starchitect Zaha Hadid won the UK's prestigious RIBA (Royal Institute of British Architects) Stirling prize for her work on MAXXI. Her sinuous, curvaceous design beat out competition from projects in Berlin and Oxford.

Fuksas & Future Plans
Born in Rome in 1944, Massimiliano Fuksas is known for his futuristic vision, and while he has no signature building as such, his design for the Centro Congressi Italia, aka the Nuvola, comes as close as any to embodying his style. A rectangular 30m-high glass shell containing a 3500-sq-m steel-and-Teflon cloud supported by steel ribs and suspended over a vast conference hall, its look is fearlessly modern. Yet it’s not without its references to the past: in both scale and form it owes its inspiration to the 1930s rationalist architecture that surrounds it in EUR.

Construction started on the Nuvola in 2007 but work has been hampered by spiralling costs and, at the time of research, completion had been re-scheduled for mid-2016.

But while work struggles ahead in EUR, plans are afoot for a number of high-profile development projects elsewhere in the city. These include a new contemporary arts centre to be built by award-winning French architect Jean Nouvel in the Forum Boarium area, and, to the north, a vast Città della Scienza (City of Science) complex to be housed in an ex-barracks in the Flaminio district. In the city's southern reaches, initial surveying had just started on a site earmarked for a new 52,500-capacity stadium for the Roma football team, the Stadio della Roma.

Architecture Glossary

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Term</th>
<th>Definition</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>apse</td>
<td>a semicircular or polygonal recess with a domed roof over a church's altar</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>baldachino</td>
<td>(baldachin) a stone canopy built over an altar or tomb; often supported by columns and freestanding</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>baroque</td>
<td>style of European art, architecture and music of the 17th and 18th centuries</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>basilica</td>
<td>an oblong hall with an apse at the end of the nave, used in ancient Rome for public assemblies and later adopted as a blueprint for medieval churches</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>cloister</td>
<td>enclosed court attached to a church or monastery; consists of a roofed ambulatory surrounding an open area</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>colonnade</td>
<td>a row of columns supporting a roof or other structure</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>crypt</td>
<td>an underground room beneath a church used for services and burials</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>cupola</td>
<td>a rounded dome forming part of a ceiling or roof</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>forum</td>
<td>in ancient Rome, a public space used for judicial business and commerce</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>frieze</td>
<td>a horizontal band, often with painted or sculptural decoration, that sits between the architrave and cornice</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>futurism</td>
<td>Italian early-20th-century artistic movement that embraced modern technology</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>loggia</td>
<td>a gallery or room with one side open, often facing a garden</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>nave</td>
<td>the central aisle in a church, often separated from parallel aisles by pillars</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>neoclassicism</td>
<td>dominant style of art and architecture in the late 18th and early 19th centuries; a return to ancient Roman styles</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>portico</td>
<td>a porch with a roof supported by columns</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>rationalism</td>
<td>international architectural style of the 1920s, its Italian form, often associated with fascism, incorporates linear styles and classical references</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Renaissance</td>
<td>European revival of art and architecture based on classical precedents between the 14th and 16th centuries</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>rococo</td>
<td>ornate 18th-century style of architecture</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>stucco</td>
<td>wall plaster used for decorative purposes</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>trompe l'oeil</td>
<td>a visual illusion tricking the viewer into seeing a painted object as a three-dimensional image</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>transept</td>
<td>in a cross-shaped church, the two parts that bisect the nave at right angles, forming the short arms of the cross</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Rome's Eataly complex is a masterclass in urban regeneration, bringing life back to a derelict train station. Until the complex opened in 2012, the Air Terminal Ostiense, which had originally been designed to serve airport trains arriving for the 1990 football World Cup, had been an abandoned shell.
As a visitor, it’s often difficult to see beyond Rome’s spectacular veneer to the large, modern city that lies beneath: a living, breathing capital that's home to almost three million people. How do the Romans live in their city? Where do they work? Who do they live with? How do they let their hair down?
A Day in the Life
Rome’s Mr Average, Signor Rossi, lives with his wife in a small, two-bedroom apartment in the suburbs and works in a government ministry in the city centre. His working day is typical of the many who crowd i mezzi (the means, ie public transport) in the morning rush hour.

His morning routine is the same as city dwellers the world over: a quick breakfast – usually nothing more than a sweet, black espresso – followed by a short bus ride to the nearest metro station. On the way he’ll stop at an edicola (kiosk) to pick up his daily newspaper (Il Messaggero) and share a joke with the kiosk owner. A quick scan of the headlines reveals few surprises – Matteo Renzi promoting his latest reforms; the usual political shenanigans in city hall; Roma and Lazio match reports.

Rome’s metro is not a particularly pleasant place to be in l’ora di punta (the rush hour), especially in summer when it gets unbearably hot, but the regulars are resigned to the discomfort and bear it cheerfully.

His work, like many in the swollen state bureaucracy, is not the most interesting in the world, nor the best paid, but it’s secure and with a much sought-after contratto a tempo indeterminato (permanent contract) he doesn’t have to worry about losing it. In contrast, many of his younger colleagues work in constant fear that their temporary contracts will not be renewed when they expire.

Lunch, which is typically taken around 1.30pm, is usually a snack or pizza al taglio (by the slice) from a nearby takeaway. Before heading back to the office for the afternoon session, there's time for a quick coffee in the usual bar.

Clocking off time in most ministries is typically from 5pm onwards and by about 7pm the evening rush hour is in full swing. Once home, our Signor Rossi catches the 8pm TV news before sitting down to a pasta supper at about 8.30pm.

English journalist John Hooper examines the contradictions and insecurities that lie beneath the smooth veneer of Italian society in his entertaining 2015 book The Italians. Like Luigi Barzini's 1964 classic of the same name, it's an entertaining and informative read full of obscure details and quirky facts.
Rome is a city of churches. From the great headline basilicas in the historic centre to the hundreds of parish churches dotted around the suburbs, the city is packed with places to worship. And with the Vatican in the centre of town, the Church is a constant presence in Roman life.

Yet the role of religion in modern Roman society is an ambiguous one. On the one hand, most people consider themselves Catholic, but on the other, church attendance is in freefall, particularly among the young, and atheism is growing.

But while Romans don’t go to church very often, they are, on the whole, a conformist bunch, and for many the Church remains a point of reference. The Church’s line on ethical and social issues might not always meet with widespread support, but it’s always given an airing in the largely sympathetic national press. Similarly, more than half of people who get married do so in church and first communions remain an important social occasion entailing gift-giving and lavish receptions.

Catholicism's hold on the Roman psyche is strong, but an increase in the city's immigrant population has led to a noticeable Muslim presence. This has largely been a pain-free process, but friction has flared on occasion and in November 2014 riot police were forced to intervene after crowds attacked a migrant reception centre in the Tor Sapienza suburb in the far east of the city.
Work

Employment in the capital is largely based on Italy’s bloated state bureaucracy. Every morning armies of suited civil servants pour into town and disappear into vast ministerial buildings to keep the machinery of government ticking over. Other important employers include the tourist sector, finance, media and culture – Italy’s state broadcaster RAI is based in Rome, as is much of the country's film industry, and there are hundreds of museums and galleries across town.

But times are hard and it's tough for young people to get a foot on the career ladder – Rome's youth unemployment has risen over the past few years and currently stands at 33.3%. To land it lucky, it helps to know someone. Official figures are hard to come by, but it’s a widely held belief that personal or political connections are the best way of landing a job. This system of raccomandazioni (recommendations) is widespread and regularly gives rise to scandal. In recent years high-profile controversies have centred on nepotistic appointments at Rome's La Sapienzoza University, at the city's public transport operator, and, in the most recent case, at Rome's waste disposal company.

Of course, getting a job is one thing, but finding one to suit your qualifications is quite another, and many young Romans are forced to choose between unemployment or taking a job for which they are hugely overqualified.

Like everywhere in Italy, Rome’s workplace remains largely a male preserve. Female unemployment remains an urgent issue and Italian women continue to earn less than their male counterparts. That said, recent signs have been positive, at least at the top end of the scale. The number of women serving on company boards has increased since 2011, and women make up almost a third of Matteo Renzi's current government.

In 2014 the average salary in Rome was €30,279. This compares to Italy's national average of €28,977, €45,170 in Germany, and €36,980 in France.

FASHION & THE BELLA FIGURA

Making a good impression (fare la bella figura) is extremely important to Romans. For a style-conscious hipster that might mean having the latest tattoos, the right-shaped beard, and a state-of-the-art smartphone. For a middle-aged professional it will involve being impeccably groomed and dressed appropriately for every occasion. This slavish adherence to fashion isn’t limited to clothes or accessories. It extends to all walks of life and trend-conscious Romans will frequent the same bars and restaurants, drink the same aperitivi and hang out on the same piazzas.
Romans, like most Italians, live in apartments. These are often small – 75 to 100 sq m is typical – and expensive. House prices in central Rome are among the highest in the country and many first-time buyers are forced to move out of town or to distant suburbs outside the GRA (grande raccordo anulare), the busy ring road that marks the city’s outer limit.

Almost all apartments are in self-managed condomini (blocks of individually owned flats), a fact that gives rise to no end of neighbourly squabbling. Regular condominio meetings are often fiery affairs as neighbours argue over everything from communal repairs to noisy dogs and parking spaces.

Rates of home ownership are relatively high in Rome – about 65% – and properties are commonly kept in the family, handed down from generation to generation. People do rent, but the rental market is largely targeted at Rome’s huge student population.

In 2014 the average price for a square metre of residential property was around €3500, with rates topping €8000 in the historic centre. In the suburbs, the going rate was between €3000 and €4000 per square metre.

Staying at Home

Italy’s single most successful institution, and the only one in which the Romans continue to trust, is the family. It’s still the rule rather than the exception for young Romans to stay at home until they marry, which they typically do at around 30. Figures report that virtually one in two 25- to 34-year-olds still live at home with at least one parent. To foreign observers this seems strange, but there are mitigating factors: almost half of these stay-at-homes are out of work and property prices are high. There’s also the fact that young Romans are generally reluctant to downgrade and move to a cheaper neighbourhood. Seen from another perspective, it might simply mean that Roman families like living together.

But while faith in the family remains, the family is shrinking. Italian women are giving birth later than ever and having fewer children – there were fewer babies born in 2014 than in any year since modern Italy was founded in 1861. Rome’s army of nonni (grandparents) berate their children for this, as does the Pope, for whom 'the choice to not have children is selfish'. For their part, Italy’s politicians worry that such a perilously low birth rate threatens the future tax returns necessary for funding the country’s pension payments.

Rome has the worst traffic in Italy and is the third most congested city in Europe, according to a report by traffic navigator company Tom Tom. Topping Europe’s traffic blacklist are Warsaw and Marseille.
Despite the ongoing economic gloom, and all the trials and tribulations of living in Rome – dodgy public transport, iffy services and sky-high prices – few Romans would swap their city for anywhere else. They know theirs is one of the world’s most beautiful cities and they enjoy it with gusto. You only have to look at the city’s pizzerias, trattorias and restaurants to see that eating out is a much-loved local pastime. It’s a cliché of Roman life but food really is central to social pleasure.

Drinking, in contrast, is not a traditional Roman activity, at least not in the sense of piling into a pub for pints of beer. Romans have long enjoyed hanging out and looking cool – just look at all those photos of dolce vita cafe society – and an evening out in Rome is as much about flirting and looking gorgeous as it is about consuming alcohol.

Clothes shopping is a popular Roman pastime, alongside cinema-going and football. Interest in Rome’s two Serie A teams, Roma and Lazio, remains high and a trip to the Stadio Olimpico to watch the Sunday game is still considered an afternoon well-spent. Depending on the result, of course.

Romans are inveterate car-lovers and on hot summer weekends they will often drive out to the coast or surrounding countryside. Beach bums make for nearby Ostia or more upmarket Fregene, while those in search of a little greenery head to the Castelli Romani, a pocket of green hills just south of town famous for its Frascati wine and popular fraschette eateries.

Rome is to get its first official red-light district after mayor Ignazio Marino green-lighted proposals in February 2015 for an area of legally tolerated prostitution in the EUR district. Unsurprisingly, the move met with opposition from right-wing councillors and Church representatives.
Transport
ARRIVING IN ROME

Most people arrive in Rome by plane, landing at one of its two airports: Leonardo da Vinci (better known as Fiumicino) or Ciampino, hub for European low-cost carrier Ryanair. Flights from New York take around nine hours; from London 2½ hours; from Sydney at least 22 hours.

Domestic flights connect Rome with airports across Italy.

As an alternative to short-haul flights, trains serve Rome’s main station, Stazione Termini, from a number of European destinations, including Paris (about 15 hours), as well as cities across Italy.

Long-distance domestic and international buses arrive at the Autostazione Tiburtina.

You can also get to Rome by boat. Ferries serve Civitavecchia, some 80km north of the city, from a number of Mediterranean ports.

Flights, cars and tours may be booked online at lonelyplanet.com/bookings.

Leonardo da Vinci Airport

Rome’s main international airport, Leonardo da Vinci (Fiumicino; %06 6 59 51; www.adr.it/fiumicino), is 30km west of the city. It's divided into four terminals: Terminals 1, 2 and 3 are for domestic and international flights; Terminal 5 is for American and Israeli airlines flying to the US and Israel.

Terminals 1, 2 and 3 are within easy walking distance of each other in the main airport building; Terminal 5 is accessible by shuttle bus from Terminal 3.

The easiest way to get into town is by train, but there are also buses and private shuttle services.

Train

Leonardo Express Train

(one way €14)

Runs to/from Stazione Termini. Departures from the airport every 30 minutes between 6.23am and 11.23pm; from Termini between 5.35am and 10.35pm. Journey time is 30 minutes.

FL1 Train

(one way €8)

Connects to Trastevere, Ostiense and Tiburtina stations, but not Termini. Departures from the airport every 15 minutes (half-hourly on Sundays and public holidays) between 5.57am and 10.42pm; from Tiburtina every 15 minutes between 5.46am and 7.31pm, then half-hourly to 10.02pm.

Bus

SIT Bus

(%06 591 68 26; www.sitbusshuttle.it; one way €6)

Regular departures from the airport to Stazione Termini (Via Marsala) from 8.30am to 11.50pm; from Termini between 5am and 8.30pm. All buses stop at the Vatican en route. Tickets are available on the bus. Journey time is approximately one hour.

Cotral Bus

(www.cotralspa.it; one way €5, if bought on the bus €7)
Runs to/from Fiumicino from Stazione Tiburtina via Termini. Eight daily departures including night services from the airport at 1.15am, 2.15am, 3.30am and 5am, and from Tiburtina at 12.30am, 1.15am, 2.30am and 3.45am. Journey time is one hour.

Terravision Bus
(www.terravision.eu; one way €6, online €4)

Regular services from the airport to Stazione Termini (Via Marsala) between 5.35am and 11pm; from Termini between 4.40am and 9.50pm. Allow about an hour for the journey.

Private Shuttle

Airport Connection Services
(%06 2111 6248; www.airportconnection.it)

Transfers to/from the city centre start at €35 per person.

Airport Shuttle
(www.airportshuttle.it)

Transfers to/from your hotel for €25 for one person, then €5 for each additional passenger up to a maximum of eight.

Taxi

The set fare to/from the city centre is €48, which is valid for up to four passengers including luggage. Note that taxis registered in Fiumicino charge more, so make sure you catch a Comune di Roma taxi – these are white with a taxi sign on the roof and Roma Capitale written on the door along with the taxi’s licence number. Journey time is approximately 45 to 60 minutes depending on traffic.

Car

Follow signs for Roma out of the airport and onto the autostrada. Exit at EUR, following for the centro, to link up with Via Cristoforo Colombo, which will take you directly into the centre.

---

Ciampino Airport

Ciampino (GOOGLE MAP; %06 6 59 51; www.adr.it/ciampino), 15km southeast of the city centre, is used by Ryanair. It’s not a big airport but there’s a steady flow of traffic and at peak times it can get extremely busy.

To get into town, the best option is to take one of the dedicated bus services. You can also take a bus to Ciampino station and then pick up a train to Termini.
Twice hourly departures to/from Via Marsala outside Stazione Termini. From the airport services are between 8.15am and 12.15am; from Via Marsala between 4.30am and 9.20pm. Buy tickets at Terracafè in front of the Via Marsala bus stop. Journey time is 40 minutes.

SIT Bus
(%06 591 68 26; www.sitbusshuttle.com; from/to airport €4/6)

Regular departures from the airport to Via Marsala outside Stazione Termini between 7.45am and 11.15pm; from Termini between 4.30am and 9.30pm. Get tickets on the bus. Journey time is 45 minutes.

Atral
(www.atral-lazio.com)

Runs buses to/from Anagnina metro station (€1.20) and Ciampino train station (€1.20), where you can get a train to Termini (€1.30).

Private Shuttle

Airport Shuttle

Taxi

The set rate to or from the airport is €30. Journey time is approximately 30 minutes depending on traffic.

Car

Exit the station and follow Via Appia Nuova into the centre.

---

Termini Train Station

Almost all trains arrive at and depart from Stazione Termini (GOOGLE MAP; Piazza dei Cinquecento, Termini), Rome’s main train station and principal transport hub. There are regular connections to other European countries, all major Italian cities, and many smaller towns.

Train information is available from the Customer Service area on the main concourse to the left of the ticket desks. Alternatively, check www.trenitalia.com or phone 892021.

From Termini, you can connect with the metro or take a bus from Piazza dei Cinquecento out front. Taxis are outside the main entrance/exit.

---

Tiburtina Bus Station
Long-distance national and international buses use Autostazione Tiburtina (GOOGLE MAP; Piazzale Tiburtina; m Tiburtina).

From the bus station, cross under the overpass for the Tiburtina train station, where you can pick up metro line B and connect with Termini for onward buses, trains and metro line A.

Civitavecchia Port

The nearest port to Rome is at Civitavecchia, about 80km north of town. Ferries sail here from destinations across the Mediterranean, including Sicily and Sardinia. Check www.traghettiweb.it for route details, prices, and to book.

From Civitavecchia there are half-hourly trains to Stazione Termini (€5 to €15, 40 minutes to 1¼ hours). Civitavecchia’s station is about 700m from the entrance to the port.
GETTING AROUND ROME

Rome is a sprawling city, but the historic centre is relatively compact and it’s quite possible to explore much of it on foot. The city’s public transport system includes buses, trams, a metro, and a suburban train system. Tickets, which come in various forms, are valid for all forms of transport.

Metro

Rome has two main metro lines, A (orange) and B (blue), which cross at Termini. A branch line, ‘B1’, serves the northern suburbs, and a line C runs through the southeastern outskirts, but you’re unlikely to use these.

Trains run between 5.30am and 11.30pm (to 1.30am on Fridays and Saturdays).

All stations on line B have wheelchair access except Circo Massimo, Colosseo and Cavour. On line A, Ottaviano–San Pietro and Termini are equipped with lifts.

Take line A for the Trevi Fountain (Barberini), Spanish Steps (Spagna) and St Peter’s (Ottaviano–San Pietro).

Take line B for the Colosseum (Colosseo).

Bus & Tram

Rome’s buses and trams are run by ATAC (06 5 70 03; www.atac.roma.it).

The main bus station is in front of Stazione Termini on Piazza dei Cinquecento, where there’s an information booth (GOOGLE MAP; h 7.30am-8pm).

Other important hubs are at Largo di Torre Argentina and Piazza Venezia.

Buses generally run from about 5.30am until midnight, with limited services throughout the night.

Rome’s night bus service comprises more than 25 lines, many of which pass Termini and/or Piazza Venezia. Buses are marked with an 'n' before the number and bus stops have a blue owl symbol. Departures are usually every 15 to 30 minutes between about 1am and 5am, but can be much slower.

The most useful routes:

n1 Follows the route of metro line A.

n2 Follows the route of metro line B.

n7 Piazzale Clodio, Piazza Cavour, Via Zanardelli, Corso del Rinascimento, Corso Vittorio Emanuele II, Largo di Torre Argentina, Piazza Venezia, Via Nazionale and Stazione Termini.
USEFUL BUS & TRAM ROUTES

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>SERVICE</th>
<th>ROUTE</th>
<th>OPERATING HOURS</th>
<th>FREQUENCY</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Bus 11</td>
<td>Termini, Via Nazionale, Piazza Venezia, Viale Trastevere</td>
<td>5.30am-midnight</td>
<td>up to 7 per hr</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3 Tram</td>
<td>Ostiense, Testaccio, Viale Aventino, Circo Massimo, Colosseo, San Giovanni, Porta Maggiore, San Lorenzo, Villa Borghese</td>
<td>5.30am-10pm</td>
<td>up to 7 per hr</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>8 Tram</td>
<td>Piazza Venezia, Via Arenula, Trastevere</td>
<td>5.35am-midnight</td>
<td>up to 7 per hr</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bus 23</td>
<td>Piazzale Clodio, Piazza del Risorgimento, Lungotevere, Testaccio, Ostiense, Basilica di San Paolo</td>
<td>5.15am-midnight</td>
<td>up to 6 per hr</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bus 40</td>
<td>Termini, Via Nazionale, Piazza Venezia, Largo di Torre Argentina, Borgo Sant’Angelo</td>
<td>6am-midnight</td>
<td>up to 12 per hr</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bus 64</td>
<td>Similar route to 40 but slower and with more stops</td>
<td>5am-midnight</td>
<td>up to 12 per hr</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bus 170</td>
<td>Termini, Via Nazionale, Piazza Venezia, Via del Teatro Marcello, Piazza Bocca della Verità, Testaccio, EUR</td>
<td>5.30am-midnight</td>
<td>up to 7 per hr</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bus 492</td>
<td>Stazione Tiburtina, San Lorenzo, Termini, Piazza Barberini, Largo di Torre Argentina, Corso del Rinascimento, Piazza del Risorgimento, Cipro–Vatican Museums</td>
<td>5.15am-midnight</td>
<td>up to 6 per hr</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bus 660</td>
<td>Largo Colli Albani to Via Appia Antica</td>
<td>7am-8.45pm</td>
<td>2 per hr</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bus 714</td>
<td>Termini, Piazza Santa Maria Maggiore, Piazza San Giovanni in Laterano, Viale delle Terme di Caracalla, EUR</td>
<td>5.30am-midnight</td>
<td>up to 7 per hr</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bus 910</td>
<td>Termini, Piazza della Repubblica, Villa Borghese, Auditorium Parco della Musica, Piazza Mancini</td>
<td>5.30am-midnight</td>
<td>up to 6 per hr</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

TICKETS, PLEASE

Public-transport tickets are valid on all of Rome’s bus, tram and metro lines, except for routes to Fiumicino airport. They come in various forms:

BIT (biglietto integrato a tempo, a single ticket valid for 100 minutes and one metro ride) €1.50

Roma 24h (valid for 24 hours) €7

Roma 48h (valid for 48 hours) €12.50

Roma 72h (valid for 72 hours) €18

CIS (carta integrata settimanale, a weekly ticket) €24

Abbonamento mensile (a monthly pass) single-user pass €35; pass that can be used by anyone €53

Children under 10 travel free.

Buy tickets at tabacchi, newsstands and from vending machines at main bus stops and metro stations. They must be purchased before you start your journey and validated in the machines on buses, at the entrance gates to the metro, or at train stations.

Ticketless riders risk an on-the-spot €50 fine. Children under 10 years travel free.

The Roma Pass (two/three days €28/36) comes with a two-/three-day travel pass valid within the city boundaries.

Travelling Out of Town

For destinations in the surrounding Lazio region, Cotral (800 174471; www.cotralspa.it) buses depart from numerous points throughout the city. The company is linked with Rome’s public transport system, which means that you can buy tickets that cover city buses, trams, metro, and train lines, as well as regional buses and trains.

There are a range of tickets but your best bet is a daily BIRG (biglietto integrato regionale giornaliero) ticket, which allows unlimited travel on all city and regional transport. It’s priced according to zones; tickets range from €3.30 to €14.

Get tickets from tabacchi and authorised ATAC sellers.
Driving around Rome is not recommended. Riding a scooter or motorbike is faster and makes parking easier, but Rome is no place for learners, so if you’re not an experienced rider give it a miss. Hiring a car for a day trip out of town is worth considering.

Most of Rome’s historic centre is closed to unauthorised traffic from 6.30am to 6pm Monday to Friday, from 2pm to 6pm (10am to 7pm in some places) Saturday, and from 11pm to 3am Friday and Saturday. Evening restrictions also apply in Trastevere, San Lorenzo, Monti, and Testaccio, typically from 9.30pm or 11pm to 3am on Fridays and Saturdays.

All streets accessing the ‘Limited Traffic Zone’ (ZTL) are monitored by electronic-access detection devices. If you’re staying in this zone, contact your hotel. For further information, check www.agenziamobilita.roma.it.

BUSES FROM TERMINI

From Piazza dei Cinquecento outside Stazione Termini, buses run to all corners of the city.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>DESTINATION</th>
<th>BUS</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Campo de’ Fiori</td>
<td>40/64</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Colosseum</td>
<td>75</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Pantheon</td>
<td>40/64</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Piazza Navona</td>
<td>40/64</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Piazza Venezia</td>
<td>40/64</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>St Peter’s Sq</td>
<td>40/64</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Terme di Caracalla</td>
<td>714</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Trastevere</td>
<td>H</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Trevi Fountain</td>
<td>85</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Villa Borghese</td>
<td>910</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Driving Licence & Road Rules

All EU driving licences are recognised in Italy. Holders of non-EU licences should get an International Driving Permit (IDP) to accompany their national licence. Apply to your national motoring association.

A licence is required to ride a scooter – a car licence will do for bikes up to 125cc; for anything over 125cc you’ll need a motorcycle licence.

Other rules:
Drive on the right, overtake on the left.

It’s obligatory to wear seat belts, to drive with your headlights on outside built-up areas, and to carry a warning triangle and fluorescent waistcoat in case of breakdown.

Wearing a helmet is compulsory on all two-wheeled vehicles.

The blood alcohol limit is 0.05%; for drivers under 21 and those who have had their licence for less than three years it's zero.

Unless otherwise indicated, speed limits are as follows:

- 130km/h on autostradas
- 110km/h on all main, non-urban roads
- 90km/h on secondary, non-urban roads
- 50km/h in built-up areas

A good source of information is the Automobile Club d’Italia (ACI; www.aci.it), Italy’s national motoring organisation.

Hire

To hire a car you’ll require a driving licence (plus IDP if necessary) and credit card. Age restrictions vary but generally you’ll need to be 21 or over.

Car hire is available at both Rome’s airports and Stazione Termini.

Avis (%199 100 133; www.avisautonoleggio.it)

Europcar (%199 30 70 30; www.europcar.it)

Hertz (%02 6943 0019; www.hertz.it)

Maggiore National (GOOGLE MAP; %199 151 120; www.maggiore.it)

Reckon on at least €60 per day for a small car. Note also that most Italian hire cars have manual gear transmission.

To hire a scooter, prices range from about €30 to €120 depending on the size of the vehicle. Reliable operators:

Bici & Baci

Eco Move Rent (GOOGLE MAP; %06 4470 4518; www.ecomoverent.com; Via Varese 48-50; h8.30am-7.30pm)

Treno e Scooter (GOOGLE MAP; %06 4890 5823; www.trenoescooter.com; Piazza dei Cinquecento; h9am-2pm & 4-7pm)
Parking

Blue lines denote pay-and-display parking – get tickets from meters (coins only) and tabacchi. Expect to pay up to €1.20 per hour between 8am and 8pm (11pm in some places). After 8pm (or 11pm) parking is free until 8am the next morning.

Traffic wardens are vigilant and fines are not uncommon. If your car gets towed away, call 06 6769 2303.

There’s a comprehensive list of car parks on www.060608.it – click on the transport tab and then car parks.

Useful car parks:

- Piazzale dei Partigiani (GOOGLE MAP per hr €0.77; h7am-11pm)

- Stazione Termini (GOOGLE MAP Piazza dei Cinquecento; per hr/day €2.20/18; h6am-1am)

- Villa Borghese (GOOGLE MAP Viale del Galoppatoio 33; per hr/day €2.20/18; h24hr)

Bicycle

The centre of Rome doesn’t lend itself to cycling: there are steep hills, treacherous cobbled roads and the traffic is terrible. If you want to pedal around town, pick up Andiamo in Bici a Roma (€7), a useful map that details Rome’s main cycle paths.

- Bikes can be transported on certain specified bus and tram routes, and on the metro at weekends and on weekdays from 5.30am to 7am, from 10am to noon, and from 8pm until the end of service.

- Bikes can be carried on the Lido di Ostia train on Saturday and Sunday and on weekdays from the beginning of service to 10am and from 8pm until the end of service. You have to buy a separate ticket for the bike.

- See www.atac.roma.it (Bike Friendly) for more details.

- On regional trains marked with a bike icon on the timetable, you can carry a bike if you pay a €3.50 supplement.

Hire

Reckon on €3 to €6 per hour, €11 to €25 per day.

Top Bike Rental & Tours
Taxi

A Official licensed taxis are white with an ID number and ‘Roma Capitale’ on the sides.

A Always go with the metered fare, never an arranged price (the set fares to and from the airports are exceptions).

A In town (within the ring road) flag fall is €3 between 6am and 10pm on weekdays, €4.50 on Sundays and holidays, and €6.50 between 10pm and 6am. Then it’s €1.10 per kilometre. Official rates are posted in taxis and on www.agenziamobilita.roma.it.

A You can hail a taxi, but it’s often easier to wait at a rank or phone for one. There are taxi ranks at the airports, Stazione Termini, Piazza della Repubblica, Piazza Barberini, Piazza di Spagna, the Pantheon, the Colosseum, Largo di Torre Argentina, Piazza Belli, Piazza Pio XII and Piazza del Risorgimento.

A You can book a taxi by phoning the Comune di Roma’s automated taxi line on 06 06 09 or calling a taxi company direct.

A The website www.060608.it has a list of taxi companies – click on the transport tab, then ‘getting around’ and ‘by taxi’.

A Note that when you call for a cab, the meter is switched on straight away and you pay for the cost of the journey from wherever the driver receives the call.

La Capitale
(%06 49 94)

Pronto Taxi
(%06 66 45)

Radio 3570
(%06 35 70; www.3570.it)

Samarcanda
(%06 55 51; www.samarcanda.it)

Tevere
(%06 41 57)
Train

Apart from connections to Fiumicino airport, you’ll probably only need the overground rail network if you head out of town.

Train information is available from the Customer Service area on the main concourse. Alternatively, check www.trenitalia.com or phone 89 20 21.

Buy tickets on the main station concourse, from automated ticket machines, or from an authorised travel agency – look for an FS or biglietti treni sign in the window.

Rome’s second train station is Stazione Tiburtina, four stops from Termini on metro line B. Of the capital’s eight other train stations, the most important are Stazione Roma-Ostiense and Stazione Trastevere.
TOURS

Walking

A Friend in Rome
(340 501 92 01; www.afriendinrome.it)
Silvia Prosperi organises private tailor-made tours (on foot, by bike or scooter) to suit your interests. She covers the Vatican and main historic centre as well as areas outside the capital. Rates are €50 per hour, with a minimum of three hours for most tours. She can also arrange kid-friendly tours, cooking classes, vintage car tours and more.

Roman Guy
(http://theromanguy.com)
A professional set-up that organises a wide range of group and private tours. Packages, led by English-speaking experts, include early-bird visits to the Vatican Museums (US$84), foodie tours of Trastevere and the Jewish Ghetto (US$84), and a bar hop through the historic centre’s cocktail bars.

Dark Rome
(06 8336 0561; www.darkrome.com)
Runs a range of themed tours, costing from €25 to €150, including skip-the-line visits to the Colosseum and Vatican Museums, and semi-private visits to the Sistine Chapel. Other popular choices include a Crypts and Catacombs tour, which takes in Rome’s buried treasures, and a day trip to Pompeii.

Through Eternity Cultural Association
( ; 06 700 93 36; www.througheternity.com)
A reliable operator offering private and group tours led by English-speaking experts. Popular packages include a twilight tour of Rome’s piazzas and fountains (€39, 2½ hours), a skip-the-line visit to the Vatican Museums by day/night (€56/66, 3½ hours), and a foodie tour of Testaccio (€80, four hours).

Roma Cristiana
( ; 06 69 89 61; www.operaromanapellegrinaggi.org)
Runs various tours, including guided visits to the Vatican Museums (adult/reduced €35/25) and two-hour tours of St Peter’s Basilica (€14).

Arcult
( ; 339 650 31 72; www.arcult.it)
Run by architects, Arcult offers excellent customisable group tours focusing on Rome’s contemporary architecture. Prices depend on the itinerary.
Bus

Open Bus Cristiana

(www.operaromanapellegrinaggi.org; single tour €15, 24/48hr ticket €20/48; h 9am-6pm)

The Vatican-sponsored Opera Romana Pellegrinaggi runs a hop-on, hop-off bus departing from Via della Conciliazione and Termini. Stops are situated near to main sights including St Peter's Basilica, Piazza Navona, the Trevi Fountain and the Colosseum. Tickets are available on board or at the meeting point just off St Peter's Sq.

Bike & Scooter

Top Bike Rental & Tours

(www.topbikerental.com; Via Labicana 49; h 10am-7pm)

Offers a series of bike tours throughout the city, including a four-hour 16km exploration of the city centre (€45) and an all-day 30km ride through Via Appia Antica and environs (€79). Out-of-town tours take in Castel Gandolfo, Civita di Bagnoregio and Orvieto.

Bici & Baci

(www.bicibaci.com; Via del Viminale 5; h 8am-7pm)

Bici & Baci runs daily bike tours of central Rome, taking in the historical centre, Campidoglio and the Colosseum, as well as tours on vintage Vespas and in classic Fiat 500 cars. Reckon on €49 for the bike tour, €145 for the Vespa ride and €290 for the four-hour guided drive.

Boat

Rome Boat Experience

(www.romeboatexperience.com; adult/reduced €18/12)

From April to October runs hop-on, hop-off cruises along the Tiber. From May to October there are also dinner cruises (€62, two hours) every Friday and Saturday, and daily wine-bar cruise (€25, 1½ hours) from Monday to Thursday. Embarkation points are at Molo Sant'Angelo and Isola Tiberina.
Directory A–Z

Customs Regulations
Electricity
Emergency
Gay & Lesbian Travellers
Internet Access
Legal Matters
Medical Services
Money
Opening Hours
Post
Public Holidays
Safe Travel
Taxes & Refunds Telephone
Time Toilets
Tourist Information
Travellers with Disabilities
Visas
Women Travellers
Customs Regulations

Within the European Union you are entitled to tax-free prices on fragrances, cosmetics and skincare; photographic and electrical goods; fashion and accessories; and gifts, jewellery and souvenirs where they are available and if there are no longer any allowance restrictions on these tax free items.

If you’re arriving from a non-EU country you can import, duty free, 200 cigarettes, 1L of spirits (or 2L fortified wine), 4L wine, 60ml perfume, 16L beer, and goods, including electronic devices, up to a value of €300/430 (travelling by land/sea); anything over this value must be declared on arrival and the duty paid.

On leaving the EU, non-EU residents can reclaim value-added tax (VAT) on expensive purchases.

Electricity
Gay & Lesbian Travellers

Hardly San Fran on the Med, Rome nevertheless has a thriving, if low-key, gay scene. Close to the Colosseum, San Giovanni in Laterano

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Emergency</th>
<th></th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Ambulance</td>
<td>2118</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fire</td>
<td>2115</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Police</td>
<td>2112, 113</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
has several bars dotted along it, including Coming Out and My Bar. There is also a popular gay beach, Settimo Cielo, outside Rome at Capocotta, accessible via bus 61 from Ostia Lido or bus 70 from EUR.

Homosexuality is legal (over the age of 16) and even widely accepted, but Italy is notably conservative in its attitudes, largely keeping in line with those of the Vatican. However, in 2015, Rome approved the establishment of a civil union register, with the support of Mayor Ignazio Marino; gay marriages conducted abroad may also be transcribed into the register.

The main gay cultural and political organisation is the Circolo Mario Mieli di Cultura Omosessuale (GOOGLE MAP; 800 110611; www.mariomieli.org; Via Efeso 2a), which organises debates, cultural events and social functions, including Gay Pride.

The national organisation for lesbians is the Coordinamento Lesbiche Italiano (GOOGLE MAP; www.clrbp.it; Via San Francesco di Sales 1b), which holds regular conferences and literary evenings. There is also a women-only hostel, La Foresteria Orsa Maggiore.

Arcigay Roma
( GOOGLE MAP; 06 6450 1102; www.arcigayroma.it; Via Nicola Zabaglia 14)
The Roman branch of the national Arcigay organisation. Offers counselling, phone lines and general information.

Internet Access

There are plenty of internet cafes to choose from, particularly clustered around Termini station. Most hotels have wi-fi these days, though with signals of varying quality. There will usually be at least one fixed computer for guest use.

There are lots of wi-fi hotspots, run by Provincia di Roma (www.provincia.roma.it) and Roma Wireless (www.romawireless.com); to use these you will need to register online using a credit card or an Italian mobile number. Once you've registered, you'll receive a call to check the line, and once you've answered (you don't need to speak), you'll be able to log in and use a password.

An easier option (no need for a local mobile number) is to head to a cafe or bar offering free wi-fi.

Legal Matters

The most likely reason for a brush with the law is to report a theft. If you do have something stolen and you want to claim it on insurance, you must make a statement to the police as insurance companies won't pay up without official proof of a crime.

The Italian police is divided into three main bodies: the polizia, who wear navy-blue jackets; the carabinieri, in a black uniform with a red stripe; and the grey-clad guardia di finanza (fiscal police), responsible for fighting tax evasion and drug smuggling. If you run into trouble, you're most likely to end up dealing with the polizia or carabinieri.

If you're caught with what the police deem to be a dealable quantity of hard or soft drugs, you risk a prison sentence of between six and 20 years. The offence of possession for personal use is punishable by administrative sanctions.

Medical Services

Italy has a public health system that is legally bound to provide emergency care to everyone. EU nationals are entitled to reduced-cost, sometimes free, medical care with a European Health Insurance Card (EHIC), available from your home health authority; non-EU citizens should take out medical insurance.

For emergency treatment, you can go to the pronto soccorso (casualty) section of an ospedale (public hospital). For less serious ailments call the Guardia Medica (06 8840113; Via Mantova 44; 24 hr).

A more convenient course, if you have insurance and can afford to pay up front, would be to call a private doctor for a home visit. Try the International Medical Centre (06 488 23 71; Via Firenze 47; GP call-out & treatment fee €140, 8pm-9am & weekends €200; 24hr).

If you need an ambulance, call 118.

Pharmacies

Marked by a green cross, farmacie (pharmacies) open from 8.30am to 1pm and 4pm to 7.30pm Monday to Friday and on Saturday mornings. Outside these hours they open on a rotational basis, and all are legally required to post a list of places open in the vicinity.

If you think you’ll need a prescription while in Rome, make sure you know the drug’s generic name rather than the brand name. Regular medications available over the counter – such as antihistamines or paracetamol – tend to be expensive in Italy.

Money

Italy’s currency is the euro. Euro notes come in denominations of €500, €200, €100, €50, €20, €10 and €5. Euro coins are in denominations of €2 and €1, and 50, 20, 10, five, two and one cents.

For the latest exchange rates, check out www.xe.com.

DISCOUNT CARDS

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>DISCOUNT CARD</th>
<th>PRICE ADULT/REDUCED</th>
<th>VALIDITY</th>
<th>FEATURES</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Archaeologia Card</td>
<td>€25/15</td>
<td>7 days</td>
<td>Entrance to the Colosseum, Palatino, Terme di Caracalla, Museo Nazionale Romano (Palazzo Altemps, Palazzo Massimo alle Terme, Terme di Diocleziano, Crypta Balbi), Mausoleo di Cecilia Metella and Villa dei Quintili</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>OMNIA Vatican &amp; Rome</td>
<td>€98/65</td>
<td>3 days</td>
<td>Fast-track entry to the Vatican Museums; St. Peter’s Basilica/Vatican Gardens, plus a minibus tour; the Basilica di San Giovanni, Colosseum, Roman Forum and Palatino with audioguides; and the Mamertine Prison. Free travel on the Roma Cristiana Open Bus; one other site, and reductions for all offered in the Roma Pass; unlimited public transport in Rome.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Roma Pass</td>
<td>€36</td>
<td>3 days</td>
<td>Includes free admission to two museums or sites, plus reduced entry to extra sites, unlimited public transport within Rome, and reduced entry to other exhibitions and events. The 48-hours Roma Pass (€28) is a more limited version.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Note that EU citizens aged between 18 and 25 generally qualify for a discount at most galleries and museums, while those under 18 and over 65 often get in free. In both cases you’ll need proof of your age, ideally a passport or ID card.

ATMs

ATMs (known in Italy as bancomat) are widely available in Rome and most will accept cards tied into the Visa, MasterCard, Cirrus and Maestro systems. The daily limit for cash withdrawal is €250. Let your bank know when you are going abroad, in case they block your card when payments from unusual locations appear. If you are registered for online banking, you may be able to do this online.

Remember that every time you withdraw cash, your home bank charges you a foreign exchange fee (usually around 1% to 3%) as well as a transaction charge of around 1%. Check with your bank before you go to find out their specific charges.

Changing Money

You can change your money in banks, at post offices or at a cambio (exchange office). There are exchange booths at Stazione Termini and at Fiumicino and Ciampino airports. In the centre, there are n numerous bureaux de change, including American Express (GOOGLE MAP; %06 6 76 41; Piazza di Spagna 38; 9am-5.30pm Mon-Fri, 9am-12.30pm Sat).

Always make sure you have your passport or some form of photo ID when exchanging money.

Credit Cards

Credit cards are widely accepted but it’s still a good idea to carry a cash back-up. Virtually all midrange and top-end hotels accept credit cards, as do most restaurants and large shops. You can also use them to obtain cash advances at some banks. Some of the cheaper pensioni (guesthouses), trattorias and pizzerias accept nothing but cash.

Major cards such as Visa, MasterCard, Eurocard, Cirrus and Eurocheques are widely accepted. Amex is also recognised, although it’s less common than Visa or MasterCard.

Note that using your credit card in ATMs can be costly. On every transaction there’s a fee, which can reach US$10 with some credit-card issuers, as well as interest per withdrawal. Check with your issuer before leaving home.

If your card is lost, stolen or swallowed by an ATM, telephone to have an immediate stop put on its use.

The Amex office can issue customers with new cards, usually within 24 hours and sometimes immediately, if they have been lost or stolen.

Opening Hours

Banks 8.30am to 1.30pm and 2.45pm to 4.30pm Monday to Friday

Bars & cafes 7.30am to 8pm, sometimes until 1am or 2am

Shops 9am to 7.30pm or 10am to 8pm Monday to Saturday, some 11am to 7pm Sunday; smaller shops 9am to 1pm and 3.30pm to 7.30pm (or 4pm to 8pm) Monday to Saturday

Clubs 10pm to 4am

Restaurants noon to 3pm and 7.30pm to 11pm (later in summer)

Post

Italy’s postal system, Poste Italiane (%80 31 60; www.poste.it), is reasonably reliable, though parcels do occasionally go missing.

Stamps (francobolli) are available at post offices and authorised tobacconists (look for the official tabacchi sign: a big ‘T’, usually white on black).

Opening hours vary but are typically 8.30am to 6pm Monday to Friday and 8.30am to 1pm on Saturday. All post offices close two hours earlier than normal on the last business day of each month.

Main Post Office
Letters can be posted in blue Vatican post boxes only if they carry Vatican stamps.

Rates

Letters up to 20g cost €0.95 to Zone 1 (Europe and the Mediterranean Basin), €2.30 to Zone 2 (other countries in Africa, Asia and the Americas) and €3 to Zone 3 (Australia and New Zealand). For more important items, use registered mail (raccomandata), which costs €5.30 to Zone 1, €6.20 to Zone 2 and €6.70 to Zone 3.

---

PRACTICALITIES

Media

- Vatican Radio (www.radiovaticana.org; 93.3 FM and 105 FM in Rome) In Italian, English and other languages.
- RAI-1, RAI-2 and RAI-3 (www.rai.it) National broadcaster, running state TV and radio.
- Radio Città Futura (www.radiocittafutura.it) Great for alternative and world music.

Main commercial stations (mostly run by Silvio Berlusconi’s Mediaset company) Canale 5 (www.mediaset.it/canale5), Italia 1 (www.mediaset.it/italia1), Rete 4 (www.mediaset.it/rete4) and La 7 (www.la7.it).

Smoking

Smoking is banned in enclosed public spaces, which includes restaurants, bars, shops and public transport. It's also been recently banned in Villa Borghese and all other public parks.

Weights & Measures

Italy uses the metric system.

---

Public Holidays

Most Romans take their annual holiday in August. This means that many businesses and shops close for at least part of the month, particularly around Ferragosto (Feast of the Assumption) on 15 August.

Public holidays include the following:

- Capodanno (New Year’s Day) 1 January
- Epifania (Epiphany) 6 January
- Pasquetta (Easter Monday) March/April
- Giorno della Liberazione (Liberation Day) 25 April
- Festa del Lavoro (Labour Day) 1 May
- Festa della Repubblica (Republic Day) 2 June
Festa dei Santi Pietro e Paolo (Feast of St Peter & St Paul) 29 June Ferragosto (Feast of the Assumption) 15 August
Festa di Ognisanti (All Saints’ Day) 1 November
Festa dell’Immacolata Concezione (Feast of the Immaculate Conception) 8 December
Natale (Christmas Day) 25 December
Festa di Santo Stefano (Boxing Day) 26 December

Safe Travel

Rome is not a dangerous city, but petty crime is a problem. Road safety is also an issue. The highway code is obeyed with discretion, so don’t take it for granted that cars and scooters will stop at pedestrian crossings, or even at red lights.

STOP, THIEF!

The greatest risk visitors face in Rome is from pickpockets and thieves. There’s no reason for paranoia, but you need to be aware that the problem exists and protect your valuables with this in mind.

Pickpockets go where the tourists go, so watch out around the most touristed and crowded areas, such as the Colosseum, Piazza di Spagna, St Peter's Sq and Stazione Termini. Note that thieves prey on disoriented travellers at the bus stops around Termini, fresh in from airports. Crowded public transport is another hot spot – the 64 Vatican bus is notorious. If travelling on the metro, try to use the end carriages, which are usually less busy.

A money belt with your essentials (passport, cash, credit cards) is a good idea. However, to avoid delving into it in public, carry a wallet with a day’s cash. Don’t flaunt watches, cameras and other expensive goods. If you’re carrying a bag or camera, wear the strap across your body and away from the road – moped thieves can swipe a bag and be gone in seconds. Be careful when you sit down at a streetside table – never drape your bag over an empty chair by the road or put it where you can’t see it.

A common method is for one thief to distract you while their assistant makes away with your purse. Beware of gangs of kids or others demanding attention. If you notice that you’ve been targeted, either take evasive action or shout ‘va via!’ (‘go away!’) in a loud, angry voice. Remember also that some of the best pickpockets are well dressed.

In case of theft or loss, always report the incident to the police within 24 hours and ask for a statement.

Taxes & Refunds

A value-added tax of 20%, known as IVA (Imposta di Valore Aggiunto), is slapped on just about everything in Italy. If you are a non-EU resident and you spend more than €175 on a purchase, you can claim a refund when you leave the EU. The refund only applies to purchases from affiliated retail outlets that display a ‘Tax Free’ sign. When you make your purchase, ask for a tax-refund voucher, to be filled in with the date of your purchase and its value. When you leave the EU, get this voucher stamped at customs and take it to the nearest tax-refund counter where you’ll get an immediate refund, either in cash or charged to your credit card.

Telephone

Domestic Calls
Rome’s area code is 06. Area codes are an integral part of all Italian phone numbers and must be dialled even when calling locally. Mobile-phone numbers are nine or 10 digits long and begin with a three-digit prefix starting with a 3. Toll-free numbers are known as numeri verdi and usually start with 800. Some six-digit national-rate numbers are also in use.

International Calls

To call abroad from Italy dial 00, then the country and area codes, followed by the telephone number. Try to avoid making international calls from a hotel, as rates are high. It’s cheaper to call from a private call centre or from a payphone with an international calling card. These are available at newsstands and tobacconists, and are often good value. Another alternative is to use a direct-dialling service such as AT&T’s USA Direct (access number 800 172 444) or Telstra’s Australia Direct (access number 800 172 610), which allows you to make a reverse-charge call at home-country rates. You can also Skype from most internet cafes.

To make a reverse-charge (collect) international call from a public telephone, dial 170. All phone operators speak English.

Mobile Phones

Italian mobile phones operate on the GSM 900/1800 network, which is compatible with the rest of Europe and Australia but not always with the North American GSM or CDMA systems – check with your service provider.

If you have a GSM dual-, tri- or quad-band phone that you can unlock (again, check with your service provider), it can cost as little as €10 to activate a prepaid (prepagato) SIM card in Italy. TIM (Telecom Italia Mobile; www.tim.it), Wind (www.wind.it) and Vodafone (www.vodafone.it) all offer SIM cards and have retail outlets across town. Note that by Italian law all SIM cards must be registered, so make sure you have a passport or ID card with you when you buy one.

Public Phones

You can still find public payphones around Rome. Most work and most take telephone cards (schede telefoniche), although you’ll still find some that accept coins or credit cards. You can buy phonecards (€5, €10 or €20) at post offices, tobacconists and newsstands.

Time

Italy is in a single time zone, one hour ahead of GMT. Daylight-saving time, when clocks move forward one hour, starts on the last Sunday in March. Clocks are put back an hour on the last Sunday in October. Italy operates on a 24-hour clock, so 6pm is written as 18:00.
Toilets

Public toilets are not widespread and those that do exist are often closed; some make a small charge. The best thing to do is to nip into a cafe or bar, all of which are required by law to have a toilet.

---

Tourist Information

Telephone & Internet Resources

Comune Call Centre

%(06 06 06; h 24hr)

Very useful for practical questions such as: Where’s the nearest hospital? Where can I park? Staff speak English, Italian and Romanian.

Tourist Information Line

%(06 06 08; h 9am-9pm)

A free multilingual tourist information line providing info on culture, shows, hotels, transport etc.

---

Tourist Offices

Centro Servizi Pellegrini e Turisti

( Google Map; %06 6988 1662; St Peter's Sq; h 8.30am-6pm Mon-Sat)

The Vatican’s official tourist office.

Rome Tourist Board

(APT; %060608; www.turismoroma.it; c)

The Comune di Roma runs tourist information points throughout the city, including the following:

Ciampino Airport

(International Arrivals, baggage claim area; h 9am-6.30pm)

Fiumicino Airport

(Terminal 3, International Arrivals; h 8am-7.30pm)

Piazza Navona Tourist Information

( Google Map; h 9.30am-7.15pm)

Actually on Piazza delle Cinque Lune.

Stazione Termini Tourist Information

( Google Map; h 8am-7.45pm)

In the hall adjacent to platform 24.

Fori Imperiali Tourist Information

( Google Map; Via dei Fori Imperiali; h 9.30am-7pm)

Minghetti Tourist Information

( Google Map; Via Marco Minghetti; h 9.30am-7.15pm)
Travellers with Disabilities

Rome isn’t an easy city for travellers with disabilities. Cobbled streets, blocked pavements and tiny lifts are difficult for wheelchair-users, while the relentless traffic can be disorienting for partially sighted travellers or those with hearing difficulties.

Getting around on public transport is difficult. On metro line B all stations have wheelchair access except for Circo Massimo, Colosseo, Cavour and EUR Magliana, while on line A only Cipro–Musei Vaticani and Valle Aurelia have lifts. Bus 590 covers the same route as metro line A and is wheelchair accessible. Newer buses and trams have disabled access; it's indicated on bus stops which routes are wheelchair accessible.

If travelling by train, ring the national helpline 199 303060 to arrange assistance. At Stazione Termini, the Sala Blu Assistenza Disabili (GOOGLE MAP; Stazione Termini; h:7am-9pm) next to platform 1 can provide information on wheelchair-accessible trains and help with transport in the station. Contact the office 24 hours ahead if you know you’re going to need assistance. There are similar offices at Tiburtina and Ostiense stations.

Airline companies should be able to arrange assistance at airports if you notify them of your needs in advance. Alternatively, contact ADR Assistance (www.adrassistance.it) for assistance at Fiumicino or Ciampino airports.

Some taxis are equipped to carry passengers in wheelchairs; ask for a taxi for a sedia a rotelle (wheelchair).

Lonely Planet has the Travel for All community on Google+, which is worth joining for information sharing and making connections.

Sage Traveling (www.sagetraveling.com) is a US-based agency started by wheelchair user John Sage who has visited over 70 countries in Europe; it offers advice and tailor-made tours to assist disabled travellers, specialising in Europe.

Visas

EU citizens do not need a visa to enter Italy. Nationals of some other countries, including Australia, Canada, Israel, Japan, New Zealand, Switzerland and the USA, do not need a visa for stays of up to 90 days.

Italy is one of the 15 signatories of the Schengen Convention, an agreement whereby participating countries abolished customs checks at common borders. The standard tourist visa for non-European visitors to a Schengen country is valid for 90 days; for more information see www.schengenvisainfo.com/tourist-schengen-visa. You must apply for it in your country of residence and you cannot apply for more than two in any 12-month period. They are not renewable inside Italy.

Permesso di Soggiorno

A permesso di soggiorno (permit to stay, also referred to as a residence permit) is required by all non-EU nationals who stay in Italy longer than three months. In theory, you should apply for one within eight days of arriving in Italy. EU citizens do not require a permesso di soggiorno but are required to register with the local registry office (ufficio anagrafe) if they stay for more than three months.

To get one, you’ll need an application form; a valid passport, containing a stamp with your date of entry into Italy (ask for this, as it’s not automatic); a photocopy of your passport with visa, if required; four passport-style photographs; a €16 official stamp; and a contribution of €80 to €200.

Although correct at the time of writing, the documentary requirements change periodically, so always check before you join the inevitable queue. Details are available on www.poliziadistato.it – click on the English tab and then follow the links.
Women Travellers

Sexual harassment can be an issue in Rome; if you get groped, a loud 'che schifo!' (how disgusting!) will draw attention to the incident. Otherwise women should take the usual precautions as they would in any large city, and, as in most places, avoid wandering around alone late at night, especially in the area around Termini.
When in Rome, you’ll find that locals appreciate you trying their language, no matter how muddled you may think you sound. Italian is not difficult to pronounce as the sounds used in spoken Italian can all be found in English.

Note that, in our pronunciation guides, ai is pronounced as in ‘aisle’, ay as in ‘say’, ow as in ‘how’, dz as the ‘ds’ in ‘lids’, and that r is a strong and rolled sound. Keep in mind too that Italian consonants can have a stronger, emphatic pronunciation – if the consonant is written as a double letter, it should be pronounced a little stronger. This difference in the pronunciation of single and double consonants can mean a difference in meaning, eg sonno (sleep) versus sono (I am). The Italian ch is usually pronounced as a hard c, so, for example, ‘chiesa’ is ‘key-esa’.

If you read our coloured pronunciation guides as if they were English, you’ll be understood. The stressed syllables are indicated with italics.

BASICS

Italian has two words for ‘you’ – use the polite form Lei if you’re talking to strangers, officials or people older than you. With people familiar to you or younger than you, you can use the informal form tu too.

In Italian, all nouns and adjectives are either masculine or feminine, and so are the articles il/la, eel/e (the) and un/una (a) that go with the nouns.

In this chapter the polite/informal and masculine/feminine options are included where necessary, separated with a slash and indicated with ‘pol/inf’ and ‘m/f’.

WANT MORE?

For in-depth language information and handy phrases, check out Lonely Planet’s Italian phrasebook. You’ll find it at shop.lonelyplanet.com, or you can buy Lonely Planet’s iPhone phrasebooks at the Apple App Store.
EATING & DRINKING

What would you recommend?
Cosa mi consigli?  ko za mee kon see li

What's in that dish?
Quali ingredienti sono in questo piatto?
i ka li een gri dien tee chee so no een i ke sto pya to What's the local speciality?

Qual è la specialità di questa regione?
i ka le la spe chee tee ta dee kwee sla re jo re

That was delicious!
Era squisito!
era skwee zee to Cheers!

Salute!
sa loo te

KEY PATTERN

To get by in Italian, mix and match these simple patterns with words of your choice:

When's (the next flight)?
A che ora è
(a ke o re)
(la prossimo volo)?
(eel pre sseo mo voi lo)

Where's (the station)?
Dove è (la stazione)?
(doo ve a la sta tyeen re)

I'm looking for (a hotel).
Sto cercando
(stor chee ren do)
un albergo.
(un alber go)

Do you have a (map)?
Ha una pianta?
(a oo na pyan ta)

Is there (a toilet)?
C'è un bagno?
(che oo na bag no)

I'd like a (coffee).
Vorrei (un caffè).
(vor rei oo na sa fe)

I'd like to (hire a car).
Vorrei (noleggiare
(vor rei no le jay are) one macchina).
(oon na mahn ka ne)

Can I (enter)?
Posso entrare?
(poo so en tra re)

Could you please (help me)?
Può aiutarmi?
(poo o air tohr mee)

Do I have to (book a seat)?
Devo (prenotare un posto)?
(doo o pre no ta re oo no sto)

Please bring the bill.
Mi porta il conto.
(mee por ta eel ko to) per favore?
(pee fa vo re)

I'd like to Reserve a Table for...
(two) people (eight) o'clock

Vorrei prenotare un tavolo per...
(vor rei pre no ta re oon ta vo lo per) due persone (doo e) per due persone

(per so ne)

I don't eat...
Non mangio...
(non man joh)

eggs Uova
(oo vah)

fish Pesci (pin see) nuts Noci

(no che)

(red) meat
Carne
(kar ne)

(Key Words)

bar
locale (lo ka le) bottle Bottiglia (bottle lee) breakfast
Prima colazione
(pray moh ko la tyeen re)
MEAT & FISH

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Italian</th>
<th>English</th>
<th>Pronunciation</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>cafe</td>
<td>bar</td>
<td>bar</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>cold</td>
<td>fredo</td>
<td>tre do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>dinner</td>
<td>cena</td>
<td>che na</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>drink list</td>
<td>lista delle</td>
<td>lee-sta de-le</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>fork</td>
<td>for-chek-ta</td>
<td>for-che ta</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>glass</td>
<td>bicchiera</td>
<td>bee-kee re</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>grocery store</td>
<td>alimentari</td>
<td>a-lee-men-ta-ree</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>hot</td>
<td>caldo</td>
<td>kal do</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>knife</td>
<td>coltello</td>
<td>kol-te-lo</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>lunch</td>
<td>pranzo</td>
<td>praan-dzo</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>market</td>
<td>mercato</td>
<td>mer-ca-lo</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>menu</td>
<td>menù</td>
<td>me-noo</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>plate</td>
<td>piatto</td>
<td>pya-to</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>restaurant</td>
<td>ristorante</td>
<td>ree-sto ran-te</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>spicy</td>
<td>piccante</td>
<td>pee-kan-te</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>spoon</td>
<td>cucchiato</td>
<td>kooy-kya-yo</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>vegetarian (food)</td>
<td>vegetariano</td>
<td>ve-je-ta-ryn-no</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>with</td>
<td>con</td>
<td>kon</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>without</td>
<td>senza</td>
<td>sen-tsa</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Fruit & Vegetables

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Italian</th>
<th>English</th>
<th>Pronunciation</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>apple</td>
<td>mela</td>
<td>mo-la</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>beans</td>
<td>fagioli</td>
<td>fa-jo-le</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>cabbage</td>
<td>cavolo</td>
<td>ka-vo-le</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>capiscum</td>
<td>peperone</td>
<td>pe-pee-ro-ne</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>carrot</td>
<td>carota</td>
<td>ka-ro-ta</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>cauliflower</td>
<td>cavolfiore</td>
<td>ka-vol-lyo-re</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>cucumber</td>
<td>cetriolo</td>
<td>che-tree-o-lo</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>fruit</td>
<td>frutta</td>
<td>froo-ta</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>grapes</td>
<td>uva</td>
<td>oo-va</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>lemon</td>
<td>limone</td>
<td>lee-mo-ne</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>lentils</td>
<td>lenticchie</td>
<td>len-tee kye</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>mushroom</td>
<td>funghi</td>
<td>foo-n-gee</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>nuts</td>
<td>noci</td>
<td>no-chee</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>onions</td>
<td>cipolle</td>
<td>chee-pe-le</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>orange</td>
<td>arancia</td>
<td>a-ran-cha</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>peach</td>
<td>pesca</td>
<td>pe-ska</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>peas</td>
<td>piselli</td>
<td>pee-ze-lee</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>pineapple</td>
<td>ananas</td>
<td>a-na nas</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>plum</td>
<td>prugna</td>
<td>proo-nya</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>potatoes</td>
<td>patate</td>
<td>pa-ta te</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>spinach</td>
<td>spinaci</td>
<td>spee-nya-che</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>tomatoes</td>
<td>pomodori</td>
<td>po-mo-do-ree</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>vegetables</td>
<td>verdura</td>
<td>ver doo-ra</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Other

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Italian</th>
<th>English</th>
<th>Pronunciation</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>bread</td>
<td>pane</td>
<td>pa-ne</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>butter</td>
<td>burro</td>
<td>boo-ro</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>cheese</td>
<td>formaggio</td>
<td>for-ma-joe</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>eggs</td>
<td>uova</td>
<td>wo-va</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>honey</td>
<td>miele</td>
<td>mye-le</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ice</td>
<td>ghiaccio</td>
<td>gya-che</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>jam</td>
<td>marmelata</td>
<td>mar-me-la-ta</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>noodles</td>
<td>pasta</td>
<td>pas-ta</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>oil</td>
<td>olio</td>
<td>o-lyo</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>pepper</td>
<td>pepe</td>
<td>pe-pe</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Signs

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Italian</th>
<th>English</th>
<th>Pronunciation</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Entrata/Ingressi</td>
<td>Entrance</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Uscita</td>
<td>Exit</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Aperto</td>
<td>Open</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Chiuso</td>
<td>Closed</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Informazioni</td>
<td>Information</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Proibito/Vietato</td>
<td>Prohibited</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Gabinetti/Servizi</td>
<td>Toilets</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Uomini</td>
<td>Men</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Donne</td>
<td>Women</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Drinks

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>English</th>
<th>Italian</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>rice</td>
<td>riso</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>salt</td>
<td>sale</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>soup</td>
<td>minestra</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>soy sauce</td>
<td>salsa di soia</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>sugar</td>
<td>zucchero</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>vinegar</td>
<td>aceto</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

EMERGENCIES

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>English</th>
<th>Italian</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Help!</td>
<td>aiuto</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Leave me alone!</td>
<td>lasciarmi in pace!</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>I'm lost.</td>
<td>mi sono perso/a.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>There's been an accident.</td>
<td>c'è stato un incidente.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Call the police!</td>
<td>chiam la polizia!</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Call a doctor!</td>
<td>chiam un medico!</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Where are the toilets?</td>
<td>dove sono i bagni?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>It hurts here.</td>
<td>mi fa male qui.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>I'm allergic to ...</td>
<td>sono allergico/a a ...</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

SHOPPING & SERVICES

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>English</th>
<th>Italian</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>I'd like to buy ...</td>
<td>vorrei comprare ...</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>I'm just looking.</td>
<td>sto solo guardando.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Can I look at it?</td>
<td>posso dare un'occhiata?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>How much is this?</td>
<td>quanto costa questo?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>It's too expensive.</td>
<td>è troppo caro/a (m/v)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Can you lower the price?</td>
<td>puo' farmi lo sconto?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>There's a mistake in the bill.</td>
<td>c'è un errore nel conto.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

TIME & DATES

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>English</th>
<th>Italian</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>What time is it?</td>
<td>che ora è?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>It's one o'clock.</td>
<td>è l'una.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>It's (two) o'clock.</td>
<td>sono le (due) o'clock.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Half past (one).</td>
<td>fra le mezz'ore.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>in the morning</td>
<td>di mattina</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>in the afternoon</td>
<td>di pomeriggio</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>in the evening</td>
<td>di sera</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>yesterday</td>
<td>ieri</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>today</td>
<td>oggi</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>tomorrow</td>
<td>domani</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Monday</td>
<td>lunedì</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tuesday</td>
<td>martedì</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Wednesday</td>
<td>mercoledì</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Thursday</td>
<td>giovedì</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Friday</td>
<td>venerdì</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Saturday</td>
<td>sabato</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sunday</td>
<td>domenica</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Question Words

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>English</th>
<th>Italian</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>How?</td>
<td>come?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>What?</td>
<td>che cosa?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>When?</td>
<td>quando?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Where?</td>
<td>dove?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Who?</td>
<td>chi?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Why?</td>
<td>perché?</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
June | giugno | po-nyo
July | luglio | lo-lyo
August | agosto | a-gos-to
September | settembre | se-te-mbre
October | ottobre | e-to-bre
November | novembre | no-ve-bre
December | dicembre | dee-che-bre

NUMBERS

1 | uno | oo-no
2 | due | doo-e
3 | tre | tre
4 | quattro | kwa-tro
5 | cinque | cheem-kwe
6 | sei | say
7 | sette | se-te
8 | otto | o-to
9 | nove | no-ve
10 | dieci | dyee-che
20 | venti | ven-tee
30 | trenta | tren-ta
40 | quaranta | kwa-ran-ta
50 | cinquanta | cheem-kwa-n-ta
60 | sessanta | se-san-ta
70 | settanta | se-tan-ta
80 | ottanta | o-tan-ta
90 | novanta | no-van-ta
100 | cento | cheem-to
1000 | mille | mee-leel

TRANSPORT

At what time does the ... leave/arrive?
A che ora parte/arriva ...?

boat | la nave | la na-ve
bus | l’autobus | loo-to-boos ferry | il traghetto | ee-tra-ge-to metro | la metro | la me-tro
plane | l’aereo | la-e-re-o
train | il treno | eel-tr-e-no

ticket | un biglietto ... | oon bee-li-e-to one-way | di sola andata | dee so-la an-da-ta return | di andata e ritorno | dee an-da-ta e ree-tor-no
bus stop | fermata dell’autobus | fer-ma-ta del-low-to-boos platform | binario | bee-na-ryo ticket office | biglietteria | bee-li-e-tor-ee-a timetable | orario | o-ra-ryo
train station | stazione | sta-tion-e
ferrovia | ferrovia | fer-ro-vi-ya

Does it stop at ...?
Si ferma ...?

Please tell me when we get to ... Mi dica per favore quando arriviamo a ...

I want to get off here.
Voglio scendere qui.

I’d like to hire a bicycle.
Vorrei noleggiare una bicicletta.

I have a flat tyre.
Ho una gomma bucata.

I’d like to have my bicycle repaired.
Vorrei far riparare la mia bicicletta.

GLOSSARY

abbazia – abbey
(pizza) al taglio – (pizza) by the slice albergo – hotel
alimentari – grocery shop; delicatessen anfiteatro – amphitheatre aperitivo – pre-evening meal drink and snack arco – arch
autostrada – motorway; highway battistero – baptism biblioteca – library biglietto – ticket borgo – archaic name for a small town, village or town sector (often dating to Middle Ages) camera – room campo – field cappella – chapel
Cappella Sistina – Sistine Chapel carabinieri – police with military and civil duties
Carnevale – carnival period between Epiphany and Lent casa – house castello – castle cattedrale – cathedral catacomba – catacomb centro sociale – social centre;
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Italian</th>
<th>English</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>centro storico</td>
<td>historic centre</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>chiesa</td>
<td>church</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>chiostro</td>
<td>cloister; covered walkway, usually enclosed by columns, around a quadrangle</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>città</td>
<td>town; city</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>colonna</td>
<td>column</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>comune</td>
<td>equivalent to a municipality or county; a town or city council historically, a self-governing town or city</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>corso</td>
<td>boulevard</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>duomo</td>
<td>cathedral</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>enoteca</td>
<td>wine bar</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>espresso</td>
<td>short black coffee</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>EUR (Esposizione Universale di Roma)</td>
<td>outlying district in south Rome known for its rationalist architecture</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ferrovia</td>
<td>railway</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>festa</td>
<td>feast day; holiday</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>fontana</td>
<td>fountain</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>foro</td>
<td>forum</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>fiume</td>
<td>river</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>gelateria</td>
<td>ice-cream shop</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>giardino</td>
<td>garden</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>grattacheccia</td>
<td>ice drink flavoured with fruit and syrup</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>grotta</td>
<td>cave</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>isola</td>
<td>island</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>lago</td>
<td>lake</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>largo</td>
<td>small square</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>locanda</td>
<td>inn; small hotel</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>mar, mare</td>
<td>sea</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>mausoleo</td>
<td>mausoleum; stately and magnificent tomb</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>mercato</td>
<td>market</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>museo</td>
<td>museum</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>necropoli</td>
<td>ancient name for cemetery or burial site</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>nord</td>
<td>north</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>osteria</td>
<td>casual tavern or eatery presided over by a host</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>palazzo</td>
<td>mansion; palace; large building of any type, including an apartment block</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>paliò</td>
<td>contest</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Papa</td>
<td>Pope</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>parco</td>
<td>park</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>passeggiata</td>
<td>traditional evening stroll</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>pasticceria</td>
<td>cake/pastry shop</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>pensione</td>
<td>guesthouse</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>piazza</td>
<td>square</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>piazzale</td>
<td>large open square</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>pieta</td>
<td>literally 'pity' or 'compassion'; sculpture, drawing or painting of the dead Christ supported by the Madonna</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>pinacoteca</td>
<td>art gallery</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>PIT (Punto Informativo Turistico)</td>
<td>Tourist Information Point</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ponte</td>
<td>bridge</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>porta</td>
<td>gate; door</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>porto</td>
<td>port</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>prenotare</td>
<td>to book or reserve</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>reale</td>
<td>royal</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ristorante</td>
<td>restaurant</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>rocca</td>
<td>fortress</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>sala</td>
<td>room; hall</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>salumeria</td>
<td>delicatessen</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>santuario</td>
<td>sanctuary</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>scaleinata</td>
<td>staircase</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>scavì</td>
<td>excavations</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>spiaggia</td>
<td>beach</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>stadio</td>
<td>stadium</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>stazione</td>
<td>station</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>stazione marittima</td>
<td>ferry terminal</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>strada</td>
<td>street; road</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>sud</td>
<td>south</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>superstrada</td>
<td>expressway; highway with divided lanes</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>tartufo</td>
<td>truffle</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>tavola calda</td>
<td>literally 'hot table'; pre-prepared meal, pasta and vegetable selection, often self-service</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>teatro</td>
<td>theatre</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>tempio</td>
<td>temple</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>tempietto</td>
<td>small temple</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>terme</td>
<td>thermal baths</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>tesoro</td>
<td>treasury</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tevere</td>
<td>Tiber</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>torre</td>
<td>tower</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>trattoria</td>
<td>simple restaurant</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Trenitalia</td>
<td>Italian State Railways; also known as Ferrovie dello Stato (FS)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>via</td>
<td>street; road</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Via Appia Antica</td>
<td>Appian Way</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>viale</td>
<td>avenue</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>vico</td>
<td>alley; alleyway</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>villa</td>
<td>town house; country house; also the park surrounding the house</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
FOOD GLOSSARY

abacchio al forno – lamb roasted with rosemary and garlic; usually accompanied by rosemary-roasted potatoes agnello alla cacciatora – lamb 'hunter-style' with onion and fresh tomatoes bacalà – salt cod, often served deepfried in the Roman–Jewish tradition bresaola – wind-dried beef, a feature of Roman–Jewish cuisine; served as a replacement for prosciutto (ham) bruschetta – grilled bread rubbed with garlic, splashed with olive oil and sprinkled with salt, most commonly then topped by tomatoes.
bucatini all’amatriciana – thick spaghetti with tomato sauce, onions, pancetta, cheese and chilli; originated in Amatrice, a town east of Rome, as an adaptation of spaghetti alla gricia cacio e pepe – pasta mixed with freshly grated pecorino romano (a sharp, salty, sheep’s milk cheese), ground black pepper and a dash of olive oil carciofi alla giudia – deepfried ‘Jewish-style’ artichokes; the heart is soft and succulent, the leaves taste like delicious crisps carciofi alla romana – artichokes boiled with oil, garlic and mint coda alla vaccinara – beef tail stewed with garlic, parsley, onion, carrots, celery and spices; a dish developed when abattoir workers received the cheapest cuts of meat fiori di zucca – courgette flowers, usually stuffed with mozzarella and anchovies and fried frutti di mare – seafood; usually served as a sauce with pasta, comprising tomatoes, clams, mussels, and perhaps prawns and calamari gnocchi alla romana – semolina-based mini-dumplings baked with ragù or tomato sugo; traditionally served on Thursdays involtini – thin slices of veal or beef rolled up with sage or sometimes vegetables and mozzarella.
minestra di arzila con pasta e broccoli – skate soup with pasta and broccoli; Roman–Jewish dish served only at the most traditional restaurants pasta con lenticchie – popular local dish of pasta with lentils pasta e ceci – pasta with chickpeas; warms the cockles in winter pizza bianca – ‘white pizza’ unique to Rome; a plain pizza brushed with salt, olive oil and often rosemary; can split and fill to make a sandwich pollo alla romana – chicken cooked in butter, marjoram, garlic, white wine and tomatoes or peppers polpette al sugo – meatballs with traditional tomato sauce porchetta – a hog roasted on a spit with herbs and an abundance of finocchio selvatico (wild fennel); the best comes from Ariccia, in the hills south of Rome ragù – classic Italian meat sauce traditionally made by slowly stewing cuts of meat, or mince, in a rich tomato sugo rigatoni alla pajata – thick ridged pasta tubes with the small intestine of a milk-fed calf or lamb; a Testaccio speciality saltimbocca alla romana – the deliciously named ‘leap in the mouth’; a veal cutlet jazzed up with sparing amounts of prosciutto and sage spaghetti alla carbonara – sauce of egg, cheese and guanciale (cured pig’s cheek); the egg is added raw, and stirred into the hot pasta to cook it spaghetti alla gricia – pasta with pecorino cheese, black pepper and pancetta; spaghetti con le vongole – spaghetti with clams and a dash of red chilli to pep things up; sometimes served with tomatoes, sometimes without straciatella – humble chicken broth given a lift by the addition of Parmesan and whisked egg sugo – all-purpose tomato sauce served in many dishes; it’s traditionally combined with basil (basil) suppli – rice balls, like large croquettes; if they contain mozzarella, they’re called suppli a telefono because when you break one open, the cheese forms a string like a telephone wire between the two halves trippa alla romana – tripe cooked with potatoes, tomato and mint and sprinkled with pecorino cheese; a typical Saturday-in-Rome dish
SEND US YOUR FEEDBACK

We love to hear from travellers – your comments keep us on our toes and help make our books better. Our well-travelled team reads every word on what you loved or loathed about this book. Although we cannot reply individually to postal submissions, we always guarantee that your feedback goes straight to the appropriate authors, in time for the next edition. Each person who sends us information is thanked in the next edition – the most useful submissions are rewarded with a selection of digital PDF chapters.

Visit lonelyplanet.com/contact to submit your updates and suggestions or to ask for help. Our award-winning website also features inspirational travel stories, news and discussions.

Note: We may edit, reproduce and incorporate your comments in Lonely Planet products such as guidebooks, websites and digital products, so let us know if you don’t want your comments reproduced or your name acknowledged. For a copy of our privacy policy visit lonelyplanet.com/privacy.
OUR READERS

Many thanks to the travellers who used the last edition and wrote to us with helpful hints, useful advice and interesting anecdotes:
AUTHOR THANKS

Duncan Garwood
A big thank you to fellow author Abi Blasi for her suggestions and great work, and to Anna Tyler at LP for her unstinting support. For their tips and help with research grazie to Silvia Prosperi, Barbara Lessona, Paolo Mazza, and the team at the Roman Guy. As always, a big, heartfelt hug to Lidia and the boys, Ben and Nick.

Abigail Blasi
Molto grazie to Anna Tyler and Duncan Garwood. Thanks to Luca, Anna and Marcello. Gratitude to Barbara Lessona for all her kind assistance, and for their help with research thanks to Marco Messina at the Appia Antica and Paola Zaganelli.
ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Illustration p58–9 by Javier Martinez Zarracina
Cover photograph: Street scene in Trastevere district, MATTES Rene/Corbis
THIS BOOK

This 9th edition of Lonely Planet’s Rome guidebook was researched and written by Duncan Garwood and Abigail Blasi, who also wrote the previous edition together. This guidebook was commissioned in Lonely Planet’s London office, and produced by the following:

Destination Editor Anna Tyler
Product Editors Briohny Hooper, Catherine Naghten
Senior Cartographers Anthony Phelan
Book Designer Virginia Moreno
Assisting Editors Andrea Dobbin, Victoria Harrison
Cartographer Julie Dodkins
Cover Researcher Naomi Parker

Thanks to Shahara Ahmed, Karyn Noble, Ryan Evans, Larissa Frost, Andi Jones, Jouve India, Claire Murphy, Wayne Murphy, Rosie Nicholson, Samantha Russell-Tulip, Dianne Schallmeiner, Lauren Wellicome

Ebook thanks to Andrew Bigger, Ruth Cosgrove, Julie Dodkins, Liz Heynes, Craig Kilburn, Chris Love, Wayne Murphy, Jacqui Saunders, John Taufa, Glenn van der Knijff, Juan Winata.
Ancient Rome

Centro Storico North

Centro Storico South
Tridente, Trevi & Quirinale
Vatican City, Borgo & Prati
San Giovanni to Testaccio
Trastevere & Gianicolo
San Lorenzo
Monti & Esquilino
Villa Borghese & Northern Rome
Southern Rome & Appia Antica
Ancient Rome

1 Top Sights
1 Capitoline Museums B4
2 Colosseum G6
3 Imperial Forums C2
4 Palatino D7
5 Roman Forum D5

1 Sights
6 Arcate Severiane D8
7 Arco di Costantino F6
| 8 | Arco di Giano         | B6 |
| 9 | Arco di Settimio Severo | C4 |
| 10 | Arco di Tito         | E5 |
| 11 | Basilica di Massenzio | E4 |
| 12 | Basilica di San Marco | A2 |
| 13 | Basilica di SS Cosma e Damiano | D4 |
| 14 | Basilica Fulvia Aemilia | D4 |
| 15 | Basilica Giulia     | C4 |
| 16 | Basilica Ulpia      | C2 |
| 17 | Bocca della Verità  | A7 |
| 18 | Capanne Romulee     | C6 |
| 19 | Carcere Mamertino   | C4 |
| 20 | Casa delle Vestali  | D5 |
| 21 | Casa di Augusto    | C6 |
| 22 | Casa di Livia       | C6 |
| 23 | Chiesa di San Giorgio in Velabro | B6 |
|     | Chiesa di San Lorenzo in Miranda | D4 |
| 24 | Chiesa di Santa Maria Antiqua | C5 |
| 25 | Chiesa di Santa Maria in Aracoeli | B3 |
| 26 | Circo Massimo       | C8 |
| 27 | Colonna di Foca     | C4 |
| 28 | Colonna di Traiano  | C2 |
| 29 | Complesso del Vittoriano | C2 |
| 30 | Cordonata           | B3 |
| 31 | Criptoportico      | D6 |
| 32 | Curia               | C4 |
| 33 | Domus Augustana    | D7 |
| 34 | Domus Flavia       | D6 |
| 35 | Domus Severiana    | E8 |
| 36 | Foro di Augusto    | D2 |
| 37 | Foro di Cesare     | C2 |
| 38 | Foro di Nerva      | D3 |
| 39 | Foro di Traiano    | C2 |
| 40 | Foro di Vespasiano | D3 |
| 41 | Forum Boarium      | A7 |
| 42 | Il Vittoriano      | B2 |
| 43 | Lapis Niger        | C4 |
| 44 | Mercati di Traiano Museo dei Fori Imperiali | D1 |
| 45 | Museo Centrale del Risorgimento | B3 |
| 46 | Museo Nazionale del Palazzo Venezia | A1 |
| 47 | Museo Palatino     | D7 |
| 48 | Orti Farnesiani    | D6 |
| 49 | Palazzo dei Conservatori | B3 |
| 50 | Palazzo Nuovo      | B3 |
| 51 | Palazzo Senatorio  | B4 |
| 52 | Palazzo Venezia    | B1 |
| 53 | Piazza del Campidoglio | B3 |
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th>Location</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>54</td>
<td>Portico degli Dei Consenti</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>55</td>
<td>Roma dal Cielo</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>56</td>
<td>Roman Insula</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>57</td>
<td>Rostrum</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>58</td>
<td>Stadio</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>59</td>
<td>Tempio della Concordia</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>60</td>
<td>Tempio di Antonino e Faustina</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>61</td>
<td>Tempio di Castore e Polluce</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>62</td>
<td>Tempio di Ercole Vincitore</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>63</td>
<td>Tempio di Giulio Cesare</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>64</td>
<td>Tempio di Portunus</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>65</td>
<td>Tempio di Romolo</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>66</td>
<td>Tempio di Saturno</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>67</td>
<td>Tempio di Vespasiano</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>68</td>
<td>Tempio di Vesta</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>69</td>
<td>Terme di Settimio Severo</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>70</td>
<td>Torre delle Milizie</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>71</td>
<td>Via Sacra</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5</td>
<td>Eating</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>72</td>
<td>Alimentari Pannella Carmela</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>73</td>
<td>Ristorante Roof Garden Circus</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>74</td>
<td>San Teo</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>74</td>
<td>Terre e Domus</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6</td>
<td>Drinking &amp; Nightlife</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>75</td>
<td>0,75</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>76</td>
<td>Caffè Capitolino</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>77</td>
<td>Cavour 313</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7</td>
<td>Shopping</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>78</td>
<td>Mercato di Circo Massimo</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4</td>
<td>Sleeping</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>79</td>
<td>Forty Seven</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>80</td>
<td>Hotel Forum</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>81</td>
<td>Nerva Boutique Hotel</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>82</td>
<td>Residenza Maritti</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Centro Storico North

Top Sights

1. Chiesa del Gesù
   - G6
2. Chiesa di San Luigi dei Francesi
   - E4
3. Galleria Doria Pamphilj
   - H5
4. Museo Nazionale Romano: Palazzo Altemps
   - E3
5. Pantheon
   - F4
6. Piazza Navona
   - E4

Sights

1. Arco degli Acetari
   - D6
2. Arco Farnese
   - C7
3. Area Sacra
   - F6
4. Basilica di Santa Maria Sopra Minerva
   - G5
5. Campo de' Fiori
   - D6
6. Cat Sanctuary
   - F7
7. Chiesa di San Giovanni Battista dei Fiorentini
   - A4
8. Chiesa di San Lorenzo in Lucina
   - G1
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th>Eating</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>51</td>
<td>Alfredo e Ada</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>52</td>
<td>Armando al Pantheon</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>53</td>
<td>Baguetteria del Fico</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>54</td>
<td>Bar del Fico</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>55</td>
<td>Campo de' Fiori</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>56</td>
<td>Casa Bleve</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>57</td>
<td>Casa Coppelle</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>58</td>
<td>Ciao Checca</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>59</td>
<td>Cul de Sac</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>----</td>
<td>----------------------------------</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>60</td>
<td>Da Francesco</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>61</td>
<td>Da Tonino</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>62</td>
<td>Dal Cavalier Gino</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>63</td>
<td>Dar Filettaro a Santa Barbara</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>64</td>
<td>Ditirambo</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>65</td>
<td>Enoteca Corsi</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>66</td>
<td>Fiocco di Neve</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>67</td>
<td>Forno di Campo de’ Fiori</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>68</td>
<td>Forno Roscioli</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>69</td>
<td>Gelateria del Teatro</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>70</td>
<td>Giolitti</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>71</td>
<td>Grappolo D’Oro</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>72</td>
<td>Green T</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>73</td>
<td>I Dolci di Nonna Vincenza</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>74</td>
<td>La Campana</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>75</td>
<td>La Ciambella</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>76</td>
<td>La Focaccia</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>77</td>
<td>La Rosetta</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>78</td>
<td>Lili</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>79</td>
<td>Lo Zozzone</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>80</td>
<td>Matricianella</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>81</td>
<td>Osteria del Sostegno</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>82</td>
<td>Osteria dell'Ingegno</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>83</td>
<td>Pasticceria De Bellis</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>84</td>
<td>Pizzeria la Montecarlo</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>85</td>
<td>Renato e Luisa</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>86</td>
<td>Sergio alle Grotte</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>87</td>
<td>Supplizio</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>88</td>
<td>Venchi</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>89</td>
<td>Vice</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>90</td>
<td>Zazà</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>91</td>
<td>Drinking &amp; Nightlife</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>91</td>
<td>Barnum Cafe</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>92</td>
<td>Caffè della Pace</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>93</td>
<td>Caffè Sant'Eustachio</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>94</td>
<td>Ciampini</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>95</td>
<td>Circus</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>96</td>
<td>Etablì</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>97</td>
<td>Fandango Incontro</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>98</td>
<td>Gran Caffè La Caffettiera</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>99</td>
<td>Il Goccetto</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>100</td>
<td>Jerry Thomas Project</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>101</td>
<td>La Casa del Caffè Tazza d'Oro</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>102</td>
<td>L'Angolo Divino</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>103</td>
<td>L'Emporio alla Pace</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
3 Entertainment
106 Teatro Argentina
107 Teatro dell'Orologio

7 Shopping
108 A S Roma Store
109 Ai Monasteri
110 Al Sogno
111 Alberta Gloves
112 Aldo Fefè
113 Arsenale
114 Bartolucci
115 Bottega Pio La Torre
116 Casali
117 Confetteria Moriondo & Gariglio
118 daDADA 52
119 De Saneti
120 I Colori di Dentro
121 Ibiz – Artigianato in Cuoio
122 Le Artigiane
123 Le Tele di Carlotta
124 Loco
125 Luna & L'Altra
126 Materie
127 Mondello Ottica
128 Nardecchia
129 Officina Profumo Farmaceutica di Santa Maria Novella
130 Omero e Cecilia
131 Rachele
132 SBU
133 Stilo Fetti
134 Tartarughe
135 Tempi Moderni
136 Vestiti Usati Cinzia
137 ZouZou

2 Sports & Activities
138 Roman Kitchen
139 Rome Boat Experience

4 Sleeping
140 Albergo Abruzzi
141 Albergo Cesàri
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th>Hotel Name</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>142</td>
<td>Albergo del Sole</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>143</td>
<td>Argentina Residenza</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>144</td>
<td>Casa di Santa Brigida</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>145</td>
<td>Dimora degli Dei</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>146</td>
<td>Hotel Campo de' Fiori</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>147</td>
<td>Hotel Due Torri</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>148</td>
<td>Hotel Navona</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Hotel Pensione Barrett</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>149</td>
<td>Hotel Teatro di Pompeo</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Centro Storico South

Sights
1. Area Archeologica del Teatro di Marcello e del Portico d'Ottavia
2. Chiesa di San Bartolomeo
3. Chiesa di San Nicola in Carcere
4. Fontana del Mascherone
5. Fontana delle Tartarughe
6. Jewish Ghetto
7. Museo Ebraico di Roma
8. Palazzo Cenci
9. Teatro di Marcello

Eating
10. Alberto Pica
11. Antico Forno Urbani
12. Beppe e i suoi Formaggi
13. Boccione
14. Cremeria Romana
15. Nonna Betta
16. Piperno
17. Salumeria Roscioli
18. Sora Lella
19. Vecchia Roma

Drinking & Nightlife
20. Open Baladin
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th>Entertainment</th>
<th></th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>21</td>
<td>Isola del Cinema</td>
<td>E4</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th>Shopping</th>
<th></th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>22</td>
<td>Borini</td>
<td>C1</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Tridente, Trevi & Quirinale

1 Top Sights
1 Chiesa di Santa Maria del Popolo B1
2 Galleria Colonna E8
3 Galleria Nazionale d’Arte Antica: Palazzo Barberini G5
4 Palazzo del Quirinale E7
5 Piazza del Popolo B1
6 Piazza di Spagna & the Spanish Steps D4
7 Trevi Fountain D6

1 Sights
Basilica dei Santi Apostoli
Casa di Goethe
Chiesa della Trinità dei Monti
Chiesa di San Carlo alle Quattro Fontane
Chiesa di Santa Maria dei Miracoli
Chiesa di Santa Maria in Montesanto
Chiesa di Sant'Andrea al Quirinale
Città dell'Acqua
Convento dei Cappuccini
Fontana del Tritone
Fontana delle Api
Gagosian Gallery
Galleria d'Arte Moderna
Galleria Valentina Moncada
Keats–Shelley House
Mausoleo di Augusto
Museo dell'Ara Pacis
Museo delle Cere
Museo Missionario di Propaganda Fide
Obelisk
Palazzo Valentini
Piazza Barberini
Piazza del Quirinale
Pincio Hill Gardens
Porta del Popolo
Scuderie Papali al Quirinale
Via dei Condotti
Via Vittorio Veneto
Villa Medici
Al Gran Sasso
Al Moro
Alice Pizza
All'Oro
Antica Enoteca
Antico Forno
Babette
Baccano
Buccone
Casa Conti
Colline Emiliane
Da Michele
Da Pietro
Dal Bolognese
Dei Gracchi
Edy
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th>Drinking &amp; Nightlife</th>
<th></th>
<th></th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>52</td>
<td>Enoteca Regionale Palatium</td>
<td>C5</td>
<td>B2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>53</td>
<td>Fatamorgana</td>
<td>C4</td>
<td>B2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>54</td>
<td>Fiaschetteria Beltramme</td>
<td>C5</td>
<td>B2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>55</td>
<td>Forno Cerulli</td>
<td>G4</td>
<td>C4</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>56</td>
<td>Gina</td>
<td>D6</td>
<td>D6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>57</td>
<td>Ginger</td>
<td>D4</td>
<td>D4</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>58</td>
<td>Il Chianti</td>
<td>C3</td>
<td>C3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>60</td>
<td>Il Palazzetto</td>
<td>D3</td>
<td>D3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>61</td>
<td>Imàgo</td>
<td>D4</td>
<td>D4</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>62</td>
<td>Le Tamerici</td>
<td>C3</td>
<td>C3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>63</td>
<td>Nanà Vini e Cucina</td>
<td>C3</td>
<td>C3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>64</td>
<td>Nino</td>
<td>C2</td>
<td>C2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>65</td>
<td>Osteria Margutta</td>
<td>C2</td>
<td>C2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>66</td>
<td>Otello alla Concordia</td>
<td>C3</td>
<td>C3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>67</td>
<td>Pastificio</td>
<td>C3</td>
<td>C3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>68</td>
<td>Pizza Ré</td>
<td>C3</td>
<td>C3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>69</td>
<td>Pompi</td>
<td>E6</td>
<td>E6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>70</td>
<td>San Crispino</td>
<td>C3</td>
<td>C3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>71</td>
<td>Venchi</td>
<td>C3</td>
<td>C3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Drinking &amp; Nightlife</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Caffè Greco</td>
<td>C4</td>
<td>B4</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>72</td>
<td>Canova</td>
<td>B1</td>
<td>B1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>73</td>
<td>Canova Tadolini</td>
<td>C3</td>
<td>C3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>74</td>
<td>Ciampini 2</td>
<td>D3</td>
<td>D3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>75</td>
<td>La Scena</td>
<td>A2</td>
<td>A2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>76</td>
<td>Micca Club</td>
<td>F5</td>
<td>F5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>77</td>
<td>Moma</td>
<td>G4</td>
<td>G4</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>78</td>
<td>Rosati</td>
<td>A1</td>
<td>A1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Stravinskij Bar – Hotel de Russie</td>
<td>B1</td>
<td>B1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>79</td>
<td>Gregory's</td>
<td>E4</td>
<td>E4</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>80</td>
<td>Teatro Quirino</td>
<td>D7</td>
<td>D7</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>81</td>
<td>Teatro Sistina</td>
<td>F5</td>
<td>F5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Entertainment</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Shopping</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>82</td>
<td>Anglo-American Bookshop</td>
<td>D5</td>
<td>D5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>83</td>
<td>Barrilà Boutique</td>
<td>C2</td>
<td>C2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Bottega di Marmoraro</td>
<td>C2</td>
<td>C2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>84</td>
<td>Bulgari</td>
<td>C4</td>
<td>C4</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>85</td>
<td>C.U.C.I.N.A.</td>
<td>C3</td>
<td>C3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>86</td>
<td>DaDADA</td>
<td>B2</td>
<td>B2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>87</td>
<td>Danielle</td>
<td>C5</td>
<td>C5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>88</td>
<td>Discount dell’Alta Moda</td>
<td>B2</td>
<td>B2</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
2 Sports & Activities
   Hotel De Russie Wellness Zone
   Kami Spa

4 Sleeping
   Babuino 181
   Casa Fabbrini
   Crossing Condotti
   Daphne Inn
   Gregoriana
   Hotel Barocco
   Hotel de Russie
   Hotel Locarno
   Hotel Modigliani
   Hotel Mozart
   Hotel Panda
   Hotel Suisse
   La Piccola Maison
   Margutta 54
   Margutta Glamour Studios
Vatican City, Borgo & Prati

Top Sights
1. St Peter's Basilica
2. Vatican Museums

Sights
3. Castel Sant'Angelo
4. Museo Storico Artistico
5. Necropoli Via Triumphalis
6. Ponte Sant'Angelo
7. St Peter's Basilica Dome
8. St Peter's Square
9. Tomb of St Peter
10. Vatican Gardens
11. Vatican Grottoes

Eating
12. Cacio e Pepe
13. Dal Toscano
14 Del Frate
15 Dolce Maniera
16 Fa-Bìo
17 Fatamorgana
18 Gelarmony
19 Hostaria Dino e Tony
20 Il Sorpasso
21 La Veranda
22 Mondo Arancina
23 Old Bridge
24 Osteria dell'Angelo
25 Pizzarium
26 Pizzeria Amalfi
27 Ristorante L'Arcangelo
28 Romeo
29 Settembrini
30 Velavevodetto Ai Quiriti

6 Drinking & Nightlife
31 Art Studio Café
32 Makasar
33 Passaguai
34 Sciascia Caffè

3 Entertainment
35 Alexanderplatz
36 Auditorium Conciliazione
37 Fonclea
38 Teatro Ghione

7 Shopping
39 Antica Manufattura Cappelli
40 Castroni
41 Enoteca Costantini
42 Piazza dell' Unità
43 Rechicle

2 Sports & Activities
44 Roma Cristiana

4 Sleeping
45 Colors Hotel
46 Fabio Massimo Design Hotel
47 Hotel Bramante
48 Hotel San Pietrino
49 Le Stanze di Orazio
San Giovanni to Testaccio

Top Sights

1. Basilica di San Clemente
2. Basilica di San Giovanni in Laterano
3. Terme di Caracalla

Sights

1. Basilica di Santa Sabina
2. Basilica di SS Quattro Coronati
3. Battistero
4. Case Romane
5. Chiesa di San Gregorio Magno
6. Chiesa di Santo Stefano Rotondo
7. Cimitero Acattolico per gli Stranieri
8. MACRO Testaccio
9. Monte Testaccio
10. Obelisk
11. Palazzo Laterano
12. Parco Savello
13. Piramide di Caio Cestio
14. Priorato dei Cavalieri di Malta
15. Santuario della Scala Santa & Sancta Sanctorum
16. Triclinium Leoninum
17. Villa Celimontana
Eating

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th>Name</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>21</td>
<td>Aroma</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>22</td>
<td>Cafè Cafè</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>23</td>
<td>Caffè Propaganda</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>24</td>
<td>Checchino dal 1887</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>25</td>
<td>Da Felice</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>26</td>
<td>Flavio al Velavevodetto</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>27</td>
<td>Il Bocconcino</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>28</td>
<td>Il Gelato</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>29</td>
<td>Li Rioni</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>30</td>
<td>Mordi e Vai</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>31</td>
<td>Pizzeria Da Remo</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>32</td>
<td>Taverna dei Quaranta</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>33</td>
<td>Trapizzino</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>34</td>
<td>Trattoria da Bucatino</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Drinking & Nightlife

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th>Name</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>35</td>
<td>Big Bang</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>36</td>
<td>Coming Out</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>37</td>
<td>Il Pentagrappolo</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>38</td>
<td>L'Alibi</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>39</td>
<td>Linari</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>40</td>
<td>L'Oasi della Birra</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>41</td>
<td>My Bar</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>42</td>
<td>Ree 23</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Entertainment

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th>Name</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>43</td>
<td>ConteStaccio</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>44</td>
<td>Terme di Caracalla</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Shopping

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th>Name</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>45</td>
<td>Calzature Boccanera</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Nuovo Mercato di Testaccio</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>46</td>
<td>Soul Food</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>47</td>
<td>Via Sannio</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>48</td>
<td>Volpetti</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Sports & Activities

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th>Name</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>49</td>
<td>Through Eternity Cultural Association</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>50</td>
<td>Top Bike Rental &amp; Tours</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Sleeping

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th>Name</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>51</td>
<td>Althea Inn</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>52</td>
<td>Hotel Lancelot</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>53</td>
<td>Hotel Romance</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Top Sights
1. Basilica di Santa Cecilia in Trastevere
2. Basilica di Santa Maria in Trastevere
3. Villa Farnesina

Sights
4. Anita Garibaldi Equestrian Monument
5. Chiesa di San Francesco d'Assisi a Ripa
6. Fontana dell'Acqua Paola
7. Galleria Nazionale d'Arte Antica di Palazzo Corsini
8. Garibaldi Monument
9. Gianicolo
10. Museo di Roma in Trastevere
11. Orto Botanico
12. Piazza Santa Maria in Trastevere
13. Porta Settimiana
14. Tempietto di Bramante & Chiesa di San Pietro in Montorio
Eating

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>No.</th>
<th>Name</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>15</td>
<td>Bir &amp; Fud</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>16</td>
<td>Ciuri Ciuri</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>17</td>
<td>Da Augusto</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>18</td>
<td>Da Corrado</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>19</td>
<td>Da Enzo</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>20</td>
<td>Da Olindo</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>21</td>
<td>Da Teo</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>22</td>
<td>Dar Poeta</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>23</td>
<td>Fatamorgana – Trastever</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>24</td>
<td>Fior di Luna</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>25</td>
<td>Forno la Renella</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>26</td>
<td>Glass Hostaria</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>27</td>
<td>Innocenti</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>28</td>
<td>La Gensola</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>29</td>
<td>Le Mani in Pasta</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>30</td>
<td>Old Bridge</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>31</td>
<td>Panattoni</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>32</td>
<td>Paris</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>33</td>
<td>Pianostrada Laboratorio di Cucina</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>34</td>
<td>Piazza San Cosimato</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>35</td>
<td>Pizzeria Ivo</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>36</td>
<td>Sisini</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>37</td>
<td>Sora Mirella Caffè</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>38</td>
<td>Valzani</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Drinking & Nightlife

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>No.</th>
<th>Name</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>39</td>
<td>Bar le Cinque</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>40</td>
<td>Bar San Calisto</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>41</td>
<td>Bar Stuzzichini</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>42</td>
<td>Big Star</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>43</td>
<td>Da Biagio</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>44</td>
<td>Freni e Frizioni</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>45</td>
<td>Il Barretto</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>46</td>
<td>La Mescita</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>47</td>
<td>Ma Che Siete Venuti a Fà</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>48</td>
<td>Ombre Rosse</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Entertainment

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>No.</th>
<th>Name</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>49</td>
<td>Alcazar Cinema</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>50</td>
<td>Big Mama</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>51</td>
<td>Lettere Caffè Gallery</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>52</td>
<td>Nuovo Sacher</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>53</td>
<td>Teatro Vascello</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Shopping
| | |
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th></th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>54</td>
<td>Almost Corner Bookshop</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>55</td>
<td>Antica Caciara Trasteverina</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>56</td>
<td>La Cravatta su Misura</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>57</td>
<td>Officina della Carta</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>58</td>
<td>Open Door Bookshop</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>59</td>
<td>Porta Portese Market</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>60</td>
<td>Roma-Store</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>61</td>
<td>Scala Quattorodici Clothing</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4</td>
<td>Sleeping</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>62</td>
<td>Arco del Lauro</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>63</td>
<td>Buonanotte Garibaldi</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>64</td>
<td>Donna Camilla Savelli</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>65</td>
<td>Hotel Santa Maria</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>66</td>
<td>La Casa di Kaia</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>67</td>
<td>La Foresteria Orsa Maggiore</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>68</td>
<td>Maria-Rosa Guesthouse</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>69</td>
<td>Relais Le Clarisse</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>70</td>
<td>Residenza Arco de' Tolomei</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>71</td>
<td>Residenza Santa Maria</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>72</td>
<td>Villa Della Fonte</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
San Lorenzo

Sights

1. Basilica di San Lorenzo Fuori le Mura
2. Chiesa di Santa Croce in Gerusalemme
3. Cimitero di Campo Verano
4. Museo Storico della Liberazione
5. National Museum of Musical Instruments
6. Pastificio Cerere
7. Porta Maggiore

Eating

8. Formula Uno
9. Palazzo del Freddo di Giovanni Fassi
10. Pastificio San Lorenzo
11. Pommidoro
| | |
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th></th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>12</td>
<td>Primo</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>13</td>
<td>Said</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>14</td>
<td>Tram Tram</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6</td>
<td>Drinking &amp; Nightlife</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>15</td>
<td>Esc Atelier</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>16</td>
<td>Gente di San Lorenzo</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>17</td>
<td>Il Tiaso</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>18</td>
<td>Locanda Atlantide</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>19</td>
<td>Vicious Club</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3</td>
<td>Entertainment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>20</td>
<td>Istituzione Universitaria dei Concerti</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>21</td>
<td>Teatro Ambra Jovinelli</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7</td>
<td>Shopping</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>22</td>
<td>La Grande Officina</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>23</td>
<td>Nuovo Mercato Esquilino</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2</td>
<td>Sports &amp; Activities</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>24</td>
<td>Arcult</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Monti & Esquilino

1 Top Sights
1 Basilica di San Pietro in Vincoli  B7
2 Basilica di Santa Maria Maggiore  E5
3 Museo Nazionale Romano: Palazzo Massimo alle Terme  E3

1 Sights
4 Aula Ottagona  D2
5 Basilica di Santa Maria degli Angeli  D2
6 Chiesa di San Martino ai Monti  D7
7 Chiesa di San Paolo entro le Mura  C3
| | |
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th></th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>8</td>
<td>Chiesa di Santa Lucia in Selci D7</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>9</td>
<td>Chiesa di Santa Prassede E6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>10</td>
<td>Chiesa di Santa Pudenziana C5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>11</td>
<td>Chiesa di Sant'Eusebio F6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>12</td>
<td>Domus Aurea C8</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>13</td>
<td>Fontana delle Naiadi D3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>14</td>
<td>Museo Nazionale d'Arte Orientale E7</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>15</td>
<td>Museo Nazionale Romano: Terme di Diocleziano E2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>16</td>
<td>Palazzo delle Esposizioni B4</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>17</td>
<td>Piazza della Repubblica D3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>18</td>
<td>Piazza Vittorio Emanuele II G7</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>19</td>
<td>Trofei di Mario G7</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>20</td>
<td>Villa Aldobrandini A5</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

5 Eating

| | |
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th></th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>20</td>
<td>Agata e Romeo E6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>21</td>
<td>Ciuri Ciuri B6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>22</td>
<td>Da Valentino A5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>23</td>
<td>Dall'Antò A7</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>24</td>
<td>Doozo B5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>25</td>
<td>Fatamorgana – Monti C6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>26</td>
<td>Forno da Milvio B6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>27</td>
<td>Gainn B6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>28</td>
<td>Gelateria dell'Angeletto G6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>29</td>
<td>La Carbonara B6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>30</td>
<td>La Gallina Bianca D4</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>31</td>
<td>L'Asino d'Oro B5</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>32</td>
<td>Open Colonna A4</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>33</td>
<td>Panella l'Arte del Pane E7</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>34</td>
<td>Pasticceria Regoli E7</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>35</td>
<td>Roscioli F7</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>36</td>
<td>Temakinho A6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>37</td>
<td>Trattoria Monti E6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>38</td>
<td>Trimani E1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>39</td>
<td>Urbana 47 C6</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

6 Drinking & Nightlife

| | |
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th></th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>40</td>
<td>Ai Tre Scalini B6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>41</td>
<td>Al Vino al Vino A6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>42</td>
<td>Al Vino al Vino G6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>43</td>
<td>Bar Zest at the Radisson Blu Es B6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>44</td>
<td>Bohemien B6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>45</td>
<td>Castroni B4</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>46</td>
<td>Druid's Den E6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>47</td>
<td>Faithful B7</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>48</td>
<td>Fiddler's Elbow A7</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>49</td>
<td>Fiddler's Elbow D6</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>50</td>
<td>Finnegans B7</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3 Entertainment</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>---------------------</td>
<td>----------------</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>51 Blackmarket</td>
<td>52 Charity Café</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>54 Teatro dell'Opera di Roma</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>7 Shopping</th>
<th></th>
<th></th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>55 101</td>
<td>56 Abito</td>
<td>57 Arion Esposizioni</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>58 Creje</td>
<td>59 Fabio Piccioni</td>
<td>60 Feltrinelli International</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>61 Giacomo Santini</td>
<td>62 IBS.it</td>
<td>63 La Bottega del Cioccolato</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>64 MAS</td>
<td>65 Mercato Monti Urban Market</td>
<td>66 Podere Vecciano</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>67 Spot</td>
<td>68 Tina Sondergaard</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>2 Sports &amp; Activities</th>
<th></th>
<th></th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>69 Bici &amp; Baci</td>
<td>70 Vino Roma</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>4 Sleeping</th>
<th></th>
<th></th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>71 Alessandro Palace Hostel</td>
<td>72 Beehive</td>
<td>73 Blue Hostel</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>74 Duca d'Alba</td>
<td>75 Hotel Artorius</td>
<td>76 Papa Germano</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>77 Radisson Blu Es.</td>
<td>78 Residenza Cellini</td>
<td>79 Villa Spalletti Trivelli</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>80 Welrome Hotel</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Villa Borghese & Northern Rome

Top Sights
1. Museo e Galleria Borghese F6
2. Museo Nazionale Etrusco di Villa Giulia D5

Sights
3. Auditorium Parco della Musica C3
4. Bioparco E5
5. Casina delle Civette H6
6. Casino dei Principi H6
7. Casino Nobile H6
8. Catacombe di Priscilla H3
   Fontana delle Rane G5
10. Foro Italico A2
11. Galleria Nazionale d'Arte Moderna e Contemporanea D5
12. Giardino del Lago D6
13. Musei di Villa Torlonia H6
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Numbers</th>
<th>Locations</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>C3</td>
<td>Museo Archeologico</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>D6</td>
<td>Museo Carlo Bilotti</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>G6</td>
<td>Museo d'Arte Contemporanea di Roma (MACRO)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>B3</td>
<td>Museo Nazionale delle Arti del XXI Secolo (MAXXI)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>E6</td>
<td>Piazza di Siena</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>B2</td>
<td>Ponte Milvio</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>G7</td>
<td>Porta Pia</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>G5</td>
<td>Quartiere Coppedè</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>G3</td>
<td>Villa Ada</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>E6</td>
<td>Villa Borghese</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>C5</td>
<td>Villa Poniatowski</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>H6</td>
<td>Villa Torlonia</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>H6</td>
<td>Villa Torlonia Bunker</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>B5</td>
<td>Eating</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>B1</td>
<td>24 Al Settimo Gelo</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>D5</td>
<td>25 Bar Pompi</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>E6</td>
<td>26 Caffè delle Arti</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>B1</td>
<td>27 Cinecafé</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>B1</td>
<td>28 Il Gianfornaio</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>E4</td>
<td>29 Metamorfosi</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>E3</td>
<td>30 Molto</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>B3</td>
<td>31 Neve di Latte</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>B1</td>
<td>32 Pallotta</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>G5</td>
<td>33 Pasticceria Gruè</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>F6</td>
<td>34 Serenella</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>B1</td>
<td>Drinking &amp; Nightlife</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>B1</td>
<td>35 Chioschetto di Ponte Milvio</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>G5</td>
<td>36 Piper Club</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>E3</td>
<td>Entertainment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>C3</td>
<td>Auditorium Parco della Musica</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>E6</td>
<td>37 Casa del Cinema</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>E6</td>
<td>38 Cinema dei Piccoli</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>A2</td>
<td>39 Foro Italico</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>E5</td>
<td>40 Silvano Toti Globe Theatre</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>C3</td>
<td>41 Stadio Flaminio</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>A2</td>
<td>42 Stadio Olimpico</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>B3</td>
<td>43 Teatro Olimpico</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>B2</td>
<td>Shopping</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>D3</td>
<td>44 Anticaglie a Ponte Milvio</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>E3</td>
<td>45 Bagheera</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>E3</td>
<td>46 Bulzoni</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>G6</td>
<td>47 Libreria l'Argonauta</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Sleeping

Palm Gallery Hotel
Southern Rome & Appia Antica

1 Top Sights
1 Basilica di San Paolo Fuori le Mura  B5
2 Basilica di San Sebastiano  F5
3 Via Appia Antica  E3

1 Sights
4 Albergo Rosso  C3
5 Alexis  B3
6 Capitoline Museums at Centrale Montemartini  B3
7 Catacombe di San Callisto  F5
8 Catacombe di San Sebastiano  G5
9 Catacombe di Santa Domitilla  E5
10 Chiesa del Domine Quo Vadis?  E3
11 Circo di Massenizio  E3
12 ex Caserma dell'Aeronautica  B2
13 Mausoleo delle Fosse Ardeatine  F5
14 Mausoleo di Cecilia Metella  G6
15 Mausoleo di Romolo  G5
| | |
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th></th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>16</td>
<td>Museo delle Mura</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>17</td>
<td>Quartiere Garbatella</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>18</td>
<td>Scuola Cesare Battisti</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>19</td>
<td>Villa di Massenzio</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5</td>
<td>Eating</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>20</td>
<td>Andreotti</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>21</td>
<td>Eataly</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>22</td>
<td>Il Giardino di Giulia e Fratelli</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Pizza Ostiense</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>23</td>
<td>Porto Fluviale</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>24</td>
<td>Qui Non se More Mai</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>25</td>
<td>Trattoria Priscilla</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6</td>
<td>Drinking &amp; Nightlife</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>26</td>
<td>Doppiozeroo</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>27</td>
<td>Goa</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>28</td>
<td>La Saponeria</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>29</td>
<td>Neo Club</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>Porto Fluviale</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>30</td>
<td>Rashomon</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3</td>
<td>Entertainment</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>31</td>
<td>Caffè Letterario</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>32</td>
<td>La Casa del Jazz</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>33</td>
<td>Teatro India</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>34</td>
<td>XS Live</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>4</td>
<td>Sleeping</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>35</td>
<td>Hotel Abitart</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
OUR STORY

A beat-up old car, a few dollars in the pocket and a sense of adventure. In 1972 that’s all Tony and Maureen Wheeler needed for the trip of a lifetime – across Europe and Asia overland to Australia. It took several months, and at the end – broke but inspired – they sat at their kitchen table writing and stapling together their first travel guide, Across Asia on the Cheap. Within a week they’d sold 1500 copies. Lonely Planet was born.

Today, Lonely Planet has offices in Franklin, London, Melbourne, Oakland, Beijing and Delhi, with more than 600 staff and writers. We share Tony’s belief that ‘a great guidebook should do three things: inform, educate and amuse’.
OUR WRITERS

Duncan Garwood
Coordinating Author, Ancient Rome, Centro Storico, Vatican City, Borgo & Prati, San Giovanni to Testaccio, Villa Borghese & Northern Rome, Day Trips from Rome
A Brit travel writer based in the Castelli Romani hills just outside Rome, Duncan moved to the Italian capital just in time to see the new millennium in at the Colosseum. He has since clocked up endless kilometres walking around his adopted hometown and exploring the far-flung reaches of the surrounding Lazio region. He has worked on the past six editions of this book as well as previous editions of the Rome Pocket guide and a whole host of LP Italy publications. He has also written on Italy for newspapers and magazines.

!Duncan Garwood

Abigail Blasi
Tridente, Trevi & the Quirinale, Monti, Esquilino & San Lorenzo, Trastevere & Gianicolo, Southern Rome
Abigail moved to Rome in 2003 and lived there for three years, she got married alongside Lago Bracciano and her first son was born in Rome. Nowadays she divides her time between Rome, Puglia and London. She has worked on four editions of Lonely Planet’s Italy and Rome guides, wrote the Best of Rome guide, and co-wrote the first edition of Puglia & Basilicata. She also regularly writes on Italy for various publications, including the Independent, the Guardian, and Lonely Planet Traveller.

!Abigail Blasi electronic, mechanical, recording or otherwise, except brief extracts for the purpose of review, and no part of this publication may be sold or hired, without the written permission of the publisher. Lonely Planet and the Lonely Planet logo are trademarks of Lonely Planet and are registered in the US Patent and Trademark Office and in other countries. Lonely Planet does not allow its name or logo to be appropriated by commercial establishments, such as retailers, restaurants or hotels. Please let us know of any misuses: lonelyplanet.com/ip.

Although the authors and Lonely Planet have taken all reasonable care in preparing this book, we make no warranty about the accuracy or completeness of its content and, to the maximum extent permitted, disclaim all liability arising from its use.
Map Legend

Sights
- Beach
- Bird Sanctuary
- Buddhist
- Castle/Palace
- Christian
- Confucian
- Hindu
- Islamic
- Jain
- Jewish
- Monument
- Museum/Gallery/Historic Building
- Ruin
- Sento Hot Baths/Onsen
- Shinto
- Sikh
- Taoist
- Winery/Vineyard
- Zoo/Wildlife Sanctuary
- Other Sight

Activities, Courses & Tours
- Body surfing
- Diving
- Canoeing/Kayaking
- Course/Tour
- Skiing
- Snorkelling
- Surfing
- Swimming/Pool
- Walking
- Windsurfing
- Other Activity

Sleeping
- Sleeping
- Camping

Eating
- Eating

Drinking & Nightlife
- Drinking & Nightlife
- Cafe

Entertainment
- Entertainment

Shopping
- Shopping

Information
- Bank
- Embassy/Consulate
- Hospital/Medical
- Internet
- Police
- Post Office
- Telephone
- Toilet
- Tourist Information
- Other Information

Geographic
- Beach
- Hut/Shelter
- Lighthouse
- Lookout
- Mountain/Volcano
- Oasis
- Park
- Pass
- Picnic Area
- Waterfall

Population
- Capital (National)
- Capital (State/Province)
- City/Large Town
- Town/Village

Transport
- Airport
- BART station
- Border crossing
- Boston T / Tunnelbana / T-bane station
- Bus
- Cable car/Funicular
- Cycling
- Ferry
- Metro/MRT station
- Monorail
- Parking
- Petrol Station
- Subway/S-Bahn/Subte/Skytrain/S-train station
- Taxi
- Train station/Railway/LRT Tram
- Tube Station
- Underground/U-Bahn station
- Other Transport

Routes
- Tollway
- Freeway
- Primary
- Secondary
- Tertiary
- Lane
- Unsealed road
- Road under construction
- Plaza/Mall
- Steps
- Tunnel
- Pedestrian overpass
- Walking Tour
- Walking Tour detour
- Path/Walking Trail

Boundaries
- International
- State/Province
- Disputed
- Regional/Suburb
- Marine Park
- Cliff
- Wall

Hydrography
- River, Creek
- Intermittent River
- Canal
- Water
- Dry/Salt/Intermittent Lake
- Reef

Areas
- Airport/Runway
- Beach/Desert
- Cemetery (Christian)
- Cemetery (Other)
- Glacier
- Mudflat
- Park/Forest
- Sight (Building)
- Sportsground
- Swamp/Mangrove

Note: Not all symbols displayed above appear on the maps in this eBook